CAPT. LINDBERGH LANDS SAFELY ON PARIS FLYING FIELD

PARIS REJOICES IN SAFE ARRIVAL OF THE AMERICAN

Crowds Line Roads to Le Bourget Field Where He Landed — Waiting for News of Him.

U. S. FLAGS SOLD AMONG WATCHERS

Whole-Hearted Welcome Undimmed by the Sorrow Felt for Nungesser and Coli.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, May 21.—All Paris rejoiced tonight in Capt. Lindbergh's safe arrival. When he had landed, automobiles began trickling into the city from Le Bourget. Groups along the road called out: "Lindbergh, has he come?" Those in the automobiles waved and shouted back: "The American has come."

Many wanted the exact time, details, for they had apparently waited on the roadside for hours.

"Magnificent! Stupendous!" was the cry in Paris when the news was flashed that Lindbergh had arrived here, and the hurrahs on the boulevards were no less hearty than those of the actual witnesses of the landing.

Crowds eager for the latest reports jostled each other all evening in front of the morning and sporting dailies' bulletin boards, while every cafe which had a news agency ticker tape was jammed to capacity.

Le Bourget, which is four miles north of Paris, was surrounded by automobiles, and the scant police traffic force soon lost control. The cars got entangled in a hopeless mess, getting stuck in roads under reconstruction and often losing their way. It was nearly daylight before the last of them could get out.

The appearance of the American flag from the administration building of Le Bourget Field for the first time in years gave the cue to energetic barkers, who brought out little American flags on pins and masses of red, white and blue ribbons.

Lindbergh came down almost at the spot where Capt. Charles Nungesser and Maj. Francois Coli took off two weeks ago. The fate of the two French flyers was in all minds during the hours of tension, and the people, enthusiastic as they were and generous in their praise of the man from the West, could not forget their countrymen. They spoke sadly amongst themselves of "poor Nungesser, poor Coli, poor boys!"

Never has an aviator of any nation, even King or ruler, had a greater or more [illegible] welcome from the hearts of the common people of France. The recklessness of his endeavor appealed to the quick emotional imagination of Frenchmen, and they responded with everything their own hearts could give.

All ties of nation [illegible] were forgotten, they saw in Lindbergh only a man who had brilliantly gambled with death, and won. There was regret of course, for Nungesser and Coli, and regret, too, that the daring Frenchmen had not been the first. But there was no bitterness in their greeting of the American winner.

Movies in New York Halt Shows to Announce St. Louisan's Success.

NEW YORK, May 21.—News of Capt. Lindbergh's arrival caused scenes here reminiscent of the tribute of New York paid to the news of the signing of the armistice. In motion picture theaters, performances were stopped while the patrons cheered noisily and thumped strangers on the back.

Ferries, fire-boats, tugs and sea-going vessels added the toots, shrieks and screeches of their whistles to those of factories, locomotives and automobiles. Belated workers in down town New York, which is deserted on Saturday afternoon, made as much noise as possible.

'HE'S SAFE' IS ALL THAT MATTERS TO MOTHER OF FLYER

Mrs. Lindbergh Weeps for Joy at News That Son Has Landed Safely at Le Bourget, France.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich. May 21.—Through tears of joy, Mrs. Evangeline Lodge Lindbergh, mother of the trans-Atlantic flyer, tonight expressed her relief that her boy Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh, had arrived safely at the end of his flight from New York to Paris. Mrs. Lindbergh had been under great strain, but she did not give way.

"That's all that matters," she said when told that her son had brought his plane safely to earth at Le Bourget flying field, near Paris.

Mrs. Lindbergh had observed a rigid silence since her son hopped off from the Pacific to the Atlantic coast. A brief statement that she had every confidence in his ability to make the flight was all she permitted herself to say. The flight completed, however, she indicated for a moment her confidence may have waned after the take-off yesterday morning.

"How would any one be confident?" she replied to a question. She added: "I knew, if it were possible for any pilot, given a good machine, to make the flight, that he would."

Always Cool and Collected.

"He has always been cool, calm and collected," she said. "He was not of the dare-devil type. Since he was a boy I always permitted him to decide things for himself. He was taught to make his own decisions and abide by what he decided."

Asked whether she wanted him to continue flying, she replied:

"That is entirely up to him."

The prime ambition of the flight, she said, "was an ambition to further aviation. He wanted to do the thing that should be done and had to be done for aviation."

Mrs. Lindbergh is an instructor in chemistry in Cass Technical High School here, and has frequently flown with her son.

ST. LOUIS PLANS ROYAL WELCOME FOR LINDBERGH

Mayor to Direct Arrangements for Flyer's Reception on His Return to This City.

WHISTLES GREET NEWS OF SUCCESS

"Lindbergh for President" Sign Borne on Auto as People Rejoice in St. Louisan's Victory.

The spirit of St. Louis, heralded in the name of the monoplane which bore "Slim" Lindbergh to Paris and to world fame, will be shown at its peak of enthusiasm when the young flyer returns to the city, within two weeks or so.

His return will be a bigger event than was the celebration of his success, when the news from Paris came in mid-afternoon yesterday. There was a demonstration then, but not such a demonstration as that which followed the armistice, or the National League pennant, and world series victories of the Cardinals last fall.

Mayor Miller, who was at Bourbon, Mo., for the week-end, said that he would take up plans for Lindbergh's reception, upon returning to the city tomorrow.

"St. Louis must and will give him a royal greeting," the Mayor declared. "He has done a wonderful thing for himself and for the city."

Expected to Return Soon.

His local backers expect that Lindbergh, after a few days in Paris, will return with his plane on a steamer. The East will undoubtedly try to detain him, but his associates expect no long delay there, unless he should yield to vaudeville offers. He is averse to theatrical publicity, and has said that he could not be hired to go on the stage.

From New York, it is expected, he will fly here in the "Spirit of St. Louis." Then, the dinner for which he would not wait when in St. Louis recently, and other demonstrations in his honor, will be held.

Many downtown workers were at their homes, or on their way home, when the news came. They had waited with eagerness for information of Lindbergh, and his adventure had been almost the exclusive topic of the day's conversation. But they had not waited for this news four years, as for the armistice, or 38 years, as for a baseball pennant.

Thousands Saw Him Here.

But there was vast relief, and much acclaim, over the tidings from overseas. Thousands of St. Louisans saw the plucky solo flyer at the end of the first stage of his hop, skip and jump from the Pacific Coast to the continent of Europe, when he arrived in St. Louis the morning of May 11, after an overnight flight of 1550 miles from San Diego. Fewer saw his departure, 24 hours later, for New York. Since he arrived in New York, and made it clear that he was going to start for Europe at the first chance, St. Louis has been absorbed in his venture.

Whistle-blowing downtown and in the industrial section was general, and on the Mississippi every craft which had steam up joined the chorus on land. The bells of Christ Church Cathedral, which are rung on secular occasions of great importance, pealed a vigorous paean.

The downtown office building section had some of the paper-throwing which has become the modern and easy city method of showing enthusiasm. But office workers generally were not on duty, and janitors had emptied much of the filmy paper and tick-

Lindbergh Tells How He Made Trip

By ARNO DOSCH-FLEUROT,

PARIS, MAY 21.

THE first man of a breathless mob rushing across Le Bourget flying field tonight thrust his head into the cockpit of Lindbergh's monoplane and cried:

"How are you?"

"Who, me?" replied Lindbergh. "Oh, I'm all right."

At the American Embassy, after he had had a bath and dressed in pajamas, Lindbergh gave a short interview. Although he had not yet slept, his eyes were bright.

"Why, everything went just right," he said. "Nothing went wrong on the whole trip. Everything was as I would have asked it except for about 1000 miles of fog and rain in the middle Atlantic. I could not get over or under it.

"I had to steer dead ahead and thought I was never coming out. I didn't get sleepy, though. I wasn't sleepy all the way.

"I could not afford to doze off except in clear weather. I hardly got hungry. I had four sandwiches, but ate only one and half. I took three or four drinks of water.

"I found steering easier than I expected. It was nowhere near so much strain as an automobile drive of half the time. The wind helped a lot and when I realized I was on the French coast long before dark, I sat back and looked for Paris. I picked up what I thought was the Seine and it proved to be, and I could see the city in the distance in the dark.

"Then I picked out the flying field by the directions and circled once to pick a spot to land. I meant to taxi up to the shed, but when I saw that crowd I decided I would be torn to pieces."

CAPTAIN CHARLES AUGUSTUS LINDBERGH

THE flyer whom the world is acclaiming is 25 years old. He was born in Detroit, Mich., to parents of Swedish descent. He was taken as a child to Little Falls, Minn. His father, at the time of his death in 1924, was a member of Congress from Minnesota. His mother now is a teacher of chemistry in the Detroit public schools.

Lindbergh was graduated from high school at Little Falls and attended the University of Wisconsin during 1921. He is 6 feet, 1 inch tall and weighs 175 pounds. He is universally known among his associates as "Slim."

His speech is laconic; his demeanor is modest to the point of shyness. An outstanding physical characteristic is his clear blue eye. His complexion is fair, his cheeks rosy. His general appearance is youth in perfect health. He is Captain and flight commander of the 110th Observation Squadron, Missouri National Guard.

Lindbergh is the ace of the Caterpillar Club, composed of airmen who have been forced to jump with parachutes from airplanes to save their lives. He has made four such jumps; the first while in training in Texas, another at Lambert-St. Louis Field and the other two while in the mail service. No other airman in America has made four forced jumps.

Whole World Acclaims American Aviator

By the Associated Press.

ROME, May 21.—The entire Italian press today expressed amazement at the courage of Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh's trans-atlantic flight.

"Capt. Lindbergh's flight," says Lavoro D'Italia, "moves and exalts us because every act of heroism, even if it is an end in itself without great utilitarian value, is dear to the human heart. Human progress is almost always due to the mad audacity of some exceptional temperament who superbly sacrifices his life to conquer the enigmas of humanity. These madnesses, seen from the distance of time, seem historical necessities and acts of superior sagacity. We cannot do less than admire the superb mad audacity of Capt. Lindbergh."

SEARCHLIGHTS GUIDE HIM AS HE DESCENDS IN DARKNESS

Borne on Shoulders of Crowd Till Rescued by Unwilling Substitute and Taken to U. S. Embassy to Sleep.

By the Associated Press.

LE BOURGET, France, May 21.—In the midst of a crowd gone mad, a weary young man pushed the goggles from his pale face, streaked with dirt and drawn into deep lines of fatigue, looked up from the cockpit of a trim little monoplane, grinned a weak but inextinguishable grin and remarked with the last effort at nonchalance: "Well, here we are; I am very happy." It was just 10:19 p. m. (3:19 p. m. St. Louis time) and Capt. Charles A Lindbergh had flown from Roosevelt Field, L. I., to Le Bourget Field, on the outskirts of Paris, in 33 hours 28 minutes. He beat his schedule two hours and a half.

Flying alone with only a compass to guide him, the air mail pilot had brought the "Spirit of St. Louis" across the Atlantic in the first nonstop flight from New York to Paris and had won the Raymond Orteig prize of $25,000 for that achievement.

Lindbergh established a new world's non-stop straight line distance record in his flight. In covering 3600 miles he broke the world mark of 3400 miles set by the two Frenchmen, Coste and Rignot, in their Paris to Persia, flight last October.

As he came to earth, the huge crowd that had been gathering all evening to do him honor, broke through all police efforts to restrain it and almost before the plane had come to a full stop it was packed in a dense, swaying, cheering mass around the machine.

Carried on Shoulders of Crowd.

A hundred hands caught hold of the wings, and scores of feet were trampling upon one another in an effort to reach the side of the fuselage, within which sat a young man, the first in the world to travel from New York to Paris without changing his seat.

The wheels had scarcely ceased to roll, the propeller had barely come to a stop, when Lindbergh, weary-eyed, but smiling, got up from the seat.

He put his leg over the side of the cockpit, and it was grasped by a dozen hands. So was his other leg, as soon as he could get it out of the machine. Holding him high and cheering him, the crowd took him to itself.

For half an hour the crowd pushed one way and another trying to take Lindbergh from his plane to the administration building of Le Bourget field.

An Unwilling Substitute.

As the crowd rushed along with Lindbergh on its shoulders, two French aviators, Louis Paulhan and Weiss, edged in to pull him free. One of the carriers fell and Lindbergh slipped to the ground, losing his helmet. Another American in the crowd picked up the helmet. The mob recognizing only the helmet, picked up the other American and rushed on with him while Weiss and Paulhan slipped away with Lindbergh.

Ambassador Herrick and French officials of the reception committee were waiting in the director's pavilion and watched the excited thousands fighting around the stranger, who was finally shoved inside. The American who refused to give his name, quickly explained to the reception committee, but the pavilion was now surrounded by 5000 Frenchmen yelling for the pilot. The unwilling substitute had to show himself and take the cheers meant for Lindbergh.

When the real Lindbergh escorted by Weiss and Paulhan was brought before the Ambassador he was seemingly too sleepy to know what it was all about. As the Ambassador shook his hand he smiled and said, "Thank you. I am awfully happy." Then he could fight off fatigue no longer and seemed to go to sleep on his feet."

Outside the crowd was howling for a sight of the hero who has won the heart of France as probably no American had before. Brilliant searchlights were focused on the balcony of the building, into which Lindbergh had been carried. But the crowd had to be disappointed—Lindbergh could do no more.

"Lindbergh! Lindbergh!" they shouted. "Show him to us!"

The American Ambassador appeared at the window, but this did not satisfy the crowd. They shouted again: "Lindbergh!"

The Ambassador came out finally with an aviator's helmet and held aloft a great bunch of flowers that had been presented to the flyer at the brief reception to him in the building.

Crowds Tear Off Bits of Plane.

The huge crowd began tearing strips of canvas and wood from the frame of Lindbergh's plane. The police soon put a stop to this, however, and with the departure of Lindbergh's automobile for Paris, something like order was restored.

Lindbergh wanted to go back to his plane in order to "show the people how the windows work."

"Never mind your old windows," said Ambassador Herrick, "come and get a rest at the Embassy."

The reception was as short as decently could be, and within a few minutes after landing Lindbergh, in the Ambassador's car was threading his way toward Paris and a bit of sleep. Before he started he had a thorough massage for his tired and cramped arms and legs, and some coffee to brace him.

Herrick's car had difficulty in making its way through the tremendous traffic. At the Embassay, French aviators assisted the birdman to alight. He stumbled as he slept in their arms.

"Good old fellow," they shouted as they bade him goodnight.

Only Trouble Was to Keep Awake.

Just before he retired Lindbergh had a bracing cup of coffee, which for a few seconds brought him out of his sleepiness enough to talk a little of his flight.

He said he had run into a little snow and ice early on his journey, but otherwise the weather had been "all right." The only trouble was in keeping awake.

"Now you go on to bed," said the Ambassador.

And Lindbergh slept for the first time in his life on European soil. This is the first time he has ever been out of the United States.

Waiting at Le Bourget.

Beginning about 5 p. m. the crowd at Le Bourget began to swell, although every one knew it must be hours before the flyer could be seen. At first there were only 200 or 300, most of them newspaper men and photographers, gathering in little knots about the field.

Squads of police, ordered out in the vain hope of maintaining some sort of order in the crowd, were the next to arrive and take up strategic positions around the landing place.

Singly, then in groups and finally in long, unbroken lines automobiles arrived from the capital. Early comers, armed with books or newspapers describing the take-off from New York, settled themselves in the best positions obtainable to wait.

Once the people were through with their work and had eaten dinner, they came marching along in unending streams, until the buildings were merely islands. The spectators clambered on everything that afforded a view. One man amused the crowd with a dangerous catlike walk along an upper story ledge, from the back to the front of the building, so that he could see the field.

The roofs of other buildings were crowded, and men and boys tried to climb the lattice work, most of which gave way, resulting in many tumbles. But generally the falls were broken by flower beds, and even by the crowds below.

The whole field was flooded with light from the first moment of darkness and rockets and beacons flashed in the air. Long before Lindbergh arrived there were 25,000 persons, a large proportion of them fashionably clad women, on hand to greet him.

Watching Flyer's Progress.

They and all the people of France were following the progress of the lone air man from the earliest news of the day, when, as early as 2:09 this morning the Empress of Scotland reported a glimpse of the Spirit of St. Louis 500 miles off Cape Race.

Word that the freighter Hilversum had seen the plane six hours later 500 miles off the Irish coast was greeted with cheers. Then came a bulletin that the steam collier Nagi had also seen Lindbergh.

From then on it was a procession of cheering messages as town after town in Ireland added its reports. Fishermen at County Kerry, had the honor of being the first landsmen to sight the plane.

Cherbourg was passed at 8:30 in the evening and less than two hours later the achievement hailed as the greatest in the history of aviation was accomplished.

Beat His Trunk Across.

Lindbergh not only beat his flying schedule two hours and a half, but he beat his baggage to Paris by fully five days. His trunk was stowed in the hold of the Leviathan when she sailed for Southampton and Cherbourg yesterday. David A. Burke, general manager of the United States Lines, cabled the Paris office to offer the flyer his choice of the ship's most sumptuous accommodations on his return.

Lindbergh came over Le Bourget flying high slightly to the east of the field. He circled twice slowly, then settled down 200 yards west of the main building.

He made a beautiful landing, headed due west with the ground lights flashed on him. The crowd gave a great roar and rushed forward. Dozens of persons were swept off their feet in the wild excitement to reach the wonderful American.

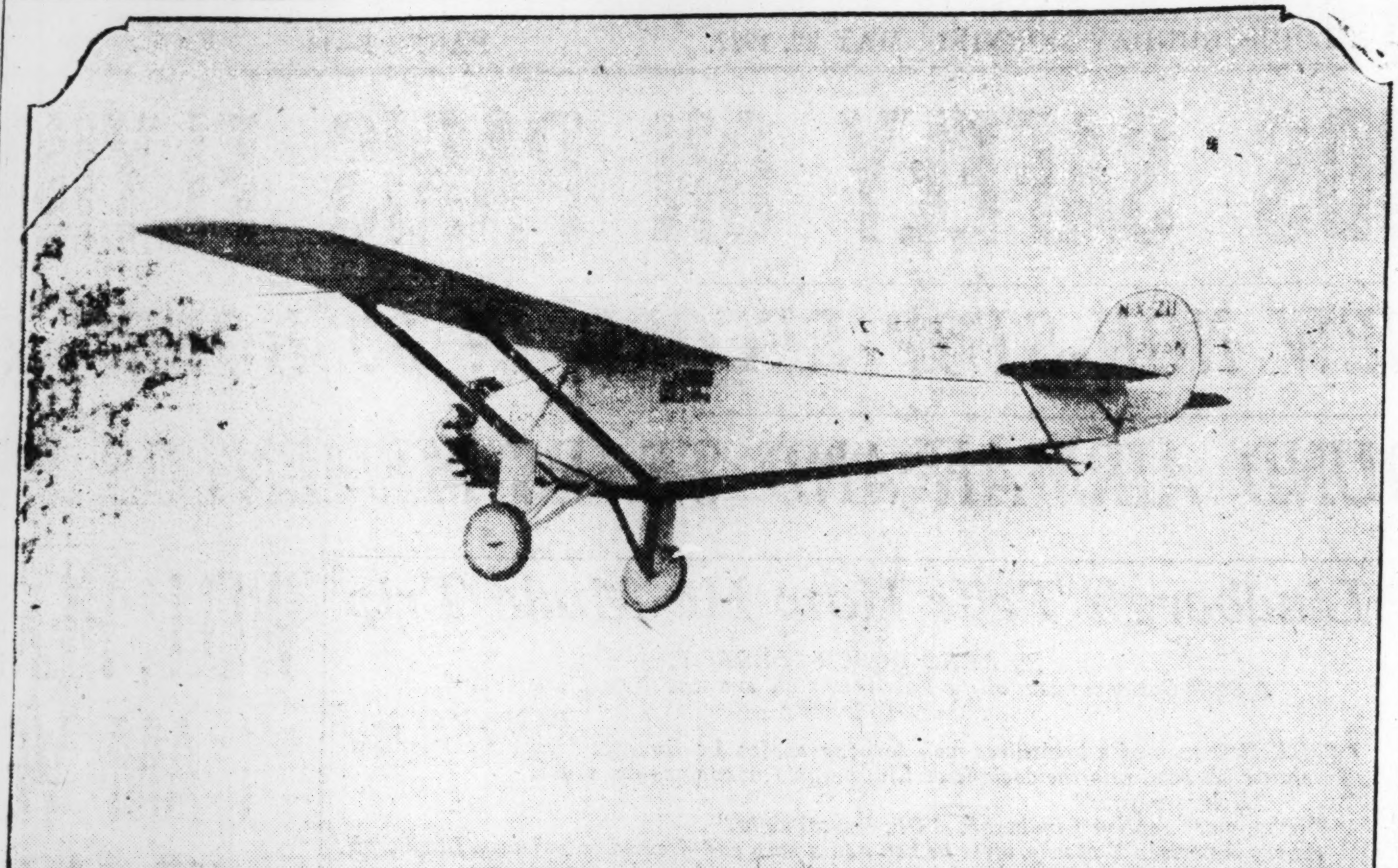
The crowd surged around Lindbergh's plane before he could get off the cockpit.

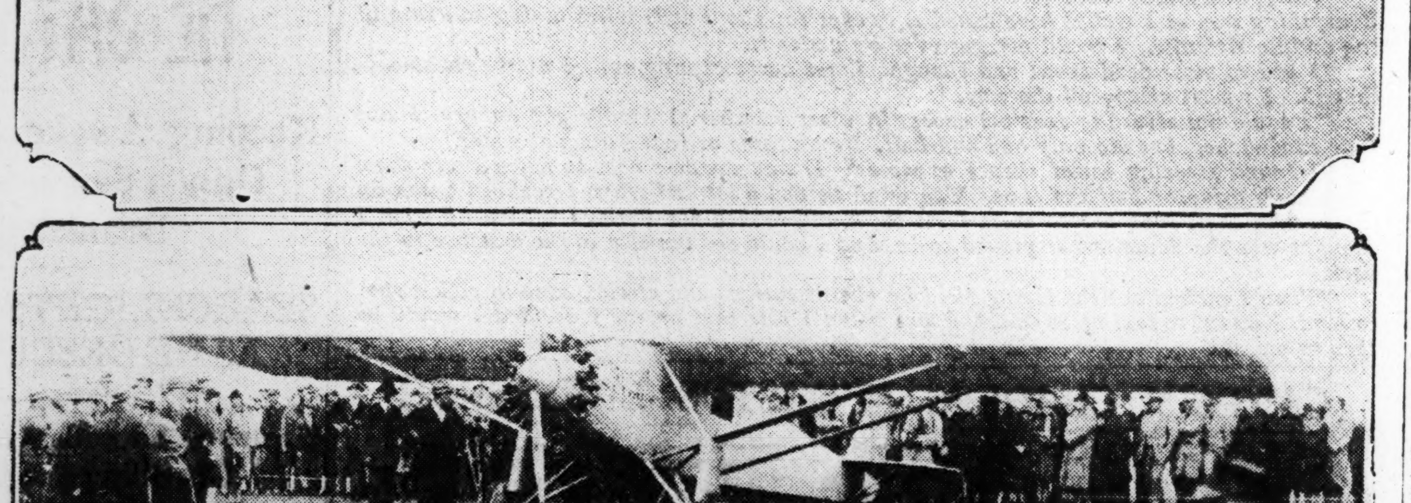
The plane was hauled in front of the building. Lindbergh was lifted out and carried shoulder-high into the open, where he was enthusiastically acclaimed and cheered for 20 minutes.

The crowd on the field was so large that the police could not hold them.

The crowd burst into cheers even before the plane could be definitely identified.

Two Views of the Now Famous New York-to-Paris Monoplane





THE upper photograph, made from a fast accompanying plane an hour after Lindbergh had left New York, gives an excellent idea of the confining quarters in which the flyer was cooped all the way to Paris. His only direct view of his surroundings was through the little windows at either side. Below is the plane at Roosevelt Field just before the hop-off.

$25,000 PRIZE MONEY ALL FOR OCEAN-CROSSER

Backers Decide to Award Flyer All Cash Rewards Accruing From Trans-Atlantic Hop.

"To the victor belong the spoils."

That is the decision of Harry H. Knight and the other sponsors of the New York-to-Paris flight of the "Spirit of St. Louis," in announcing last night that Capt. Lindbergh will have for his own the $25,000 check handed him by Raymond Orteig, donor of the prize, and all other moneys which may accrue from the venture.

It has been variously estimated that the total monetary return may reach $100,000, as the result of theatrical and news syndicate contracts, and premiums from the Standard Oil Co., which supplied the fuel. Those who know "Slim" are convinced that no sum of money ever will induce him to appear on the stage because of his shyness, but if he conquers his timidity with regard to public appearances, the resultant proceeds are his.

$25,000 Offer Reported.

An offer of a contract for $25,000 for one week's appearance at Roxy's Theater, New York, was reported to have been made to Lindbergh last night.

"It was our intention all along that 'Slim' should get every cent that results from his great flight," Knight said. "He deserves it and it's all his and I hope the amount reaches $100,000 or more. 'Slim' was the largest individual contributor to the flight, putting in $2000, which he saved from his air mail pay. That demonstrated his spirit and confidence and makes it all the more appropriate that he get the prize money."

Knight said that the cost of the flight, including a liberal week's allowance for "Slim's" stay in Paris, would be about $14,000. Part of this, he said, was borrowed, after the fashion of Queen Isabella, who pawned her jewels to finance Columbus.

"When we were discussing the plans," Knight said, "Lindbergh insisted that he should fly the plane back from Paris to save expenses."

First Visit to Bixby.

Harold M. Bixby, president of the Chamber of Commerce, told of Lindbergh's first visit to him. William D. Robertson took the young flyer to see Bixby, and Lindbergh said, "I've saved $2000 flying mail, and I want to fly to Paris." Bixby and Knight set out to raise the money, and got $1000 contributions from Maj. Albert Bond Lambert, Harry F. Knight, J. D. Wooster Lambert and E. Lansing Ray, with contributions by Charles Richardson and E. C. Thompson. The rest of the money was borrowed.

The rules of the Orteig prize competition required an entry 60 days before flying, and Lindbergh's entry was made Feb. 28. Lindbergh went to New York, and found an aircraft concern which was willing to provide a plane, but insisted that he take a navigator, and that New York have credit for the enterprise. "Slim" went to San Diego and negotiated with the Ryan Aircraft Corporation for a plane. He sent back $2000 to his backers, saying he had more than he needed.

He told Bixby, before leaving St. Louis, that one thing would cause him to turn back on his trans-oceanic flight. That would have been a dense fog over Newfoundland, such as to keep him from getting his bearings at St. John's.

Guy W. Oliver, president of the Oliver Cadillac Co., announced last night he would cable Capt. Lindbergh that a new LaSalle roadster would be presented to him by the distributing agency on his return to St. Louis.

Orteig Too Late to Greet Lindbergh on Arrival.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, May 21.—Raymond Orteig, whose $25,000 Capt. Lindbergh wins for his transatlantic flight, lost his race by train today to get to Le Bourget Field before the aviator. He had been spending a vacation in his old home in Southern France. He started when he heard Lindbergh had left, but had to change trains several times and left Paris for Le Bourget Field 15 minutes after Lindbergh had landed. He was half way there when he heard the news from those coming back, so he returned to Paris.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 21.—Arrangements for the payment of Raymond Orteig's $25,000 prize to Capt. Lindbergh will soon be made at a meeting of the trustees designed by the donor, it was learned tonight. Certification of the flight will be made by the Federation Internationale Aeronautique and the National Aeronautical Association. The prize mone yi son deposit at the Bryant Park Bank.

CABLE LINDBERGH TO SHIP PLANE BACK TO ST. LOUIS

Backers of Trans-Oceanic Flight Plan to Exhibit Craft at Lambert Flying Field.

A cablegram was sent to Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh last night by the St. Louisans who backed his Paris flight, directing him to put his airplane, The Spirit of St. Louis, in crates and bring it back to this city by steamship and rail as soon as possible.

Maj. Albert Bond Lambert, one of the backers and a leader in aviation here, in announcing this when informed by the Post-Dispatch that Lindbergh had landed, said it was desired to have the trans-oceanic craft put on exhibition at Lambert-St. Louis Field as soon as the flyer could bring it back here.

"Fine," Lambert exclaimed. "I am delighted. The conception of the flight was in St. Louis, and it was a St. Louis flyer and National Guard officer who achieved this. With this feat and the recent breaking of the world's altitude record at Scott Field, near here, by Capt. H. C. Gray, I think St. Louis is on the map.

"We want Lindbergh to pack up the plane and return home right away by boat. We are afraid he may want to fly back, but there is no use in his attempting that; he has made the flight. We want the plane kept at the field here for a while, then, I suppose, Lindbergh has his own plans.

"I think he will be entertained for four or five days in Paris and he may want to visit England before he returns. It is likely he will go by rail to Rome, to greet the Italian flyer, Commander de Pinedo, who is about to fly from this continent to Rome."

"It is our thought," said Knight, "that we can continue to benefit St. Louis through the now-famous plane that bore the name 'Spirit of St. Louis.' While our plans are indefinite, it is probable that 'Slim' and his ship will tour the United States on his return. Later the ship may be placed in a museum."

LOG OF LINDBERGH FLIGHT FROM IRISH COAST OVER FRANCE TO LE BOURGET

THE log of the progress of Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh's flight from the time his plane was sighted off the Irish coast until it landed in Paris, recorded in St. Louis time, follows:

6:10 a. m.—Steamer Hilversum reported having sighted plane 500 miles from Irish coast.

11 a. m.—Steamer Nogi sighted plane short distance off the southwestern coast of Ireland.

11:20 a. m.—Plane flew over Dingle Harbor, County Kerry, Southwestern Ireland. The plane was first sighted by a Ballyfernter civic guard, who notified Trallee and Dingle that it was possible to identify the markings on the plane, NX-211 (Lindbergh's).

1:30 p. m.—Plane passed over Cherbourg, French port, in the direction of Paris.

2 p. m.—Passed over Bayeux, on the French coast, about 150 miles by air line from Paris.

3:19 p. m.—Capt. Lindbergh landed at Le Bourget Field, Paris, completing the first New York-Paris flight.

LINDBERGH'S PLANE BUILT SPECIALLY FOR PARIS TRIP

Constructed by Ryan Air Lines at San Diego, Craft, Carrying 425 Gallons of Gasoline, Reaches High Speed of 123 Miles.

The "Spirit of St. Louis," Capt. Lindbergh's transatlantic ship, is a monoplane built especially for the New York-to-Paris flight by the Ryan Airlines of San Diego, Cal. It has a wing spread of 46 feet, a fuselage 28 feet long, and is constructed of steel tubing.

Fully loaded for the trip the plane weighed 4750 pounds, of which 2745 pounds was taken up by 425 gallons of gasoline and 28 gallons of oil. With this load the plane had a high speed of 123 miles an hour and a cruising speed of 105 miles.

Lindbergh's seat was in a wicker chair in the inclosed cabin. The ship is so constructed that he has no vision forward, except that furnished by a periscope which arises from the fuselage above the pilot's seat. It is possible for him to get a look to the sides and below through glass windows on each side which can be opened.

There is a frosted skylight above his head, but it affords no view upward.

Has 225-Horsepower Engine.

The plane is powered by a J-5, 225-horsepower Wright radial motor, an air-cooled affair, the nine cylinders of which are grouped about a central crank case like the spokes of a wheel about the hub.

The most elaborate feature of the plane is its equipment of instruments, which include one to calculate the drift caused by winds, an earth inductor, far more reliable that the old magnetic compass, and a bank and turn indicator which shows the pilot the position of his plane even when the horizon is not visible. The rest of the instrument board is taken up with the usual flying instruments, including air speed meter, tachometer, temperature gauges and clock.

Cost of Trip Estimated to Be Around $175.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 21.—B. F. Mahoney, president of the Ryan Airplane Co. of California, and C. G. Peterson, assistant of the president of the Wright Aeronautical Corporation of Paterson, N. J., told today of the plane and engine that carried "Lucky" Lindbergh, aviation's lone eagle, to France. The plans for the plane, Mahoney said, were made especially for the trip.

By having the engine air-cooled much weight is saved, a water radiator having to carry about three-quarters of a pound of water per horsepower. Besides this, the danger of radiator leakage which caused the failure of Harry Hawker's pioneering attempt to fly the Atlantic is eliminated.

Peterson said that the engine operating cost of Lindbergh's trip would be approximately $175, including gas, oil and deterioration. The engine uses approximately one gallon of gasoline for every 10 miles, not more than a heavy automobile, and one pint of oil an hour.

TRANS-OCEAN MONOPLANE' POWERED BY 9-CYLINDER AIR-COOLED ENGINE

LINDBERGH'S engine is a nine-cylinder, air-cooled radial power plant, known by the trade name, "Wright Whirlwind."

Its cylinders, which have cooling fans like those of the familiar motor-cycle engine, are grouped like spokes of a wheel about a central crankcase. Ignition is furnished by two magnetos and there are two spark plugs to each cylinder, so that if one ignition system fails there still is another to keep the engine turning over.

Except for the grouping of the cylinders, the engine operates like an air-cooled automobile engine. The connecting rod in each cylinder is bolted to a short crankshaft and to the end of the crankshaft the propeller is attached. There is a double carburetor. Contrary to prevalent belief, the motor does not revolve. The cylinders are fixed and only the crankshaft turns over.

The engine is of the same type as the three which powered Commander Bryd's Fokker on its trip to the North Pole. Another Whirlwind motor was used by Acosta and Chamberlain in their recent record endurance flight of more than 51 hours.

LINDBERGH IN DARK 8 HOURS MORE THAN IF HE HAD FLOWN FROM PARIS TO NEW YORK

IT sounds simple, but is it? If flying 3600 miles to Paris is 33½ hours, how many more hours of darkness or daylight did Capt. Lindbergh encounter than if he had flown the same length of time over New York?

Conversely, if he had flown from Paris to New York, how many more hours of darkness or daylight would he have encountered than if he had flown the same period over Paris?

Montrose W. Hayes, local meteorologist of the United States Weather Bureau, has calculated approximately that Lindbergh flew in four more hours of darkness from New York to Paris than if he had flown the same length of time over New York, and that he would have had four more hours of daylight had he flown westward than in flying the same length of time over Paris.

In other words, Lindbergh by flying the west-to-east route encountered eight hours more darkness than he would have encountered had he flown east-to-west.

WURLITZER SPINETTE reveals the charm and beauty of the 17th century

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

SEVERAL centuries ago the possession of a Spinet was an indication of wealth. Only the favored few could experience the pleasures derived from this early instrument. Now Wurlitzer presents this new Spinette Period Grand, a gem of artistic beauty and quality of tone which is well within the reach of all at the price of only $735, with the extended payment feature. Wurlitzer master designers and craftsmen have made the dream of a modernized Spinette come true. It reflects the charm and beauty of the 17th century. To hear it is a never-to-be-forgotten joy. Take advantage of your first opportunity to see this latest Wurlitzer creation. You'll be enthused. Come in—Monday.

CABLE LINDBERGH TO SHIP PLANE BACK TO ST. LOUIS

Backers of Trans-Oceanic Flight Plan to Exhibit Craft at Lambert Flying Field.

A cablegram was sent to Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh last night by the St. Louisans who backed his Paris flight, directing him to put his airplane, The Spirit of St. Louis, in crates and bring it back to this city by steamship and rail as soon as possible.

Maj. Albert Bond Lambert, one of the backers and a leader in aviation here, in announcing this when informed by the Post-Dispatch that Lindbergh had landed, said it was desired to have the trans-oceanic craft put on exhibition at Lambert-St. Louis Field as soon as the flyer could bring it back here.

"Fine," Lambert exclaimed. "I am delighted. The conception of the flight was in St. Louis, and it was a St. Louis flyer and National Guard officer who achieved this. With this feat and the recent breaking of the world's altitude record at Scott Field, near here, by Capt. H. C. Gray, I think St. Louis is on the map.

"We want Lindbergh to pack up the plane and return home right away by boat. We are afraid he may want to fly back, but there is no use in his attempting that; he has made the flight. We want the plane kept at the field here for a while, then, I suppose, Lindbergh has his own plans.

"I think he will be entertained for four or five days in Paris, and he may want to visit England before he returns. It is likely he will go by rail to Rome, to greet the Italian flyer, Commander de Pinedo, who is about to fly from this continent to Rome."

"It is our thought," said Knight, "that we can continue to benefit St. Louis through the now-famous plane that bore the name 'Spirit of St. Louis.' While our plans are indefinite, it is probable that 'Slim' and his ship will tour the United States on his return. Later the ship may be placed in a museum."

'SLIM' LINDBERGH, UNKNOWN, FLEW INTO ST. LOUIS THREE YEARS AGO

Trans-Atlantic Pilot Bought His First Plane At Army Salvage Sale

Went Barnstorming as Stuntster, Early Acquiring Reputation for Skill and Daring in the Air.

By E Roy Alexander,
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

A BUZZING airplane, scarred and weather beaten, circled over Lambert-St. Louis Field, and came down to an easy landing among the planes that had gathered there for the opening of the International Air Races on Oct. 3, 1923. From it jumped a lean, grease-stained young man who yesterday wrote his name in history. It was "Slim" Lindbergh.

He was paying his first visit to the city whose name he was to blazon to every part of the civilized world with the baptism of his monoplane, the Spirit of St. Louis, in which he landed yesterday in Paris after a non-stop flight from New York.

Then he was just a beginner in the flying game, but his venturesome spirit had taken him on many long hops and he was fast acquiring an assurance that years of flying about a regular airdrome would not give him.

A Shy, Retiring Youth.

He was a shy, retiring youth with the look of the rustic about him that he has lost only in the past few months. His helmet seemed to set too high on his head, his overalls were too short, and his coat barely seemed to reach below his belt line.

But beneath his boyish awkwardness there was a magnificent frame, carpeted with lean stringy muscles and driven by a will that knew no fatigue. His eyes were the clear, China-blue of the Scandinavian men and his ruddy cheeks bespoke much life in the outdoors.

At that time Lindbergh had been flying less than two years. He had left the University of Wisconsin late in 1921 and had learned the rudiments of flying at a school in Lincoln, Neb. When he had become proficient enough to fly alone, however, his mentors told him he would have to post a $500 bond before he could solo. "Slim" told them to keep their solo hops and left the school.

By that time he had been bitten deeply by the flying bug and in March of 1922 he engaged himself to a barnstormer as a parachute jumper. In that capacity the young flyer made many jumps in Rocky Mountain towns and spent his spare time repairing his employer's plane.

Buys Plane With Savings.

Then, as now, Lindbergh was a man of almost perfect habits. He neither smoked nor drank, and "had no use for women," so his associates said. Neither did he care for dancing, the theater or the movies. The consequence was that he saved his money and by March, 1923, had enough to buy a training plane in an army salvage sale at Americus, Ga.

Getting his "Jennie" in and out of small fields as he gave exhibitions in various parts of the country, Lindbergh added still more to his areonautical lore. He found that with the experience he had had at the Lincoln school and during his early barnstorming he could fly, and he developed an uncanny sense of direction and ability to fly across country.

It was in this plane that he came to St. Louis for the air races. During one of the exhibitions here his flying mate, Harlan Gurney, now a pilot for the Robertson Aircraft Corporation, broke his arm in a parachute jump from Lindbergh's plane. "Slim" immediately sold the ship and remained in St. Louis that winter, awaiting Gurney's recovery.

Anybody could see then that he had the makings of a great flyer. He was a daring stunter but his acrobatics were precise and his sense of distance and speed was faultless. He made his landings with the precision of a veteran airman and he was already an expert mechanic.

Enters Army Flying School.

He hit upon the army as the means of providing him with a college education in flying. On March 15, 1924, he entered the army primary training school at Brooks Field as a cadet. There is a story that he arrived there in an old Standard airplane, which he left on the field.

According to the yarn, an army officer came out, and, looking at the plane, said:

"Get that thing off the field before it kills someone. The fabric is coming off the lower wing and it can't be flown."

Whatever the truth of the story, it is of record that Lindbergh became one of the best flyers in his class. His previous experience had put him ahead of most of the others who were starting from scratch, and he amazed his instructors with his skill.

The graduattion of the class found "Slim" listed among the topnotchers and he was sent to the pursuit school at Kelly Field, where he completed his training on the highest-powered and fastest ships that the army has in its service.

It was during 1924 that his father, Congressman Charles A. Lindbergh, of Little Falls, Minn., died. Following out his father's dying wish, the youthful airman scattered his ashes over the family homestead. Since then "Slim's" mother has moved to Detroit, where she is a chemistry teacher in the Cass Technical School. Lindbergh's grand-uncle, John Lodge, is president of the Detroit City Council.

The adventurous Viking spirit that Lindbergh had inherited from his forebears, who are of Swedish descent, kept him in the flying game after his father's death. Even a narrow escape from death during the closing days of his training at Kelly Field failed to daunt his ardor for the air.

Makes First Parachute Jump.

It happened when he and four other cadets were flying in a "tight" formation at 5000 feet. In some manner the wings of Lindbergh's plane and that of another flyer became interlocked and the ships went whirling groundward out of control. Both men jumped in their parachutes and landed safely. That was "Slim's" first jump for his life and his admission card to the "Caterpillar Club," the mythical organization of flyers who have saved their lives by jumping. Since then he has made three other emergency parachute jumps, holding the "Caterpillar Club" record.

On March 15, 1925, "Slim" was graduated from Kelly Field, got his picture taken in his uniform as a reserve Second Lieutenant in the Air Corps and promptly forgot military flying. He returned to St. Louis and remained for two months at Lambert-St. Louis Field doing all sorts of flying. During that summer he took a Standard on a barnstorming tour of the west, returning to the field in October.

During that fall and winter "Slim" did some test flying and probably had the narrowest escape from death that was to figure in his career. He had taken up a new plane to put it through its paces and at 2500 feet had allowed it to go into a tail spin. When he attempted to get it out of the spin it refused to heed its controls.

Every artifice he had learned, Lindbergh put to work to get the ship back on an even keel again. Finally at only 250 feet he went over the side, jerking the ripoord of his parachute as he fell clear.

Takes a Nasty Fall.

The parachute opened just below the plane. Lindbergh swung back and forth twice like a pendulum and fell on his back in a backyard garden near the flying field. The airplane crashed on a road a short distance away and was demolished.

When mechanics from the field reached the scene, "Slim" was getting to his feet. Blood was coming from his mouth and nose from the force of his fall and he was just getting the wind that had been knocked out of him.

"A little close," he grinned as the mechanics unstrapped his parachute. "It just wouldn't come out of that spin. Defective design somewhere."

That was all. Within two hours "Slim" was in the air again, flying with his old insouciance.

Lindbergh went to work about this time for the Robertson Aircraft Corporation. He took up his quarters in an old frame house west of the Lambert-St. Louis field, where several other bachelor pilots live, and quickly settled into the simple life which gets them up early, makes them fly often and sends them to bed almost with the darkness.

"Slim" was 23 then—in the late fall of 1925—and he had lost none of his boyishness. He still retained about him a certain, refreshing air of having just come in from the country. In flying togs he was every inch a pilot, from performance to appearance, but off the field he usually dressed in a blue serge suit, which somehow always seemed too small, and a blue serge cap, which he invariably wore high on his head.

He was still easily abashed. An introduction to a stranger invariably brought a blush to his cheeks, but among his friends at the field he always was at home. He demonstrated his affection chiefly by practical jokes in which he showed rare resourcefulness.

He would spend hours trapping toads or frogs to put in the beds of other pilots. He would set gasoline around in cups where it wolud be drunk for water. He would disjoint beds ingeniously so that they would fall to pieces about the time their occupants began to slumber. They were rough pranks, some of them, but they were taken in the skylarking spirit intended.

Playful Spirit Always on Tap.

Even the most serious occasions failed to dampen his spirit of play. There was the occasion, for example, on which he and Philip R. Love, a classmate at Kelly Field, flew from St. Louis to Chicago in two DH-4's to blaze the route for the air mail route which was then in contemplation.

Arrived at the Congress Hotel in Chicago, Lindbergh immediately uncorked a series of practical jokes ranging from dousing Love with ice water while he was in the shower to disjointing the beds.

Later on, Lindbergh joined the 110th Missouri Observation Squadron as a flight commander and kept the outfit entertained with his pranks during the summer encampment last year. One hot afternoon while the members of the outfit were on the field he discovered one of the flying lieutenants taking a nap in his tent.

Lindbergh got a hammer, staked the tent down on all sides and sat down to await developments. As the hot sun beat down into the tent the sleeper awoke and found he was penned in. He pulled madly at the flaps of the tent which was rapidly becoming a regular Turkish bath and finally tore the tent down with a series of bull-like rushes.

Makes History in Mail Plane.

Lindbergh made the first flight over the Chicago-St. Louis air mail route on April 15, 1925. During the following winter he and his associates, Love and Thomas P. Nelson, also an Army graduate, hung up a record that was the wonder even of hard-boiled mail pilots, by flying the route in the dark during most of the winter, without plane or ground lights.

Twice during the winter the venturesome Lindbergh took off in weather that was utterly impossible, and twice he had to jump from his plane, using a parachute. On one of these occasions he went over the side at 5000 feet and on another at 13,000. Each time he fought his way through the snow and fog that had made his landing impossible and sent his mail on the way by train.

The story of the work of the three flyers during that winter is in itself a veritable epic of the air and Lindbergh was one of the three pilots who wrote it. Flying over an unlighted route they established a record of deliveries which was as good as that made on any lighted route and better than on some.

Flies to Memphis in Emergency.

As a mail flyer Lindbergh also found time to make miscellaneous flights for the Robertson Aircraft Corporation. On the night after the Florida hurricane was reported here he took off at 3:30 o'clock in the morning with the writer and flew to Memphis to catch a train which had left St. Louis the night before.

Here he showed his uncanny sense of direction by bringing his plane out of the darkness directly over Memphis by sunrise. Having accomplished his mission he had a hurried breakfast and was back in St. Louis before noon, having made the round trip in about 8 hours, including his stop to eat.

Incidentally, eating, as "Slim" used to say, was his "long suit." He consumed food in prodigious quantities and used to grin delightedly as other pilots noted how he took a half dozen eggs for breakfast and polished off the performance with a pork chop or a small steak.

His strenuous life, however, seemed to prevent the accumulation of excess fat on his rangy frame. Climbing in and out of planes, moving them in and out of hangars and helping out with the lifting jobs around the field probably contributed to his perfect physical condition.

Decides On Flight Last Fall.

The trans-Atlantic flight was conceived by Lindbergh last fall. To those who knew his ability as an airman it was inconceivable that he would be content to remain among the rank and file of flyers and it was upon the New York-to-Paris trip that he hit to place himself in aviation's hall of fame.

He resigned from the air mail route and began to talk to his friends about his dream. Knowing Lindbergh, all his friends took him seriously. "Slim" himself had $2000 to pay on a plane and Maj. William B. Robertson, his former employer, put up another $1000.

Then began the struggle to raise more capital. "Slim" appealed first to several non-flying agencies. They listened politely to his outline of the project, took a glance at his youthful face, smiled a little at his boyish eagerness and told him it was "suicide."

The knowledge that they regarded his project as a boyish prank did not discourage the young flyer. Finally he appealed to Harry H. Knight, a young broker interested in flying, and in him found the man who was to make his flight financially possible.

Some of Lindbergh's Backers.

Knight made his own donation. So did Albert Bond Lambert, the noted balloonist for whom the local flying field is named. Harold M. Bixby, the youthful president of the Chamber of Commerce who owns a plane himself, became interested in the project and made a subscription. Others joined in and presently Slim had $14,000 available for his trip. His own contribution was the largest in the pot.

Tentatively he had selected a Bellanca monoplane as the best ship for his purpose, but on a trip

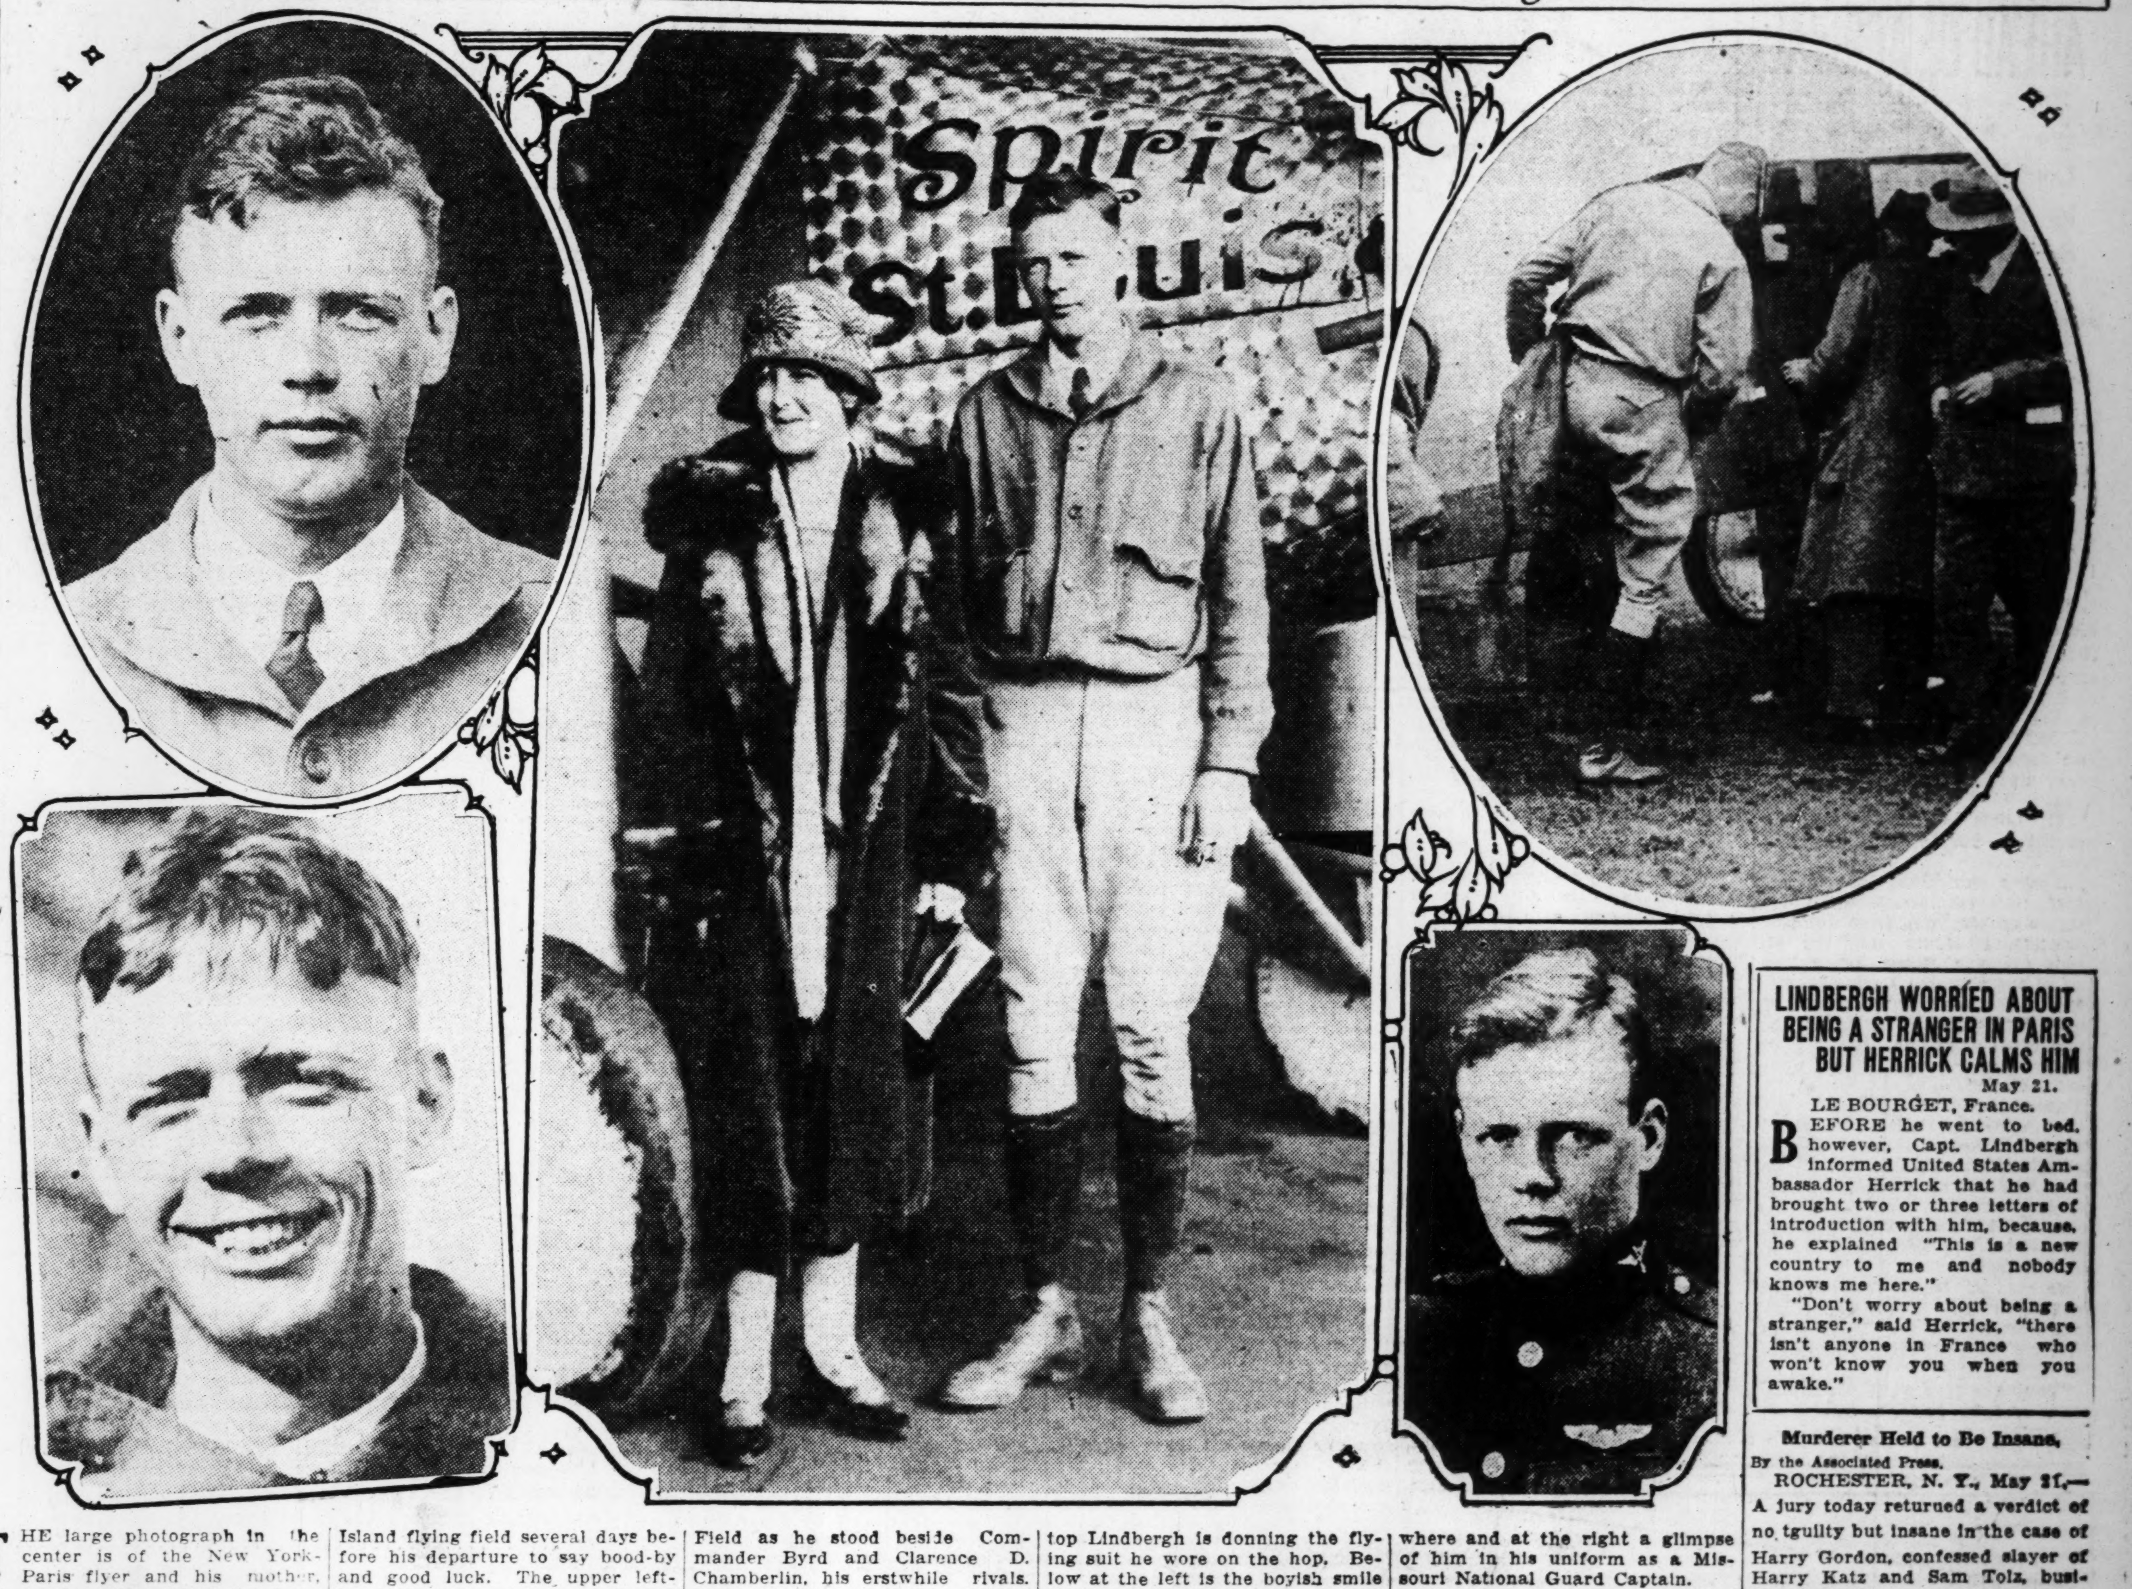
LINDBERGH MADE TRIP FROM SAN DIEGO TO PARIS IN 54 HOURS, 59 MIN.

ON HIS 6100-mile journey from San Diego, Cal., to Paris, Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh was in the air 54 hours and 59 minutes, or about two and one-fourth days.

By the fastest means of ordinary travel, railroad from San Diego to New York and steamship from New York to France, the journey would consume more than 10 days, even with the best connections.

By rail the journey from San Diego to St. Louis would take 70 hours, with connections at Los Angeles and Kansas City. Lindbergh made that jump in 14 hours and 5 minutes. From St. Louis to New York the fastest trains take 24 hours. Lindbergh did it in 7 hours and 25 minutes. From New York the fastest steamship boasts a five-day trip to the French coast. Lindbergh jumped direct to Paris in 33 hours and 29 minutes.

Lindbergh and His Mother—Various Poses of the Audacious Young Aviator



THE large photograph in the center is of the New York-Paris flyer and his mother, taken when she visited the Long Island flying field several days before his departure to say bood-by and good luck. The upper left-hand picture was made at Curtiss Field as he stood beside Commander Byrd and Clarence D. Chamberlin, his erstwhile rivals. In the right hand picture at the top Lindbergh is donning the flying suit he wore on the hop. Below at the left is the boyish smile that won friends for him everywhere and at the right a glimpse of him in his uniform as a Missouri National Guard Captain.

LINDBERGH WORRIED ABOUT BEING A STRANGER IN PARIS BUT HERRICK CALMS HIM

BEFORE he went to bed, however, Capt. Lindbergh informed United States Ambassador Herrick that he had brought two or three letters of introduction with him, because, he explained "This is a new country to me and nobody knows me here."

"Don't worry about being a stranger," said Herrick, "there isn't anyone in France who won't know you when you awake."

ST. LOUIS PRAISE WIRED LINDBERGH AHEAD OF ARRIVAL

Mayor Miller, John G. Lonsdale and H. M. Bixby Applaud His "Wonderful" Achievement.

JOSEPH PULITZER JOINS IN TRIBUTE

Kansas City Also Adds Felicitations on "Spirit of St. Louis" Carried to French Capital.

Mayor Miller, by sending a cablegram of congratulation on his flight to Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh at Paris yesterday noon, before the voyage was ended, was one of the first to congratulate the St. Louis airman on his feat. The message was marked for delivery upon Lindbergh's landing. It said:

"St. Louis congratulates you heartily on your splendid achievement."

Another cablegram sent in advance, in confidence of Lindbergh's success, was from John G. Lonsdale, president of the St. Louis Clearing House Association and of the National Bank of Commerce, as follows: "Spirit of youth and Spirit of St. Louis, invincible combination, bankers of St. Louis pr[illegible] [illegible]aim. Congratulations."

Pulitzer Sends Congratulations.

From Joseph Pulitzer, editor of the Post-Dispatch, the following cablegram was sent to Lindbergh when word of his landing was received: "Cordial congratulations from the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. We rejoice in your magnificent achievement."

Harold M. Bixby, one of the backers of the Lindbergh flight and president of the Chamber of Comerce, cabled this message to the flyer:

"You have done what couldn't be done. All St. Louis is talking of Lindbergh and of nothing else. Your magnificent courage and keen judgment have been splendidly rewarded. Heartiest congratulations. Will see you in New York."

Wire From Kansas City.

Lou E. Holland, president of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce, sent a telegram to Bixby congratulating him and praising Lingbergh. "Congratulations," it stated. "Your boy Lindbergh is a wonder. He is making history for Missouri. You have cause to be proud and I share with you in your joy."

Bixby replied: "The Spirit of St. Louis and the spirit of Kansas City seem to be comingled in this accomplishment for Missouri and now, if we can just get some of the same spirit into our common progress in this State, through our respective organizations all will be well."

35th Division's Cablegram.

From Joseph W. Wecker, president of the Thirty-fifth Division Air Corps Flying Club, this cablegram was received by Lindbergh: "The club congratulates you. We are very proud of you."

Commenting on the flight, at his St. Louis County home, Harry H. Knight, Lindbergh's chief backer, said: "Capt. Lindbergh's achievement is perfectly marvelous and fully justifies our confidence in him. There is nothing more we can say. He is the whole show."

The success of Capt. Lindbergh's aerial voyage augurs new vitality and development for commercial aviation, in the opinion of Maj. William B. Robertson, head of the Robertson Aircraft Corporation, who helped the youthful flyer get his start and employed him until recently as a pilot in the St. Louis-Chicago mail service.

"Trip Is Wonderful."

"I think his trip was wonderful," said Maj. Robertson. "It is, however, just one of the many things that is going to happen for aviation in this country. I believe, if the people will take full advantage of the facilities now open to them—for instance, the air mail—there will soon be many aerial passenger lines. Airplane motors and the planes themselves have been practically perfected. There is now a place for them in the every-day business world. The pioneer stage is over.

"We cannot put aviation ahead without the support of the public. Plenty of flyers would be willing to make the same trip, to convince the public of the safety and practicability of aviation, because they are absolutely confident in the planes and motors we have today. We are all absolutely sold on this. Co-operation, capital and hard work are required for aviation to go ahead. I am certainly pleased that St. Louis has the opportunity to arrange this flight.

"Although absolutely convinced that motors and planes are sufficient, there is one element we haven't conquered — the weather. Its defeat is coming, for necessity is the mother of invention. Instruments are being developed to enable pilots to fly right through bad weather. The Government must help in this development."

Wonderful, Says Paegelow.

Col. John A. Paegelow, commander of Scott Field who watched reports of Lindbergh's flight with keen interest, also was enthusiastic over the flyer's achievement.

"Capt. Lindbergh did not only achieve a wonderful and spectacular thing for St. Louis," Col. Paegelow said, "but he also did a fine thing for aviation in general. He demonstrated the dependability of the airplane as no flyer has ever done before. He has the hearty congratulations of every man at Scott Field. They stopped a ball game at the field to cheer for him when the news came this afternoon."

Capt. Hawthorne C. Gray, who recently broke the balloon altitude record at Scott Field, declared the flight was "the greatest thing that had ever been done in the air."

"In my opinion, his trip was the most daring air feat that has ever been accomplished and I think it will be a long time before it is ever equaled by any single man," Gray declared. "I think we will find that his flight has done more to cement friendly relations between America and France, than anything else could have done. It will be hard for any other man to take Capt. Lindbergh's laurels from him."

Gov. Baker and Adjutant-General Send Congratulations.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 21.—Gov. Baker and Adjutant-General Adams of Missouri this afternoon sent a cablegram to Paris to Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh of the Missouri National Guard Air Squadron, congratulating him on his successful nonstop flight from New York to Paris. It said: "Congratulations from Gov. Baker and Missouri National Guard. We are proud of you."

Lindbergh's Boyhood Town Rejoices Over Arrival in Paris.

By the Associated Press.

LITTLE FALLS, Minn., May 21.—General rejoicing followed the announcement that Capt. Lindbergh, who grew to manhood here, had completed his New York-Paris flight. A blaring band added to the din, whistles shrieked and bells rang. Quickly a somewhat disordered, happy, parade got under way.

From the local board of commerce went this cablegram: "Greetings from Little Falls. You have accomplished that which your home town knew you could do. Little Falls is celebrating your achievement."

Kansas City Joins in Celebration of Lindbergh's Arrival.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, May 21.—Factory and locomotive whistles, automobile horns and screaming fire sirens joined in a din here this afternoon heralding the trimphant landing in Paris of Capt. Lindbergh.

Lindbergh took his extrance examination for Brooks Field, the army training school, here in the summer of 1923. He attended the reserve officers training camp here in 1925.

Head of Wisconsin U. Cables Message of Congratulation.

MADISON, Wis., May 21.—The best wishes of his alma mater upon his success were cabled to Capt. Lindbergh by President Gleen Frank of the University of Wisconsin.

"The University of Wisconsin sends you, as one of its former students, its hearty congratulations upon the successful completion of your courageous adventure," the cablegram stated.

Useful Knowledge Gained, Assistant War Secretary Thinks.

By the Associated Press.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., May 21.—Predictions that the knowledge gained by Capt. Lindbergh's nonstop flight from New York to Paris will eventually make long distance air travel feasible, were made today by F. Trubee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War.

"I am gratified to learn that the air journey from New York to Paris has been made by Capt. Lindbergh," Davison said. "I venture to predict that the knowledge gained through Lindbergh's flight will mean a great deal to aviation and this knowledge eventually will be translated into terms of actual long distance air travel. I, as an American, am proud that a fellow citizen should be the first to fly from New York to Paris."

The KING

EDWIN BOOTH, the most famous of all Shakespearean players, once said, "The king sits in every audience. Play to him." All smiled openly except an unknown but promising young actor named Keane.

Eventually came the chance for Keane to take his place among the immortals, but Keane's opening night found him apparently doomed to eternal failure—his theater virtually empty—a howling storm had almost swept the playhouse into darkness—and, except for a small group of gentlemen placed in an inconspicuous box, Keane found himself "playing to the rafters." Keane's courage tottered. Why play to an absent audience? But, suddenly remembering Booth's stern motto, Keane ordered up the curtain, and played his part with such fire and fervor that even he, himself, was carried away by the inspiration of Booth's advice.

The morning following, the bewildered Keane awoke to find himself universally acclaimed and acknowledged. The "small group of gentlemen placed in an inconspicuous box" was none other than a gathering of London's most brilliant critics. In "playing to the king," Keane had unconsciously risen to the perpetual pinnacle of stardom.

For many generations CONROYS have been imbued with the same spirit—to render every Conroy patron the same sound advice, courtesy, and service regardless of the size or conditions of the customer's purchase—to keep faith with the buyer long after the transaction has been forgotten—"to play to the king"—and to play fairly.

LIST OF RECORD OCEAN CROSSINGS, 1492 TO 1927

Time Required Reduced From More Than Two Months to 33 1-2 Hours.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Here are some other transatlantic crossings that furnish high lights in the history of travel, as selected by the National Geographic Society:

Columbus: Sailed from Palos, Spain, Aug. 3, 1492; arrived at San Salvador Oct. 12; time elapsed, 69 days.

Pilgrim Fathers: Sailed from Plymouth, England, Sept. 6, 1620; arrived Cape Cod Nov. 19; time elapsed, 74 days.

Dreadnaught: Yankee clipper ship; sailed from New York June 15, 1859; arrived Cape Clear, Ireland, on June 27; time elapsed, 11 days.

Savannah: First steamship to cross Atlantic; left Savannah, Ga., for Liverpool May 24, 1819; crossing in 27 days.

Great Eastern, famous early steamship: Sailed from Needles, off Southampton, England, June 17, 1860; arrived New York June 28; time elapsed, 9 days.

Mauretania: Sailed from New York to Cherbourg Sept., 1924; time elapsed, 5 days, 1 hour and 49 minutes.

Zeppelin Dirigible ZR-3 (later Los Angeles): Sailed from Friedrickshafen, Germany, Oct. 12, 1924; arrived Lakehurst, N. J., Oct. 15; time elapsed, 81 hours, 17 minutes.

British biplane (Alcock-Brown): Took off at St. Johns, Newfoundland, June 14, 1919; arrived Clifden, Ireland, June 15; time elapsed, 16 hours, 12 minutes.

Spirit of St. Louis (Ryan monoplane), New York to Paris, 33 hours, 29 minutes; May 20-21, 1927.

Lindbergh flew 3600 miles at an average speed of more than 107 miles an hour. At times he is estimated to have done 115 miles an hour.

BYRD'S PLANE TESTED AND CHRISTENED

Water Used in Ceremony Taken From Spot Where Washington Crossed Delaware.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., May 21.—The christening ceremonies of the giant Fokker, America, in which Commander Richard E. Byrd will attempt to fly to France, became chiefly a ceremony of tribute to Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh this afternoon.

Two bottles containing water from the spot where Washington crossed the Delaware were broken on the plane's prow by two granddaughters of John Wanamaker, and then Byrd rose to speak to the hundreds gathered about the hangar.

"My only thought today," he said, "is of Capt. Lindbergh's wonderful victory. I said good-bye to him yesterday morning and wished him Godspeed. He knew then the nature of the task he was undertaking, but he was not afraid. From the moment he started down that runway it was do or die, and he knew it.

Byrd cabled Lindbergh: "You have performed one of the greatest individual feats in history," while his brother, Gov. Harry Flood Byrd of Virginia, cabled: "Virginia congratulates you for your daring conquest. You have added another laurel to America's flag."

"SLIM" LINDBERGH FLEW INTO ST. LOUIS THREE YEARS AGO

to New York he found himself unable to agree with Bellanca officials upon terms.

"I can't talk to you people," he said, finally, and set out for California.

At that time the Bellanca builders were preparing a plane for Chamberlin and Acosta to try for the transatlantic prize. They succeeded in breaking the nonstop flying record with it, remaining 51 hours in the air, but dissension between the flyers and officials of the company apparently killed the flight project. While they were still talking it over "Slim" slipped into New York, waited for a good day and jumped across.

Gives Order for Monoplane.

To return to his preparation, however, he visited the Ryan aircraft factory in San Diego, Cal. He found it was manufacturing a monoplane as well suited for his purpose as the Bellanco, and he ordered one on the spot.

The Ryan people jumped enthusiastically into the project. B. F. Mahoney, the chief engineer there, is only 26 himself and so the work of getting the plane in readiness was pushed along with all the youthful ardor that he and Lindbergh could furnish.

The plane, Mahoney told Lindbergh, would cost bout $14,000 to build and could not be sold for less than $25,000, since it would take the entire resources of his factory. But Mahoney was already sold on Lindbergh's project and he finally agreed to make it for $10,500, hoping that the success of the flight and its consequent favorable publicity would make up the deficit.

Other Flyers Apparently Had Edge.

While the plane was still in the building, word began to come from New York that the Chamberlin-Acosta expedition was almost ready to hop off, that Commander Byrd might be ready to leave most any day, and that Nungesser and Coli, starting from the other side, would most certainly take off before Lindbergh could get ready.

Lindbergh paid no attention to the reports. He went ahead with his unhurried preparations.

"They're flying their ships and I'm flying mine," he told Mahoney. "Let them go ahead their way and I'll go ahead mine."

His test flights showed that his plane had lots of speed and carrying capacity. The transatlantic contenders were just beginning to awaken to the fact that Lindbergh meant business when he took off from San Diego at 5:55 p. m. on May 10 and landed in St. Louis the next morning at 8 o'clock. His flying time for the 1550 miles was 14 hours and 5 minutes.

Comes Into National Prominence.

That marked Lindbergh to observers all over the United States as a great flyer. It was the longest nonstop flight ever made across country by one man, and Lindbergh had shown his homing sense once again by deviating only 25 miles from his course during the whole trip, which included 10 hours of night flying without lights.

There was a considerable reception for the flyer here and Knight invited him to spend the night in his country place, but "Slim" elected to stay with his old buddies in the old farm house at the field.

Next morning he had breakfast at Louie's place—the hot-dog stand at the field—and, hopping off at 8 o'clock, was in New York within 7 hours and 15 minutes. It was another great flight—950 miles this time—and everybody sat up and took notice.

Followed by Crowds in New York.

"Slim's" personality and the absolute daring of his project threw him on the first page in every newspaper in the country. When he went into New York from Long Island, while he waited for favorable weather, a crowd followed him. Reporters interviewed him and women writers tried to get an expression on what he thought of girls.

"This is my only girl," he replied, patting the nose of his Ryan, and climbed back into the ship to hide his blushes. Altogether it was a very embarrassing metropolitan experience for a young man of Lindbergh's training.

Finally the weather cleared. Last Friday morning "Slim" had his Ryan rolled out of the hangar at Roosevelt Field and loaded with gasoline. Commander Byrd, one of his competitors, was in the air testing out his Fokker. The Bellanca was idle in its hangar while its pilots wen to law with its owners about the division of awards.

Takes a Chance and Hops Off.

It was an ideal situation for "Slim." While the fog still lay on the field he warmed up his motor. The layout there made it necessary for him to take off down the wind, a perilous undertaking for a light ship and apparently suicidal for his overloaded monoplane.

"Slim" slammed his throttle wide open, taxied across the field, arose, settled, and finally climbed out of the field, barely clearing a telephone line at its boundary.

Commander Byrd generously exclaimed his admiration at this final feat and Anthony Fooker, the noted designer, smiled as he said: "A perfect performance. Had he carried 50 pounds more he would never have made it."

So it was that "Slim" got on his way with a characteristically daring gesture. Within less than 33 hours and 29 minutes he was landing at Le Bourget on the outskirts of Paris.

The dream had become a reality.

He had written his name in history.

And "Lindbergh" was on the tongues of the civilized world.

FRENCH AND U. S. PRESIDENTS VOICE PRAISE OF FLIGHT

Doumergue and Coolidge Exchange Messages of Congratulation on Lindbergh's Achievement.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—President Doumergue of France, in a message of congratulation to President Coolidge tonight, viewed the successful transatlantic flight of Capt. Lindbergh as the dream of the missing French flyers, Nungesser and Coli, come true, and as bringing about the aerial union of the United States and France.

"All Frenchmen," said President Doumergue, "unreservedly admire his courage and rejoice in his success. I congratulate you most heartily in the name of the Government, of the republic and of the whole country."

President Doumergue cabled:

"On the morrow of the attempt of our aviators, whose misfortune was so keenly felt by the kindly hearts of your countrymen, Charles Lindbergh made true the dream of Nungesser and Coli and by his audacious flight brought about the aerial union of the United States and France. All Frenchmen unreservedly admire his courage and rejoice in his success. I congratulate you most heartily in the name of the Government, of the republic and of the whole country."

Coolidge's Reply.

President Coolidge's reply was:

"I thank you for your cordial message which I share with the American people. I rejoice in the success of the young man who so courageously set forth on his lonely flight, but neither I nor the people of the United States forget to share in the sorrow of France in the recent loss of your two brave aviators. It is largely due to the genius of France that aviation has progressed so rapidly, and as it brings us closer as measured by hours, so it must increase our heritage of sympathy and unrestanding."

Message to Lindbergh.

President Coolidge also sent Lindbergh the following cable message:

"The American people rejoice with me at the brilliant termination of your heroic flight. The first nonstop flight of a lone aviator across the Atlantic crowns the record of American aviation and in bringing the greetings of the American people to France, you likewise carry the assurance of our admiration of those intrepid Frenchmen, Nungesser and Coli, whose bold spirits first ventured on your exploit and likewise a message of our continued anxiety concerning their fate."

First Flyer to Cross Atlantic Pays Tribute to Lindbergh.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, May 21.—Sir Arthur Whitten Brown, who with Capt. Alcock made the first air crossing of the Atlantic in 1919, gave a great sigh of relief which could be heard over the telephone when informed of Capt. Lindbergh's safe arrival in France. "Good!" exclaimed the pioneer. "I only wish it were possible for me to be the first to congratulate him."

When reminded that he and Alcock were the real pioneers, Sir Arthur said: "Oh, that was nothing—nothing to speak of, when aviation's development and progress are considered. And there were two of us, it must be remembered, while the young American accomplished it alone over a much greater distance."

"Well done!" was the exclamation of the Prince of Wales when informed of Lindbergh's success late tonight while attending a private party.

King George, who had followed Lindbergh's progress with intense interest, expressed equal pleasure when the news of the safe landing of the American flyer at the Le Bourget airdrome was telephoned to him at Buckingham palace..

Dawes Mingles Sorrow for Nungesser With Joy for Lindbergh.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 21.—In a characteristically laconic statement, Vice President Dawes said: "Along with the gratification that the American people feel for the splendid achievement of Capt. Lindbergh is the profound sorrow for the probable loss of Nungesser and Coli, with glorious records won in both war and peace. Their names will be forever remembered with that of Lindbergh."

"I take my hat off to Lindbergh; he's a grand boy," said Sir Thomas Lipton, who was here on his way to New York. Sir Thomas, always interested in sporting chances, awaited the bulletins of Lindbergh's progress eagerly. "There, he has done it," he chuckled when the news of the arrival in Paris came.

completely by the excitement over Capt. Lindbergh. Nothing had been heard of the British flyers since they passed Wiesbaden, but nobody seemed to care, and all eyes were turned to the newspapers to learn the latest from the Atlantic.

"We are all proud of Capt. Lindbergh's success," said the American Ambassador, Alanson B. Houghton. "It is a remarkable achievement."

Sir Alan J. Cobham, hero of last year's Australian flight, said tonight: "I think Lindbergh's was a really marvelous effort, and the most wonderful feature to my mind was his endurance. How he managed to stay awake so long and keep his machine on its course passes my comprehension. His achievement is a great object lesson on the possibilities of the modern airplane, and goes to show what a safe business flying really is."

Sir Alan telegraphed Capt. Lindbergh his heartiest congratulations.

Irish Free State's President Congratulates America.

DUBLIN, May 21.—President Cosgrave of the Irish Free State issued this message of congratulation to the American people on Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh's transatlantic flight:

"I very heartily congratulate the American people on this great feat of endurance and skill. It was a most creditable performance and will unquestionably have a tremendous effect upon the future of aeronautics. It is all the greater pleasure to us, as the intrepid airman passed over our shores and we re-echo the sentiment which must be in everybody's mind, 'All hail the American.' I very cordially express to the American people on this great occasion my personal congratulations and also to Capt. Lindbergh himself."

President and High Officials Cable Congratulations.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—When the news of Capt. Lindbergh's arrival at Paris was flashed to the city, there was spontaneous, citywide expression of gratification, and officials, led by President Coolidge sent their congratulations and praise speeding over the cables to the aviator.

An airplane was sent from Bolling Field, bearing streamers announcing that Lindbergh had made a safe passage.

All through the message of congratulations sent to France there ran a note of sorrow over the failure of the Nungesser-Coli flight, and President Coolidge, as well as others, made sympathetic reference to the French flyers.

Secretary Kellogg was among the first to extend his congratulations to Lindbergh for "an achievement of which every American can justly be proud." The Secretary, who had known the youthful flyer as a small boy, said he "rejoiced at this culmination of his ambitions which could only have been gained by scientific knowledge, superb courage and physique. Our rejoicing is tempered by our continued ignorance of the fate of Nungesser and Coli, whose courage and valor have now been equalled but cannot be surpassed."

Postmaster-General New, in whose air mail service Lindbergh gained much of his experience, said the flyer had set a standard "for all aviators to shoot at." "You can't beat those boys anywhere in any service in the world," he said.

Rear Admiral Moffett, chief of the Bureau of Naval Aeronautics, called the feat "one of the greatest personal triumphs in the history of the world. Every American can be proud of Lindbergh's success and of the American-designed and built plane and engine which made his triumph possible."

For the Army Air Service, Major-General Patrick cabled Lindbergh that he had honored his alma mater, the Army Air Corps, and had written " a most glorious chapter in the history of aviation."

The National Guard, of which Lindbergh is a member, sent its praise through Brigadier-General Creed C. Hammond, chief of the Militia Bureau: "All America honors your courage and achievement in the history-making flight from New York to Paris," he said. "We acclaim your unparalleled feat with heroic pride."

The Coast Guard, through Rear Admiral Bullard, sent a cablegram declaring the Coast Guard, knowing the perils of the North Atlantic, "can particularly appreciate and admire your splendid accomplishment."

Admiral Eberle, chief of operations of the navy, extended the navy's "warmest congratulations on this wonderful flight."

Senator Borah of Idaho issued a special statement declaring: "The spirit of American youth incarnate—the spirit which charms and subdues to its purpose all things—made possible the flight. Nothing could be more simple, sincere and courageous. It ought to lift every boy into the atmosphere of the heroic—life is worth while."

Lindbergh Recommended for Distinguished Flying Cross.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Recommendation that a distinguished flying cross be awarded Capt. Lindbergh was made to Secretary of War Davis today by the Army Air Corps. The recommendation was forwarded by Maj. G. C. Grant, executive officer of the air corps, in behalf of Assistant Secretary of War Davison, who is now in Texas.

ST. LOUIS PLANS ROYAL WELCOME FOR LINDBERGH

er tape which, on other occasions, has been dumped on pavements and sidewalks.

"Lindbergh for President."

Automobilists did not do their share of the noise-making, in comparison with previous celebrations. But there was some backfiring and much exuberant honking. One Ford car bore through the downtown district a large banner withthe words "Lindbergh for President."

The 110th Observation Squadron, Missouri National Guard Air unit, in which Lindbergh held his rank of captain, had its own special celebration last night. Its members rode in honking automobiles from the Battery Armory on South Grand boulevard, first downtown, then to Kingshighway, stopping on Grand for special festivities.

An infantry truck heading the procession, bore the legend, "Slim's Outfit," with a sub-notation, as to the truck itself, "The only thing that Slim can't fly."

Other banners bore references to the proposed Bellanca flight, and called attention to the skill of Lindbergh, an Army flyer, as a navigator. "The Navy has asked its navigators to resign," said one streamer.

"He's the 'Flying Fool' over there, 'Lucky' in New York, but in St. Louis he's Slim,' was another bit of painted exuberance.

Maj. C. Ray Wassall, Lindbergh's commander, was in the parade, as was Capt. Harry Young, army flying instructor. A stop was made on Hortense place, just off Kingshighway, in front of the homes of Maj. Albert bond Lambert, dean of aviation in St. Louis, and Earl C. Thompson, one of the backers of the flight. Lambert was not at home, but Thompson greeted the guardsmen.

Hotel guests and theater-goers cheered the paraders, and motor noise attended their progress through the city. Several metal rims, dragged behind the cars, added to the din.

Yesterday morning and early in the afternoon, while the outcome was still in doubt, optimism marked the views and expressions of St. Louisans. If there were bets against Lindbergh's success, they were not laid at the places where many were congregated. Such a bettor would have lost his friends before he lost his wager.

Radio reports, received at every garage and drug store and in many homes, kept up a series of bulletins, and street car and motorbus conductors carried mixtures of news and rumor from one stopping place to another.

False reports of Lindbergh's arrival were received, and one coming at 10:50 a. m., St. Louis time, was widely diffused, and caused premature jubilation.

When the verified news reached leading St. Louisans, the sending of cablegrams of congratulations began. Among the first messages sent were those of the Post-Dispatch and of Mayor Miller.

St. Louis comment dwelt on the fact that Lindbergh had not only made the first one-man flight across the Atlantic, and the first flight by the long steamship route, but that he had flown from San Diego, Cal., to Paris with only two stops—those at Lambert-St. Louis Field and at Roosevelt Field, L. I.

LINDBERGH'S FLIGHT GREATEST ACHIEVEMENT IN AIR, WRIGHT SAYS

By the Associated Press.

DAYTON, O., May 21.

ORVILLE WRIGHT, father of aviation, commenting on Capt. Lindbergh's New York-Paris flight, said:

"It was a wonderful flight. It is a distinct advance and every advance brings the airplane into wider use.

"It has both commercial and military significance because it has extended the possibilities of flight. While I regard it as a stunt flight in one sense of the word, it is far superior to anything yet achieved."

Wright declared too much cannot be said of the young American's pluck and in overcoming the many obstacles in the way of such an especial flight.

LINDELL TRAFFIC SIGNALS ARE TO BE SYNCHRONIZED

Automatic Controls to Be Installed Between Grand Boulevard and Kingshighway.

SYSTEM IS TO BE EXTENDED

Installation on Widened Olive Street and Other Boulevards Recommended by Hoffman.

Automatic controls to synchronize the stop-go traffic signals in Lindell boulevard, between Grand boulevard and Kingshighway, have been ordered by the City. It was announced yesterday in the annual report of Reyburn Hoffmann, traffic engineer of the Street Department.

Their use will permit automobiles to move along Lindell at an average speed of 22 miles an hour, without interruption, and will provide time, too, for vehicles on intersecting streets to cross at intervals. The Chicago loop district has a similar synchronization system.

Stop-go signals should not be placed on heavily traveled streets unless co-ordinated to provide such "progressive control," Hoffmann said, and the volume of traffic on the major thoroughfares requires that they be "signalized," to make their establishment worth while. In this category the report lists Olive street, when widened, between Twelfth boulevard and Channing avenue, where it connects with Lindell boulevard, Washington, Locust, Chestnut, Lindell, Chouteau, Russell, Morgan, Cass, Kingshighway, Union, De Baliviere, Skinker and much of Grand boulevard.

Effect of Olive Widening.

"The widening of Olive street to 100 feet," says the report, "will witness a decided change in traffic movement on the east and west streets leading to the business district. Olive street, with its Lindell boulevard outlet to the west, will be the main traveled artery. In addition to this, there will also be the increasing volume of street-car travel which the new width will permit. In order that both vehicles and street-cars can move swiftly and safely, and still permit free movement of cross traffic, it will be necessary to control the movement by automatic signals.

"A plan has been suggested to establish principal stations for loading and unloading passengers at nine points between Twelfth boulevard and Grand boulevard. The stops proposed are Twelfth, Fifteenth, Eighteenth, Twenty-first, Jefferson, Leffingwell, Garrison, Compton and Channing. With cars stopping at only these streets, it will be possible for them to maintain an average speed of 15 miles per hour, and vehicles could travel at a speed of 20 miles per hour. This would cut down the trip time for car riders, even though a small percentage would have to walk an additional block to board a car. By concentrating the loading and unloading at fewer places, additional time can be saved, and accidents materially reduced.

Uninterrupted Traffic Control.

"Such a plan, however, can hardly be worked out satisfactorily and with safety without ample signal control. The signals would be operated to permit uninterrupted travel for vehicles between Twelfth boulevard and Grand boulevard, and would be so timed as to permit street cars to make their stops and then continue with the next signal change. In this way the cars would be stopped while the cross traffic moved, or vice versa, and there would be no lost time at any stop."

The city now has 104 stop-go signals, in all districts, some on main streets and some at isolated, hazardous intersections. During the past fiscal year 14 of them were installed and one was relocated. The police furnished a list of corners where they believed these "silent traffic cops" would do the most good, and conditions at the suggested places were studied, leading to installations at some.

Some Signals Unnecessary.

Many existing stop-go signals should be removed entirely or shut off during certain hours, Hoffman reported. For instance, some which are near churches and schools are needed only during certain hours. The traffic engineer is to make recommendations later about them. He said that removal of the signal at Kingshighway and Maryland facilitated traffic movement there and at Lindell boulevard, a block south, and asserted that this should not be reinstalled until a signal is put in at Lindell and the two are co-ordinated.

Conduits were laid under Kingshighway, when it was repaved recently, to serve anticipated signals, traffic lights and safety islands at 12 intersections from Lindell to Easton avenue.

Accidents in general have been reduced an average of 76 per cent at crossings where stop-go signals have been installed, Hoffman said, but the reduction of accidents to pedestrians was only 55 per cent, indicating that pedestrians are not

Olive street, with its Lindell boulevard outlet to the west, will be the main traveled artery. In addition to this, there will also be the increasing volume of street-car travel which the new width will permit. In order that both vehicles and street-cars can move swiftly and safely, and still permit free movement of cross traffic, it will be necessary to control the movement by automatic signals.

"A plan has been suggested to establish principal stations for loading and unloading passengers at nine points between Twelfth boulevard and Grand boulevard. The stops proposed are Twelfth, Fifteenth, Eighteenth, Twenty-first, Jefferson, Leffingwell, Garrison, Compton and Channing. With cars stopping at only these streets, it will be possible for them to maintain an average speed of 15 miles per hour, and vehicles could travel at a speed of 20 miles per hour. This would cut down the trip time for car riders, even though a small percentage would have to walk an additional block to board a car. By concentrating the loading and unloading at fewer places, additional time can be saved, and accidents materially reduced.

Uninterrupted Traffic Control.

"Such a plan, however, can hardly be worked out satisfactorily and with safety without ample signal control. The signals would be operated to permit uninterrupted travel for vehicles between Twelfth boulevard and Grand boulevard, and would be so timed as to permit street cars to make their stops and then continue with the next signal change. In this way the cars would be stopped while the cross traffic moved, or vice versa, and there would be no lost time at any stop."

The city now has 104 stop-go signals, in all districts, some on main streets and some at isolated, hazardous intersections. During the past fiscal year 14 of them were installed and one was relocated. The police furnished a list of corners where they believed these "silent traffic cops" would do the most good, and conditions at the suggested places were studied, leading to installations at some.

Some Signals Unnecessary.

Many existing stop-go signals should be removed entirely or shut off during certain hours, Hoffman reported. For instance, some which are near churches and schools are needed only during certain hours. The traffic engineer is to make recommendations later about them. He said that removal of the signal at Kingshighway and Maryland facilitated traffic movement there and at Lindell boulevard, a block south, and asserted that this should not be reinstalled until a signal is put in at Lindell and the two are co-ordinated.

Conduits were laid under Kingshighway, when it was repaved recently, to serve anticipated signals, traffic lights and safety islands at 12 intersections from Lindell to Easton avenue.

Accidents in general have been reduced an average of 76 per cent at crossings where stop-go signals have been installed, Hoffman said, but the reduction of accidents to pedestrians was only 55 per cent, indicating that pedestrians are not obeying the signals. An ordinance has been submitted to the Board of Aldermen to make pedestrians heed signals. Right-hand, as well as left-hand turns may have to be prohibited at corners protected by stop-go signals where there is heavy pedestrian traffic, Hoffman predicted.

Elimination of all parking in Grand boulevard, between Laclede and Easton avenues, has speeded traffic there, the report says, and 10 to 15 minutes' lost time of street cars has been eliminated, while bus running time has been cut three minutes, and accidents reduced 75 per cent.

An improved plan for vehicular use of the triangular Pine-Lawton cutoff, at Grand boulevard, has been devised, and will be put in operation when repaving of West Pine boulevard is completed this summer. Both legs of the cutoff will be thrown open to the heavy streams of rush-hour traffic.

All of the 18 boulevards, where cross-traffic must stop, measuring 50 miles in the aggregate, have been posted with 700 reflector signs.

A study is being made as to how the Traffic Council, which was knocked out last year by a Supreme Court decision, can be re-established legally. Another study is being made with a view to simplifying and codifying traffic and kindred ordinances.

REPORT ATTEMPT TO CUT THE LEVEE AT M'CREE, LA.

Soldiers Sent to Prevent Violence on Word That Levee Guard Is Too Exhausted to Resist.

REFUGEES LEAVE THREATENED ZONE

Banks of Atchafalaya River Crumbling in Rain—Two Lives Lost When Boat Hits Pier and Sinks.

By the Associated Press.

BATON ROUGE, La., May 21.—Unnamed parties tonight were attempting to cut the levee between Neita and Simmesport, on the west bank of the Atchafalaya River, opposite McCrea, scene of the principal fight to save the east side from inundation, according to a naval radio message received here tonight from J. E. Pettaway, Government engineer.

The cut, if effected, "would cause great damage," the message said, and the men there were too exhausted to prevent the carrying out of the threat. Immediate aid was requested. In response, 10 guardsmen were dispatched from Organza, about 15 miles away.

The radiogram did not state whether an attempt to cut the levees had already been made or was about to be made. It has been rumored that McCrea has been strongly in favor of cutting the west side in the hope that McCrea would be saved.

2000 Levee Workers Battling to Save 2,000,000 Acres of Land.

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, May 21.—Two thousand men were battling in a rain today at McCrea, on the east bank of the Atchafalaya River to hold back the stream. The current was threatening the embankments that protect 3,000,000 acres and 107,000 persons in Louisiana's sugar belt.

Great chunks of the embankment were swept away from time to time, but each time the men had anticipated the slough and the water came against new ramparts. The endangered section is 120 to 150 miles northwest of New Orleans.

Refugees already were coming out of the threatened section. Baton Rouge concentration camps were receiving hundreds of persons from Point Coupee parish, where women and children, aged and infirm, were sent out in response to the warning issued by John M. Parker, flood relief dictator.

A radio message received at State flood relief headquarters said two lives apparently were lost when a river boat struck a pier opposite Simmesport and sank.

Four barges which the boat was towing were still adrift.

The flood waters had reached a point more than 75 miles south of the breaks at Bayou des Glaises and Melville, and a solid sheet of water spread over the fields of the Evangeline country from the highlands in the vicinity of Breaux Bridge for 20 miles eastward to the levees.

Down the Teche signs of uneasiness were manifested. Numerous warnings were beginning to shake the belief of residents that the flood would not reach that section. Two hundred and fifty people already had evacuated Loreauville, far down the Teche.

Peter Anderson Estate, $6335.

Former State Senator Peter Anderson, who died March 22, left an estate valued at $6335, as shown in an inventory filed in Probate Court yesterday. It consists of realty located at 4491 Penrose street appraised at $6000, corporation stock with a par value of $150, bonds worth $100 and chattels valued at $85. Mr. Anderson was a plastering contractor. He left his estate to his widow, Mrs. Frances Anderson, 2044A Adelaide avenue.

SACASA REPORTED TO BE ON WAY TO COSTA RICA

Washington Uninformed Whether Nicaraguan Leader Has Broken Connection With Civil War.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Departure for Costa Rica of Dr. Juan Sacasa, former vice president of Nicaragua, and leader of the Liberal army in the recent civil war, was reported to the State Department today by Admiral Latimer, commanding American naval forces in Nicaragua.

Sacasa was reported to have sailed from Puerto Cabezas in a United Fruit Co. ship, Wawa, for Port Limon. He was accompanied by a party of 27 said to include the Liberal leader's cabinet.

The State Department was without details of Sacasa's journey and officials declined to indicate any belief that his departure would terminate his connection with the civil war.

Carefree Vacations
Colorado
A restful, inspiring vacation trip—free of travel cares! Through the Rocky Mountains of Colorado and the Wonderland of Yellowstone! Yellowstone-Colorado tours leave St. Louis Union Station every Sunday and Thursday throughout the summer. 13 days—all expenses—$229.01.
These Yellowstone-Colorado tours make a circle of the West, following the Burlington Route from Chicago to Denver. The program provides a day of motoring in and about Denver, and a day exploring the attractions of the Colorado Springs region—the Garden of the Gods—Seven Falls—Cave of the Winds—to the summit of Pikes Peak!
Then comes a remarkable 200-mile motor trip—the Grand Circle Tour of Rocky Mountain National Park and its Alpine scenery, crossing the Continental Divide twice through snow-covered mountain passes!
From Rocky Mountain National Park the Burlington Route leads through mighty mountains—the Rockies on the west and the Big Horns on the east—to the Wonderland of Yellowstone.
Geysers shooting water high into the air—clay volcanoes—weird caverns—hot pools of blue and green—terraces—boiling springs that hiss and sputter—these are a few of the countless thrills of Yellowstone! There are wild animals too—friendly bears! And beauty everywhere. The Grand Canyon of the Yellowstone is a miracle of scenery.
After 4½ days in Yellowstone, the Northern Pacific will take you home through the romantic, bold Northwest.
The cost? Only $229.01 from St. Louis—all expenses, except small personal gratuities. $9 less if you go the Lodge way through Yellowstone.
Let us help you plan a vacation—free from care! A Burlington Tour eliminates all travel bother. You pay a lump sum and everything is done for you. Please mail the coupon and we'll be glad to send you complete information.

the towering shafts that men have reared in this Empress City of the Great Lakes, lie fields and forests and lakes and streams.

Here, indeed, is a natural playground so richly endowed that to catalog its charms is to challenge the credulity. For instance, a single county adjoining Detroit, has over 300 lakes!

From Detroit you drive over the finest roads in all the land. Northward, you'll travel the world's greatest highway—one that accommodates four lanes of traffic in each direction!

Whichever way you go you may drive in comfort and safety by day or night and when you wish to stop, find a pleasant place to dine and rest.

North and East—Michigan's 5,000 small lakes—the silver beaches of Lakes Huron and Ste. Claire—the mineral baths of Mt. Clemens.

West—the old Botsford tavern preserved by Henry Ford—the Mother Goose cottage at Northville—the Ford Airport. South and West—Beautiful Belle Isle—Canada, just across the river—Grosse Ile with its country estates, golf courses and yachting—historic Lake Erie.

To and from Detroit you may travel as you please—drive your own car, or hire one to drive—travel by rail, by motor bus, by boat or by air. Whichever way, the Road to Pleasure Land is yours.

CALIFORNIA, this year, is one business day nearer the East, by train, than it has ever been before.

And north, east and south of San Francisco there are fine new California highways—to Yosemite, the giant redwoods, the Sierras and the beaches.

You could spend a whole summer enjoyably among the attractions of this metropolitan seaport—America's coolest summer city—but when you get here you'll find a thousand miles of mountains and a thousand miles of seacoast to invite you on.

Plan to include the entire Pacific Coast on your trip. It's well worth doing. This free booklet will show you dozens of photographs of California's scenic wonders—and tell you how to see them all, easily, from San Francisco. Send for your free copy—today!

BELLANCA PILOT GETS READY, THEN CALLS OFF FLIGHT

After Donning Flying Togs, Chamberlin Is Dissuaded by Friends From Paris Attempt.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 21.—Gasoline spilled from the Bellanca plane, Columbia, as it was towed across Roosevelt Field, L. I., caught fire tonight and for a time threatened the plane with destruction.

The plane was on the way from Roosevelt Field to its hangar at Curtiss Field, after Clarence D. Chamberlin had announced indefinite postponement of an attempt to hop off for Paris.

Gasoline that had been drained off formed a puddle and was believed to have been ignited by a cigarette.

Firemen rushed to the blaze, and when they arrived found that the gasoline fire had burned itself out. The plane was not damaged.

Chamberlin had announced that he would take the hop-off tonight less than two hours after Charles Lindbergh landed in Paris. He had his plane hauled to the runway and was telephoning officials for permission to use the runway, when friends gathered about him to dissuade him.

They showed him that while weather was good tonight, unfavorable conditions were predicted for tomorrow.

Also Carl Schory, secretary of the Contest Committee of the National Aeronautical Society, was discovered to have gone to Washington, and it was said that the flight would not be official unless Schory sealed the barograph.

"All right, it's all off," Chamberlin said at length. "It's off indefinitely, and when we do take off it won't be for Paris in all probability. That has been done. We'll probably fly west instead of east, perhaps to Honolulu."

Caledonian Picnic Set for Aug. 6.

The annual picnic and field day of the Caledonian Society of St. Louis is to be held in Forest Park Highlands Aug. 6. A committee consisting of Robert J. Keith, John W. Moir and William Watson will arrange a program of entertainment and athletic features. The latter events will be held in Forest Park.

COLOMBIA ASSAILS U. S. FOR MEDDLING IN LATIN AMERICA

Delegate at Geneva Says Intervention Causes Uneasiness and Turns Bonds to Other Markets.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, May 21.—An attack on the State Department of the United States, charging that it was intervening in the internal affairs of Latin-America, was made at the International Economic Conference today by Antonio de Narez, Colombian delegate.

Speaking before the conference during discussion of the reports of the commissions on agriculture, commerce and industry, he urged Europe to interest itself in the development of Colombia. He asserted that, although the New York market was fully open to Colombia and about $10,000,000 was invested in Colombian securities, "certain intervention by the Department of State in the internal affairs of Latin-America," inspired the Colombians with apprehensions which led them "to desire to have Colombian securities quoted concurrently in other markets."

Senor de Narez urged the League of Nations to solve problems of population and emigration, declaring that Colombia had immense areas for foreign labor, industry and capital.

The speech caused a sensation at the session, the interest being rivalled only by the action of the soviet delegates in voting against all the reports presented. It had been understood that they would merely abstrain from voting.

This agreement was reached in the form of a compromise resolution, drawn by Roland W. Boyden of the American delegation, which stated that participation of the delegates of all countries at the conference, "irrespective of differences in their economic systems is a happy augury for the pacific commercial co-operation of all nations."

This resolution was adopted by the co-ordination committee after lengthy debate in which Henry M. Robinson, also of the American delegation played an active part in smoothing the troubled waters.

The general impression was that it was American initiative which had prevented the Russians from bolting the conference, as they had threatened to do.

Russians Accept Compromise.

Although the Russians fought tenaciously for their original resolution which demanded, not only recognition of the co-existence of the communistic and capitalistic systems and their peaceful co-operation, but also the recommendation that all nations develop commercial relations with the Soviet Union, they finally accepted the compromise.

LAST BARRIER AGAINST M'CRAY'S PAROLE REMOVED

Indictment Charging Former Indiana Governor with Embezzlement Dismissed.

By the Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 21.—Federal District Judge Baltzell today dismissed an indictment charging former Gov. Warren T. McCray with embezzlement of $29,000 of the funds of the Discount and Deposit Bank of Kentland. The action was taken on motion of United States District Attorney Ward.

McCray has been recommended by the Federal Parole Board at Atlanta for parole, having served three years of a 10-year sentence for using the mails to defraud.

It is understood dismissal of the charge removes the last barrier in the way of a parole for McCray.

Again—Mobiloil!

Lindbergh uses Gargoyle Mobiloil in thrilling airplane leap across the Atlantic from New York to Paris

ONCE more we thrill to the accomplishment of an American aviator.

In one great leap of 3600 miles, Captain Charles Lindbergh---alone---crossed the Atlantic from New York to Paris in a few hours. This flight followed his record-breaking flight from San Diego to New York.

In this epoch-making flight, Gargoyle Mobiloil "B" was used to lubricate the single Wright Whirlwind engine of the Ryan plane, "The Spirit of St. Louis."

Thus another great adventure is written into the vivid history of American aviation in which Mobiloil has played its part.

When Commander Byrd flew to the North Pole—he used Mobiloil "B".
When the U. S. Army flyers flew around the world in 1924—they used Mobiloil "B".
When Lieutenant Maughan in 1924 flew across the United States "from dawn-to-dusk"—he used Mobiloil "B".
When Captain Lindbergh flew from San Diego to New York—he used Mobiloil "B".
And now—when Captain Lindbergh flies from New York to Paris—he uses Mobiloil "B".

Lubrication was a vital factor in this spectacular flight across the open ocean as it was in the previous epoch-making flights.

There could be no mistake. The single Wright engine must function perfectly. The slightest mishap meant instant danger, perhaps the end of the flight in the waters of the Atlantic.

The entire lubrication problem of the Ryan plane was placed in the hands of the Vacuum Oil Company. Mobiloil "B" was prescribed. After careful preparation the great attempt was made.

Correct Lubrication did its part. The flight is a success. The ocean has been crossed. The longest non-stop flight in history has been made.

The Gargoyle Mobiloil Engineers are constantly and directly associated with aeronautic developments just as they have been associated with automobile developments from the beginning. As lubrication experts, we prescribe the correct oil for the newest development in aircraft engines just as we prescribe the correct oil for the car you drive.

The oil used in this flight was not a special oil. It was the same Gargoyle Mobiloil "B" which with the other grades of Mobiloil is on sale by good dealers everywhere.

Put scientific lubrication to work in your car. Mobiloil proves not only the safest oil to use but the most economical lubrication per mile and per year.

WHISKERY AND SIR HARRY ASSURED FOR AMERICAN DERBY CHANCE SHOT ALSO LOOMS AS STARTER

Every Important 3-Year-Old in U. S. Included in 83 Nominations for $25,000 Event.

By Clement Claub.

Nominations for the $25,000 added American Derby, to be run at Washington Park, June 18, were announced today by C. W. Hay, general manager of the Illinois Jockey Club, operators of the Washington Park race track. The race closed for nominations April 30, with 83, which includes every 3-year-old of importance.

Winners of the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Coffroth Handicap are eligible to compete in the rich American Derby which is to be run over the true Derby distance, one mile and a half.

General Manager Hay already has received the assurance that Whiskery, winner of the Kentucky Derby and Sir Harry, winner of the Coffroth Handicap, will be on hand for the event. Whiskery will be accompanied by Bostonian, winner of the Preakness and which ran unplaced in the Kentucky Derby.

Every horse that went to the post in the Kentucky Derby is eligible for the American. Chance Shot and Sir Harry, two of the leading 3-year-olds in the country, which were not named for the Kentucky classic, are intended starters in the American Derby. J. E. Widener, who owns Chance Shot, will ship the colt to Fairmount Park for the Fairmount Derby and after that race will send the crack horse to Washington Park.

Widener and Harry Payne Whitney head the list of nominators with six each. Widener has a strong hand in Osmand, Chance Shot, Gormond, Royal Play, Laddie and Kiev. Whitney is represented by Whiskery, Bostonian Byrd, Night Mail, Afterglow, and Valorous.

Walter J. Salmon has named five of his best horses for the event. Black Panther, which finished ninth in the Kentucky Derby, Northland, Teheran, Murzim and Golden Powder will carry the Eastern sportsman's colors.

Mrs. H. P. Whitney, who races under the name of Greentree Stable, the only woman owner with nominations in the American Derby, has named Saxon, Adios and Cantankerous to carry her colors. The horses do not measure up to the class of the other entrants and may not be sent to Washington Park for the rich classic. Saxon was sent to Kentucky to race in the Derby, but developed a slight fever before the race and was excused from starting. The horse was shipped back to Belmont Park and was unloaded in good shape, but no attempt has been made to get him in racing condition.

Edward B. McLean, Washington and Cincinnati sportsman, will rely on Jock, which led the field in the Kentucky Derby at a merry clip for a mile, and War Eagle, to carry his silks in the Washington Park feature.

Other leading owners with nominations in the Derby are: H. Teller Archibald, J. M. Camden, William Dupont Jr., Sage Stable, Rancocas Stable and Hal Price Headley.

Only five fillies are eligible for the American Derby. The best of the band are H. T. Archibald's roan Candy Queen, and William Dupont's Fair Star, leading 2-year-old money winner of last season. H. P. Headley has named Handy Mandy, a good filly, but which does not class with the former two. The other fillies entered are Ledge and Rosetta Stone. The latter is a horse that won four straight races at Miami last winter.

The American Derby was worth $100,000 last year, but this year's running has been reduced to $25,000. With 12 starters the race will be worth $24,775 to the winner; $3000 will go to the second horse, $1500 to the th[illegible] and $800 to the fourth. Starters will be named through the entry box the day before the race.

In addition to first money the winning owner will receive a silver trophy.

Last year's running was won by Edward R. Bradley's Boot to Boot and was worth $89,000 to the winner.

COMMITTEE TO CONDUCT 26 MISSOURI VALLEY TENNIS TOURNEYS NAMED

The committee to conduct the twenty-sixth Missouri Valley tennis championship this year will have as its chairman Dr. William B. Moody of Omaha where the tournament will be played. Joseph W. Ivy of Kansas and Davison Obear of this city, president and secretary, respectively, of the Missouri Valley Tennis Association, are the two nonresident members of the committee.

In addition to Dr. Moody other Omaha members of the championship committee will be T. F. Kennedy, Conrad Young, Sam S. Caldwell, Arthur Scribner, Malcom Baldridge, Casper Offutt, Ray Phelps, Wilbur Fullaway, W. B. Millard Jr. and Virgil Northwall. The women's championship will be under direction of Mrs. Arthur Scribner, Mrs. W. B. Millard Jr. and Misses Jean Palmer, Helen Hoover and Anita Currey, all of Omaha.

The Missouri Valley championships will be staked on the seven courts of the Omaha Tennis Club. Preliminary round matches will be played on the courts of the Omaha Field Club which was the scene of the first national clay court championship in 1910 and the Missouri Valley championship in 1922.

According to present indications St. Louis will have a splendid entry in the 1927 championship. Wray Brown and Fred Josties will participate while Robert Norton and Edmund Serrano, two other first 10 players are also expected to compete. Mrs. Melicent Baehr and Lottie Hagemeyer already have entered the women's events.

OSAGE GOLF COURSE TO OPEN SATURDAY

Next Saturday and Sunday have been set aside by the Osage Country Club on the Big Bend boulevard as the formal opening of the completed nine holes of its 18-hole golf course. A series of sporting events have been arranged to mark the event, included in which is a special golf match between Elliott "Cotton" Whitbread and Stuart Stickney, representing Osage, and Eddie Held of Alonquin and Jimmie Manion of Riverview.

The golf match will be played Sunday, beginning at 9 a. m., and during the afternoon members of the club will take their first trip around the course.

Saturday at 2:30 p. m. a driving contest for men and women of the club will be staged at the first tee. This will be followed by swimming and diving contests in the open air pool. An informal dinner dance will be held Saturday night.

GOT $48,000 IN ST. LOUIS EASY; TO RETURN FOR MORE

"The Great Marchand" Still Has 300 Loyal Followers Out of Original Group of 1200.

Three hundred of the 1200 St. Louis men and women who paid "the great Marchand" $48,000 for a two weeks' lecture course at Moolah Temple last March on busi- success are so enthusiastic that they have joined a Marchand Club which [illegible] night for "pep fests."

The other 900, a follower of Marchand said yesterday, were not so enthusiastic. They refused to pay Marchand $5 more for the privilege of joining the Marchand Club. But, as the loyal disciples of Marchand pointed out, the 900 more or less disgruntled ones have no right to complain. They paid cash down in advance $5 for the "primary course" and $15 more for the "advanced course," and Marchand took their money and told them all his secrets of success.

Then Marchand, with his staff of half a dozen brisk money-collectors, his [illegible] charts and pamphlets, left town after assuring large audiences of clerks, salesmen, lawyers, dentists, factory executives and earnest, but unemployed young men that by following Marchand's formulas they would be rich.

Marchand Coming Back.

What Marchand's loyal followers consider most amazing is not the 48,000 cold dollars he was able to collect by giving nine lectures and a few free [illegible] weeks here, but that he expects to return next year for even more money. He has visited St. Louis three times, beginning in 1925 and each time, his admirers declare, his crowds were larger. That is the secret of the Marchand Club with its 300 members. Each member after paying $5 for the privilege is expected to spread the word of Marchand's coming next year.

Marchand—pronounced Marchawned—says his name is George E. Marchand and his address New York. A close associate interviewed here yesterday was vague as to Marchand's career. "He told me," this man said, "that he is graduate lawyer and used to be some kind of official in the Senate."

"Then I think he said he went into business," the informant went on. "I recall him saying that he made $2,000,000 before he ever started lecturing. I understand he was a successful retired business man. It's great stuff what he teaches you, though. All the 300 members of the Marchand Club are sold on him, absolutely. We met at the Chase last week. We pay $5 a year to belong to the club and $5 more if we want the business reports Marchand's organization puts out."

Has Careful System.

Marchand, it appears, works with careful system. Prior to his appearance here last March, advance agents visited small towns near St. Louis, distributing posters and circulars. Merchants of the towns were advised to take two weeks off and learn how to increase their profits by attending Marchand's lectures at Moolah Temple at the start of Marchand's lectures at $40 a course. Several "free lectures" were scheduled at Moolah Temple at the start of Marchand's campaign. In these, to large audiences, Marchand did little more than hint at the mysteries which would be disclosed after his clients paid $40 a head. After developing enthusiasm by a peppy talk on the possibilities of money-making in the business world Marchand would turn the audience over to his brisk assistants, who got students to sign on the dotted line and collected.

"I saw dentists and doctors there, and managers of departments at a large automobile plant and, the head of an oil company and lots of important men," said the Marchand enthusiast. "Marchand sold himself to them. He knows psychology and he knows how to present it in a new way. He tells you things you never thought of before. Now take one of his stories: He asks you what is the difference between a Greek and an American candy store proprietor. Well, you don't know exactly. Then he says, 'When a child comes into an American's candy store the American will dump a lot of candy on the scale and then start taking some back one piece at a time until the scale balances.'

"Marchand says that is bad psychology. He says the child thinks that all the storekeeper put in the scales should be his and when the storekeeper took some back it made a bad impression on the child. Now, says Marchand, see how different a Greek candy man does it. He drops the candy piece by piece into the scale until it balances and never takes any back. 'My how much I'm getting,' Marchand says the child will think. And it's true, too. You can figure that out for yourself.

Make Money, His Motto.

"Another thing Marchand told the boys that they'd never be real successes until they made a lot of money. He didn't fool around with the usual palaver. He said that money was success. But he told them they had a right to a good time, too, and they should take a certain part of their lives for play. That fellow certainly sold himself to everybody who heard him. Take another thing he said, for instance, just to show what a good psychologist he is.

"He said, 'Look at the signs in the stores which say the customer is always right. They're the bunk. They don't mean anything. The customer isn't always right. Business men know it. But what they don't know is that science proves there are three men out of every hundred who will always be wrong. Nothing will please them. It's not worth trying.' So he went on and proved that a business man really studies psychology he'll make a success."

The principles which Marchand, according to his sales literature, left in St. Louis as $48,000 worth of business wisdom included comments on "The secret of all human actions and passions; expressing your money-making ideas; finding the Pay Streak in you; how to accomplish 10 times more; how to X-ray men and women with your eyes; confidence, poise, popularity, power; picking a winner, secrets of a happy married life; supreme life and health; Wall street methods; marketing your ability for the highest price; shortest and quickest ways to turn your ability into cash."

Marchand describes himself as "a country boy named George" who became "a successful business coach."

ENGLAND DEPORTS 'PRINCESS'

Sends Back to U. S. Pretended Relative of Wales.

By the Associated Press.

LIVERPOOL, England, May 21.—The self-styled Princess Nadine de Charrow, who was ordered returned to the United States by the Home Office, was deported today aboard the steamship Cedric, on which she arrived in Liverpool on May 16.

On sailing from New York May 8, the Princess said she was a daughter of Grand Duchess Udoxia of Russia and was related to the Prince of Wales. She was also reported to have said she was going to visit King George of England.

LONDON SEEKS REASON FOR RISE IN AMERICAN DOLLARS

There Seems to Be No Reason to Suppose Upturn Is Concerned With British Government Purchases, Says Reviewer.

Special Wireless to New York Evening Post.

LONDON, May 21.—Arthur W. Kiddy, editor of Bankers Magazine and financial editor of the London Morning Post, in weekly financial review says:

"The growing strength of our bank return indicates that the bank rate already would be 4 per cent but for certain considerations only visible to those having a comprehensive knowledge of the facts of the present situation. The first and fundamental fact is the belief that no period since the war has presented more complex and difficult problems than the present one, necessitating the maintenance of strong gold reserves here. Another is that, while London's financial prestige is high, the dominating factors are New York and Paris, especially New York, because while the movements here of a few millions of gold either way affect the market rates, your figures are so great that neither gain nor loss of a similar amount would have immediate effect.

"Nevertheless, some points in our position give ground for consideration and wondering as to whether any disturbing factor which caused time deposits to be shifted to call deposits might have a disturbing effect. Meanwhile, the immediate factor operating here is the weakness of American exchange which is causing some persons to imagine that the Federal Reserve Board must have granted France sterling credits against gold held here, which is being converted into dollars.

"There seems to be no reason whatever to suppose that the rise of the dollars is concerned with British Government purchases, as these proceed regularly and always far ahead of time. The rise of the dollar probably is accentuated by unwillingness of the Bank of France to sell foreign currencies.

"Our trade is gradually improving, but simply fulfilling expectations which have never anticipated a boom until labor conditions had become very different from those now prevailing.

"Your economic position is rather baffling especially as to whether it must be considered that you have inflatation. Your aggregate commodity prices are remarkably stable but irregularity of the relativity of prices in the different industries attracts attention. Moreover, having regard to the intensity of your production and greater productivity per capita, it is argued that, but for inflated credit, your commodity prices should have fallen further. Those who adopt the inflation idea urge as arguments the growth of the installment payment system, land speculations and forced consumption by excessively high wages. On the other hand, it is considered that the general policy of the Federal Reserve System has been against inflation, its plan being to correct any excessive effects of America's huge gold influx. Some persons here assert there is danger of political control of the Federal Reserve Board, in which connection there are some conjectures as to whether the coming presidential election year will be a boom year.

"It is clear that much now depends upon the Government's statement concerning the Arcos raid as to future business relations with Russia.

"Thursday's big gold efflux emphasizes everything that has been said concerning the abnormal character of the monetary situation and the need for caution.

VEGETABLE MARKET

Potato Trade Light, But Tare Is Better.

ST. LOUIS PRODUCE ROW, May 21.—A better feeling prevailed in the potato market which reacted slightly after previous day's drop. Track, however, was light, owing to week-end. A few sales of No. 1 Southern triumphs were reported made at $4.75 to $4.85. Sales to arrive were reported being made today at slightly better basis. Lighter receipts in the cattle division exerted a beneficial effect on same classes here the past week, although others, as was the case with mixed yearlings and heifers showed some loss as compared with the previous week's close. Stronger prices were featured in beef steers, cows and Western steers, while bulls and stocker cattle held to a little changed basis. Most beef steers sold in a spread of $9 to $11 for the week with occasional sales good enough to bring $11.25 and as high as $11.75, which represented the top. This spread covered most deals in the native division, while Western steers, of which a good part of the run was comprised ranged $7.60 to $9.25. Steady prices at which mixed yearlings and heifers opened the week gave way to declines in later session until late in the week when an upward reaction set in which reovered most of the earlier declines. Top on mixed consignments reached $10.75, while full load lots of heifers sold as high as $10.50. A bulk of all sales was caught at $8.50 to $10.25. An active demand in force on beef and butcher cows maintained strong prices on this class throughout and closing sales in some spots showed 25c advance. Canner and cutter grades failed to share in this strength, however, and were no more than steady. Top beef cows reached $9 sparingly, while bulk sold from $6.50 to $8.50. Cutter cows made $5 to $5.75 and canners $4.25 to $4.75. Bulls for the most part found a steady market all week, but showed weaker tendencies toward the close. A top of $7 was maintained on bologna bulls throughout, with bulk going at $6 to $7. Beef and butcher bulls made $7 to $7.50, with light butcher animals up to $8.50. Stocker and feeder cattle went through the period at no essential change, steers finding a rather slow demand, while she stuff moved readily. Veal calves after earlier fluctuations closed the week 75c lower on tops, first cuts in proportion and heavies and canner yearlings not changed. Bulk best calves sold on the close at $11.50, while first cuts brought $9.

Receipts of swine the past week were lighter than the week before, which gave the salesmen a chance to work values to higher levels. Total supply aggregated 81,902 as compared with 93,466 a week ago and 72,806 a year ago. Quality of the bulk of the offerings was right good. The market was considerably better the past week, from a salesman's viewpoint. Values were trending stronger, the most advance, however, was shown on medium and heavy hogs. Light hogs reached a $10.15 top Friday with the bulk of light hogs $10 to $10.10. As compared with last Saturday, this was 15c to 20c higher. Medium and heavy hogs at the close of the week's Friday session were 25c to 35c higher than last week's close. A lightened order buying demand was experienced, but packers bought with freedom, offsetting this drawback. The bulk of light hogs went for the period at $10, while low on extreme heavies was $9.25. Pigs and light lights featured stronger tendencies, and closed the period 50c to 75c over last week. Best kinds made $9.25 to $9.75 for the week. Inferior grades sold downward to $8. A good demand and a moderate supply was the strengthening factor in this class. Packing sows held fairly well and closed the week around steady, spots a little stronger. Best grades bulked for the week at $8.50, with plain grades down to $8.25. Stags mostly $7.50 to $8.50.

Receipts of sheep and lambs the past week were heavier than last week and last year. Total supply for the week was 7908 as compared with 5179 last week and 6092 same day last year. Quality of the offerings was medium to good, with bulk of the offerings spring lambs. With the exception of the closing session lambs were continually trending lower the past week. Values slipped from a $15.50 top at last week's close to a $14.50 top this week on clipped lambs. Spring lambs topped at $18 last week as o $17.25 this week and at the close of the week $17 was the best price obtainable. With an increased supply of fat sheep on hand and only a fair demand, values on the weightier grades dropped a flat 50c. Best light weight kinds under 120 lbs. remained steady. Bulk of clipped lambs sold for the period at $14.25 to $15. Culls and medium grades sold in a spread of $10 to $14. Spring lambs sales were made largely at $17, with plainer grades ranging downward to $16.50. In the fore part of the week $17.50 was obtainable for choice lambs, but at the close of he period $17, stopped the best. Culls and medium grades sold mainly from $12.50 to $14. Fat ewes 120 lbs. and under $7.50, 120 to 140 lbs, $7, 140 lbs. and over $6 and down. Choppers and canners $1.50 to $4, with bucks making $5 to $5.50, largely. Quotations—Slaughter Stock (clipped basis)—Good top choice lambs $13.75 to $14.50, medium to good $13 to $13.75, plain to medium $12 to $13, culls and common $10 to $11.50, skips $8 to $10. Good to choice aged western wether $9 to $10, good fat southern kinds $8.50 to $9.50, thin to fair kinds $4.50 to $7.50. Good to choice mutton ewes $7 to $7.50, medium to good $6.50 to $7, plain to medium $6 to $6.50, choppers and bucks $4 to $5.50, canners $1.50 to $3. Horses and Mules.

Trading in horses and mules proved very satisfactory here the past week from the sellers' point of view, prices being maintained on a firm basis on all classes and even the plainer kinds and smooth-mouthed horses selling fairly active. A good many buying interests were represented and a good clearance was effected. Even cheap, smooth-mouthed horses found ready outlet, although the best demand was featured in good wagon horses and big horses, good aged work horses and young farm horses and mares. First-class riding horses were in fair demand, but trade was not quite as brisk on the commoner kinds.

Common mules made up the biggest part of the run of this kind but sold readily. Offerings of 1100 lbs. and over of good quality and 14.2 to 15 hand pack and mine mules also in demand.

Native Horse Quotations: Good to choice draft, $135@165; medium to good draft, $75@135; good to choice chunks $75@100; medium to good chunks $50@65; choice Southern horses $25@50; fair to good Southern horses $20@25; smooth-mouthed Southerners $15@25; plugs, $5@15.

Native Mule quotations: Draft mules, 16 to 17 hands, $175@250; mine mules, 15 to 16.2 hands, $125@160; cotton mules, mares, fat, good hair 16 to 16.2 hands, $125@150; cotton mules, mares, fat, good hair, 15 to 15.2 hands $100@125; cotton mules, mares, fat, good hair 14.2 to 15 hands, $85@100; cotton mules mares, rough-haired, 15 to 15.2 hands, $65@90; cotton mules mares, rough-haired, 14.2 to 15 hands, $45@65; horse mules, $15@20 per head less than above quotations; farm mules, broke, good bone 15.3 to 16.2 hands $110@135; medium farm mules, $80@100; farm mules, thin, half broke, 15.2 to 16 hands $50@75; small common mules $15@40.

WHEAT AND CORN HIGHER IN TRADE DURING WEEK

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAOG, May 21.—The wheat market developed strength today after an early trade. There was the usual week-end realizing at the opening by longs and there was further selling prompted by the weaker Liverpol market as well as the more favorable weather of Canada. On this break, good commission-house buying developed by reports of high winds and dust storms from Kansas and other crop damage news from the Southwest. Above $1.40 for July selling increased. The market closed 1⅝c to 1⅛c higher, and for the week 2⅛c to 4⅜c higher; May, $1.44⅛ to $1.44¼; July, $1.39¾ to $1.40; September, $1.37⅝ to $1.37½.

The undertone of the market has been strong all week because of unfavorable crop news from the Southwest and unfavorable weather for seeding in Canada.

A New York exporter wired that demand was extraordinarily active for Saturday and mostly for United States wheat. He said he alone sold 100,000 bushels Duluth spring and 100,000 bushels red winters for export. Sales of 25,000 bushels were made to go to store. Milling demand was quiet. Sales of 25,000 bushels were made to go to store. Milling demand was quiet. Flour buyers are said to be overbought and are showing little interest in either old or new crop flour at the moment. Local mills said new business is slow, but that shipping directions on old sales are coming more freely.

Corn trade was heavy. Commission houses were good sellers at the start, presumably taking profits and because of the better weather. On the dip, locals bought because of the rally in wheat and the forecast for rainy weather over the entire belt, but they were unable to digest offerings put into the pit early. The close was 1c to 1¼c lower and for the week 2¼c to 3⅝c higher; May, 88½c to 88⅝c; July, 91½c to 91⅝c. Shipping demand was good with sales of 187,000 bushels.

Oats were under liquidating pressure because of the weakness in corn and prices had a lower trend. Some week-end short covering caused a little recovery. The close was ⅛c to ⅝c lower and for the week unchanged to 1⅜c lower. May, 48c to 48¼c; July, 49⅝c; September, 46⅝c to 46¾c. Shipping sales were only 35,000 bushels.

Provisions were easier with corn. Lard closed 5c lower.

CORN SELLS DOWN AS WHEAT RISES

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, May 21.—Wheat futures closed higher after a lower start and corn futures ranged lower and closed at loss.

Week end realizing and lower Liverpool brought lower start as did more favorable Canadian weather the reaction being based on report of wind and dust storms in Kansas and other unfavorable crop news from Southwest as well as forecast of showers in Manitoba and Saskatchewan. Better weather was factor in corn price trend.

Profit taking was a factor in lower range to corn of the recent rise. Wheat opened lower but recovered and rose substantially on reported unfavorable weather indications Northwest, with crop damage talk from Southwest. Winnipeg was up ⅝c to 1⅝c early.

July hard wheat opened at $1.38; Sept. hard, $1.35⅝; July corn, 95⅝c; Sept. corn, 96c.

Liverpool closed ½d lower on May wheat; ¼d on July and ⅛d on October.

Local wheat receipts, which were 56,000 bushels, compared with 68,600 a week ago and 40,600 last year, included 9 cars local and 31 through. Corn receipts, which were 32,200 bushels, compared with 103,600 a week ago and 71,400 last year, included 22 cars local and one through. Oats receipts, which were 26,000 bushels, compared with 50,000 a week ago and 74,000 last year, included 10 cars local and three through. Hay receipts were 11 cars local and 2 through.

The three Northwestern markets combined had 652 cars of wheat, compared with 633 a week ago and 823 a year ago, Minneapolis receiving 153 cars, Duluth 70 and Winnipeg 429.

Stocks in St. Louis Public Elevators amounted to 1,008,826 bushels of wheat 1,468,035 bushels of corn, 397,462 bushels of oats.

Grain stocks comprised 240,951 bushels of No. 1 red winter wheat, 558,629 bushels of No. 2 red winter wheat, 31,278 bushels of No. 1 hard winter wheat, 31,327 bushels of No. 2 hard winter wheat, 45,983 bushels of No. 2 corn, 478,520 bushels of No. 2 yellow corn, 27,745 bushels of No. 2 white corn, 38,641 bushels of No. 2 white oats, 126,815 bushels of No. 3 white oats, 1568 bushels of No. 2 rye.

Primary receipts of wheat were 785,000 bushels, compared with 712,000 a week ago and 556,000 last year; corn receipts were 381,000 bushels, compared with 385,000 a week ago and 353,000 last year; oats receipts were 393,000 bushels, compared with 489,000 a week ago and 460,000 last year; wheat shipments were 582,000 bushels, compared with 938,000 a week ago and 1,038,000 last year; corn shipments were 337,000 bushels, compared with 344,000 a week ago and 454,000 last year; oats shipments were 882,000 bushels, compared with 424,000 a week ago and 623,000 last year.

In the cash grain section Saturday, soft wheat was steady to 1c higher, the inquiry for soft wheat being a little better. There were scattered shipping orders for starchy types, and some local milling inquiry, but buyers reluctantly paid the advanced prices. Dark descriptions and ordinary qualities were slow and some No. 2 red was carried over. There was no hard wheat oferd. Market nominally 1c higher. Demand light. No. 2 hard 13 per cent protein was offered to arrive basis 18¼c over Kansas City July price delivered. Corn was steady to 1c lower, which was not a surprise because of recent advance. There was fair elevator, mill and shipping demand for the offerings, which were not large. Oats were about steady, considering the quality of offerings. Receipts were light, with demand somewhat improved, shippers and elevators buying. There still was a carry-over though a part of recent accumulations was disposed of by holders.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 21.—The Evening Post in its copyrighted weekly financial review, says:

"Rejection of the Loree consolidation plan by the Interstate Commerce Commission left Wall Street in a very different mood from that when the Van Sweringin proposal was turned down early in March last year. That block to a merger proposal threw the financial district into turmoil and precipitated the memorable collapse of the great bull market. Mr. Loree's failure so far to tie Kansas City Southern, Missouri, Kansas and Texas, and the St. Louis Southwestern roads into one system this week had little apparent effect on the stock market except temporarily to depress the price for certain issues directly involved. Announcement of the news actually was followed by a vigorous upward movement in leading railroad stocks. The difference lies, of course, in the realization that opposition to specific proposals is based on matters technical rather than fundamental. In consequence market followers have confidence that difficulties can be ironed out eventually where consolidation is in the public interest. The decision does, nevertheless, inspire greater faith in the stocks of powerful railroads than in those dependent upon a happy marriage for a bright future.

Spectacular Gains Continue.

"Opinions on the future of the stock market vary widely, but meanwhile spectacular gains in sections of the list continue. As evidence of a satisfactory money position in the months ahead multiplies, the stock market shows less disposition to reflect news of minor changes in industry. That prices have gone forward despite the Mississippi flood, over-production in oil, rejection of the Loree consolidation plan and the Japanese troubles show plainly enough how firm is the belief in the continuation of a comfortable money position. This ease has continued in the face of a persistent growth in bank credit that has lifted the total of loans and investments of reporting member banks recently to the highest level on record. It is interesting to note that the expansion of member bank credit has not been accompanied by an increase in the demand for reserve bank credit which at $1,000,000,000 is lower than at anytime in the last two years. Explanation for the enormous expansion in member bank credit lies in the heavy inflow of gold this year. Net imports for 1927 to date total $115,000,000 not counting of course, the $60,000,000 purchase by the Federal Reserve system.

Tide of New Issues Rises.

"The tide of new capital issues offered for public subscription rises higher and higher as the weeks pass and for 1927 to date totals $3,118,000,000. Never in history for a similar period has the volume of new capital issues reached a total so large. In the corresponding period last year the aggregate amount was $2,340,000,000. And still the prospect is for further offerings of large volume in the weeks immediately ahead. Negotiations now are on for substantial loans to different foreign countries and domestic borrowers. At the moment the problem that confronts bankers is not how to sell new issues, but how to protect investors against too free a flow of securities not in the highest quality group. To this end bankers now are scrutinizing requests for loans more carefully than heretofore and as time goes on doubtless this cautionary attitude will spread. Sales managers in the distributing houses find it exceedingly difficult to find enough issues to satisfy the appetite of investors.

The situation has led many authorities to believe that yields eventually to fall to levels that prevailed 25 years ago.

Commodity Price Trend.

"As the year wears on the trend of commodity prices is followed more closely by those who recognize how intimately the movement of prices is related to the prosperity trend. Notwithstanding pronounced gains of late in certain agricultural groups the general level of prices continues to fall gently. Some authorities contend that the downward movement in commodities is destined to squeeze out small concerns to an increasing extent and that ultimately even some of the larger companies will find it difficult to introduce economics enough to offset the unfavorable trend.

Active Market Saturday.

"Speculative operations were resumed with increased vigor not only in high priced specialties but in all parts of the general list in one of the most active short sessions in years on the Stock Exchange today. New high records were established in a long list of industrial and railroad shares, not the least prominent of which was U. S. Steel which pressed forward to the highest level ever recorded in a burst of buying at the start of the second hour. Profit taking in the last few minutes caused recessions from the best prices of the day in many active issues, but these offerings were quickly absorbed in most instances. The tone at the end remained firm.

New High Records.

"New high records were reached all through the list as a result of an expansion in buying orders in the first hour in the face of a scarcity of offerings. The demand for stocks was not limited to any particular group, but was spread over pivotal industrials as well as many recently favored specialties and rail shares. Several sharp advances took place. Pittsburg and West Virginia shares, for instance, continued to soar in sensational fashion. New York Central sold at the highest level in years, while Louisville & Nashville pushed through to a new top. Case Threshing resumed its upward course, and Houston Oil continued to mount to higher levels. Brooklyn Union Gas developed activity and set a new high, but Laclede dipped slightly in early trading. International Nickel was bought in large blocks and climbed to a new high, while Lambert was unusually active and strong.

Some Narrow Ranges.

"Some of the better known stocks held within narrower limits, however, General Motors and Hudson fluctuating unevenly. U. S. Steel came to life again, duplicating its previous high for all time before attracting sufficient offerings to fill the demand. The general list of investment rails, too, were quieter, though offerings were readily absorbed. Oil stocks were neglected.

Exchange Market Steady.

"Foreign exchanges maintained a steady tone in quiet trading. Sterling held steady, while French rates moved up slightly with Italian and Spanish. Japanese exchange continued its recovery.

VIGOROUS BUYING ABSENT FROM CURB

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 21.—Although quotations in the main list of stocks on the curb exchange today were well maintained within range of the high levels reached on the current upturn, there were no indications of the vigorous buying that developed on other sessions.

Some issues rose easily on moderate buying and recovered declines occasioned by the elimination of speculative accounts late yesterday. Royal Baking Powder scored an overnight gain of 3 points and Goodyear Tire moved up 1½ points. Neisner Brothers displayed early strength on a gain of 2 points while other issues of that class held steady around the preceding closing quotations.

Public Utility shares were in support at moderate improvement. Consolidated Gas of Baltimore made a new high and Electric Bond & Share and Electric Investors moved up. Commonwealth Edison sold up 1½ points to 152.

In the last hour Pullman & Co. and Electric Bond & Share and Electric Investors activity and scored gains in 1½ and 2½ points respectively.

The oil group had several strong issues. Northern Pipe Line rose 1½ points to a high for the year at 85. Wilcox rose 2½ points and New Mexico Arizona improved a point. Others held steady in quiet trading.

Foreign Exchange

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 21.—The Evening Post in its copyrighted weekly foreign exchange, says:

"There was a constant alternation between strength and weakness in nearly all the active documents this week, but the important changes at the end were to higher levels. Sterling demanded most interest because of heavy trading in the first few days, when demand fell ⅛ cent to $4.85, but banking buying from local sources absorbed all offerings at that level and the loss was almost wholly regained.

"Italian had its usual wide range, first falling to 5.37 and than having a quick advance to 5.40. Dutch exchange was weak for a time, guilder checks yielding to 39.97½, but rose to 40.00 when the rally in sterling occurred.

"Norwegian had its usual wide range, a quick decline to 25.79 being followed by a quick advance to 25.95. There was little change in the position of Swedish and Danish. French was in supply for a short period, checks then falling below 3.91, but the market improved toward the end of the week. German exchange which had been under pressure recently, showed a firmer tone, although the rate for marks is still moderately under parity. Greek exchange became weak in the past few days, falling three points to 1.31. Japanese exchange continued to demand considerable attention, chiefly because of bearish operations for Far Eastern account. The pressure continued until yesterday morning, when yen sold in Japan equal to 45.37, making a new low for the year, but bids quickly appeared in this market, carrying the yen back to 46.50 for cables. Silver exchange developed strength in the past few days, which bankers attributed to improvement in the market for the metal, but the variation in the metal were only small. Shanghai was a special feature, advancing 61.50 to 62.75. South Americans were irregular. Argentine was directed in its course by cables from Buenos Aires and dropped from 42.43 to 42.12. Havana exchange yielded 1-32 to 99.32 for cables. Canadian was also in supply and yielded 1-16 to 100.03.

"Foreign exchanges maintained a steady tone in quiet trading Saturday. Sterling held steady, while French rates moved up slightly with Italian and Spanish. Japanese exchange continued its recovery.

VIGOROUS BUYING ABSENT FROM CURB

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 21.—Although quotations in the main list of stocks on the curb exchange today were well maintained within range of the high levels reached on the current upturn, there were no indications of the vigorous buying that developed on other sessions.

Some issues rose easily on moderate buying and recovered declines occasioned by the elimination of speculative accounts late yesterday. Royal Baking Powder scored an overnight gain of 3 points and Goodyear Tire moved up 1½ points. Neisner Brothers displayed early strength on a gain of 2 points while other issues of that class held steady around the preceding closing quotations.

Public Utility shares were in support at moderate improvement. Consolidated Gas of Baltimore made a new high and Electric Bond & Share and Electric investors moved up. Commonwealth Edison sold up 1½ points to 152.

In the last hour Pullman & Co. and Electric Bond & Share and Electric Investors showed activity and scored gains in 1½ and 2½ points respectively.

The oil group had several strong issues, Northern Pipe Line rose 1½ points to a high for the year at 85. Wilcox rose 2½ points and New Mexico Arizona improved a point. Others held steady in quiet trading.

Foreign Exchange

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 21.—The Evening Post in its copyrighted weekly foreign exchange, says:

"There was a constant alternation between strength and weakness in nearly all the active documents this week, but the important changes at the end were to higher levels. Sterling demanded most interest because of heavy trading in the first few days, when demand fell ¼ cent to $4.85, but banking buying from local sources absorbed all offerings at that level andthe loss was almost wholly regained.

"Italian had its usual wide range, first falling to 5.37 and than having a quick advance to 5.40. Dutch exchange was weak for a time, guilder checks yielding to 39.97½, but rose to 40.00 when the rally in sterling occurred.

"Norwegian had its usual wide range, a decline to 25.79 being followed by a quick advance to 25.95. There was little change in the position of Swedish and Danish. French was in supply for a short period, checks then falling below 3.91, but the market improved toward the end of the week. German exchange which had been under pressure recently, showed a firmer tone, although the rate for marks is still moderately under parity. Greek exchange became weak in the past few days, falling three points to 1.31. Japanese exchange continued to demand considerable attention, chiefly because of bearish operations for Far Eastern account. The pressure continued until yesterday morning, when yen sold in Japan equal to 45.37, making a new low for the year, but bids quickly appeared in this market, carrying the yen back to 46.50 for cables. Silver exchange developed strength in the past few days, which bankers attributed to improvement in the market for the metal, but the variation in the metal were only small. Shanghai was a special feature, advancing 61.50 to 62.75. South Americans were irregular. Argentine was directed in its course by cables from Buenos Aires and dropped from 42.43 to 42.12. Havana exchange yielded 1-32 to 99.92 for cables. Canadian was also in supply and yielded 1-16 to 100.03.

"Foreign exchanges maintained a steady tone in quiet trading Saturday. Sterling held steady, while French rates moved up slightly with Italian and Spanish. Japanese exchange continued its recovery."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COTTON CLOSES HIGHER IN WEEK END TRADE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 21.—Apprehensions of unfavorable weather in the South over Sunday seemed responsible for considerable covering or rebuying in the cotton market today. Prices sold back to about the best levels of yesterday but the advance was checked by realizing at 16.25 for July and there were moderate reactions later. July closed at 16.18, the general market closing steady at net advances of 2 to 12 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 6 points to a decline of 3 points, with near months relatively firm on covering by May shorts. The time for trading in May has been shortened by the decision to make the Saturday preceding Memorial day a holiday, and business in the current month position will end at noon on Monday.

There appeared to be some covering by shorts early today, but demand was supplied at a discount of about 18 points under July, compared with an apparent difference of 21 points at the close of the previous day. Later months evidently were bought on the outlook for showers or rains in central belt sections and for a time the market showed considerable strength. October sold up to 16.60 and December to 16.81, active months showing net advances of about 13 to 21 points, but there was enough realizing to supply buyers at these figures and closing quotations showed reactions of 5 or 10 points from the best.

The forecast for rain in northwest Texas may have promoted some selling in the forenoon, but local traders seemed more fearful of rains where dry weather is needed than hopeful of any substantial relief for drouthy sections of the Southwest.

Private cables said Continental liquidation had been absorbed by trade calling and London buying in the Liverpool market, but complained of a small business in cotton cloths at Manchester.

The amount of cotton shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 102,000 bales, against 61,000 last year.

New York Cotton

NEW YORK, May 21.—Predictions of unsettled weather over Western States, with the exception of West Texas, created an excited recovery in cotton today when some months rose into new high ground for the year. Storm warnings from the Texas coast inflamed market sentiment and nervous price changes occurred over a range of about a dollar a bale.

The market met week-end profit taking, but ended at an advance of 2 to 13 points. Spots were advanced 10 points to 15.30c.

New York Sugar.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 21.—The raw sugar market was firmer today, spot prices advancing 1-32 of a cent, while later shipments were 1-16 of a cent higher. Sales included 20,000 bags of Cuban for early June shipment, at $4.86, and 28,000 bags of Philippines, due the end of June, at $490.

The firmer spot market and expectations of an increased demand for refined sugar led to further covering and trade buying in raw sugar futures, which was reflected in higher prices for present crop deliveries, although new crop months were a little easier under commission-house selling. Final prices were 3 points higher to 1 point net lower, with approximate sales 18,550 tons. May closed $3.00; July, $3.06; September, $3.17; December, $3.24; January, $3.08; March, $2.91; May, $2.99.

One refiner reduced refined sugar prices 5 points for prompt shipment to $6.05 for fine granulated, while others were unchanged at $6.10 to $6.20. Moderate inquiry was reported.

New York Bank Statement.

NEW YORK, May 21.—The actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week shows a deficit in reserve of $21,568,780. This is a decrease in reserve of $60,126,490, compared with the week before, when excess reserve of $38,557,710 was reported.

Stewart Twirls Browns Into Third Place With 7-4 Victory Over Red Sox

TEAM KEEPS UP SLUGGING TO GAIN SIXTH TRIUMPH IN LAST SEVEN CONTESTS

Howley's Men Pile Up 16 Safe Hits, Sending Wiltse and Wingfield to the Showers—Bing Miller, Rice and Williams Make Three Swats Each — Home Runs for Haney and Flagstead.

By J. Roy Stockton,

Walter Stewart, young left-handed recruit from Toronto, making his St. Louis debut as a starting pitcher, twirled the Browns into undisputed possession of third place yesterday afternoon, keeping ten Boston hits fairly well scattered and winning, 7 to 4, because the Howleymen continued their devastating work with the willow.

Sixteen safeties were collected by the Browns, Wiltse and Wingfield being pounded from th hill.

The victory was the third in succession over the Red Sox, and the sixth out of the las seven games for the Browns, who took three out of four from the Athletics before tackling the men of Bill Carrigan.

The defeat of the Athletics at the hand of the White Sox enabled the Browns to jump from fourth to third place, half a game ahead of the expensive Mackmen.

Boston's Big Start.

Stewart did not make an auspicious start against the Sox. He : Tobin, the lead-off man, on a grounder to the box, but Haney, next up, planted a home run in the l -field seats and, after Todt had grounded to Gerber, Flagstead parked another circuit wallop in the left-field sun seats. Jacobson also had his eyes on the bleacher seats, but he hit straight away, and Harry Rice raced into deep center and pulled down his drive.

Howley's men quickly blasted away that Boston lead, aided by a fumble. O'Rourke was safe on Haney's boot to start the St. Louis' first, and Melillo singled to left. Sisler hit into a double play, but Bing Miller tripled to right center, scoring O'Rourke, and Rice slapped a single to left, scoring Miller with the tying run.

Double Plays Stop Rallies.

The Browns took the lead in the third inning, scoring three runs and knocking Wiltse out of the box, and they would have scored more if it had not been for a double play.

Sisler opened the inning with a walk and Miller singled to center for his second hit. Myer tripped Sisler as George was rounding second and Umpire McGowan waved George along, giving him third because of the shortstop's interference. Sisler scored while Rothrock was throwing out Rice and Williams laced a single to right, scoring Miller. O'Neill drew a pass and Wingfield was called in to relieve Wiltse. He hit Gerber with a pitched ball, filling the bases, and Stewart's pop single to right scored Williams with the third run of the inning. O'Rourke then hit into a double play.

Double plays prevented the Browns from giving the Sox one of the worst beatings of the season.

Myer and Todt pulled one in the first inning; Rothrock, Myer and Rothrock turned one in the third and one in the sixth and in the fifth, Flagstead took a fly and threw to Hartley to nail a Brownie runner at the plate. In each case the double plays preceded or ended productive Brownie rallies.

One Run on Four Hits.

In the fifth Williams, O'Neill and Gerber singled in succession and after Flagstead took Stewart's fly and doubled O'Neill at the plate. O'Rourke singled to center. The Browns thus got only one run out of four singles.

In the sixth [illegible] ield was knocked out. Miller and Rice singled with one out and Ruffing went to the hill. Williams singled to right, scoring Miller but that was the last hit off Ruffing. O'Neill hit into a double play and the Browns were set down in order in the seventh and eighth, Stewart and O'Rourke fanning in the seventh and Bing Miller in the eighth.

Every man on the St. Louis team made at least one hit, with

SABIN CARR OF YALE SETS POLE VAULT MARK

By the Associated Press.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 21.—Yale won its dual meet with Harvard in track and field sports today 71½ to 63½ points. The meet was closely contested and the decisive event next to the last one was the low hurdles in which Yale took eight points.

Sabin Carr, Yale, set a new collegiate and dual meet record for the pole vault when he cleared the bar at 13 feet and 6⅛ inches. The dual record was 13 feet and the collegiate 13 feet 2 inches.

Eddie Held, With 69, Is Low Medalist in the District Golf Tourney

McCoy, Forest Park, Next With 76—92 Players to Begin Match Play Monday at St. Louis Country Club —Manion Shoots a 77.

Eddie Held of Algonquin captured low medalist honors in the qualifying round of the St. Louis District golf championship yesterday at the St. Louis Country Club. A 69, two strokes under par, rewarded a dogged, hard-driving game for the Trans-Mississippi champion after a heavy shower impeded play during the first nine holes. Held went out in 35 and returned in 34, totaling seven strokes less than Fred McCoy of Forest Park, runner-up.

Discouraging weather conditions caused the withdrawal of nearly one-third the entire field of starters. Ninety-two local golfers, however, will begin match play Monday for three rounds of play before semi-finals Thursday and finals Saturday determine the champion. Pairings for the first round were announced last night and a number of the matches are expected to be played today.

Walter Haller, 22-year-old employe of the St. Louis Country Club, entered for the Creve Coeur Club, led the field for several hours with a 77. Haller, playing his first tournament, carried the hopes of a large number of the club employes, who were backing the youth for a surprise victory. He will meet Les Slattery, also of Creve Coeur, in the first round of match play.

McCoy, youthful Forest Park player, was low man also for the Forest Park quartet, which, with 315, won the team play honors. Dr. I. R. Davis, with an 82; Carke Morse, with 78, and C. F. O'Brien, with 79, completed the team. The Creve Coeur team of Robert Held,

YALE SUFFERS FIRST DEFEAT IN FIVE YEARS

Varsity Crews Had Won 17 Races in 5 Years Under Coach Leader—Princeton Victorious.

By the Associated Press.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 21.—The record-breaking winning streak of Yale's varsity crews, extending over five successive years, came to an abrupt and sensational end today when the Elis dipped their colors to a gallant Princeton eight on Carnegie Lake.

The Tigers flashed the speed, grit and stamina to hold a scant lead throughout the last mile and fight off Yale's desperate closing challenge to win by a scant quarter of a length. Cornell, the third and remaining contestant in the feature event of the triangular Carnegie Cup regatta, finished a length and a half behind the struggling Elis.

Seventeen Straight Victories.

It was within a day of being five years since the Elis last trailed in a Carnegie Cup regatta. On May 20, 1922, Cornell was the Victor, with Princeton also leading Yale across the line. Since then the Blue had raced on until today in an unbroken succession of triumphs, beating off all foes on this side as well as winning the Olympic championship in 1924.

This remarkable Eli run of success, a record of 17 varsity victories over 39 opponents, was broken, dramatically enough, by oarsmen coached by a former pupil of Leader. Charles "Chuck" Logg, Princeton coach, was captain of the University of Washington crew that Leader tutored in 1921. Thus, six years later, it fell to the lot of Logg to fashion the crew that upset the winning record of his former teacher.

The official time:

Varsity (1¾ miles)—Princeton, 9:47 3-5; Yale, 9:48 3-5; Cornell, 9:54 2-5.

RHEM AND ALEXANDER HURL IN OPENER, THEN HAINES CHALKS UP SEVENTH VICTORY

Billy Southworth Shines in Attack Against Edwards; Defense Cracks Behind Genewich in Second Contest—Lester Bell Regains His Punch, Smashing Two Doubles.

By Herman Wecke.

BOSTON, May 21.—The Cardinals made hay here this afternoon by winning a doubleheader from the lowly Boston Braves, 5 to 3 and 6 to 2. As a result, the world champions are but one game behind the pace-making Chicago Cubs, who gained the lead with two victories over Brooklyn.

The opening game was won by some good batting against Foster Edwards, a former college southpaw. The second came to the world champions mainly because Joe Genewich's defense went to pieces. With this cracking, the Cardinals combined some hitting to score six markers, though held to five hits by the righthander during his turn on the firing line.

Haines and Rhem.

The nightcap saw Jess Haines, the Phillipsburg, Ohio, righthander score his seventh victory of the season. He has dropped but one decision. He gave a fine exhibition against the Braves, holding Bancroft's men to six safeties. He has lost but one decision this season.

Flint Rhem was credited with the victory in the opener, but that old master, Grover Alexander, had to be called to the rescue in the ninth inning, when the Braves threatened. And what an exhibition of relief twirling old Pete gave! He had the bases full with none out and but two runs needed to tie. A hit would have done that. But old Pete saw to it that the safety was not forthcoming.

Bell Regains Punch.

The conquest for Rhem was his fourth of the year against but one reverse. Thus the two pitchers who worked for the Cardinals today have won 11 games and dropped but two.

As a result of the double victory, the world champions finished their first invasion of the East with five victories against six defeats. For the entire trip, the St. Louisans have a record of 7—7.

There were no outstanding hitting heroes for the world champions in the double triumph, although Lester Bell, who has been in a slump, came through with a smashing double in each battle to score runs.

Rhem's Balk Costly.

After a scoreless first inning, the Cardinals put over one in the second of the opening game. Southworth beat out a slow tap to Bancroft and advanced on a wild pitch. Bell struck out. Then came a break. Snyder hit a slow roller to Burrus which the first sacker fumbled. Southworth kept digging and scored from second on the error. Two out in the home half, Moore walked and took second on a balk. He got home when Taylor singled.

Richbourg's double, a drive which Hafey misjudged, Bancroft's sacrifice and Welch's single put the Braves ahead in the third, but the lead was shortlived, as the Cardinals tied it on Southworth's triple

"O'Farrell Day" Set for June 4

ROBERT O'FARRELL, manager of the World Champion Cardinals, and chosen the most valuable player to his team last season in the National League, will be honored with an "O'Farrell Day" Saturday, June 4, Sam Breadon, president of the club, anouneed yesterday.

O'Farrell will be presented with a diploma in adition to a purse of $1000 which accompanies the certificate, both awarded by the National League.

The day also will be observed as "Knot-Hole Day" and members of the Knot-Hole Gang will have a part in the official program.

Awarding of the "most valuable player" honor to a member of the Cardinal team will be the second time in two years that a St. Louis player will have been the recipient, thereby creating a record in both the American and National Leagues. Rogers Hornsby received the award for the season of 1925.

CUBS GAIN LEAD BY DEFEATING ROBINS TWICE, 11-6, 6-4

Five Hurlers Are Used By Brooklyn in Ninth Inning of Second Tilt

Superbas Score Five Runs in Eighth, but Bruins Come Back by Scoring Nine Times in Final Frame—Near Riot When Game Goes Beyond Specified Hour.

By the Associated Press.

BROOKLYN, May 21.—The Chicago Cubs supplanted the Giants in first place in the National League today by winning the second game of a double-header with Brooklyn, by 11 to 6. After the Robins came from behind in the eighth with a five-run rally, the Cubs put over a nine-run splurge in the ninth, Wilsons' triple scoring three runners. Five pitchers were used by Brooklyn in the ninth. The Cubs won the opener by 6 to 4.

Before the contest started it was announced that the game would be called at 5:45 o'clock to allow the Cubs to catch a train for Cincinnati. The Cubs started their nine-run attack at 5:40 and the umpires alowed the game to continue the full distance. As soon as the Dodgers were retired in the ninth, Umpire Wilson, who officiated behind the plate, was surrounded by hundreds of fans and had to be escorted off the field by Coach Miller of the Dodgers and a squad of special policemen.

President Wilbert Robinson of the Brooklyn club filed a protest with the National League on the outcome of the second game. Robinson said that an agreement had been made to end the game at 5:45 o'clock, but that the umpires let the game run on.

Reds Win Two Games From Phils, 5—2, 6—5

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 21.—The Phils were on the short end of both games in today's double-header, the Reds knocking them off scores 5 to 2 and 6 to 5.

Carl Mays allowed the Phils six hits in the first game, Dick Spalding, the Phils' new left-fielder gathering three of his team's hits. Mays scored two runs and drove out three clean singles.

A Red rally of three runs in the ninth inning of the second game gave the Reds a close victory. Alex Ferguson was batted hard and knocked out of the box. Herb Pruett's base on balls forced in the winning run during the ninth-inning rally.

The second game was marked by much arguing between Philadelphia players and Chief Umpire Pfirman, who ejected Johnnie Wilson for protesting a decision on a ball along the left-field foul line that Pfirman called fair. Several hundred cushions were thrown from the upper pavilion at the arbiter, the game being held up till the cushions were gathered up.

Giants Lose Third in Row to Pirates.

NEW YORK, May 21. — The Pirates made it three straight from the Giants today, garnering 11 hits off McQuillan and Fitzsimmons who succeeded him, while Hill, with good support checked all the Giant rallies. The score was 6 to 3.

Traynor repeated his home run stunt of the day before by hitting into the right field stands in the fourth with Wright on first base. Terry made a homer for the home club in the same inning, hitting into left. In the seventh Devormer accounted for two more runs for the Giants by hitting into the left field seats with Farrell, who had singled, on first.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Dark for Jack and Gene.

EIGHT months ago John Coccoskey, alias Jack Sharkey, was just a journeyman ring hand. He labored conscientiously at his profession, but all he had amassed was a reputation as a shifty boxer and a time-payment cottage, with a few extra slabs of bacon in the cupboard.

Today Jack Sharkey is worth $150,000 and is in line to succeed to a $1,000,000 asset—the world's championship.

Jack is not there by two large and widely separated stepping stones. But he is on his way and is showing a little of the Lindbergh spirit, which brooks no defeat.

Trying His Wings.

LAST September Sharkey had been fighting professionally for three years only. In that time he had showed a steady increase in form, but had not convinced the doubting Thomases of the East that he was "there."

Then he met George Godfrey—a big negro weighing at least 25 pounds more than Sharkey, who gave Godfrey a substantial but cautious beating. It was an artistic lacing, but left the impression that Jack was clever, Jack was quick, but couldn't knock over a candlestick.

The reputation inveigled another Negro giant, Harry Wills, into a match with Sharkey. Harry, disappointed in his hope of getting a battle with Dempsey, slid into the Sharkey affair without fear.

He emerged a badly beaten fighter, hard punished for 12 rounds, and forced to the expedient of a foul to save himself from a knockout.

Then the world consented to look over Sharkey. It approved with dignified condescension, but still refused unqualified indorsement. They still believed that he could not hit.

This morning their views have changed. Mr. Maloney will tell the world Jack can hit some. The terrific punching Maloney took supplies the one essential to Sharkey that he appeared to lack.

Watch Out, Dempsey.

HOW good Sharkey is the big guess today. He did not not a p p e a r very wonderful against foxy Mike McTigue, whom he outweighted by 15 pounds. An accident really gave Sharkey the technical kayo verdict. Also Jack has failed to stop some very inferior fighters.

Two things are working in favor of Sharkey in his immediate future, which holds out vistas of fights with Dempsey and Tunney.

First—Sharkey has shown improvement in almost every battle he has fought in the past 12 months, with perhaps a single exception.

Second—He has been fighting constantly, has met all manner of men, and is as big as either of the opponents he will be called upon to face.

Tunney has fought only five or six times in two years. He will not have fought a single contest in the 12 months intervening between his last fight and his coming one.

Dempsey has had only ONE fight in four years!

Both Dempsey and Tunney will need all the preparation they can get to withstand the momentum of this youthful fighter's recent drive toward the championship.

How Come?

PERSONS who follow golf noted in the list of entries for the district tourney the name of Bobbie Held, who failed to qualify for the Municipal Links, team of 12. Bobbie entered as from the Creve Coeur Club, which is just a fee course and is operated in the interest of an individual's personal profit.

The situation, on the surface, appeared to invite criticism, until an official of the district explained. He said, in substance:

"Creve Coeur Club, at the last meeting of the district directors, was elected to associate membership. That was several weeks ago. It now enjoys the same privileges, under like restrictions, as the municipal links.

Jess Carleton's Legacy.

"LONG years ago, when the country clubs were trying to solve the problem of the municipal links entries, the late Jess Carleton and "Daddy" Boyd fought for and finally put over the "associate membership" idea. This allowed such clubs as could not control their links absolutely, a playing right in district affairs, but no voting power. On the theory that they were not able to sponsor tournaments of their own, in the regular turn taken by district clubs, it was considered unfair to permit such clubs to become district members, on the same basis as regular clubs. We compromised by permitting associate members to send teams of 12 players, the clubs themselves to determine in any manner they saw fit the personnel of the 12.

"Creve Coeur has 12 entries in our district tourney on this basis.

Which is an explanation. One might still contend that a fee course is purely a business and money-making venture and therefore not a club at all. But, as the official said, the "real purpose is to get as many players interested as possible, providing only that they be strictly amateurs. The mercenary purposes of the fee course can in no way affect the status of the amateurs who pay to play over it."

The Big Push.

FOLLOWING on the heels of the district tournament comes the sectional tryout of candidates for entry in the national open, which is to be held at Oakmont course next month.

Last year 14 St. Louisans mustered up the necessary courage and $5 entry fee to play in the sectional trials. Because the entries are, to a large extent, determined by the number of candidates in the sectional tests, only TWO St. Louisans were deemed eligible for the national open—none other than Clarence Wolff and Eddie Held.

This year a big drive for a better representation has resulted in fifty entries, thus far, for the sectional tournament, which will take place at Glen Echo County Club, June 6. The field will play 36 holes medal competition and it is next to certain that at least six players will be chosen to represent the city. The United States Golf Association will say who and how many.

St. Louis golfers have yet to win a national tournament. But St. Louis veterans have at times played golf that would take real champions to surpass.

FLAT IRON IS VICTOR OVER BOOT TO BOOT

Issue Decided in Thrilling Duel Through Last Quarter of Mile and Quarter Race at Louisville.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 21. — Finishing in front after a sinew-straining duel that brought out the best skill of Jockeys Mack Garner and Alfred Johnson as well as the finest qualities of the mounts, the Green Briar Stable's Flat Iron was winner of this afternoon's annual running of the Grainger Memorial Handicap at Churchill Downs.

Garner had the mount on the winner and while he exhibited faultless horsemanship, his brilliant ride was matched by that of Johnson on the Idle Hour Farm's Boot to Boot which finished a close second.

Rhinock raced into third place with A. B. Hancock's Percussion fourth and Royal Julian, War Eagle and Helen's Babe, the other starters, following in the order mentioned. The race was decided over the testing distance of one mile and one-quarter and Flat Iron was forced to negotiate the ground in 2:04, just four-fifths of a second behind Woodtrap's track record and the fastest race at the distance in several seasons.

Finish Best of Season.

While War Eagle raced smartly in cutting out a terrific pace for the first seven furlongs with Flat Iron and Boot to Boot close enough to the leader to provide an interesting contest during the early stages, the gruelling drive in which Flat Iron and Boot to Boot figured greatly overshadowed the concluding portion of any race offered here in a long time, with the exception of the Derby.

Unfortunately, Boot to Boot was badly lamed during the running but the courageous son of North Star III carried on with courage that would do honor to a sound horse. It was one of those ding-dong, nose-to-nose duels that bring out the best in horse and rider and the heroes and vanquished were well entitled to the tumultuous applause that greeted them upon their return to the stands. The great throng continued its approval of the thrilling spectacle for several minutes.

The race had its disappointment in Helen's Babe which failed to obtain a contending position after being bumped by Boot to Boot as the field was leaving the barrier.

Boot to Boot Badly Injured.

The race carried a winning value of $11,000 with $1500 to second, $800 to third and $275 to fourth. Boot to Boot was the betting choice. The latter's condition grew worse following the hard race and it is not likely that he will be returned to competition in some time and Bell's long fly in the fourth.

Rhem and Haines Pitch Cards to Double Victory

Alex in Rescue Role.

In the sixth, the world champions showed a punch and went in front. Bottomley tripled and rode home on Hafey's single. Southworth went out, but Bell cracked out a long double to put the St. Louisans two markers to the good. A pass to Douthit and singles by Hafey and Southworth added one to the Cardinal total in the seventh and sent Edwards to the showers. Wertz replacing him. Bell was passed to get at Snyder and the strategy was good.

The Braves shelled Rhem off the hill in the ninth. Burrus walked. Brown singled and so did Fournier, batting for Moore, to score Burrus. Here Alexander replaced Rhem. He walked Taylor to fill the bases. Jack Smith, up for Wertz, flied to Hafey, and Richbourg hit into a double play, Thevenow to Bottomley, to end the game.

It was a great exhibition of pinch pitching from Old Pete.

The Second Game.

The Braves were first to score in the closing game, putting over a pair in the second round. High walked and after the next two batters had been retired, Moore beat out a slow tap down the third base line, a roller of which Bell made a fine stop and throw. Then Hogan sent a short fly to left which fell for a double and two runs were over.

It remained that way until the fifth. Prior to this time the Cards had been hitless, but in this round two scratch safeties and a collapse of Genewich's defense produced three runs. Snyder started it with a slow tap down the third base line which went for a single. Thevenow failed, but Haines walked. Douthit's smash skidded off High's arm into left for a double and Snyder scored. Frisch hit to Moore, who threw low to the plate and Haines scored. Bancroft took Bottomley's rap and threw past Hogan and Douthit tallied. Hafey was hit to fill the bases.

Welch Turns Fine Catch.

Southworth sent a fly to center. It looked like a sure safety, but Welch made a sensational running catch and a throw to Bancroft doubled Bottomley off second to end the round.

The Cardinals added three in the eighth. Hafey singled to start and when Genewich threw late to second on Southworth's bunt, both runners were safe. Bell scored both with a double. Although Snyder's bunt was handled by Bancroft, it went for a sacrifice. Then Thevenow was safe when Burrus dropped Genewich's throw and Bell scored.

Tommy Thevenow lost a badly needed hit in the second inning of the opener, when his pop fly fell safely in short right, but Snyder, on first, fearing a catch, was forced at second, Richbourg to Bancroft.

The Cardinals kicked when Moore was sent to second on a balk in the second, but nothing came of it. Umpire Quigley had waved Moore out in a run up, when Moran made his ruling. It was costly, as Taylor followed with a hit to score the run.

Stolen Base for Frisch.

When Frank Frisch stole second in the third, it was his tenth of the season. Taylor made a perfect throw, but it was just no use.

Hafey misjudged Richbourg's fly in the third and it went over his head for a double. It was just the "break" needed to start the Braves. To end the frame, Bottomley made a great catch of High's line drive and touched first for an unassisted double play. It was the third he has made this season and the world champions' thirty-fifth of the year.

Bell's double in the sixth was tremendous smash that hit the far-away left field wall on a line. Although Thevenow has driven in only two runs this year, the Braves took no chances on him in this round, passing him purposely.

This Jimmy Welch is a St. Louis boy, but he did his "best" to make it tough for Rhem. First three times up he lashed out clean singles.

Thevenow's stop of Richbourg's grounder to start the double play which ended the opener was one of the best plays of the game.

Genewich in Comeback.

When Joe Genewich went to the hill for Bancroft in the nightcap it was his first start in some three weeks. Facing the Giants in his last out he was hit by a line drive and his ribs were badly bruised, forcing a layoff.

High took a hit away from Hafey in the fourth when he made a glove hand stop of Chick's smash and threw him out. A bit later, Bancroft made a sensational stop of Bell's grounder to end the round. It was a great exhibition of fielding.

Hogan's double in the second was a wind-blown fly too far in for Hafey to reach and too far out for the infielders.

When Snyder beat out a slow tap down the third base line in the fifth it was the champions' first safety off Genewich. Incidentally, it was Snyder's secenth hit of the year.

There was an argument with Umpire Hart in the seventh. Burrus was safe on Thevenow's low throw, but Bottomley, recovering quickly, tagged Burrus off the bag. The Cardinals contended that Burrus turned the wrong way, but his honor, the umps, wolud not listen.

The Cardinals' thirty-sixth double play of the season was turned via the Thevenow to Frisch to Bottomley route.

Dave Bancroft, manager of the Braves, came in for a lot of booing in the closing rounds of the nightcap.

BIRDS WILL PLAY IN EXHIBITIONS NEXT TWO DAYS

The world champions tomorrow will get a look at the city of Kingston, made famous by the Snyder-Gray case. It was in Kingston that the sash weight, with which the late Mr. Snyder was killed, was purchased. All the Cardinal regulars with the exception of Alexander, Sherdel, Haines, Rhem, Reinhart, Lester Bell and Snyder will make the trip. There is a possibility that Jimmy Ring will get a workout on the hurling hill againts the Kingston prides. Monday, the Cardinals play at Newcastle, Pa.

HELD A MEDALIST IN DISTRICT GOLF QUALIFYING PLAY

K. Herkenhoff, R. Brady and Les Slattery were second with 330.

James Manion, Riverview ace, tied with Haller for third place honors with 77. Following them were Clarence Wolff, 1926 district champion, Clarke Morse, Forest Park; Herbert Lorenz, Sunset; L. R. Nordstrom, Forest Park, and Elliott Whitbread, favorite of the new Osage Hills club. Roger Lord of the Algonquin Club and C. F. O'Brien of Forest Park turned in cards of 79.

Held and Wolff are at opposite ends of one bracket in the championship flight with McCoy and James Manion occupying the same positions in the other bracket. All four players appear to stand excellent chances of entering the semi-finals Thursday with Held and Manion favored to meet in the finals next Saturday.

Penn State Triumphs

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., May 21.—Pennsylvania State defeated Syracuse in a dual track meet today, 104 to 31.

SPORT SALAD
by L. C. Davis

The Passing Show.

JACK SHARKEY licked Jimmy Maloney
And knocked him out quicker than scat;
With his punch that was said to be phoney
He stretched him out prone on his back.
The fight will put Jack in the running,
And we have a sort of a hunch,
That Maloney is going out gunning
For the guy who said Jack couldn't punch.

Gene Tunney, we notice was present,
And sat by the side of the ring;
His manner was seemingly pleasant
And suave and all that sort of thing.
The battle no doubt he was scouting
To see how the winner would fight,
And was duly impressed by the clouting
That Sharkey uncorked with his right.

Tex Rickard is combing the Nation,
To find for Gene Tunney a foe;
The fight will create a sensation
And be worth a million or so.
It looks as though Dempsey or Sharkey
At Tunney would get the next crack;
If this be the case it behooves us to place
A nice little bet upon Jack.

So That's It?

Jack Sharkey, whose real name is John Coccoskey, is a Lithuanian born in Bimghampton, N. Y. He later on became a Bostonian by adoption. He took the name of Sharkey because he was formerly a sailor and it sounds so much like Coccoskey.

Jack Dempsey says he thinks that Sharkey is good enough to whip Gene Tunney right now and that he can take Sharkey. Indicating that Jack favors the former champ's chances.

We take it that "guest towels" were made for the purpose of speeding the parting guest.

By way of auto-suggestion why not hang a motto in the guest room reading: "There's no place like home."

There's nothing too good for the guest providing he doesn't expect too much.

"Knocked Out by Golf Ball, Cured of Deafness."

IF your hearing you'd restore
Let a golf ball sock you;
Then you'll hear the cry of "fore!"
And silly it won't knock you.

"Rockne Lets Cat Out of Bag"

Hold that feline!

At that a cat ought to be able to hold its end in the category of football mascots.

"American Stenographer Now Singing in Opera."

She ought never to get off-key.

Harry Sinclair can laugh off the $500, but the three months in jail is no laughing matter.

However, it is harder for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than it is for a rich man to make the hoosgow.

"Plans Being Made For Sheriffs' Convention."

That ought to be an all-star show.

Horseshoe Results Given.

FRENCH STARS BEAT TILDEN AND HUNTER

Victory of Borotra and Brugnon in Doubles Gives France Lead in Tennis Match.

By the Associated Press.

ST. CLOUD, France, May 21.—The United States trailed France today in their Franco-American team matches, William T. Tilden and Frances T. Hunter losing this afternoon's doubles match to Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon of France, which now leads in the five-gameseries, two matches to one.

Today's play furnished the most thrilling tennis and probably the greatest men's double match ever staged in France, and it was only after a brilliant struggle that the Frenchmen captured the match 4-6, 6-2, 6-2.

Although the match was won by France's representatives, the victory failed to cause as much excitement as it would have normally, because the hearts of the 5000 spectators were all aflutter with excitement of the news of the flight of Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh. Just previous to the entry of the players on the courts, reports spread that the lone American aviator had been sighted off the coast of Ireland.

For several minutes tennis was entirely forgotten, but as the French favorites, after losing the first set, began making irretrievable placements, winning point after point, the spectators settled down to watch the courts, only interrupting to cheer American Ambassador Myron T. Merrick, as he took his seat in the first row on the side lines.

As a result of today's play the French have high hopes that France will win the inter-country tournament. It is confidently expected that Rene LaCoste will defeat Hunter tomorrow and even if Tilden should beat Borotra, France would win the tournament, three matches to two.

By today's play, tennis experts declared, France uncovered a doubles pair which will be heard from in the Davis Cup matches. Tilden and Borotra played masterful tennis, with Brugnon not far behind them. Hunter stood the ordeal well for 12 games, but weakened under the combined attack of the Frenchmen during the second and third sets.

It was lightning fast tennis that featured the matches. Tilden's powerful service flashing most brilliantly. His service was only broken twice during the match. Although the Americans got off to a good start by taking the first set, the French players came back with determination. In the second set they pounded away, first at Tilden and then at Hunter, while in the third set the French attack was directed fully against the latter.

The point score was as follows:

the exception of George Sisler, and Bing Miller, Rice and Williams made up for their former manager's bad day by getting three safeties each. Miller's trio including a triple, the only extra base hit that the Browns registered.

Only One Error in Game.

Except for Haney's fumble of O'Rourke's grounder in the first inning the game was errorless and O'Rourke might have been credited with a single without being unfair to Wiltse. The Browns played spectacularly in the field, O'Rourke starring in the inner line of defense with several sparkling stops.

O'Rourke is playing a great game for the Browns. When he was riding the Detroit bench and Ty Cobb was riding him, O'Rourke was just a mediocre ball player. But under the leadership of Dan Howley, Frank has developed into the best third baseman the Browns have had since we don't remember when.

GASTON OR JONES TO PITCH IN FINAL AGAINST RED SOX

Gaston or Jones will pitch against the Red Sox today in the final game of the series. Lundgren or Harriss probably will hurl for Carrigan.

Tomorrow the White Sox call for a series and then the Cleveland Indians will oppose the Browns in the concluding set of the stand at home.

Threatening weather had something to do with holding the attendance down to about 5000. If the Browns continue to play as they have during the stay at home, they will do better at the box office.

Bob Hedges, former owner of the Browns, attended the game yesterday and chatted with Hiram Mason, secretary of the Red Sox. This gave grounds for rumors that Hedges was considering the purchase of the Browns, Red Sox, Indians and Reds. Hedges has bought a lot of clubs in the rumor market.

Fireworks Start Early.

Haney's home run in the first inning hit the railing of the screen between the grand stand and the left-field bleachers.

Flagstead's in the same frame dropped in the corner of the bleachers not so near to foul territory.

The Browns went into the lead in the third; knocking Wiltse out of the box. Sisler walked and when Myer tripped him after he had rounded second on Miller's single, George was permitted to go to third. Sisler scored on Rice's infield out and Williams' single scored Miller. When O'Neill walked, Wingfield relieved Wiltse and after Gerber had been hit by a pitched ball, Stewart popped a single to right, scoring Williams with the third run of the inning. O'Rourke hit into a double play to end the rally.

Webster Boy Scores 16 Points in Kansas Aggie Relay Carnival

He Wins Shotput and Discus Events and Finishes Second in Javelin Throw and Broad Jump — 67 Schools Represented.

MANHATTAN, Kan., May 21.—"Buddy" Sample, one-man track team from Webster Groves, Mo., carried off the high honors at the Kansas Aggie interscholastic relay carnival single-handed here today. Winning two firsts and two seconds, he piled up 16 points, or one more than the Ponca City, Ok., team, which took second place with 15 points.

Sample heaved the shotput 49 feet 11¾ inches for first place in that event and threw the discus 124 feet 8 inches for another first.

To Murphy, Cederoth, H. Schroeder and G. Schroeder, the flashy Galesburg, Ill., relay team, goes the honor of setting the only other new carnival marks. After winning the two-mile relay event, this quartet stepped the medley distance in 8 minutes 4.8 seconds for the new record.

Madison of Hutchinson broke the carnival record for the broad jump and took first in the high jump.

Chase County High School of Cottonwood Falls was the dark horse of the meet. Freeman, Chase County athlete, galloped in ahead of the field in the low hurdles and took third in the pole vault, making eight of his team's 10 points.

Six hundred contestants were entered in the meet. Sixty-seven schools from Nebraska, Oklahoma, Missouri, Illinois, Texas and Kansas were represented. Of the 67 schools entered, 27 placed in the contests.

Artful Henry Captures Final Of Eliminations

Beats Smoke Ally by Length in Feature Number at Madison Kennel Club.

Artful Henry annexed the final elimination race and feature number at the Madison Kennel Club last night, beating Smoke Ally by a length. Bally McPride was second. The winner paid $25.20 for a $2 certificate.

One of the closest finishes of the evening came in the seventh race, when Wellesley, paying $28.80, beat Judgment by a nose. Miss Black Gold was third, a head behind Judgment. Marshall's Ribbon set the early pace but weakened on the turn for home. Judgment paid $52.60 to place.

Dick Martley, a dog which has also run in hurdle races, accounted for the fifth event, at five-sixteenths. He won by a length over Bondage, the favorite, and refunded $32.60.

Fairmount Park To Open Spring Meet Saturday

Hydromel and Jock Entered for Collinsville Handicap, Feature of Meeting.

With the $5,000 Collinsville Handicap at six furlongs as the feature event, the gates of Fairmount Park Race Track will open Saturday for 32 days' racing of the second annual spring meeting.

Included in the 87 nominated in the Collinsville Handicap are a number of the best horses that have shown class in their performances of this year. Hydromel, the western hope in the Kentucky Derby, and Jock, the pacemaker in that great event, are among the entries.

Other horses of note named in the event include the Audley Farm's Glister, H. G. Bedwell's Bulletin, Brown Shasta Farm's Shasta Bullet, George Collins' Old Slip, Harned Bros'. Reputation, Hal Price Headley's Helen's Babe, Mrs. R. M. Hoots' Beggar Boy, Sam Louis' Lounger, Mrs. W F. Meehan's Thaddeus, Nugent Bros'. Traveller, J. B. Respess' Hornsby and Wild Rose Farm's Massillon. In addition to Hydromel, Johnson N. Camden has named Nor'easter, while E. B. McLean has other than Jock, three additional eligibles, including Prince of Wales. Weights will be announced tomorrow, according to Julius G. Reeder, associate racing secretary.

Recent arrivals at Fairmount Park include the stables of Sam Louis, with the good horse, Lounger and six others, James Booker with five, and J. J. Reynolds with two. These stables were shipped from Pimlico.

H. Webb, who trained Black Gold, the winner of the Kentucky Derby of 1924, arrived from Churchill Downs Thursday with Mrs. R. M. Hoots' horses, including Beggar Boy, a full brother to Black Gold. With the Hoots' stable were the good performers, Red Leather and Efeldee, belonging to Judge J. S. Wallace, the well-known Kentucky racing official.

Shasta Bullet Coming.

Shasta Bullet, the Fairmount Derby hope of the Brown Shasta Farm, will be the first of the many candidates to arrive at the Collinsville course. In a message received L. General Manager C. Bruce Head, yesterday, H. D. Brown stated that the Brown Shasta Farm Stable would arrive at Fairmount Park Tuesday.

He also received telegrams from a number of other owners of prominently mentioned contenders for the $25,000 Fairmount feature, including Edw. B. McLean, owner of Jock and War Eagle, stating that his stable was sure to be represented in the stake. C. C. Van Meter, in charge of F. W. Parrish's Rolled Stocking, will ship from Churchill Downs this coming week. With Rolled Stocking, Van Meter will bring the good horse, Percentage. T. J. Haley, in charge of Walter J. Salmon's stables, will also arrive at Fairmount Park this coming week with Black Panther as the Derby entry.

Yesterday's arrivals at Fairmount Park included the Capital Stable, with seven horses in charge of Trainer S. Steve Judge from Pimlico. From Aurora, Charles Irby, with nine; W. L. Brodie, with two; E. E. Watson with nine, and C. D. Pryor, with four, were assigned stables.

Roosevelt Wins And Goes Into Tie for First

Rough Riders Swamp Soldan, 14 to 0, While Cleveland Is Idle.

Roosevelt gained a tie for first place in the Public High School League baseball race yesterday afternoon by pounding Soldan pitchers for 16 hits to shut out the West End team by a 14-0 score. In the other league contest, Central defeated Beaumont, 3 to 1. Cleveland was idle yesterday and the two South St. Louis teams now share the pace-making position with five victories and one defeat.

Groepper and Valendy, Roosevelt pitchers, held the Soldan batters to three scattered hits, while the Rough Riders were scoring in every inning but two. The South Side team batted around in the sixth after chalking up seven runs, after which Richards, Soldan hurler, was removed from the box.

Orville Paul, Central's one-armed pitcher, although liberal at times, managed to win his third victory. He was wild at times, walking three men and hitting two. Paul forced in Beaumont's run when he walked Jordan with the bases loaded in the fourth. Central came back in its half of the fourth, and on three successive singles and Schumacher's triple scored the winning runs.

Cleveland and Roosevelt, present leaders in the race, have only one game remaining, Roosevelt playing Central next Saturday and Cleveland meeting Beaumont on the same day. Since both South Side teams are decided favorites to win, a replay of the recent no-decision contest in which Roosevelt and Cleveland played 11 innings to a 9-9 tie, will be necessary. This game, which will definitely award the championship and the Harvard Cup, will be played some time during the following week on a field yet to be selected.

The box scores:

Billikens Down Concordia, 4-3

Seminarians Take Early Lead, but Are Unable to Maintain Advantage.

St. Louis University scored in the seventh and eighth to beat Concordia in a city collegiate championship contest, 4 to 3, yesterday at St. Louis U. Field.

Concordia took an early lead and Theiss seemed to have the situation well in hand, but the Billikens broke loose late in the game.

Jack Casey went the full route for the winners and looked good.

The second game of the series will be played on a date to be set later.

PRINCIPIA NET TEAM DEFEATS WESTERN

The Principia Academy tennis team defeated the Western Military Academy racquet wielders, 4 to 1, in a dual match on the Western courts yesterday afternoon. It was the fourth straight victory for Principia this season. Fred Bomhoff continued his brilliant playing in the singles to win from Cole of Western. In the first doubles Bomhoff and Robert Semple defeated Drever and Drever of Western.

Under the coaching of William Green, the Principia tennis team is undefeated this year. The team will entertain Western in a return match in St. Louis on Wednesday.

The summary:

Principia, 4; Western, 1.

Singles—Bomhoff, Principia, defeated Cole, Western, 1—6, 6—0, 6—1. Haven, Principia, defeated McGee, Western, 7—5, 6—3. Bowen, Principia, defeated Meek, Western, 6—2, 6—2.

Doubles—Bomhoff and Semple, Principia, defeated Drever and Drever, Western, 6—2, 6—1. Meek and Smiley, Western, defeated Bowen and Larsen, Principia, 6—4, 6—4.

Metzler's Wallop In Eighth Sends Macks to Defeat

Rube Walberg Gets Homer Off Lyons—Athletics Drop to Fourth Place.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, May 21.—Alex Metzler's timely wallop to center scoring Kamm and Ward in the eighth inning today enabled the White Sox to make it two out of three from Connie Mack's Athletics. The score was 7 to 5. The defeat lowered the Athletics into fourth place.

Twenty thousand customers, including Gov. Albert Ritchie of Maryland, witnessed the combat, and saw Ted Lyons register his sixth hurling triumph of the season. The latter was nicked for 10 hits, including a homer into the upper section of the right field stands, by Rube Walberg. Walberg lasted five and one-third innings, a homer by Bib Falk, also into the right field stand, sending him on his way. Jack Quinn finished and was charged with the defeat.

Yankees Lose to Cleveland in 12 Innings.

CLEVELAND, O., May 21.—Cleveland defeated New York, 5 to 4, in 12 innings here today. The Yankees scored three runs and drove Levsen from the box in the first inning, but Hudlin then stepped in and pitched remarkable ball to the finish. The Indians kept pecking away at Reuther and finally tied the score in the eighth, when he was removed in favor of Wilcey Moore. The Indians won when Moore passed Jamieson with the bases filled, forcing in the winning run.

BLACK MARIA WINS LADIES' HANDICAP AT BELMONT

REPEATS VICTORY OF LAST YEAR

First Double Winner Since Inauguration of Event in 1882—Tyson, 30 to 1, Wins First Race.

By G. F. T. Ryall.

NEW YORK, May 21.—Black Maria, a running daughter of Black Toney, won the classic Ladies' Handicap, for mares, three-year-olds and upward, before a crowd of 20,000 at Belmont Park today. It was her second victory and she is the first horse to win the stake twice, to say nothing of two years in succession since the first running back in 1882.

The big thrill and surprise of the day was the victory of the Wheatley Stable's Dice in the Keene Memorial for two-year-olds, which was the secondary feature on the card.

Only four fillies opposed Black Maria and in spite of her impost of 127 pounds she was counted so sure a winner that she was quoted at 1 to 3.

Jumbo Sets the Pace.

Jumbo, from the Rancocas Stable, jumped off in front at the start while Coltiletti was content to rate Black Maria third, behind Recreation while Bonny Khayyam and Corvette brought up the procession. Jumbo had opened up so much of a lead on Black Maria at the end of half a mile that the Coe filly's backers began to show some concern for, while Recreation had dropped out of it, Jumbo showed no signs of weakening. In fact, Black Maria did not catch her until they turned into the stretch. The rest was easy. Jumbo also had enough left to withstand the charge of Corvette for the place. The time for the mile was 1:39 4-5 and the race was worth $3500 to the winner.

The weather was the sort that Belmont Park should have had for its opening and one of the largest crowds, barring of course those Memorial day outpourings, filled the great grandstand and spread on the lawn.

The racing was good, too, for the track had dried out considerably. But it was not so easy picking winners.

Tyson, a 30 to 1 shot, beat Giant, the favorite, by a head in a driving finish in the opening event, for platers, at seven furlongs. Giant and Golden Volt, with Sande up, fought it out head-and-head to the stretch turn where the son of Volta tired and Giant swung just wide enough to let Tyson, which had been well up in the early running, through on the rail. Then these two fought it out for nearly a quarter of a mile, Tyson pushing his head in front only in the last few strides.

Sande's Mount Fails.

With the scratching of Ariel and the adding of Stephanus the complexion of the Keene Memorial took a change, and Stephanus, with Sande up and Sunfire, the Salmon Wilson entry, were made favorite over the Rancocas pair, Mowlee and Nassak. Stephanus outlooked his field in the parade to the post but ran far below his looks, never getting in the picture.

Mowlee, which in an Indian dialect means fast runner, was away best when the start came but after showing speed for little more than a furlong, retired in favor of Dice and Nassak which fought it out lengths ahead of the others. McAtee had the leg up on Nassak and he rode his best but Dice held him safely though he was driving to do it.

Groucher came on fast at the end to be third. The time for the four and a half furlongs was 52. The race was worth $7575 to the winner.

This is the second important stake for two-year-olds the Wheatly stable has won this season as Distraction, another colt which was purchased from H. P. Whitney as a yearling won the Colorado Stakes at Jamaica. Dice is a bay colt by dominant-Frumpery.

Copiapo was easily the best of the four that paraded for the Handicap at one mile, Fator waiting off the pace with him to the head of the stretch, behind High Star, Bumpkin, and Son of John. When straightened out the horse from Panama went to the front to win as he pleased. Son of John, closing with a rush out finished Bumpkin for the place.

SCULPTOR FOLLOWS COBB TO CHICAGO

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 21.—The young Detroit sculptor, who is copying Ty Cobb in clay for a statue in Belle Isle Park, Detroit, carried his half finished model to Chicago in his arms, following the famous Georgian for more sittings. The sculptor is Nison Tregor, and his statue, when finished will be titled "The Spirit of Baseball."

For several hours yesterday Cobb "sat" for the sculptor in a hotel lobby before the baseball game, though Tregor worked while Cobb strolled about chatting with fellow players of the Athletics.

Tyson worked his way up on inside steadily, responded to pressure and outlasted Giant in the final strides. The latter displayed high speed from the start, had considerable taken out of him racing Golden Volt into defeat and hung in the final strides. Athel a forward factor all the way, showed a good effort and held on well. Ennui a forward factor, showed a good effort and held on well. Golden Volt tired in the final drive. Jack of Clubs went evenly. The Code faltered under pressure. Izetta closed some ground. Maelstrom tired badly.

Odds: Tyson win 30 to 1, place 12 to 1, show 6 to 1; Giant place 7 to 10, show 1 to 3; Athel show 8 to 5.

SECOND RACE—$1500, The Coligny Steeplechase, conditions, 4-year-olds and up, about two miles—Start good, won driving, place same. Went to post 3:11, at post 1 minute. Winner ch g 5 by Sir Martin-Tangle. Trainer, P. Green. Time, 3:50 (12 jumps). Value to winners, $1100, $250, $150.

Sandstorm and Lighthouse coupled.

Ravel outjumped all and, kept under restraint, improved his position under urging and outlasted Greenhorn in the final drive. The latter jumped well and responded to pressure when called upon, moved up with a rush at the tenth fence, but hung in the final drive. Sandstorm was outrun the first turn of the field and closed a gap at the end. Thomas Payne went well throughout.

Odds: Ravel, win 13 to 5, place, even, show 1 to 2; Greenhorn, place 5 to 2, show 6 to 5; Volunteer, show 3 to 5.

THIRD RACE—$5000, The Keene Memorial Handicap, 2-year-olds, five and one-half furlongs: Start good, won driving, place same. Went to post 3:40, at post 4 minutes. Winner, b. c. 2 by Dominant-Frumpery. Trainer, J. Fitzsimmons. Time, :52. Value to winners, $7575, $700, $300.

Cat's Play and Petruchio coupled.
Stephanus and Sun Fire coupled.
Mowlee and Nassak coupled.
Stephanus added starter.

Dice, well up throughout and running through on the inner rail, stood a long drive gamely and outlasted Nassak in the final strides. The latter displayed a good effort from the start and held on with good courage to the end. Groucher, well up all the way, finished resolutely, but could not get to the leaders. Stephanus showed a good effort and had no excuses. Mowlee was in close quarters passing the main track and forced back. Cat's Play went well throughout. Sun Fire lacked early speed.

Odds: Dice, win 5 to 1, place 2 to 1, show even; Nassak, place 1 to 2, show 1 to 5; Groucher, show 8 to 5.

FOURTH RACE—$1500, Ballot Handicap, 3-year-olds and one, one mile—Start good; won driving; place same. Went to post 4:07. At post 1 minute. Winner, b. h. 7, by Amsterdam-Como. Trainer, J. Loftus. Time, :23 3-5, :47 1-5, 1:13 1-5, 1:39 2-5. Value to winners $1255, $200, $100.

Copiapo, restrained off the early pace, moved up stoutly on the outside entering stretch, closed resolutely, wore down the leaders and was kept under pressure to the end. Son of John raced prominently from the start and outlasted the tiring Bumpkin at the end. The latter forced the pace throughout, shook off High Star in the stretch run and then tired. High Star displayed high early speed, saved ground all the way and was eased up when he tired.

Odds: Copiapo, win 1 to 2, place 1 to 6, show out; Son of John, place 7 to 5, show out; Bumpkin, show out.

Recreation and Bonnie Khayyam coupled.

Black Maria followed the early pace under steady restraint, moved up steadily on outside entering stretch, wore down Jumbo and drew away to win with speed in reserve. Jumbo displayed high speed, saved ground all the way, raced Recreation into defeat in first four furlongs. Corvette lacked early speed and came with a belated rush. Recreation had no excuses. Bonnie Khayyam was outrun and failed to improve her position under punishment.

Odds: Black Maria win, 2 to 5; place 1 to 6; show, out; Jumbo, place, 7 to 10; show, out; Corvette, show, out.

SIXTH RACE—$1000, The Domino, conditions, 2-year-olds, four and one-half furlongs—Start good, won driving; place same. Went to post 4:50; at post two minutes. Winner, b. f. 2, by Pennant-Bloom Flower. Trainer, J. Lowe. Time, :53. Value to winners, $700, $200, $100.

Sublevado and Sirdar coupled.
Cressida and Crow's Nest coupled.
Sour Mach and Stretcher coupled.

Flower Girl displayed high speed from the start but bore over toward the inner rail under pressure and held Sublevado safe in the final drive. The latter responded to pressure and raced along the inside but appeared unable to get by the winner. Cherry Brook finished in outside and went well. Cressida went well and had no excuses. She unseated her rider after the finish. Jack Higgins went well. Crow's Nest closed some ground under pressure. Polly Wog could not get to the front.

Odds—Flower Girl, win 6 to 1, place 2 to 1, show even. Sublevado, place even show 1 to 2. Cherry Brook, show 7 to 10.

Patricia J. and Harry Baker coupled.

Patricia J. was shuffled back at the start but came fast from the back stretch and finishing gamely passed Rolls Royce in the final eighth and won going away. Rolls Royce, closest up from the start, raced Worthmore into defeat but was unable to withstand the winner's rush. Devonshire raced close up throughout and had no mishaps. Lieutenant II closed a gap from a slow beginning and was racing fast. Nichavo raced wide on the turn. Dignus showed early speed. Worthmore set a fast pace to the last eighth and tired.

$2 mutuels paid—Patricia J. win $42.10, place $27.65, show $8.50. Rolls Royce, place $7.65, show $3.40. Devonshire, show $4.80.

SECOND RACE—$7500 added, The Woodbine Steeplechase Handicap, 4-year-olds and up, about one and one-half miles: Start good, won driving, place same. Went to post, 3:04. At post, 1 minute. Winner, ch. g. 5, by Man O' War-Star Fancy. Trainer, J. T. Kermath. Time, 3:51 2-5 (19 jumps). Value to winners, $7040, $750, $100.

Maureen Bawn and Oyster Bed coupled.

Gun Boat, taken under restraint after settling into his stride, was allowed to race on his own courage for the first mile and a half, moved to the leaders with a rush the last turn of the field, drew on even terms with Autumn Bells and, withstanding a long drive gamely, outjumped his rival at the final obstacle and gained command on the flat after the last fence, but had to be hard urged to retain his lead. Autumn Bells took command early, was rated along fence boldly and continued with good energy when pressed. Pete The Scribe trailed off the pace for two miles and finished fastest of all the final half mile.

Two-dollar mutuels paid: Gun Boat, win $4.40, place $3.10, show $2.45; Autumn Bells, place $4.50, show $3.10; Pete the Scribe, show $2.60.

Wilhelmina and Miss Wisdom coupled.
Anushka and Dushka coupled.
Young Kitty and Furrow coupled.

Dushka broke in motion from an outside position, raced Bonnington into submission, drew into a good lead midway of the stretch run, but began to tire fast the last sixteenth and had to be hard urged to outstay Young Kitty. Latter raced forwardly from the start, finished stoutly when placed to punishment and was rapidly wearing the winner down. Bonnington displayed keen early speed, saved ground, but weakened the last furlong. Sun Crest raced evenly. Miss Wisdom met with early interference. Golden Era and Red Ridge were shuffled back at the turn out of the back stretch.

Two-dollar mutuels paid: Dushka, win $24.90, place $7.90, show $5.40; Young Kitty, place $3.20, show $2.70; Bonnington, show $4.50.

Troutlet and Taurus coupled. Mr. Gaiety and Capitol coupled. Gems to Let and Gay Parisian and Quartzite coupled. Bloom Tip and Miss Content coupled.

Troutlet kept well placed with the early leaders, slipped through a narrow rounding the far turn, came to the outside of the leaders for the final issue and finishing with excellent courage, wore Mr. Gaiety down to get up in the concluding few yards. Mr. Gaiety always a prominent factor, disposed of Gems to Let entering the home stretch, saved ground and held on tenaciously when put to a drive. Gems to Let took command a furlong out, was rated along, but faltered when the final issue came. Taurus broke slowly and forced wide at the first turn and continued wide thereafter to secure racing room. Hec closed a good gap.

$2 mutuels paid: Troutlet, win $7.60, place $3.90, show $2.85; Mr. Gaiety, place $4.25, show $3.00; Gems to Let, show $2.90.

Sweepsta and Rhubarb coupled. Guest and Springald coupled.

Blind Cast broke fast and clear, moved into command and saving ground all the way, held on grimly when placed to punishment and just managed to stave off the closing rush of Black Friar. Latter, a prominent factor throughout came with a belated rush right at the end and would have been winner in a few more strides. Prince Bulbo broke sluggishly and was badly outrun for the first half, worked his way up steadily and closed with good speed. Sweepesta was bustled along from a good start, made a bold spurt rounding the turn but hung in the final drive. Reigh Olga made up some ground. Knight quit badly.

$2 mutuels paid—Blind Cast, win $28.55, place $16.80, show $9.40; Black Friar, place $23.70, show $11.20; Prince Bulbo, show $5.

SIXTH RACE—$1500, The Barrie Plate, 3-year-olds and up, one mile and one-sixteenth: Start good and fast; won driving; place same. Went to post at 5:42. At post 1 minute. Winner—Ch. g 4 by Friar Rock-Affection. Trainer — B. Ray. Time—:24, :49 2-5, 1:14 3-5, 1:41 2-5, 1:48. Value to winners—$10,400, $300, $150, $50.

Alletache	113	6	6	6 3	6 1	7 3	7nk	8	G. Taylor	9.70

Pat Calhoun, kept within striking distance of the pacemakers, disposed of Jeb entering the stretch, withstood hard drive in game fashion and just lasted long enough to stall off Arno. Latter reserved off the pace, slipped through on the inside of the leaders in the stretch run and closed with good courage. Trapstock placed forwardly, came to the outside for the final issue and closed with a rush. Gold Beater forced a good early pace, but appeared to be in close quarters until reaching the stretch, where he faltered. Jeb tired after seven furlongs. The others could never reach the leaders.

$2 mutuels paid: Pat Calhoun, win $19.95 place $11.05, show $6.60; Arno, place $6.70, show $4.25; Trapstock, show $3.20.

Jimmie Brown	114	10	8	8 10	7 3	9h	10	J. Ford	41.40

Nimrod, quickest to get going, moved into a good lead, was rated under slight restraint and easily held his opposition safe. Kakee worked his way to the leaders steadily but was unable to threaten the winner when the real issue came. Soubrette II raced well throughout but tired fast during the last furlong. Soteria raced evenly. Nature's Darling showed a good effort. First Edition and Jimmy Brown closed good gaps.

Denny Cooney and Dan Burnham, J. J. Coughlin entry.
*Field.

Hailstorm well handled and away forwardly, raced well up from the start and assuming lead at stretch turn won thereafter well in hand. Noble Wrack fast, raced well up in early stages but was forced back just before reaching stretch when Greenock came over, raced wide thereafter and finished well. Hedemora hard urged entire trip, showed a good effort. Longridge raced improved. Denny Cooney went well. Greenock was done after three furlongs.

$2 mutuels paid: Hailstorm, win $28, place $8.60, show $5.40; Noble Wrack, place $3.40, show $3; Hedemora, show $4.60.

THIRD RACE—$1300, claiming, four-year-olds and up, one mile and three-sixteenths—Start, good for all but Magic Light; won driving; place same. Went to post 3:18. At post 1 minute. Winner, b c. 4 by The Porter-Swan Song II. Trainer, G. W. Googe. Time, :24 3-5, :48 4-5, 1:15, 1:41, 1:54, 2:00 4-5. Value to winner, $1000, $200, $100.

The Engineer, racing in his best form and vastly improved over his previous effort, kept up well with leaders in early stages, took command just before stretch and held Radio safe during final drive. Radio lucky to find racing room next the inner rail, moved up fast but could not down winner, finished lame. Longchamps was badly handled and had to be urged hard near end to outstay Blarney Stone. Latter raced wide for the most of the trip. Flames displayed good early speed before retiring. Arrogosa was done after three-quarters.

$2 mutuels paid: The Engineer, win, $20.50; place, $9.40; show, $3.80; Radio, place, $4.80; show, $3.20; Longchamps, show, $2.60.

FOURTH RACE—$1500, claiming, 3-year-olds and up, colts and geldings, one mile and one sixteenth: Start good; won easily; place driving. Went to post at 3:46; at post 2 minutes. Winner—B. g. 5 by Sir Martin-Miss Kearney. Trainer—A. Thomas. Time—:24 2-5, :48, 1:12 2-5, 1:38 1-5, 1:45. Value to winners—$1150, $259, $50.

Lancer, setting a fast early pace and well in hand until straightened in stretch, came steadily and drew out in last sixteenth. Traymore, hard ridden for most of the way, disposed of Mount Beacon. But gave way when winner challenged strongly. Mount Beacon showed a good effort but tired when reaching last furlong. Rejuvenation had no mishaps. Geo. De Mar was always far back.

$2 mutuels paid—Lancer, win $13.20, place $6.20; Traymore, place $5.80. No show mutuels sold.

FIFTH RACE—$10,000 added, The Grainger Memorial Handicap, 3-year-olds and up, one mile and one-quarter—Start good, won driving; place same. Went to post 4:20; at post three minutes. Winner, ch. g. 4, by Friar Rock-Affection. Trainer, B. S. Mitchell. Time, :24 2-5, :47 2-5, 1:12 2-5, 1:38, 2:04. Value to winners, $11,000, $1500, $800, $275.

Flat Iron, racing in his best form and displaying gameness, wore down War Eagle after three-quarters and fought it out stubbornly in stretch to just outstay Boot to Boot. Latter probably the best, was in close quarters all during stretch suffered some interference and if successful to secure racing room would probably have won, finished lame. Rhinock made a determined bid just before reaching stretch but faltered in last sixteenth. Percussion showed a fine effort. Royal Julian had no mishaps. Helen's Babe was outrun. War Eagle tired badly.

$2 mutuels paid: Flat Iron, win $14, place $5.20, show $3.80; Boot to Boot, place $3.40, show $2.60; Rhinock, show $3.20.

SIXTH RACE—$2000, The Fontaine Park Handicap, 3-year-olds and up, seven furlongs: Start good for all but Royal Omar, won driving, place same. Went to post 4:59, at post 3 minutes. Winner, ch. c. 4 by Midway-Gossip Avenue. Trainer, C. C. Van Meter. Time, :22 4-5, :45 4-5, 1:11, 1:24 2-5 Value to winners, $1500, $325, $175.

Boon Companion and Cotlogomor, S. A. Cowan entry.

Percentage, going in his best form, but away slowly, moved up steadily during stretch and held Kentucky Cardinal safe. The latter was taken back in first half mile and came strong when urged hard. Boon Companion raced forwardly most of the way. Sir Peter finished gamely. Prince of Wales showed most early speed, but when tiring in stretch was ridden listlessly and eased in the last sixteenth. Cotlogomer will improve improve on this showing. Stampdale quit badly. Royal Omar was sidewise at the bread and trailed others far out of it.

$2 mutuels paid: Percentage, win, $7 place, $4.20; show, $3; Kentucky Cardinal, place, $13.40; show, $4.80; Boon Companion, show, $4.

SEVENTH RACE—$1300, claiming, 4-year-olds and up, one mile and three-sixteenths: Start good, won easily, place driving. Went to post 5:37, at post 2 minutes. Chittagong, going in his best form, raced into the lead with a rush when called on after going five-eighths, and held race safe thereafter. Scampaway showed a fine effort and held on gamely all during stretch. Lighter came from far back during last quarter. Eric was under hard restraint for three-quarters, but weakened badly when urged hard. Spellbinder showed good speed but was exhausted before going three-quarters.

Two-dollar mutuels paid: Chittagong, win $5.80, place $3.60, show $2.80; Scampaway, place $5, show $4.20; Lighter, show $13.60.

DOWN THE STRETCH

Valorous Entered.

HARRY PAYNE WHITNEY'S Valorous, winner of the Kentucky Jockey Club Stake at Churchill Downs last fall, will make his first appearance of the season tomorrow in the Hyde Park Handicap at Belmont Park. The crack Whitney racer is assigned 124 pounds and will compete with Cherry Pie, Dangerous, Son of John and five other good thoroughbreds over a distance of one mile and one-sixteenth.

• • •

Hailstorm, owned by Kentish Farm Stable, broke out of the maiden ranks by winning the second race at Churchill Downs yesterday. Hailstorm, with Alfred Johnson up, won in a drive from Parkview Stable's Noble Wrack. A $2 mutuel ticket on Hailstorm refunded $28. The winner is a full brother of the fast colt General Haldeman, holder of the track record for four and one-half furlongs at Lexington. Both horses are by Thunderstorm—La Dolores.

• • •

A. B. Gordon's Tyson, making his first start, won the opening race at Belmont Park and paid 30 to 1 win, 12 to 1 to place and 6 to 1 to show. The colt, a son of Hilarious, was ridden by Apprentice Jockey Elder and beat J. E. Richardson's Giant in a drive.

Black Maria Easily.

WILLIAM R. COE'S grand filly, Black Maria, made it three in a row by winning the Ladies' Handicap, fifth race at Belmont, with ease. The black daughter of Black Toney-Bird Loose went to the post a 2-to-5 favorite. She was ridden by Frank Coltiletti and won by two lengths from Rancocas Stable's Jumbo. Black Maria picked up 127 pounds and raced the mile in 1:39 4-5.

Wheatley Stable's Dice, winner of the Keene Memorial Stakes at Belmont Park, is unbeaten. The 2-year-old has started twice and won on both occasions in fast time. In making his first appearance Dice defeated Stephanus and nine other youngsters at five furlongs. His time was 1:00 flat. Yesterday he took the measure of the best youngsters in training in the East, negotiating four and one-half furlongs in :52, only three-fifths of a second slower than the track record. Dice was bred by H. P. Whitney and is a son of Dominant-Frumpery.

Rancocas Fails.

AFTER winning a purse a day for over three weeks, Harry Sinclair's Rancocas Stable failed yesterday. In three races Rancocas horses finished second, being nosed out by a head on one occasion. Nassak and Mowlee were the first horses to carry the Rancocas colors. They started in the Keene Memorial but Nassak, after going into the lead at the start, was outgamed by a head by Dice. Jumbo was defeated in the Ladies' Handicap by Black Maria and Sublevado running in the sixth race finished behind Wind Flower.

Capt. Fox finished third in the first race at Churchill and paid $67.00 for $2 to show. With R. Russell in the saddle, Capt. Fox got off to a slow start and trailed his field for most of the way and just got up to land third place by a neck. Had Capt. Fox won the race he would have paid $452.80 for $2 to win. The race was won by Muldoon with Hornsby second.

• • •

Copiapo, the Argentine horse owned by R. Espinosa, scored his second straight victory at Belmont Park when he won the Ballot Handicap from Son of John in a drive. Laverene Fator, under contract to Harry Sinclair, had the leg up on the foreigner and gave the horse a fine ride, winning by a length. Copiapo was a 1 to 2 favorite.

KANSAS

GRADY WINS BOTH DASH EVENTS IN FAST TIME

Kansas Sprinter Covers 100 Yards in 9.6 Seconds, Tying Record Set by Locke of Nebraska.

By the Associated Press.

LINCOLN, Neb., May 21.—The University of Kansas completed an undefeated outdoor track season here today by piling up 45 1-3 points, to win the annual Missouri Valley Conference championships at the University of Nebraska Memorial Stadium. Oklahoma was second, with 38 5-6 points, and Nebraska third with 37.

The feature of the meet was the pole vaulting of Frank Wirsig of Nebraska, who set up a new intercollegiae record when he cleared 13 feet 4 27-64 inches. This bettered the mark of F. McKown of the Kansas State Teachers' College at Emporia, who vaulted 13 feet 2⅞ inches in 1925. It also bettered Wirsig's own Valley record of 12 feet 9⅞ inches, which he made last year at the annual championships. The height was made in a special trial, but was accepted as the winning mark in the meet.

Wirsig's leap marked the second conference record to fall, Maurice Stalker of Oklahoma having established a new broad jump mark in the preliminaries with a jump of 23 feet 5¼ inches.

Grady Wins Two Dashes.

Grady of Kansas, the outstanding performer of the meet, tied the 100-yard dash record of 9.6 seconds, made by Roland Locke of Nebraska, last year. Grady was high point winner, finishing first also in the 220 dash. McInerny of Kansas placed in three events. The Kansans had all their strength on the cinders, scoring 36 points there and only 9 1-3 in the field.

The mile run proved a great race between Ray Conger of Iowa State and Glenn Johnson of Nebraska. Conger set the pace all the way and finished with a burst of speed.

The University of Oklahoma suffered a tough break when Taylor, one of the favorites in the 220-yard low hurdles, fell. He was among the leaders at the time.

The summaries:

MILE RUN—Won by Conger, Ames; Johnson, Nebraska, second; Nicklock, Oklahoma, third; Falkner, Oklahoma Aggies, fourth; McGrath, Kansas Aggies, fifth. Time, 4m. 23.3-10s.

SHOT PUT—Won by Rinefort, Grinnell, 45 ft. 6 in.; Thornhill, Kansas, second, 45 ft. 4½ in.; Brown, Missouri, third, 44 ft. 11½ in.; Ashburn, Nebraska, fourth, 43 ft. 7½ in.; McAnelly, Missouri, 43 ft., fifth.

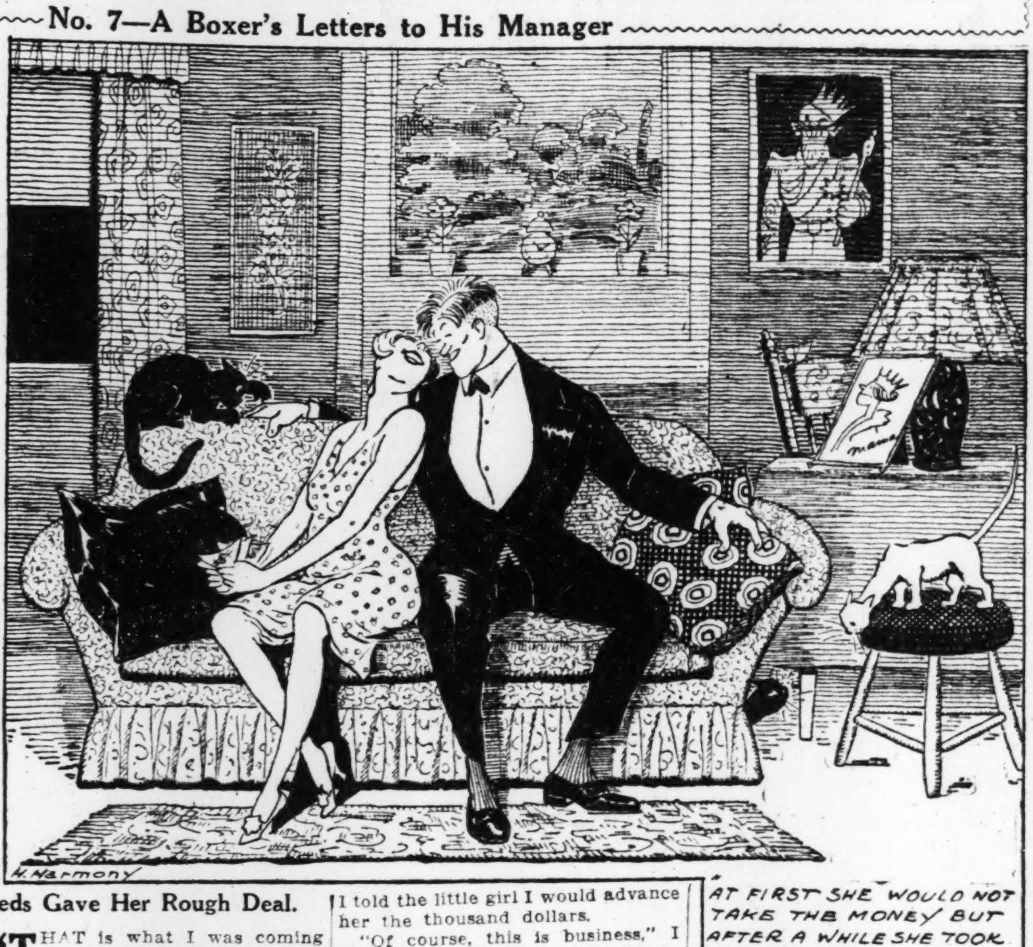
Frisbie Outsmarts a Smart Aleck From Europe

Nobody Else Will Cut in on Princess Kitty's Millions

No. 7—A Boxer's Letters to His Manager



"AT FIRST SHE WOULD NOT TAKE THE MONEY BUT AFTER A WHILE SHE TOOK IT BECAUSE SHE SAID I WAS SO STRONG."

The Little Girl Departs for Europe, Finally Agreeing Tearfully to Accept One Grand From K. O., Because He's So Strong.

By Walter Davenport.

Dear Patsy:

I WOULD be at your gymn this minute training for this human matress by the name of Brother Amos you have got for me for my next fight but I did not hit the hay till very late last night on account of seeing Miss Kitty Dill off to Europe to get back her rights.

You will be glad to know that you were doing this litle girl a big wrong to think she is a tramp because without her knowing anything about it I found outt hat what she said about being a Princess in Europe and being gipped out of her rights including a million dollars worth of jewels and real estate by a couple of reds she thought were gentlemen in a big night club in Europe was the truth.

Yesterday while I was getting ready to come around to the gym for the training I am not going to need to slap this Brother Amos out from the back of the whiskers which you say he wears a gentleman by the name of James J. Baker come to my boarding house wearing spats and wanted to know if my name was Frisbie.

I give him a quick up and down and saw that he would not last long if he tried to put up anything over on me and said that I was.

"I got to be careful," he said looking around to see if it was all right. "Are you the great young athlete that everybody is saying will be the next champion heavyweight?"

I said I was and give him a cigarette and told him to sit down and give me his hat.

A Man From Europe.

"WELL," he said, pulling up his chair, "the name I go under by is James J. Baker because I do not dare tell the truth. The truth is that I am from Europe and I come to you because I understand you are a great friend of the Princess—I mean Miss Kitty Dill who is now on the stage in Billie Lash's Paris Pretties with Moe Musser."

"Well," I said, "I would not say I am a great friend of Miss Kitty Dill or not but I will say that she is a very fine looking"——

"I understand," he said. "Listen, from what I have heard you are not only a great fighter but you are a clever boy in a business way."

"Oh, I don't know," I said.

"Well I know," he said. "Young fellows do not get talked about like they are talking about you for nothing. The Princess—I mean Miss Kitty Dill, has more faith in you than in any other man she ever met. Listen. Maybe she told you that she was gipped out of two million dollars worth of her rights including jewelry and real estate by a bunch of reds."

"I heard only one million," I said.

"That is what she thinks," he said. "She is just an innocent little girl from Europe and does not understand business like you and me. It was only a million dollars when those reds took her for all she had but prices have gone up and now it is two million. Listen, I am from Europe too and am practically a neighbor of her father, who is a king of course by rights, and I come over under a false name to back the Princess—I mean Miss Kitty Dill—so that she could go home and get her rights back. I know where the crooked reds are hiding out and where they have buried the stuff."

"Why do you come to me," I said. "Why don't you go to Miss Kitty Dill."

Reds Gave Her Rough Deal.

"THAT is what I was coming to," he said. "When I went to her I saw she would only listen to you because she got such a rough deal from those reds that she will not trust any men any more unless it is you. Listen, I know where the stuff is hidden and where the reds are hiding out. The Princess—I mean Miss Kitty Dill—needs a thousand bucks to get her back to Europe so she can get her rights back. Now I got all the dope and you have got her so she trusts you so let's you and me put up the thousand bucks together, you putting up half and me putting up half. Then you take it to her and tell her to take the dough on the condition she splits fifty-fifty as soon as she gets her rights back. Then we will split our half fifty-fifty, you taking a cool half million and me taking another cool half million."

"But suppose she will not split fifty-fifty," I said. "As far as I am concerned she would be a flatiron to give up a million bucks for a loan of one grand."

"Listen, Mr. Frisbie," he said, "I know what I am talking about. It is a dish of tapioca it is so easy. The Princess—I mean Miss Kitty Dill—I do not mind saying is all checked up over you and will be glad to do anything you say. I would not be surprised if she would marry you and then you would be a Prince in the bargain and as a man who has known the Princess and her old man, the King, all their life I don't mind saying you could do a lot worse."

"Oh, I don't know," I said.

"Anyway," he said, "what do you say?"

"I will say to that," I said, "that I will let you know."

"All right," he said, "but do not wait too long. Between you and me, I think I am doing a pretty white thing by you to hand you a cool half million like this when I could take the whole piece myself only it will be easier because she trusts you."

Well Patsy, I got to thinking it over and the more I thought of this big European the more I thought I would like to smack him off because all he wanted was to make a cool half million out of the Princess while it was me she trusted, not him.

Business Is Business.

LAST night I saw her and without saying anything about this double-crossing James J. Baker I told the little girl I would advance her the thousand dollars.

"Of course, this is business," I said, "and while I do not like to talk business to a little girl and all, business is business, so because I am putting up the jack, I think we ought to split 50-50."

Well, I thought the Princess, or Miss Kitty Dill as she is known here, would cry her eyes out. At first she would not take the money but after a while she took it because she said I was so strong.

"Do you know just how to get your rights back," I said. "Maybe you will have trouble finding the reds and the stuff."

"Leave that to me," she said. "All you got to do is begin ordering a yacht and a couple of golf courses. I will go down right away and get on the next boat for Europe and I will write to you every day or so."

I guess I ought to have seen her to the boat, but she was gone so quick that I did not have a chance.

What I want to say is that no matter if I have a million bucks or not I will let you handle my fights for me. And I guess Tunney will have to fight me if I am a Prince. As for this Brother Amos, who you say fights in his whiskers, I will knock him for Miss Kitty Dill's expenses. Yours truly,

K. O. FRISBIE.

Baker Must Be Mad.

Dear Frisbie:

IF you don't mind I'd like to congratulate you on the way you outsmarted that double-crossing crook, James J. Baker. Gosh, I bet he is mad. It seems too bad, though, that you did not go right down to the boat with the Princess. It certainly is swell to have a girl like that trust you. Did she say what town in Europe she used to be a Princess in. It wasn't the capital, Persia, was it? Oh, well, all I have to say is that it serves practically everybody concerned rig right and now we can get back to the fight game provided you don't mingle with a fine old Philadelphia gentleman who was in the gym yesterday looking for you with a bunch of oil wells in Vermont and a book telling you how to run them.

Even if you didn't take the time to read the directions in the book he said you couldn't help making a hundred per cent on your jack every month, nature was so wonderful up in Vermont.

Brother Amos, the battler with the whiskers you are fighting at the Dorgan Club next week, will take a lot of beating. His manager, Hype Woodruff, was in yesterday and says that he will bet $500 smackers that while Brother Amos can't lick Tunney, Tunney can't lick Brother Amos, either. Hype always bets that way on Brother Amos, so you can see you are not going to any pushball tournament when you and Amos step into the ring. Let me know when you get half of those rights the Princess lost. I'd like to see them.

HUNTING AND FISHING

By Alec Mermod

WE have word from Jefferson City that Gov. Baker has reappointed Kieth McCanse as Game Commissioner. Under Mr. McCanse's administration the department has accomplished more in two years than had been done in all the previous years of the department.

Col. Paul C. Hunt of Jefferson City has been appointed chief of hatcheries to succeed Fred J. Foster, who will superintend the Chesapeake Spring fish hatchery.

The radio broadcasting of McCanse's plea for conservation of fish and game should go far toward the education of the masses along the line of game protection.

Waters Still Unfavorable.

VERY few fishermen have been going out, for all waters are still in bad condition, except in some of the smaller streams in the Ozarks. Francis Adams returned last week from a trip but reports poor fishing. George Ashton and Mr. Cherbonier spent a week-end at St. Clair, but found the water in the Meramec high and muddy. Indian Creek not much better, but Mr. Cherbonier returned to St. Clair last week and fished at the mouth of Indian creek where the water was clear and he brought back a creel of very nice bass.

While the new fish law does not go into effect until July 1, a great many of our anglers are showing a tendency to refrain from doing any fishing during the spawning season, which ends in June.

The Meramec Not Bad.

FOR a number of years the Meramec was not fished to any extent as the idea seemed to exist that there were no bass left in this stream, but last year some of the best fishing we had was in the Meramec above St. Clair.

We are very sorry to learn that on account of ill health "Billy" May has given up the Outlook Resort, near St. Clair, and that the place is for sale; we trust that some one will get hold of this place who will run it as well as "Billy" has in the years past.

By the time the season opens the streams will be clear and we may have some good fishing during the summer, the smaller streams ought to afford better fishing than usual, for no doubt a great many fish went up all the small creeks to spawn, and most of them will remain as long as the water is in condition.

In Mr. McCanse's broadcasting he made mention of 510 streams in Missouri which had a combined length of 15,000 miles; neither the Missouri nor Mississippi were counted.

With all these streams Missouri could be made one of the best fishing States in the Union.

Squirrel Season Approaches.

IN LESS than two weeks the squirrel season opens for this year, though in 1928 the season will not open till July 1. Shooters must remember that the season closes one month earlier.

The first of September will find the roads crowded by machine loads of hunters taking advantage of the first open season we have had on doves for a number of years.

Right now one must confine himself to shooting at clay targets, though even this sport has been affected by rains and high water.

Ramona Park May Open Greyhound Meet This Week

Track Ready and Dogs Under Schooling for Opening When Weather Clears.

The new greyhound racing track at Ramona Park, St. Louis County, is about ready to go. The rainy weather has held up work considerably, but an extra force of men will be put to work this week and the probability is that before the week is over the inaugural race will be run.

The track itself is ready, and the greyhounds now at the track are being put in the best posible physical condition for the opening by daily "schooling." Some of the fastest greyhounds in America, including many of the favorites at the Biscayne track at Miami, Fla., last winter, are said to be scheduled to race at the new track.

The Ramona Park track is five-sixteenths of a mile, and is oval in shape, with a back stretch and a home stretch of 400 feet each.

Innovations for Women.

Ramona Park is on the Carson Road, just north of Natural Bridge Road. The Kirkwood-Ferguson street car line runs directly to the park.

The park comprises 35 acres, and has parking facilities for several thousand automobiles. The grandstand has 4000 seats, and there are one hundred boxes with eight seats each.

As greyhound racing has become a popular sport among women, many innovations have been added for their convenience, among which is a Turkish room, on the mezzanine floor of the grandstand.

A policy which has been adopted by the Ramona Kennel Club, and which it is said will be enforced rigidly, is that officials and others connected with the track will not be allowed to enter dogs that they may own in any of the races. About 400 dogs are now at the track, and [illegible] are owned by individuals who have no interest in the track.

The presiding judge at the track is Leo M. Shea, former judge at the Biscayne track in Florida.

Stecher to Defend Title on Benefit Program Here

Legion Plans to Stage Show at St. Louis U. Field July 4.

Announcement was made last night by Roy G. Chisholm, chairman of the Commanders' Conference of the American Legion, that Joe Stecher, world's champion heavyweight wrestler, has agreed to sign articles for a finish match to be sponsored by the Legion posts of St. Louis and St. Louis County to raise a portion of the $100,000 fund needed by the veterans' organization to carry on hospital and child welfare activities. It is planned to hold the title mat contest on July 4 at St. Louis University Athletic Field.

A committee composed of Commanders Chisholm, Morris, Klein and James McKinley are in charge of arrangements. Tom Packs, local mat promoter, has agreed to co-operate with the committee.

Stecher's opponent has not been selected, but the committee is considring several top-flight challengers.

Headquarters for the Legion's welfaredrive have been opened at 520 Olive street and committees will be appointed within the next few days to handle various phases of the preliminary arrangements. The support of several of the city's leading welfare organizations has already been obtained by the Legionnaires.

THREE MARKS BROKEN IN LORETTA MEET

Three records were broken and one was tied in the track and field meet under the auspices of the Loretta Girls' Academy yesterday afternoon, and new records also were created in the swimming carnival sponsored by the school. Hortense Hogan broke the 8-pound shot record, and baseball throw, and Ann Ryan broke the standing broad jump. Ruth Brown was first in the crawl, side stroke and back stroke in the swimming carnival, to be high point scorer.

SOUTH AFRICA LOSES IN DAVIS CUP TOURNEY

MONTREAUX, Switzerland, May 21.—South Africa today eliminated Switzerland from the Davis Cup competition of 1927 in their second round play in the Davis Cup eliminations tournament.

The South Africans, who captured the first two singles matches yesterday, took the doubles in straight sets today. P. D. B. Spence and A. Raymond, defeating the Swiss pair, C. F. Aeschlimann and Ferrier, 6-2, 9-7, 6-4.

Two singles remain to be played, but will have no effect on the outcome of the tournament. South Africa will meet Germany in the third round.

The remaining and decidin[illegible] singles was interrupted by rain this afternoon with England leading in sets, Higgs having scored 6-1, 6-3, 2-6 against Ulrich of Denmark. The Danish player was leading 5-2 in the fourth set when the match was called. The play will be completed tomorrow.

Bobby Jones Tells How He Learned That Reckless Golf Does Not Pay

It Is Easier to Protect Your Score by Saving Strokes Than It Is to Regain Lost Ones, He Says.

Attempt at Daring Shot From Difficult Place Almost Cost Him One Open Championship.

NO. 6—SAVING STROKES.

By Robert T. Jones Jr.

National Open, British Open and Southern Open Champion.

BOBBY JONES.

STARTING the third round in the recent Southern open tournament, I hooked my initial tee shot to a difficult position behind some trees at the edge of the lake My ball being placed so that I had a reasonably large opening through which to play to the green. I hesitated some time, wondering if I should take the risk. In an informal match only a few days previous I had reached the green through the trees from almost the same spot, but with some reluctance I turned my back on the flag and chipped to a safe place in the fairway. From there I was able to play comfortably to the green for a five—not so good as a four, it is true, but better, both for my score and for my mental composure, than a seven or eight.

In my earlier days in competitive golf, when I was foolish enough to regard golf as a simple pastime, I should have scorned even to consider that unambitious chip to safety. But several years of tournament play will chasten the adventurous spirit of any young golfer, who fancies himself as a miracle worker, even as they have chastened mine, and will teach him that strokes are far easier to save than to get back after they are once lost.

Mistake Almost Fatal.

Only last year, in the open championship, I made the mistake of attempting a too daring shot from a nasty place. After a very loosely played round, by dint of some good putting and plenty of luck, I reached the eighteenth tee with a four left for a 76, which I figured, with my 70 of the day before, would be just good enough to keep me in the running. So when my drive was sliced weakly to the long rough, I could not abandon hope for the four I wanted. By using a strong iron from the rough, I expected to carry a bunker on the right of the fairway, which done, my ball would roll up near the green, leaving a chip and one putt for the four. So I took the gamble. My first iron shot traveled no more than five yards and lay still in the long grass. Now, I had to go for it. The next one went across the fairway into the rough on that side. In the end the hole cost me a terrible seven, where a conservative mashie-niblic pitch to the fairway would have netted an easy five. Two strokes lost in an effort to save one.

BACK in 1921, at Washington, I came very close to eliminating myself from the tournament on the very first hole of the qualifying round. That was the year the Golf Association tried out the abominable 18-hole qualification plan, when one bad hole meant almost certain destruction. I started my round with a weird hook off the first tee, the ball disappearing into a veritable jungle on the left. I found it lying on a bare spot about a dozen feet behind a large log, which was the only obstruction between my ball and the green, 170 yards away. Being young and very foolish, I decided I could reach the green without a great deal of trouble. But as I came down on the ball I thought of the log. Involuntarily I flinched, half-topped the shot, and the ball, striking the log, bounded back over my head into the depths of the wood. I stood aghast, listening to the ball in its mad career through the trees. I could see my chances of qualifying go up in smoke. Indeed, it was only good fortune that saved me. I played my next shot as carefully as possible, but even so, I was very lucky to get out for a bad six, and subsequently qualified with only one stroke to spare.

The Center of Green.

I am quite sure that the hardest lesson I have had to learn in golf, and even now I forget it too often, is the importance of saving strokes, especially in medal competition. One is too prone, I think, when things are going smoothly, to ease up in one's concentration, and take too lightly the task to be performed. Harry Vardon was credited with saying that he always played for the center of the green. Of course, that could not be literally true, for at times there is no danger to be found in a shot straight for the flag. It is only when the hole is in a dangerous position close to the edge of the green that extreme caution is advisable, and then it should be remembered that par is nearly always good enough to win.

EVEN in match play I have found it a good practice to be wary of taking chances. I remember particularly the fourth at Oakmont as one hole I could never summon enough courage to try for in two, although the green could be reached with an iron after a long drive. The front of the green was very narrow and guarded by severe bunkers. I invariably played short, relying on a run-up and one putt to secure a four. I think the only time these tactics lost the hole for me was against Watts Gunn in the final. Watts failed to see anything terrifying about those bunkers. His iron second was a beauty, bringing up six feet from the hole, and he holed the putt for an eagle three.

Recklessness Doesn't Pay.

But in the long run reckless play does not win. The first thing to remember in golf is that some shots must go astray. They all can't be perfect. And the man who wins is the one who is able to give himself the greater margin for error. In other words, if the shot is aimed for the center of the green it will need a greater mistake to throw it off than if it was started for the pin on the edge of the trap.

I have observed that most men who play in the eighties fail to do better because they allow one bad shot to cost them several strokes. The average man is seldom content to charge off a stroke when he gets into trouble and to play the next one safely out. He takes chances which would be appalling to an expert. It seems to me the probabilities should be figured in this way. If the shot comes off, and the chances are it won't, one stroke is saved and par hole is scored. If the sot fails, the next one will possibly be in no better position, and so on. Usually two or more extra strokes result. If the shot to safety is employed, the possible loss is limited to one stroke, with always the chance that one putt will still yield the par.

KAISER TO BOX STEADMAN FOR CITY SUPREMACY

Tippet's Indoor Final Tuesday Will Provide 42 Rounds of Milling.

Barring a repetition of the numerous knockouts recorded during six previous fistic carnivals at the New Coliseum this season, the card Machmaker Jack Tippett has arranged for his indoor boxing final next Tuesday night will provide 42 rounds of milling, with a city championship featherweight battle of 10 rounds winding up the program of six engagements.

The final attraction will bring together Johnny "Peewee" Kaiser and "Punching Paul" Stedman, a sturdy, dynamic pugilistic duo, in a match the fans of this section have eagerly awaited for many months. They were matched for a 10-rounder at a local outdoor arena about a year ago, but Kaiser withdrew, claiming illness, and drew a suspension, which was only recently lifted by the City Commission.

Both fighters started training two weeks ago for their coming debate and the conclusion of their preparatory activities this afternoon will see them both under the weight they have agreed to make. The articles stipulate that they weigh in at 126 pounds or less at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

Has 12 Victories.

Fighting in East St. Louis, Belleville, Jefferson City and other nearby towns during the past year, Kaiser has run up a string of 12 successive victories, stopping all but two of his opponents and decisively outpointing Battling Morris and Jackie Saunders, the two foemen who managed to stay the full 10 rounds.

Steadman's local engagements this season have netted him victories over Lou Terry, Jack Ross, 'Wop' Stonum and Jimmy Dale. His only defeat during the past two years was administered by George Butch, who outpointed him in a turbulent 10-rounder at the Battery last summer. A week after his match with Butch, Paul surprised the public by outpointing Tommy Ryan decisively, the McKeesport "sharpshooter." Jack Stacey, Billy Knowles, Nick Oliva, Eddie Goldberg, Mickey Kramer and Young Dundee are other well-known scrappers Steadman has beaten.

Preliminary Bouts.

Recent victories over Clifford "Digger' Nelson, Sam Schnemann and Sam Zeigler have earned Jimmy Lucas, the popular North Side flyweight, an eight-round engagement with Mike Brody, Peoria Ill., on Tuesday night's preliminary card. Brody holds decisions over Frankie Mason, Ray Miller, Joe Rayschel, Stanley Everett, Harry Forbes, Jimmy Sayers and three verdicts over Jimmy Russo, indicating that he should provide a severe test of Lucas' ring prowess.

Although he celebrated his twenty-first birthday only two weeks ago, Lucas has participated in 52 amateur and professional bouts and has 30 knockout vistories to his credit. Most of his fights were contested while he was serving a four-year enlistment in the U. S. Navy, during which he won the all-Navy flyweight title three successive times, taking the championship belt out of competition.

Harry Durso and Eddie O'Neill, recent graduates of the local amateur game, will meet in another flyweight feature of the prelim program. These diminutive ring rivals fought a thrilling six-round draw at the New Coliseum two weeks ago. Their return match is designed to provide a future opponent for Jimmy Lucas.

Walter "Red" Rowland and Buddy Schlereth, local lightweights, will be pitted against fistic favorites of nearby communities in a pair of six-round contests. Rowland meets Jack Jentz, of Scott Field, Ill., while Schlereth is paired with "Wop" Stonum, of Kennett, Mo.

The program will open with a four-round setto between Billy Cain and Leo Van Nest, local flyweight punchers, who will be meeting for the fourth time this season. Cain won the popular decision by a narrow margin in two of their previous encounters while one bout ended in a draw vardict.

DUCK PIN TOURNEY TO OPEN JUNE 3

E. A. Shaefer last night announced the first annual championship duck pin tournament for the five-man, two-man, singles and all events. Gold medals will be awarded the champions in each division. The tournament will open June 3 and entries to the events will close June first. The games will be bowled on the Schaefer-Delmar alleys.

The tournament is open to all teams and individuals in the St. Louis district. Five games will be bowled in each event and the entry fee will be $2 and bowling $1. Games will be bowled every day except Sunday, at 8 o'clock.

Entries are being made at the Delmar alleys.

POLICE CONFIDENT OF SOLVING HICKS MURDER MYSTERY

Psychological Effect of Secrecy in the Inquiry Considered as Bettering Chances of Success.

EXPECT SLAYERS TO BETRAY SELVES

Puzzling Features Encountered in Checking Over Dead Lawyer's Business Affairs for a Clew.

The secret investigation of the Hicks murder mystery, now ending its third week, has retraced most of the ground covered by police in their first rush to find a solution, and the authorities, while confident of ultimate success, seem no nearer solving the puzzle than they were at the start.

Police have great confidence in Assistant Circuit Attorney Andrew Maroney, who is in charge of the investigation. He is known as a thorough-going prosecutor and practical psychologist and it was not until after his entrance to the case that a mask or secrecy was thrown about informants questioned at Headquarters.

Maroney values the psychological feature of a secret inquiry. He believes that witnesses can thus be encouraged to tell what they know and that the murderers of Clifford Hicks, 28-year-old attorney, may become worried and betray themselves in some manner. It is the accepted belief that the guilty persons are in touch with progress of the investigation through newspapers, and Maroney believes the more he can mystify them as to actual information in the hands of the police the better are the chances of a solution.

Many Persons Questioned.

At Police Headquarters it is known that many of the 40 or more persons questioned last week were much more communicative than when first examined by police. Maroney as a cross-examiner uses many psychologically adroit lines of approach and his announced policy has been to "shake some of these people loose from their moorings."

One of the most puzzling featurse of the case developed when Maroney and Chief of Detectives Kaiser began checki[illegible] Hicks' business affairs for a clew to the murder. They found that although Hicks had made total deposits of $2,023,110.71 in the six months preceding his murder April 30, there is nothing to show how he got the money or what he did with it.

Hicks probably did not have more than $25,000 at one time, but he juggled this amount by depositing and withdrawing it daily so as to show large deposit totals. Maroney wants to know how he got together even this sum. Records show that Hicks' known business ventures were very moderate successes at best and in the end lost money. Investigators believe that Hicks had some secret source of revenue.

Statement of Major.

Former Gov. Elliott Major, a law partner of the murdered attorney, who was questioned at Police Headquarters yesterday, disclosed in a talk with reporters that Hicks was indebted $60,000 [illegible] J. R. Paisley, president of the Permanent Securities Investment Co., and his son, George. Previous estimates of what he owed the Paisleys had been $15,000, as indicated in his own memorandum, and later $30,000. Major said he did not know how Hicks got into debt so far. The loans made by the Paisleys to Hicks were secured only by an assignment of $90,000 in life insurance.

Major said that he and Sam Fox, another associate of Hicks, are helping Glenn Hicks, brother of the murdered man, to settle up the estate. Clifford Hicks was in debt $207,000 and had $365,000 in life insurance. His will named Glenn as executor without bond.

Interrogation of persons who knew Hicks' personal or business affairs continued at Headquarters yesterday afternoon and last night.

Glenn Hicks and wife were among those questioned. Maroney and Chief of Detectives Kaiser indicated that they will carry on their inquiry this week in the same manner as last. They declined to say if anything new has come to light.

POLICE CONFIDENT OF SOLVING HICKS MURDER MYSTERY

Psychological Effect of Secrecy in the Inquiry Considered as Bettering Chances of Success.

EXPECT SLAYERS TO BETRAY SELVES

Puzzling Features Encountered in Checking Over Dead Lawyer's Business Affairs for a Clew.

The secret investigation of the Hicks murder mystery, now ending its third week, has retraced most of the ground covered by police in their first rush to find a solution, and the authorities, while confident of ultimate success, seem no nearer solving the puzzle than they were at the start.

Police have great confidence in Assistant Circuit Attorney Andrew Maroney, who is in charge of the investigation. He is known as a thorough-going prosecutor and practical psychologist and it was not until after his entrance to the case that a mask or secrecy was thrown about informants questioned at Headquarters.

Maroney values the psychological feature of a secret inquiry. He believes that witnesses can thus be encouraged to tell what they know and that the murderers of Clifford Hicks, 28-year-old attorney, may become worried and betray themselves in some manner. It is the accepted belief that the guilty persons are in touch with progress of the investigation through newspapers, and Maroney believes the more he can mystify them as to actual information in the hands of the police the better are the chances of a solution.

Many Persons Questioned.

At Police Headquarters it is known that many of the 40 or more persons questioned last week were much more communicative than when first examined by police. Maroney as a cross-examiner uses many psychologically adroit lines of approach and his announced policy has been to "shake some of these people loose from their moorings."

One of the most puzzling featurse of the case developed when Maroney and Chief of Detectives Kaiser began checking Hicks' business affairs for a clew to the murder. They found that although Hicks had made total deposits of $2,023,110.71 in the six months preceding his murder April 30, there is nothing to show how he got the money or what he did with it.

Hicks probably did not have more than $25,000 at one time, but he juggled this amount by depositing and withdrawing it daily so as to show large deposit totals. Maroney wants to know how he got together even this sum. Records show that Hicks' known business ventures were very moderate successes at best and in the end lost money. Investigators believe that Hicks had some secret source of revenue.

Statement of Major.

Former Gov. Elliott Major, a law partner of the murdered attorney, who was questioned at Police Headquarters yesterday, disclosed in a talk with reporters that Hicks was indebted $60,000 to J. R. Paisley, president of the Permanent Securities Investment Co., and his son, George. Previous estimates of what he owed the Paisleys had been $15,000, as indicated in his own memorandum, and later $30,000. Major said he did not know how Hicks got into debt so far. The loans made by the Paisleys to Hicks were secured only by an assignment of $90,000 in life insurance.

Major said that he and Sam Fox, another associate of Hicks, are helping Glenn Hicks, brother of the murdered man, to settle up the estate. Clifford Hicks was in debt $207,000 and had $365,000 in life insurance. His will named Glenn as executor without bond.

Interrogation of persons who knew Hicks' personal or business affairs continued at Headquarters yesterday afternoon and last night. Glenn Hicks and wife were among those questioned. Maroney and Chief of Detectives Kaiser indicated that they will carry on their inquiry this week in the same manner as last. They declined to say if anything new had come to light.

WASHINGTON U. SUMMER SCHOOL TO OPEN JUNE 20

University Authorities Expect Record Enrollment This Year.

The summer session of Washington University will begin on June 20 and continue for six weeks, closing on July 29.

Previous years have shown a consistent increase in the number of students taking summer work.

During 1926 this increase amounted to 38 per cent and students came from 35 states and foreign countries. Correspondence with prospective students indicates that the enrollment this year will exceed that of any other summer session.

A larger number and greater variety of courses will be offered this summer. As in former years special emphasis will be placed upon courses in education for teachers. In addition, there will be given an extensive list of undergraduate and graduate courses in most of the departments of the College of Liberal Arts and the graduate school. Courses also will be given in the schools of Law, Engineering, Architecture, and Business and Public Administration. The demand for courses in Art has been so large that the number has been materially increased and eleven courses will be given in this school.

OLDS PROMOTED TO BE UNDERSECRETARY

Kellogg Advances Man Who Sought to Inspire Story of Red Conspiracy.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
20-23 Wyatt Bldg.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Robert E. Olds, Assistant Secretary of State and a former law partner of Secretary Kellogg, has been promoted to Under-Secretary of State to succeed Joseph E. Grew, who has been appointed Ambassador to Turkey. Olds is the official who attempted last November to "inspire" representatives of the three great news associations with a story about an alleged bolshevist hegemony in Central America, fostered by Mexico and directed against the United States.

His action was exposed by the Post-Dispatch and Senator Norris of Nebraska introduced a resolution for an investigation of the incident by the Foreign Relations Committee.

Administration Senators, however, defeated the plan for an impartial inquiry by a committee vote of 8 to 5. One of the reasons advanced against the investigation was the report that Secretary Kellogg intended to promote his former partner to the undersecretaryship, and that any inquiry would disturb this plan. Olds was appointed Assistant Secretary Oct. 1, 1925. In St. Paul he was a member of the law firm of Davis, Severance & Olds which before Secretary Kellogg was appointed Ambassador to England had been the firm of Davis, Kellogg and Severance. He is a graduate of Harvard and is 52 years old.

Make Your Skin Ivory-white in 3 days!

Or Your Money Back

Announcing

the most important beauty discovery in years—a wonderful new-type lotion that clears the skin of every blemish and makes it as smooth and white as ivory. Every woman who wants a glorious complexion can now have it in three to six days.

Now . . . a Liquid SKIN WHITENER at a Special Introductory Saving

Now you can have the smooth, flawless complexion you have always longed for—the exquisite white skin you see only in famous beauties. The kind of skin that powder cannot give. The skin itself must be smooth and white. My marvelous discovery now gives you this striking complexion in just three to six days. It smooths the skin to soft, silky texture. It whitens the skin to ivory whiteness.

GERMAN MINISTER'S HOBBY PROTECTION OF WILD LIFE

Von Keudell Builds Country's First Research Station to Conserve Animals and Birds.

BERLIN, May 21.—While Walther von Keudell is a busy man with the many duties of his office as the new German Minister of the Interior, he still finds time to pursue his long-time hobby of nature protection.

Herr von Keudell has set aside buildings and grounds on his estate at Bellingen, near Berlin, to help determine how best to conserve the country's natural beauties with its wild animal and bird life, preventing ruthless despoilment by the march of modern progress. It is the first German research station for this purpose.

Geologists, botanists and zoologists will take up work in this institute, which will be outfitted with a complete library and all necessary instruments. The entire plant will be directed by Dr. Klose, "Nature Protection Commissary" of the Province of Brandenburg.

The patron of the new plant, it will be recalled, had some difficulty in maintaining his place in the cabinet at the inception of the new Marx ministry. His record during the Kapp Putsch of 1921 was sharply attacked by the opposition but he was accorded a vote of confidence after a certificate of political soundness had been given him by Chancellor Marx in the Reichstag.

New Pennsylvania Train.

The Pennsylvania Railroad today will begin the operation of a new train to New York to replace the train known as "The Gotham Limited." The new train will depart at 4:40 p. m., reaching New York at 7:50 p. m. the following day. It will be called "The Juniata," from the name of a stream in the Alleghenies which parallels the Pennsylvania tracks.

GUARD FOR EMMY DESTINN WHEN SHE SINGS IN BERLIN

Former Metropolitan Prima Donna Threatened Because of Her War Attitude.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, May 21.—The closing month of Berlin's musical season furnished a real thrill in the form of a police protected concert by Emmy Destinn, former prima donna of the Metropolitan Opera.

Mme. Destinn was once a favorite of the Berlin opera going public. Critics recall that the performance of "Aida" back in 1913, with Emmy Destinn and Enrico Caruso as starring guests, was the most noteworthy in the entire contemporaneous history of German opera.

Mme. Destinn lost popularity, however, with a section of the German public because of alleged anti-German utterances during the war. When, therefore, the billboards announced that she was to appear here, certain organs of the nationalist press practically urged that she be prevented from coming on the platform.

To guard against any such attempts 100 police were detailed to preserve order. Nothing happened, however, outside of a few hisses, which were drowned by applause.

$379,000 RAISED HERE FOR FLOOD SUFFERERS

Red Cross Campaign Will Be Continued in View of Increase of Distress.

A round-figure total of $379,000 was reached yesterday by contributions made through the St. Louis Red Cross chapter for relief of the Mississippi Valley flood and tornado sufferers.

Because of the vast damage still being wrought by the flood, and the certainty that no sum raised will be sufficient to meet the need, the campaign for gifts here and elsewhere will be sufficient to meet the need, the campaign for gifts here and elsewhere will be continued so long as there are givers. The amount asked from St. Louis, $400,000, is now in sight, it is believed, but no arbitrary amount can now be treated as a goal, in view of the long-continued and widespread nature of the disaster.

The largest contribution yesterday was $2113 from Loew's State Theater, the proceeds of a midnight benefit, in which all performers and employes contributed their services.

Two Missouri communities, Bland, in Gasconade County, and Troy, Lincoln County, were in the list of those sending sums exceeding $100 to the St. Louis Red Cross Chapter, with headquarters at the Mercantile Trust Co. Citizens of Bland, through the Baptist, Christian and Methodist churches, sent $117.45, and the Troy Chamber of Commerce sent $220.

Employes of the Roxana Petroleum Corporation contributed $378.05, department heads and city employes of University City $200, and two chapters of the George Innes Study Class, Mrs. Paul Shortridge, director, $100.

J. L. Mauran, chairman of the St. Louis chapter, made an appeal yesterday that employes' lists, and other contributions to the Red Cross fund, be sent in at once.

A second carload of clothing was shipped yesterday. The clothing depot, 1631 Washington boulevard, needs volunteers to help mend and pack additional clothing according to Mrs. Nat Brown, who is in charge. All the clothing has been cleaned by various cleaning companies.

Wednesday, from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m., all proceeds of the Washington-Delmar green cross service cars will go to the Red Cross. Red Cross flags will designate the benefit cars. The Spanish Club of Neighborhood House will repeat "International Scenes" with native dances and songs next Saturday evening for the Red Cross.

ELECTRIC LOCOMOTIVES IN FRANCE GO 87 MILES AN HOUR

Condition of Roadbed Restricts Speed of Trains That Once Held World's Records.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, May 21.—French railroads are trying to re-establish their pre-war mile-a-minute schedules. France once had some of the fastest trains in the world, but the war left the roadbeds in bad condition and the equipment worse.

Europe's quickest train service was claimed in the old days for the Paris-Calais train, which beat 60 miles an hour. Several long runs were made at better than 56 miles an hour.

Tests of electric equipment have proved the feasibility of making between 75 and 80 miles an hour on good stretches, which would give an average commercial time—with starts and stops out — of around 60 miles.

The new electric engines can make 87 miles an hour, but the condition of the tracks has forced a limit of 78 miles an hour for even the fast stretches. Eventually the railroads expect to strengthen roadbed and rails to meet future speed standards.

LINDBERGH TO BE PROPOSED FOR PROMOTION AS MAJOR

Recommendation Will Go in Tomorrow, Chief Air Officer of Seventh Corps Area Says.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

OMAHA, Neb., May 21.—It will soon be Maj. Charles Lindbergh instead of Captain, according to Maj. Geo. E. A. Reinburg, chief air officer of the Seventh Corps Area.

"As soon as I get to my office Monday," said Reinburg, "I will sign an application to make Lindbergh a Major and have him placed in charge of the National Guard air squadron at St. Louis."

"I knew he would do it regardless of the fact that he had no wireless equipment, radio or navigator," the Major said in commenting on Lindbergh's successful flight to Paris.

No effort will be made to get Lindbergh to join the regular army, according to Reinburg.

"Why, it would be foolish to even ask him when he has a chance to make a million dollars," he said.

COUNTY COMMERCE CHAMBER INSPECTS SEWER SYSTEM

Members of the St. Louis County Chamber of Commerce yesterday went to Bloomington, Ill., by special train to inspect the $700,000 sewer system now under construction there. Their purpose was to familiarize themselves with the new work there inasmuch as several million dollars is to be spent on St. Louis County sewers during the next few years.

At Bloomington all the sewage will pass through a filtration plant and a process of treating the sewage so that it is not to be harmful to the stream was explained by J. J. Woltman, the engineer who designed the plant.

Hindenburg Gets White Zebras.
the Associated Press.

BERLIN, May 21.—President Hindenburg finds that he has his hands, not the traditional white elephant, but two beautiful full-grown zebras. The animals were sent to him by Ras Tafari, Prince Regent of Abyssinia, as a token of esteem. The unusual present arrived with a shipment of monkeys, jackals, hyenas, antelopes and ostriches intended for a German dealer. President von Hindenburg has turned his gift over to the Berliner Zoo.

PRIZE FOR FLOWERS GROWN ARTIFICIALLY

Garden Club's Blue Ribbon Given Blooms Forced Under Electric Light.

Flowers beguiled by electric light into developing by night as well as day were one of the exhibits which attracted more than 7000 persons to the Garden Club's amateur show, opening yesterday afternoon at Shaw's Graden. An even larger crowd is expected before the show ends tonight.

The blooms coaxed out by electricity were shown by Mrs. A. E. Brooker and won a blue ribbon. High-candled power bulbs above them had been substituted effectively for sunlight.

Eight years ago Mr. and Mrs. George Smith planted a few flowers in a tiny plot on their lawn at 5456 Plover avenue. Each year it grew, until it covered a space 25x75 feet, and provided nosegays for half the neighborhood. At the last minutes they decided to enter a few in the Garden Club show, and last night they received the most coveted award, the Garden Club medal for the best allround showing with 74 points—15 more than the runner-up.

Their son, James, won a blue ribbon for the first bouquet from a city garden, but, since no one else competed in that class, was not awarded the Lansing Ray cup.

Fuchsias, abutilon and ageratum, tastefully arranged among Christmas and asparagus ferns and crotons won for J. Gilmour of Richmond Heights the Joseph Pulitzer silver cup for the best window box.

Enchanting masses of many colors in the Shaw's Garden iris beds arrested the steps of many approaching or leaving the show. Even more striking to many were two back yards elaborately worked out in a "before and after" illustration. One was the aGrden Club's ideal. The other was weed-choked and adorned only with the week's wash and a dilapidated shed on the roof of which stood an even more dilapidated cat.

GOOD-WILL FLIGHT LEADER PLANS TO VISIT TO CANADA

Permission Sought for Maj. Dargue to Include Several Dominion Cities in Coming Tour.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The War Department today asked the Canadian Government to permit Maj. Herbert A. Dargue, who led the Pan-American Good-Will Flight, to visit Montreal and Ottawa on his tour of the eastern half of the United States which will begin on Monday.

Maj. Dargue, acompanied by Walter O. Lochner, president of the National Association of Commercial Organization Secretaries, will leave Bolling Field here in the Pan-American plane "New York," at 9 o'clock Monday morning, the first stop being at Harrisburg, Pa. Enroute to that city the plane will fly over Hanover, Pa., later making stops during the day at York and Lancaster, Pa., and Camden, N. J. Total distance expected to be flown is estimated at 10,000 miles and the flight will take seven weeks.

PRESIDENT ABOARD HIS YACHT

Accompanied by Wife and Guests; First River Trip of Season.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—President Coolidge left Washington this afternoon for a week-end trip aboard the presidential yacht Mayflower.

With the President and Mrs. Coolidge on their first trip aboard the yacht in three months were Secretary Work, Postmaster New and Mrs. New, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Glover Jr. of Washington; Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, vice chairman of the Republican National Committee; Commissioner Myers of the United States Shipping Board and Mrs. Myers, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Stearns of Boston.

Heads Electrical Engineers.
By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 21.—Bancroft Gherardi, vice president and chief engineer of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., was elected president of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers at the annual business meeting, it was announced today.

CONVERT YOUR GAS HEATER INTO AN AUTOMATIC HOT WATER HEATER

This neat little fixture placed in your kitchen or bathroom enables you to light and turn off your gas water heater from either or both rooms.

It lights the gas in your basement hot-water heater from upstairs. Automatically shuts off the gas when water is hot.

If for any reason the pilot light goes out, the supply of gas is automatically shut off.

Fourth of National Budget Devoted to Education—Religion Is Not Taught, Neither Is It Persecuted—Marriage and Divorce Are Easy but Alimony Is Inevitable if There Are Children—High Death Rate Solving Problem of Wild Boys, Says Pierrepont B. Noyes.

THIS is the second of two articles by Mr. Noyes, former American member of the International Rhine Commission, reporting his observations on a recent visit to Russia.

NEW YORK, May 21.

WHEN the Russians repudiated the old order of things, they apparently tried to break with all the customs and habits of capitalistic civilization. I visited a large institution devoted to training physical culture teachers. I saw there hundreds of very healthy and intelligent-looking men and women engaged in every variety of athletics—boxing, fencing, bowling, basketball, etc. I was told with great seriousness that these young people were taught to play games entirely for the physical benefits—that the spirit of competition was eliminated. Lenin insisted that competition in sports led to a competitive spirit in economic life. This had hardly been explained to me when an excited basketball player burst out with a savage attack on the umpire. I did not understand his words, but I am sure they would have done credit to our most forcible baseball players. I laughingly commented on this to my guide, saying, "Eliminate the competitive spirit in sports? You haven't a chance."

In Moscow one can still see the wonderful Russian ballets, but their pet theater is the "New Theater" largely, I think, because it is different from the theaters of the old regime. Here one faces a vast proscenium with no curtain and no scenery—only great wooden screens which are pushed noisily on rollers to subdivide the stage. Everything is very simple and the actors bring in their own chairs.

When I was careful I got a 15-minute interview, while contentious remarks led to discussions running into hours. I was to have 15 minutes of Mme. Kameneva's valuable time, but when I assailed Russia's attitude toward religion, the interview lasted two hours and at the end she urged that I talk with the Commissar of Education, Luna Sharsky, "who," she said, "can answer your questions better than I." She finally took refuge in a typical woman's argument. "We tell our young people that we will teach in the schools only the truth, that the traditional fakes and false propaganda of education in other countries will not be tolerated here. We do not believe in religion. How can we teach it to the children?"

I did learn one fact which modifies the current report as to the Bolshevik treatment of religious property. Kameneva said, "We do not teach the children religion. On the other hand, we do not persecute religion," and I saw evidence confirming this statement. In the middle of one of the main streets stands an old church which interferes seriously with traffic. The city fathers decided to have it removed, but were prevented by the Central Committee until a vote of the congregation could be taken. This vote being against removal, permission was denied the city authorities and the church still stands.

Fourth of National Budget Is Given to Education

An entire article could be written about the schools. The Russians are simply crazy on the subject of education. Twenty-five per cent. of the entire national budget is spent on education. Mme. Kameneva assured me that the 90 per cent. illiteracy which existed in Russia before the revolution would be completely liquidated (as she put it) by 1933. I talked with Russian educators who had spent three or four years abroad studying the school systems of Western nations and today the four big schools in Moscow are operating on four different plans with the object of determining which is best adapted to their children. I spent much time in the schools and universities. So far as I could see, the equipment in these institutions was excellent. At different times, however, both principals and teachers who were showing me around complained ruefully of the lack of money to buy certain things which they felt were badly needed. The children looked clean and romped noisily around the building between classes much as our own children do. They looked happy and carefree.

I was admitted to a room where a class was holding a meeting in connection with their well organized student government system. Both boys and girls spoke with a fluency quite beyond the average of our own children. As fast as one speaker finished, many hands were in the air claiming the chairman's attention. Finally a black-haired boy of 16 made a short, snappy speech and as he sat down the whole class broke forth in a noisy but good-natured negative. I learned afterward that the meeting was held to consider the increase of small thefts in the school building—books, rubbers, etc. The black-haired boy had suggested separate lockers for each student with individual locks and keys. The noisy negative was the answer of these youthful disciples of Karl Marx. I wondered how many of their parents would still really feel as sincere a willingness to tolerate theft rather than protect their property as capitalistic citizens do.

Divorce Is Easy, But Alimony Can Be Collected

In the academy I saw a large department devoting itself by the aid of the very latest scientific equipment to proving through vivisection the material nature of life and thought and the soul. Having officially abandoned religion, these Slavs have set themselves to prove their spiritual negations.

In Soviet Russia, marriage and divorce are both very simple—a declaration recorded by a magistrate is all that is necessary for either. There is, however, a very practical string attached to divorce. If there is a child, one-third of the man's income goes to the woman until the child becomes of age. Under this system, a man cannot go beyond three divorces and have any income left. Alimony, too, in Russia is as certain as taxes since people cannot disappear from sight of the Government as in other countries.

I made inquiries regarding that old story of the nationalization of women. It was indignantly denied that such a system was ever planned or thought of by any responsible Governmental agencies. I was told that the story came from something which occurred in a small department in the south during the days of revolution, a movement which was immediately suppressed by the Government.

High Death Rate Solving Problem of the Wild Boys

I was greatly interested in the wild boys of whom we have heard much. Many of these roam the streets of Moscow clad in every kind of a misfit garment. Immediately after the revolution there were 280,000 of these little waifs who had lost their parents and all traces of their origin. There are still, it is estimated, 120,000. Institutions have been provided to take care of these boys, but it is impossible to keep them confined. They love the wild life and run away from private homes and institutions. Shoobin expressed great confidence that the problem of the wild boys would be solved within another year, but I was later told that the high rate of mortality among them was solving the problem rather than the Government. They roam from city to city riding on brakebeams of railway cars, and their life in the streets is very precarious. These boys certainly look wild, but often decidedly attractive in their lawless wildness. They beg or steal, as opportunity affords, and will leap between the wheels of trucks or perform other daring feats to create a sensation and attract pennies. They also shoot craps on the sidewalks with savage earnestness.

I once saw, in one of the semi-enclosed shelters for trolley patrons which stand in the middle of the street, eight of the little rascals lying in a semi-circle on the wooden bench which ran around three sides of the shed. Each had his head on the next one's back and they were snuggling close in all their dirt and rags to keep themselves warm. All were sound asleep, quite oblivious of the noise and crowds that surged about them.

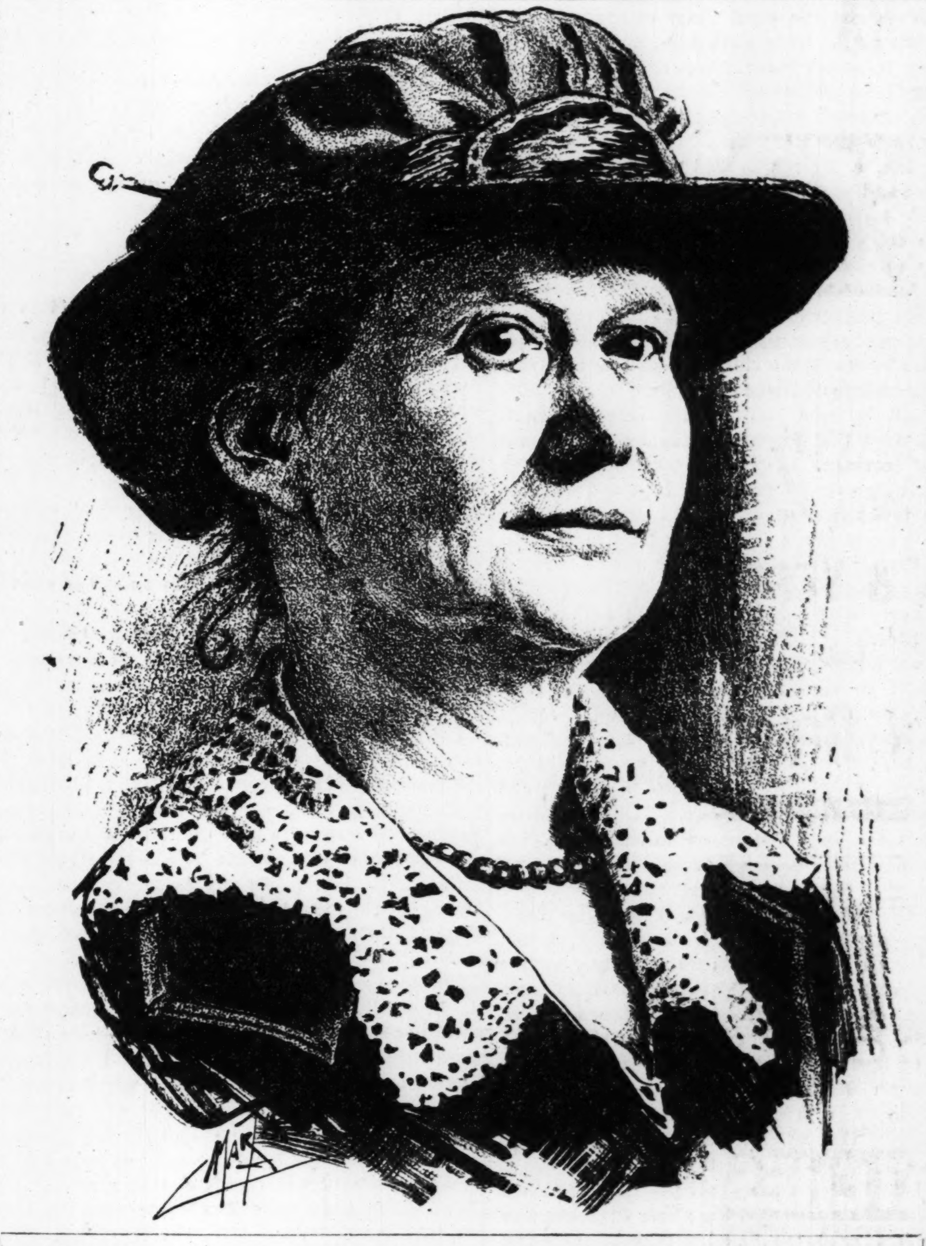
California Sending Miss Whitney To Prison; Supreme Court Upheld State's Power, Did Not Justify Its Use

Woman Caught in Mesh of Law Limiting Free Speech Declines to Ask for Mercy, Saying She Has "Done Nothing to Be Pardoned For."

Author of Anti-Syndicalism Statute Declares Is Was Not Aimed at Those Such as She Who Seek Peaceful Change in Government.

Miss Charlotte Anita Whitney



Human Progress Set Back By Nullification of Free Speech

—Miss Charlotte Anita Whitney

Backed by the traditions of her Colonial forbears, Miss Charlotte Anita Whitney, despite a prison sentence under the California criminal syndicalism law, remains steadfast in her belief in freedom of speech. In the following telegram to the Post-Dispatch she calls attention to the dangers of a policy of prohibiting discussion of social and economic changes:

MONTEREY, Cal., May 21.

CRIMINAL syndicalist laws not only may be, but are used to suppress all freedom of speech, both of individuals and of organizations. No overt act needs to be committed and the power of prosecution lies entirely with local officials and politics. For example, in California we had an organization functioning openly and without molestation in San Francisco, while its members were arrested, tried and convicted in Alameda County, a few miles away across the bay. After seven years members of this organization are still serving sentences in San Quentin for the sole reason of membership, while the head office in San Francisco has never been closed.

No more powerful weapon for the preservation of any status quo could ever be put in the hands of those already in power. Dynamic changes are taking place in science and art, in the methods of production, transportation, etc., but the criminal syndicalist laws can be made to prohibit discussion along lines of change or advance in our economic and political system. It is an attempt to block evolution along the lines that most vitally affect the thoughts and lives of the great mass of our American people.

CHARLOTTE ANITA WHITNEY.

Vital Sections of Syndicalism Act

THE essential sections of the California anti-syndicalism law, which Miss Whitney was convicted of violating, and which the United States Supreme Court upheld as constitutional, are:

"The term 'criminal syndicalism' as used in this act is hereby defined as any doctrine or precept advocating, teaching or aiding and abetting the commission of crime, sabotage (which word is hereby defined as meaning willful and malicious physical damage or injury to physical property), or unlawful acts of force and violence or unlawful methods of terrorism as a means of accomplishing a change in the industrial ownership or control, or effecting any political change.

"Any person who organizes or assists in organizing, or is or knowingly becomes a member of, any organization, society, group or assemblage of persons organized or assembled to advocate, teach, or aid and abet criminal syndicalism is guilty of felony and punishable by imprisonment."

The parts of the Federal Constitution which were cited, in Miss Whitney's appeal, and which her counsel sought to show were opposed to the California statute, are:

Amendment 1. Congress shall make no law * * abridging the freedom of speech.

Amendment 14. No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges and immunities of citizens of the United States, nor shall any state deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
20-23 Wyatt Building.
WASHINGTON, May 21.

AN elderly woman, of gentle birth, who has given years of her time and thousands of her money for the welfare of others as she saw it, must go to San Quentin prison as an enemy of the Government and the social order, unless the Governor of California pardons her.

Charlotte Anita Whitney, whose sentence of 1 year to 14 years for violation of the California criminal syndicalism law was affirmed Monday by the United States Supreme Court, says she will not ask Gov. Young for a pardon.

"I have done nothing to be pardoned for," she said in the one brief statement she has made since the Supreme Court acted. "I have no intention of asking for a pardon. Compared to Sacco and Vanzetti, I have nothing to complain of."

She took the same position a year and a half ago, when Gov. Young's predecessor, Gov. Richardson, was asked by many persons to grant a pardon. Richardson refused, saying that he would prefer to pardon some of the less prominent and less educated persons who were already in prison under the operation of the same law.

And Miss Whitney said very much the same. "Let the Governor liberate the poor men who are imprisoned for violation of this law," she said. "Their guilt may be less than mine." The Anita Whitney Committee broadened its demand to include the release of Miss Whitney and of any men "as unjustly convicted and as innocent as she."

But the men, numbering 86 in all, and most of them "wobblies," as members of the I. W. W. are called on the Pacific Coast, had to serve substantial parts of their terms, which in most cases were four or six years.

"Hell-Raising" Ceases But the Law Goes On.

The California public has seemed quite willing that these men should do their time. In the general estimation, they were "hell-raisers." The state criminal syndicalism law was directed against "hell-raising," of which San Diego, Sacramento and other California cites had a-plenty in the I. W. W. demonstrations that began before, and continued through, the World War.

To be sure, the issue of free speech was involved. But Californians decided to leave that to the courts, and the courts, now including the United States Supreme Court, have decided that the California statute is not in any fatal conflict with the free speech clauses of the Constitution. So, apparently, California can keep its law if it wishes to. And it notes with some satisfaction that "hell-raising" has subsided visibly. How far it would have subsided anyway, or what part the law has had in quieting industrial conditions, is matter for speculation.

But there are many Californians who wish, now that the crisis appears to be over, that the case against Miss Whitney could be quietly dropped.

If she is placed in San Quentin, and so long as her indeterminate sentence keeps her there, they see the prospect of a continued agitation, such as was caused by the incarceration of Eugene V. Debs in Atlanta, and the Mooney case in California, or such as now attends the Sacco-Vanzetti case in Massachusetts. A "Free Anita Whitney" movement might result in strikes or a renewal of "hell-raising," all of which California would like to avoid.

Some take the view of W. J. Locke, city attorney of Alameda, one of those credited with authorship of the syndicalism law.

"Miss Whitney's conviction was a mistake," Locke said. "The law was not meant for persons who, like her, seek to change the form of government by peaceable means."

In her trial in Oakland more than seven years ago, Miss Whitney presented a defense somewhat along this line. She was charged with membership in the Communist Labor Party, in Oakland in 1919. To bring this charge under the syndicalism law, it was alleged that the Communist Labor party was "an organization which advocates, teaches, aids and abets criminal syndicalism."

The organization at which the law was primarily aimed was, of course, the I. W. W. Evidence obtained in raids of the Communist and I. W. W. headquarters was offered, to prove that both favored the activities forbidden by the law. Evidence was also offered of a connection of the Communists with the Communist International of Moscow.

Letters written by Miss Whitney to prisoners in Leavenworth and other Federal prisons, convicted on draft-dodging and war obstruction charges, were introduced in evidence.

Joined Party With No Unlawful Purpose.

The defense sought to show that Miss Whitney, as a member of the Communist organization, had voted against proposals which called for measures of violence. Miss Whitney testified that it was not her intention that the Communist organization in California should be an instrument of terrorism or violence, and that neither she nor the convention which she attended had planned a violation of any known law. In her behalf, it was argued that she was not aware, in joining the party, of any unlawful purpose on its part.

Her arrest had followed her violation of a police order against her speaking at a women's club meeting in Oakland on the Negro problem. It was charged that she quoted from an "incendiary" publication, which attacked the Government for its attitude toward the Negro race.

The circumstances of the arrest, and Miss Whitney's explanation as to her understanding of the Communist program, were matters for the trial court in Oakland, and the State Appellate Courts, to consider. But they did not come before the United States Supreme Court in its review which has just resulted in affirmation of the conviction.

Miss Whitney's counsel appealed to the Supreme Court on one issue—the constitutionality of the California syndicalism law. Other issues might have been raised to better effect, Justice Brandeis suggested in his partially dissenting opinion.

Justice Brandeis, whose opinion, indorsed by Justice Holmes, is taken as the view of the "liberal" section of the Supreme Court, would have liked to pass on the question whether any grave and immediate danger to the State justified the prosecution of Miss Whitney.

"Whether in 1919, when Miss Whitney did the things complained of, there was in California such clear and present danger of serious evil, might have been made the important issue in the case," Justice Brandeis said. "She might have required that the issue be determined either by the court or the jury.

Some Things the Defense Might Have Claimed.

"She claimed below that the statute as applied to her violated the Federal Constitution; but she did not claim that it was void because there was no clear and present danger of serious evil, nor did she request that the existence of these conditions of a valid measure thus restricting the rights of free speech and assembly be passed upon by the court or a jury.

"On the other hand, there was evidence on which the Court or jury might have found that such danger existed.

"I am unable to assent to the suggestion in the opinion of the Court that assembling with a political party, formed to advocate the desirability of a proletarian revolution by mass action at some date necessarily far in the future, is not a right within the protection of the fourteenth amendment. In the present case, however, there was other testimony which tended to establish the existence of a conspiracy, on the part of members of the International Workers of the World, to commit present serious crimes; and likewise to show that such a conspiracy would be furthered by the activity of the society of which Miss Whitney was a member. Under these circumstances the judgment of the State Court cannot be disturbed."

It will be seen that in the Whitney case, as in the Sacco-Vanzetti case, the tribunal of final decision did not pass on the sufficiency of the facts which were the basis of conviction. The Massachusetts Supreme Court in the case of the Italians, and the Washington tribunal in the present cause, were restricted under the law to broad general issues.

Justice Sanford, who wrote the Supreme Court's opinion in the Whitney case, said of the issue of free speech:

Free Speech and the Law Against Its Use.

"The syndicalism act as applied in this case is not repugnant to the due process clause as a restraint of the rights of free speech, assembly and association. That the freedom of speech which is secured by the Constitution does not confer an absolute right to speak without responsibility whatever one may choose or an unrestricted and unbridled license giving immunity for every possible use of language and preventing the

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Old-Time River Traffic.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE old river men do not agree with Mayor Miller in a statement he made to a large party of business men on the harbor boat Erastus Wells, while viewing our harbor and its docks. He compared the heyday of river tonnage in 1889 with today when we handle 2,000,000 more tons of freight than at that period. The Mayor proudly pointed to six packets in the harbor as proof of local river transportation. Let us compare this with the past.

We have a boat to Peoria, Ill.; one to Cape Girardeau and two call on Calhoun County. None of these boats is new except the Cape Girardeau. This will not compare with the great Anchor Line boats, of which 16 formed the fleet, all the size of the late "City of Providence," which was one of them. To St. Paul we had eight side-wheel boats that constituted the Northern Line. The Keokuk Packet Co. had four boats in the trade. We had four boats operated by the Naples Packet Co. to Peoria. Our neglected Missouri River had the Omaha Packet Co., with six side-wheel boats, and numerous independent boats to various towns; to Kansas City, Jefferson City, etc. Boat lines operated to Pittsburg on the Ohio River, to Shreveport, La., on the Red River. Space will not allow me to mention other points as far as Fort Benton, Mont.

True, we now have a Government barge line, but the Haarstick barge line, composed of 10 large towboats and 90 barges with cargo boxes on them, were the equal, if not superior to the Government fleet. The Kountz Line operated four stern-wheel boats that were 300 feet long and had the hull loaded, besides a cargo warehouse above it to hold lighter freight.

Such was navigation before too much improvement was made by the West Point engineers to the channels of these various rivers. The old-timers will not concede the Mayor's statement as proof that the present volume of freight carried is a direct increase to St. Louis. They contend that a carload of goods from some distant point and loaded on a Government barge at our municipal dock accounts for the 2,000,000 tons.

In 1889 the Belcher Sugar Refinery in St. Louis received all the Louisiana raw sugar for refining, and our boats carried it upstream and again as refined sugar away from here by water. Today it passes us in barges, and all we get out of it is to hoist it from the barge to a railroad car.

The Trend of Skirts.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE women of today have, by following ludicrous styles, placed themselves in a pitiable plight.

Are they trying to hide what they intended to show? Or are they trying to show what they intended to hide? Or are they just trying to hide their hides?

Skirts to their knees, or higher, and of their own choosing. Yet, when men glance at their exposed limbs, their faces show a pained, indignant look.

Very often, on street cars, feminine feet are shoved away back under long car seats to hide, as much as possible, the plain view of their legs from the persistent gaze of admirers across the big aisle.

Why do they dress in a way they appear to be ashamed of?

Lloyd George's Irony Misunderstood.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

LLOYD GEORGE, in his comment on Secretary Mellon's reply to Columbia and Princeton professors, among other things says:

"Armies are much too clumsy and costly as debt collectors. The commission charge for collection is always bigger than the receipts in these degenerate days when you are not permitted to confiscate land and to exterminate and enslave the inhabitants."

I wonder if this sentiment still pervades the British empire or is it just that of one individual, David Lloyd George?

We common people of America do not consider it degenerate to prohibit land confiscation and extermination and enslaving of inhabitants. Are there any in this country who share his view? I hope not.

For the Tornado Sufferers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE Child Conservation Conference is sending out an appeal to its members and friends to collect clothing and bedding for the tornado sufferers at Poplar Bluff, Mo. The Amity Association will send a truck to anyone who phones MAin 0075 stating that they have a bundle and this will be put in condition to send at once to Mr. W. E. Morrisson, 127 North Seventh street, Poplar Bluff, who will see that it is properly distributed to those most in need. Or contributions may be taken direct to the Clementine Bliss Free Day Nursery at 918 South Fourth, and will be forwarded at the earliest date possible as the need is urgent. Mark packages so as to expedite handling and delivery.

LINDBERGH WINS!

Just as everybody thought he would, Charles A. Lindbergh flew from New York to Paris. His amazing daring and his charming nonchalance conquered the Atlantic as easily as they have always conquered every other obstacle in the way of this remarkable youth.

"I want to be a flyer," he said when he turned up at a Nebraska flying school six years ago, and what a flyer he made! Four times, when the night was dark and the storm was raging, Lindbergh lightly leaped out of his mail plane on the route between St. Louis and Chicago and parachuted to earth. "He always used his wits," says Captain Ray Page, who was his flying instructor, and it was that quality that brought him at last to his great triumph of yesterday.

"Suicide," said the British Admiralty of Lindbergh's design to fly across the Atlantic alone and without radio, literally burning every bridge behind him. Worse than foolhardy, said we all, still grieving as we were the loss of Nungesser and Coli, whom ocean had swallowed up but a few days before. "Flying Fool" the French affectionately dubbed him. Nevertheless, we still felt that Lindbergh had a chance. "He always had some wild idea, but he kept his head," said the man who taught him to fly. That characteristic and the stout heart of the man discounted the peril. They gave Lindbergh a chance. We all felt it, as his fellow flyers always subtracted something from whatever danger Lindbergh encountered. "Lucky" Lindbergh, they called him.

So it was "Lucky" Lindbergh, a man who bore a charmed life, a flyer who had calmly gone overboard time and again in the stress of storm, leaving his parachute to open in its own sweet time and land him softly upon some hay field, who was on yesterday to electrify an ecstatic world. It was "Lucky" Lindbergh, when Nungesser had failed and rivals in the race between New York and Paris waited for the weather to clear, who suddenly rose from Roosevelt Field and found the storm before him resolving into smiling skies and helping winds. With nothing but his grit between him and the blue sea, as if sustained upon that fearful journey by the buoyant wings of courage, the imperturbable Lindbergh sailed serenely over 3600 miles of land and water, a veritable rendezvous of death, and reposed at last upon the velvety lawns of a flying field in the outskirts of Paris. And what a welcome was his! Hardly in history has there been anything like the good sportsmanship with which the French acclaimed a foreign victor.

There was a reason not generally known why Lindbergh could so readily go alone. He is his own mechanic. In the six years he has been flying, from the school days in Nebraska to the daily mail trip between St. Louis and Chicago, he tinkered his own motors. He has adjusted them in the air and on the ground. Great as the roar is, his sensitive ear detects the least dissonance anywhere in the mechanism. When Lindbergh's cool hand is laid upon the ailing part it gets expert first aid. That is not, however, altogether the reason why he could go alone. Lindbergh is also a navigator. Just as it is not known how an albatross finds its way about on the outermost sea, it is not known how Lindbergh, though drifted by the wind and oftentimes unguided by anything from earth, always turns up at his destination. Or land or sea, or day or night, it is all one to Lindbergh. He is a birdman.

The flight to Paris was made in the true "Spirit of St. Louis." That was a fitting name for his monoplane, one matching his own intrepidity, and one of which all St. Louisans are justly proud. It is something more than a race that the young flyer has won. He has won the ungrudging admiration of the world. Our own joy in his achievement is not greater than that of men in all lands. The world loves courage. Or a Nungesser lost or a Lindbergh safely delivered from the perilous sea, the hearts of men and women everywhere beat in a tumult of common affection for that quality in man which disdains death.

Lindbergh's triumph, the $25,000 he has won by first making the flight between New York and Paris, and the universal acclaim that he has gained for himself and his city, are all fruits of the St. Louis Flying Field. That Flying Field has many times paid for itself. Without it Lindbergh would never have found backers in St. Louis to build him the monoplane he wanted, and what is to us a matter of pride in him and in ourselves would have been something apart from us seen at a distance. Thanks to the impetus which the field has given flying, it is a triumph, and a very great and genuine triumph, which Lindbergh shares with St. Louis.

Hail to the "Flying Swede"!

LEGISLATORS AS BUREAUCRATS.

From Jefferson City comes reaffirmation of the evil possibilities which the Post-Dispatch recently foresaw in the decision of Attorney-General Gentry upholding the right of legislators to hold State jobs. According to this paper's correspondent, the number of members of the 1927 Legislature holding such jobs has increased from three to seven since the Attorney-General rendered his ruling, on April 30, and several other legislators who are seeking jobs are likely to get them shortly.

Since the Post-Dispatch pointed out the possible dangers of this custom of combining executive and legislative departments, the public has been promised a future case in which the custom may easily thwart the popular will and the welfare of Missourians. This case will materialize when the Missouri Association for Economy in Public Expenditures offers to the next Legislature its plan for the reorganization of the State Government in the interests of efficiency and economy, by the consolidation of departments and the elimination of superfluous jobs.

That the custom of appointing legislators to State jobs offers a considerable menace to the adoption of any such plan is apparent. Not only would legislators holding jobs have a powerful incentive to vote against a proposal which might threaten the existence of their jobs, but they would be subject to the coercion of the administration and hence might, if the administration were opposed to the plan of reorganization, be forced either to vote against the plan or forfeit their positions. It might be possible, indeed, for an administration to appoint enough pliant legislators to executive positions to defeat any plan to eliminate extravagance and waste from the State Government.

Obviously, here is a threatened danger which is real rather than theoretical. The only possibility of removing it lies in asking the State Supreme Court for a definitive ruling on the clause of the Constitution which provides that no Senator or Representative shall, during the term for which he has been elected, be appointed to any State position. Attorney-General Gentry attempts to get around this by declaring that it applies only to heads of executive departments, and not to clerkships or other inferior positions within a department.

HINDENBURG.

Ludendorff was brilliant, but Hindenburg has character. Of these two outstanding German military figures, Ludendorff has faded to obscurity while the man he supplanted as generalissimo of the armies is topping off his long life as President of the German Republic. From all we can gather, the 80-year-old ex-Field Marshal is making a splendid go of it.

He is quoted as saying to the Germans: "We lost the past. But nobody can take away our hope for the future. And the future of Germany lies in commerce, industry and hard work." It is not easy for a man of Hindenburg's memories to dismiss the past so briefly. His former royal master could not do so. The soured remnants of Junkerism show no such courage.

We think the Germans are fortunate in having for a leader this flinty and loyal patriarch who can wave aside a past so redolent of himself and point toward a future which he will never see. Hindenburg has dropped the sword and taken up the scythe and he is doing much to build a new Germany over the Kaiser's wreckage.

RUSSIA STATES HER CASE.

In asking that their country be received back into the family of nations, the Russian delegation to the International Economic Conference makes several excellent points which are of vital interest to Americans.

They recognize the obligation to pay their war debts, as soon as the complex international situation created by reparations and the allied debts to the United States is adjusted. There is, to be sure, nothing new in this declaration, inasmuch as several high Soviet officials have at various times offered to meet with our representatives to agree upon a settlement of this old indebtedness. But it is a welcome reaffirmation of a commendable attitude upon the part of a debtor Power.

The Russians agree, further, to give up all attempts to convert friendly Powers to their economic and political faith, a promise which will be welcomed by the friends of Russia quite as heartily as by her enemies. While the propagandist activities of the Third International, to which the Soviet leaders belong, has been a greatly over-rated menace in America, its existence has constituted a useful weapon in the hands of those opposed to recognizing Russia.

But of all the declarations of the delegation at Geneva, none, it appears to us, is more significant than the admission that Russia has at last realized that a communist state can co-operate with the League of Nations and fraternize with capitalist and imperialist governments on equal terms. This is something which both extreme bolshevists and American reactionaries have hitherto denied. Now that the Russians have changed their attitude on the subject, perhaps we shall reconsider our own.

The tone of the Russian plea for admittance into the fraternity of nations is not the old truculent, fanatical one which was so often heard when the Soviets were attempting to force concessions from Western Powers by means of the threat of world revolution. Russia today wants friends, and is willing to go to great lengths in order to obtain them.

In view of this, is it unreasonable to hope that our own Government will decide to take a more responsive attitude toward the Russian proposals for clearing up the obstacles in the path to recognition?

INDIAN RUNNERS.

Quanawahu, Hopi snake priest, won the first Long Beach Marathon, though he halted in the race to help a footsore competitor.

Despite Longfellow, who attributed to Hiawatha such fleetness of foot that a mathematician estimated that he could run 70 miles an hour if he really could perform the feats ascribed to him, it has taken us hundreds of years to appreciate the Indian as a runner. Not only our own Indians, but those from Mexico, are participating in our races. The Marathon race, indeed, has revived among the Indians of Mexico the art of running, as our revival of the Olympic Games has revived among us a zest for international sports. It was said of Montezuma that he had brought to him every day by runners fresh fish from the seas and ripe fruit from the tropical shores. The Aztecs also communicated with their army, which was scattered all over a vast empire, by means of runners. No post was so distant that they could not quickly reach it.

Quanawahu said during the race that he feared only other Indians in it. Nevertheless, it was a white man who pushed him at the last. The white man is not the natural runner the Indian is. His is another mode of life, but he has a stout heart.

"A GREAT EFFORT."

Just before sailing for home the Former British Prime Minister, Ramsay MacDonald, spoke movingly of prohibition. "A great effort," he pronounced it, "and I like great efforts." He rebuked his fellow-countrymen who have spoken slightingly or jeeringly of this movement.

Possibly this criticism is deserved. Visiting foreigners, however, might explain that their attitude only reflected the attitude of Americans. Certainly prohibition has evoked endless ridicule here at home.

Is responsibility for such bad manners solely chargeable to the opponents of prohibition? Nobody acquainted with the facts would say so. In the heyday of their power the dry leaders were bitterly arrogant and intolerant. Right of contrary opinion was vehemently denied. Men of the highest probity and sincerity were villified for daring to question the wisdom and sanctity of the eighteenth amendment or the Volstead act. Courtesy was suspended. Decency was adjourned.

Were Ramsay MacDonald an American familiar with the strategy and tactics of the proprietors of this movement; were he familiar with their system of espionage and merciless reprisal in the domain of politics; if he knew from personal observation the lamentable consequences of this law not only in general manners but in the deportment of that younger generation whose salvation it was especially designed to secure; if, in a word, Mr. MacDonald was speaking from knowledge instead of emotion he would, we imagine, deliver a different and more competent judgment.

Though there's something rather fit and hale
About the Antiseptic;
But many a sport of frugal sort
Would book by the Economic,
And of honest mirth there should be no dearth
Aboard the good ship Comic.

The millionaire would pay his fare
For a passage per Aurific,
And the Bishop's scope would be met, I hope,
By a berth on the Beatific;
The countryman would feel at home
On board the bold Bucolic,
And the chorus girl would cross the foam
In fine style on the Frolic.

Geologists would much enjoy
A jaunt on the Jurassic,
And the doctors one might well decoy
With the Clinic or Boracic;
All politicians outward bound
Would sail by the Polemic,
And the professional folk be found
Aboard the Academic.

The chemist's tip would be, wait for the ship
That bears the name Synthetic;
The maid of today would sail away
On the Lipstic(k) or Cosmetic;
S. S. Hydraulic drys might find Sufficiently symbolic,
While the wets, of course, would remain behind
And wait for the Alcoholic.

ALL TOO HUMAN PLANTS.

S. MARTIN CHISHOLM, in the New York Times.

IN his laboratory in Calcultta Sir Jagadis, India's most famous man of science, has conducted experiments which show that alcohol, administered in small doses, will aid oxygen formation in a flower or shrub, but that once the plant oversteps the margin of propriety and drinks to excess its growth becomes at once retarded.

Dowager ladies and dyspeptic millionaires are not, the scientist wizard from Bengal has shown, the only inhabitants of the globe who may renew their youth by treatment with thyroid glands. A dose of thyroid extract at a dilution of one in a billion has increased the vitality of a plant by 40 per cent, while a dilution of 10 times that strength caused 100 per cent increase in vitality.

Another similarity between plants and human beings is found in the fact that individuals react differently to the same drug. Sir Jagadis has shown the same phenomenon in plants.

Another pretty and fanciful notion which the Bengali scientist has dispelled is that which ascribes the closing of the leaves of certain plants at night to sleep. Such movements, he has shown, are in no way connected with the phenomenon of sleep.

But that plants do indulge in restful naps like human beings he has also proved. A special instrument was devised which gave to a mimosa plant a shock every hour throughout the 24 and recorded the response of the plant.

Then the lazy habit of the mimosa was found out. It is a very late riser, lying long abed in the mornings and not becoming fully alert until midday. It stays up late, too, not retiring before midnight, when it becomes lethargic, although it does not really begin to sleep until the early hours of the morning.

DR. BUTLER OF COLUMBIA.

ALBERT J. ADAMS in the New York World.

TO be the most talked-of man in the country on a high plane is a great honor. To deliver dissertations on national and international problems offhand with purity of word, clarity of thought and the spirit of conviction is a great talent. To tell the truth fearlessly shows great courage. To be the president of Columbia University is among the greatest of distinctions. But greater than any of these traits or attainments is the glory of being a man. Seemingly the simplest of virtues, this is the rarest of possessions.

In his constructive work as head of the most progressive of American universities, and as the first publicist of his day, Nicholas Murray Butler has encountered attempted hindrances of his plans and policies by moneyed, moralistic and political martinets, but his heart has not shriveled at their arrogance. Likewise it has not softened at the sniveling bigot's plea for unnatural restraints of the rights and liberties of others. This resistance to selfish and fanatical pressure has developed in him a mental habit and moral spirit that will not bear "the world's proud cross" with complaisance.

NOTE ON A COMMON MISTAKE

'Twas wise of you to mention, dear, that love can be outgrown,
And better far no king at all than one we must disown;
Your beauty now distracts me from my first love, which was books,
In time, 'twould pall upon me, and besides you'll lose your looks:
You'd grow to hate each pretty verse that calls our love divine,
'Twere better far to choose your way, while I, my dear, choose mine;
In later years, no doubt we'd hate what now we fondly praise,
And better far than that, my dear, let's go our single ways.

'Twas tactful when you told me, dear, that love can be outgrown,
But what you really meant, had I been wiser, I had known;
That was a clever way to say that love's devouring flame
No longer burns in your fond breast—I feel about the same;
'Tis well to know the truth in time; one kiss before we part.
I don't regret sweet company—I never had your heart;
Infatuation's fleeting, dear; true love alone 'tis stays,
Now that we know this simple truth, let's go our single ways.

THE BEAUTY SHOPPE.

We do not object to the word "shoppe." "Shop" is altogether too masculine, and suggests the butcher, the baker and—though we hate to spoil the rhyme—the plumber. Let us retain "shoppe" but let it be confined to what is distinctly feminine or at least common to both sexes. "Lingerie shoppe" sounds all right. So does "cigarette shoppe" if only the ladies would buy their own. But we do object to "beauty shoppe." "Beauty shoppe" implies that the [illegible] purchase pulchritude. That is [illegible] Beauty is the inalienable right of every woman, along with life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Beauty is enhanced in these places; beauty is [illegible] there; [illegible] purchased? punishment of those who abuse this freedom; and that a State in the exercise of its police power may punish those who abuse this freedom by utterances inimical to the public welfare, tending to incite crime, disturb the public peace, or endanger the foundations of organized government and threaten its overthrow by unlawful means is not open to question."

In his more thorough interpretation of the free speech question, as it entered into the Whitney case, Justice Brandeis said:

"The right of free speech, the right to teach and the right of assembly are, of course, fundamental rights. These may not be denied or abridged.

"But, although the rights of free speech and assembly are fundamental, they are not in their nature absolute. Their exercise is subject to restriction, if the particular restriction proposed is required in order to protect the State from destruction or from serious injury, political, economic or moral. That the necessity which is essential to a valid restriction does not exist unless speech would produce, or is intended to produce, a clear and imminent danger of some substantive evil which the State constitutionally may seek to prevent has been settled.

"Prohibitory legislation has repeatedly been held invalid, because unnecessary, where the denial of liberty involved was that of engaging in a particular business.

"The power of the courts to strike down an offending law are no less when the interests involved are not property rights, but the fundamental personal rights of free speech and assembly.

Some of the Functions of Free Speech.

"Fear of serious injury cannot alone justify suppression of free speech and assembly. Men feared witches and burnt them. It is the function of speech to free men from the bondage of irrational fears. To justify suppression of free speech there must be reasonable ground to fear that serious evil will result if free speech is practiced. There must be reasonable ground to believe that the danger apprehended is imminent. There must be reasonable ground to believe that the evil to be prevented is a serious one. Every denunciation of existing law tends in some measure to increase the probability that there will be violation of it.

"Condonation of a breach enhances the probability. Expressions of approval add to the probability. Propagation of the criminal state of mind by teaching syndicalism increases it. Advocacy of lawlessness heightens it still further.

"But even advocacy of violence, however reprehensible morally, is not a justification for denying free speech where the advocacy falls short of incitement and there is nothing to indicate that the advocacy would be immediately acted on.

"Only an emergency can justify repression. Such must be the rule if authority is to be reconciled with freedom. Such, in my opinion, is the command of the Constitution. It is, therefore, always open to Americans to challenge a law abridging free speech and assembly by showing that there was no emergency justifying it.

Disease Should Be as Violent as Cure.

"Moreover, even imminent danger cannot justify resort to prohibition of these functions essential to effective democracy, unless the evil apprehended is relatively serious. Prohibition of free speech and assembly is a measure so stringent that it would be inappropriate as the menas for averting a relatively trivial harm to society.

"The fact that speech is likely to result in some violence or in destruction of property is not enough to justify its suppression. There must be the probability of serious injury to the State. Among free men, the deterrents ordinarily to be applied to prevent crime are education and punishment for violations of the law, not abridge-

Soon after her graduation from Wellesley College she went to visit a settlement of college women on the lower East Side of New York. She remained there through one winter, and determined to devote her life and her property to helping the poor.

She lived for a time in Oklahoma, but in recent years has made her home in Oakland, Cal., and in the writers colony of Carmel. She was a large contributor to the campaign fund of the Farmer-Labor party. Since becoming interested in the defense of I. W. W. prisoners, she has signed bail bonds for as many of these as her property holdings would permit. At the time of her arrest in 1919, her property was so tied up in bonds that she had difficulty in arranging for her own release.

Miss Whitney was a pioneer suffrage worker, and at different times was president of the College Suffrage League, California Civic League, California Branch of American College Alumnae, and vice president of the National Women's Suffrage Association.

The syndicalism law was devised to deal with the "hell-raising" element of "wobblies" in more thorough fashion than was possible under the Federal espionage law. Gov. Stephens, running for re-election in the war year of 1918, promised "a law with teeth in it," and the present statute is not dentally deficient. Gov. Richardson, in his refusal to grant clemency to Miss Whitney, did not express approval of the law, and made the tentative suggestion that it be repealed.

With the legal resources of the Whitney defense seemingly exhausted, the commitment of Miss Whitney to prison appears to await only the arrival of the Supreme Court's decree. District Attorney Warren of Alameda County, on receiving the document from Washington, is expected to summon Miss Whitney, who has been at liberty on $10,000 bond.

Russia Rapidly Working Back to Practical System

that we, of all peoples, have seen fit to pass by the other side while the unfortunate products of centuries of oppression were going through the inevitable distressing period of adjusting themselves to their new freedom.

The Russians are rapidly working their way back to a practical system, political and economic, without our help. A friendly spirit, a little more willingness to understand on the part of outside nations, however, would have saved much time and much misery in this process of readjustment. The least we can do now is to cease repeating the old stories of the revolution which are no longer true and look beyond the propaganda which issues in great valume and picturesque detail from the colonies of aristocratic refugees to be found in all the large cities of Europe. These refuges hope for and quite naturally work for some counter-revolution which will take them back to Russia and their ancient prosperity.

We owe it to the Russians and to ourselves to recognize the truth, that the name bolshevist does not in 1927 mean communism, assassination, disorder or bad faith; that the fanatics of the revolution are fast losing either their fanaticism or their power and that other nations can profitably deal with them externally and can with equal profit, leave them alone internally.

I have never held any brief for the bolsheviks and I am not a Socialist, but I am sure that if the Russians are left alone to work their own way through the vagaries of revolutionary radicalism, we shall soon find them an invaluable addition, both political and economical, to our family of Western nations. I believe that from their great idealistic experiment they will bring back with them some valuable contribution to tha new and better theory of human relations whose developments in Western countries is the proudest distinction of the last half century, and I believe that the value of the practical ideals which this Russian experiment may contribute to the world-wide movement for better human relations will be in inverse proportion to the outside interference with that experiment.

200 MISSOURI DENTISTS TO ATTEND CONVENTION

The construction of dental bridges, false teeth and other subjects of interest to dental science will be discussed at a convention of Missouri dentists to be held from Monday to Thursday inclusive, at the Hotel Chase. Approximately 200 dentists, the largest number at any State gathering at the profession, have made arrangements to attend.

Dr. William Alexander, of Barnes Hospital, will present a report to show that "dead" teeth have been over-stressed as causes of sickness. The lectures begin Tuesday and continue through Wednesday and Thursday. Special exhibits, illustrating the lectures, have been prepared. Dr. H. C. Pollock, of St. Louis, is in charge of convention arrangements.

MAN SHOT IN BRAIN LEAVES HOSPITAL

Was Believed to Have Been Wounded Fatally by Police.

Harry E. Johnson, 30-year-old carpenter, thought to have been wounded fatally when shot in the brain by police April 26 while prowling in search of his estranged wife and 2-year-old daughter, was able to leave City Hospital yesterday for his home in Granite City.

He was shot when he attempted to flee through a hallway at 4041 Delmar boulevard after being detected in the act of peering in windows of a house at 4045 Washington boulevard, where Mrs. Johnson's three sisters reside.

At the hospital it was found that the bullet had entered the back of Johnson's head, destroying a portion of the brain controlling his vision. Johnson, who was conscious, declined to consent to an operation, although told that his only chance lay in having the bullet removed. Later his mother prevailed on the wounded man to consent to the operation, which was performed by Dr. Samuel Mazias, resident surgeon.

Dr. Mazias removed the bullet, which was imbedded more than an inch in the brain, and then probed with his fingers until he removed five splinters of skull, one an inch and a half in length, which were also embedded in the brain tissues. Dr. Mazias as first feared that Johnson's sight would be lost because of the destruction wrought by the bullet, but Johnson soon allayed these fears. His recovery was rapid and when he left the hospital yesterday he declared his vision had been but slightly impaired.

Mrs. Johnson sued her husband for divorce after leaving their Granite City home several weeks before Johnson was shot.

CALIFORNIA WINE IN BERLIN

Vintage of 1914 Sells at $6 and $8 and Older One at $16.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, May 21.—Choice California wines, probably a memory to all Americans except those who stocked their cellars, have made their appearance on the wine cards of more fashionable Berlin eating houses at a price that would make even an enthusiast of the Golden State wince.

Short quart bottles of 1914 to 1915 vintages are offered at from $6 to $8. Vintages around the beginning of the century go for as high as $16. Connoisseurs rank the wine with some of the best in Germany.

Only 26,000,000 gallons of wine have been squeezed out of last year's grape crop in Germany, considerably less than the annual domestic consumption. Except for heavy stocks of previous years there would be a wine shortage, since small crops were harvested also in France, Spain and North Africa.

how her husband hated to see streaks of gray creeping into the pretty dark hair he had so fondly admired and loved to caress, she would not tolerate a gray spear another day. KEEP YOUR HUSBAND'S EYES at HOME. Restore your hair to its NATURAL, ORIGINAL, attractive color without a trace of gray. The faded look will give place to the soft, glossy, lustrous hair, sparkling with girlhood color, so entirely like the original shade no one in your family can detect its use. Farr's is the most up-to-date, absolutely harmless preparation. Very easy to use; a few moments in the privacy of your room is enough; neither sticky nor greasy. Can be washed, curled or waved without affecting the color. Price $1.10.

13,000 AUTOS IN TOKIO, 6368 MOTOR ACCIDENTS IN 1926

City Shown to Be Almost as Unsafe as New York, Where Cars Are Much More Numerous.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, May 21.—With the increasing number of automobiles in Japan, it is almost as unsafe to cross a street in Tokio or any other large city as it is in New York.

Half of the automobiles in Tokio either killed or injured someone during the past year, according to police statistics.

There are approximately 13,000 motor cars in the Japanese capital. During 1926 there were 6368 automobile accidents reported in which someone was killed or injured. There were 16,252 traffic accidents in which 234 persons lost their lives and 9781 were hurt. Of the total number of accidents, bicycles were responsible for 5752, tram cars for 1545 and the innocent looking ricksha for 105.

DISCOVERS STOMACH TROUBLES YIELD TO NATURE

An eminent medical authority made the startling statement that 93% of all serious ailments were directly traced to the stomach. Many cases of indigestion, dyspepsia, belching, pain, headaches, heartburn, gas and other more serious stomach symptoms do not yield to drugs and often end in a major operation. Yet, these diseases are often merely the consequence of lack of certain body chemicals. Recently the eminent biologist, Eugene Kuhne, Dept. 115, Riverside, Ill., perfected a combination of certain chemical elements that assist Nature in supplying the body with the necessary substances to restore any elements that may be missing. Case after case, many of them in hopeless condition, among them being bankers, lawyers, doctors and men and women in every walk of life, attribute their amazing recovery to this new discovery. Mr. Kuhne is distributing free, expensive, bound copies of his book, "The New ABC of Health" so as to acquaint sufferers with this simple way of using foods instead of medicines to overcome serious troubles. OUTLINE PLANS FOR SMOKE ABATEMENT League Officers to Divide City Into 40 Districts, Each With Supervisor.

With the completion of a $250,000 fund to carry on the work of the Citizens' Smoke Abatement League for the next three years, details of the league's program for the coming months were announced yesterday by William G. Christy, executive secretary, and Osborn Monnett, consulting engineer of the organization.

The program calls for an all-year campaign, the summer months being devoted largely to inspections and investigations in various districts of the city, and the winter months to a city-wide campaign of education and co-operation with householders.

The city will be divided into approximately 40 districts. These districts will be grouped into eight sections for supervisory purposes, with a permanent supervisor appointed for each section. The supervisors will function throughout the year, familiarizing themselves with smoke conditions in their respective sections throughout the different seasons.

Will Study Districts.

Four assistants will work under each supervisor during the heating season, thereby giving the league about 40 agents during the period of greatest smoke production. These men will be trained in combustion problems and will co-operate with residents in their districts, giving expert instructions in the firing of furnaces and making suggestions for more efficient operation of the various types of heating plants.

This plan, league officials pointed out, will give each supervisor opportunity to obtain detailed information as to conditions in his district, will acquaint him with the more violent offenders, and will furnish other data such as the hours of the day that the heaviest smoke prevails. It will also provide the league with the name of the owners or agents and the condition of their plants.

With this information league officials will have an opportunity to aid the owners of plants by putting at their services the newly-formed revolving committee of consulting engineers, who without charge will on request make surveys of heating and power plants and recommend certain changes as they deem advisable toward fuel conservation and smoke abatement.

Janitors' Firing School.

The summer months will be devoted to special meetings of janitors at the firing school, and to getting together the personnel of the smoke patrol and to the training of these men in their respective duties.

The enlarged activities will provide for a continuance also of the lecture program and educational work; the taking over of the furnace firing school for the operation of which the annual budget sets aside $8000; the prosecution of research work in improved methods of firing, and the employment of two special observers to make chart readings of smoke density in all parts of the city.

Smoke survey will be continued during the summer months and a fuel survey which has been in progress for several months will be completed.

RUMANIAN EXPORT LAWS CREATE SYSTEM OF BRIBERY

Tourists Can't Help Violating Some Ruling, But 50 Cents Solves Most Difficulties.

Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News. Copyright, 1927.

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, May 1.—In Rumania it is forbidden, in principle, to export anything without specific Government license. Industrious customs offcals examine every handkerchief, on the traveler's departure, hunting for contraband.

Rumanian law forbids the export of more than 500 lei ($3) by any individual, or its equivalent in any foreign currency, or in checks.

Rumanian law does not overlook the case of the tourist who comes to the country with currency or checks, spends a part thereof, and desires to leave with the remainder. It provides that the tourist may declare such moneys on entering the country, and on departing carry with him any lesser sums. Only it happens that the frontier officials formally refuse to accept the required declaration. The tourist, on departing, is therefore necessarily a lawbreaker.

This means that anybody traveling in this part of Europe is certain to be caught contravening some regulation, and Government officials, who are scandalously underpaid, are obliged to take advantage of this fact to collect bribes. Fifty cents will solve all the minor legal difficulties.

SHORTHAND CONTEST OVER AIR

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, May 21.—Radio stenographic sped contests as advertising stunts for schools of shorthand are being tried in Germany with success.

More than 50,000 stenographers participated in the first contest, for which 500 prizes, some of them typewriters, were awarded.

Dictation was broadcast from the Berlin station at the rate of 150 syllables a minute for five minutes. Shorthand experts all over the country listened in, took down the speech and then sent in typewritten transcripts. Prizes were awarded on the basis of the largest number of correct words. The winner scored 90 per cent.

13 COMETS TO PASS EARTH NEXT MONTH

Astronomer Says Closest One Will Be 2,500,000 Miles; Denies There Is Danger.

There's nothing unlucky in the schedule of 13 comets to pass within 20,000,000 miles of the earth before the end of June. But it does break a record, said Msgr. Martin S. Brennan, St. Louis priest-astronomer.

Another record is to be broken by the Pons-Winnecke comet approaching within 4,000,000 miles and possibly brushing the earth with its tail June 27, the day after the Stearns comet is to approach within 2,500,000 miles. And it will be but little less unusual, remarked Father Brennan, recalling how Pons-Winnecke "stood us up" in 1921, if the comets keep to schedule.

"They're very eccentric," he deprecated, shaking his head with a fatherly tolerance built up in 30 years of studying their devious ways. "The planets are a different family, and they behave regularly. They all move in one direction on their orbits, west to east. They rotate on their axes in the same direction, too.

Drawn Out of Orbits.

"Comets come in to the sun and go out again in every direction, and at every angle to the plane of the planets' orbits. Then, after you've figured out the orbit of a comet and think you know where and when it will appear, it comes in range of Jupiter and is drawn out of its old orbit and into an entirely new one.

"That's what happened to Pons-Winnecke in 1921, when we expected to pass through its tail, but did not. And it may happen again.

"Jupiter weighs 510 times as much as the earth. No wonder it draws these light bodies—lighter than air, thinner than helium or hydrogen—from their courses. And Jupiter, 482,000,000 miles from the sun, is in excellent position for a sentinel of the solar system."

He dwelt a moment on their prodigious speed, accelerating upon approach to the sun. "One has been known to round the sun in 12 hours," he said. "It must have been traveling 200 miles per second. The earth travels only 18 miles a second."

Danger? "None at all," replied the astronomer. "The matter of the comet is so rarified that it probably weighs but a couple of ounces. It could not penetrate the earth's atmosphere any more than you could blow your breath through a stone wall. Even if it contains cyanogen gas—which is contained in Halley's comet—two ounces in the whole ocean of the atmosphere would be nothing at all."

Not Easily Visible.

Meteoric showers? "Not likely," he judged. "In the 'live' comet its matter is finer than anything we call gas. When they 'die' they may become a train of particles such as the 'dead' comet that used to return every 33 1-3 years, bringing a shower of 'shooting stars' half the number of snowflakes in a winter storm. That phenomenon terrified millions, but something happened to it in 1866, and it has not returned again."

Will the comets be visible to the naked eye? "I don't like to say that," said Father Brennan with a note of caution. "Some of the 13 ought to be visible to a telescope of small power, say with a four-inch aperture. But none of them may be visible to the naked eye, and I do not want to say they will and then have my friends look for them in vain.

"It's no use to look for something like a star. They will look more like a bit of the Milky Way, a sort of luminous shadow in the sky, and the tail may take many other shapes than the one conventionally pictured by artists."

OIL 'CRACKING' PATENT SUIT ARGUMENTS CONCLUDED

Decision Is Reserved in Action Against Standard Oil and 54 Other Companies.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 21.—Charles R. Martindale, Master in Chancery, had under advisement today the equity suit against the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana and 54 other oil concerns using the Adams "cracking" process for distillation of gasoline. Arguments in the case closed late yesterday. Martindale gave no intimation when a decision would be made.

Although highly technical and involving a discussion of patent laws and chemical formulae, the case attracted considerable interest, not only from its own importance, but because of the fact that some of the nation's ablest lawyers participated in the hearings, which lasted more than a week. Among attorneys who argued for the oil companies were John W. Davis, Democratic candidate for President in 1924, and C. B. Ames, Solicitor-General under the Wilson administration.

William Donovan, Assistant Attorney-General, known in war days as Col. (Wild Bill) Donovan of Rainbow Division fame, directed prosecution of the suit under the Government's allegations that "cracking" process liens and held by the defendants constituted a violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

Southwest Missouri Berry Crop.

Indications are that between 300 and 350 carloads of strawberries will be shipped out of the Springfield, Mo., division of the Missouri-Pacific Railroad, it was announced by the Agricultural Development Bureau of the road, yesterday. It is expected the entire crop will have been harvested within a week or ten days.

MISSOURI ROADS HURT BY INCLEMENT WEATHER

Major Highways, Including St. Louis-Memphis-Little Rock Routes, Open.

Heavy showers over Missouri virtually every day during the past week have caused an unsettled conditioned in Missouri roads. Little maintenance work was completed last week and secondary roads are generally impassable. Dirt roads scarified up to 10 days ago are in worse condition than before highway crews began to resurface them. The major gravel roads are travelable but slippery after rain.

All main highways out of St. Louis, however, are open to through travel.

Little Rock Route Reopened.

U. S. No. 61 — the St. Louis-Memphis route, via Sikeston—was reopened to through traffic late last week. This highway is in good to fair condition, except a three-mile detour provided around a short section of the road immediately southeast of Lilbourn. The detour, although very rough, has an all-weather surface.

The detour south of Farmington on U. S. No. 61 has been cut back from 14 to 7 miles and begins at a point about four miles south of Farmington and merges again with No. 61 at Libertyville. This road is semi-gravel and in fair to good condition. Load limit restrictions to 5000 pounds, however, are being enforced by deputy sheriffs stationed at either end of the detour.

The month-old story of Division 10—incorporating the 12 counties surrounding Sikeston—can be retold. While the Mississippi River flood waters in this division are receding rapidly, some of the major highways are still under water.

At Brewer's Lake, between Birds Point and Charleston—on U. S. No. 60, the Cairo-Birds Point ferry-Sikeston-Poplar Bluff-Springfield route—water covers the highway, but traffic is moving through this short section under its own power. A three-quarter mile section just west of Charleston is still under water to a depth of about four inches.

Poplar Bluff Traffic Resumed.

The martial law condition which halted traffic over U. S. 60 at Poplar Bluff after the recent tornado has been relieved and traffic can again travel the highway through Poplar Bluff without delay.

The ferry service across the Mississippi River—from Birds Point to Cairo—has been resumed on regular schedule.

On State No. 25—the Festus, Perryville-Jackson-Arkansas line route, via Kennett— a 1200 foot section of the road immediately east of Holcomb—between the Arkansas line and Arbor—is covered with a 9-inch depth of water, and the road is difficult to impassable.

From Arbor to Delta No. 25 is a slippery gumbo detour. Chains are required to traverse this road at present.

No. 25 from Delta to Jackson is a graded road, excellent in dry weather but at present virtually impassable because of recent heavy rains.

White River Bridges Out.

Roads in the extreme southwestern portion of the State are in fair to good condition, except State No. 78, at Forsyth and State No. 43, 12 miles south of Reed Springs, which are blocked on account of bridges over the White river at these points being washed out.

The ferry at Bagnell over the Osage river on State 54 has resumed operation and Jefferson City traffic may again follow U. S. 66 to Lebanon, State 5 to Linn Creek and State 54 to Jefferson City.

A. A. A. to Told Convention.

The annual convention of the American Automobile Association will be held in Philadelphia, Pa., June 16 and 17. Eight hundred and seven motor clubs from every nook and corner of the country will be represented at the great conclave.

Tour of 16 Eastern States by Land and Water

Good Roads, Historic Scenery Found on 3365-Mile Circuit Trip From St. Louis to North Carolina Mountains and Adirondacks.

By RICHARD G. BAUMHOFF.

Motor touring in the United States has become so easy and enjoyable—with the twin development of cars and highways—that about all necessary for a start nowadays is to pack a bag, fill the gas tank and toss a road atlas back of the driver's seat.

The route can be chosen as the trip proceeds. A little planning ahead, including reservation of hotel rooms, may facilitate matters, but either the selected route or the happy-go-lucky style of travel is practicable and enjoyable.

Skidamaree, gypsy car of the Post-Dispatch, went on a long jaunt through 16 states late last summer with consummate ease. The expense was low, the roads were good and car trouble almost nil. The sights of the journey were then and continue now a source of great delight to the Gypsy Baron and his mother, who went along for part of the trip.

No use trying to impart on pa-

An Almost Ideal Route.

The tour covered 3265 miles by highway and 183 miles by lake boat, as shown on the accompanying map of the route. Only 16 days were spent on the road, although additional time was taken to play in the Adirondack Mountains and elsewhere. 30 to 35 miles per hour was the usual speed. The route seemed almost ideal as to scenery, historic interest, general good roads and diversification.

Illinois has one advantage from its flatness and fine concrete pavements—the motorist can speedily put home a good distance behind and acquire the feeling that he is "really on the way." Then Vincennes, Ind., is rich with the flavor of an old city in this new country. Beyond it are beautiful hills which in spots roll almost into mountains, through which fine rock, gravel and concrete roads wind.

A bridge at New Albany, Ind., takes the traveler across the broad Ohio River into Louisville, Ky., and into Dixie. The Louisville of today is a lively city on the 364 days of the year when the Kentucky Derby is being talked about instead of run.

Into Glorious Country.

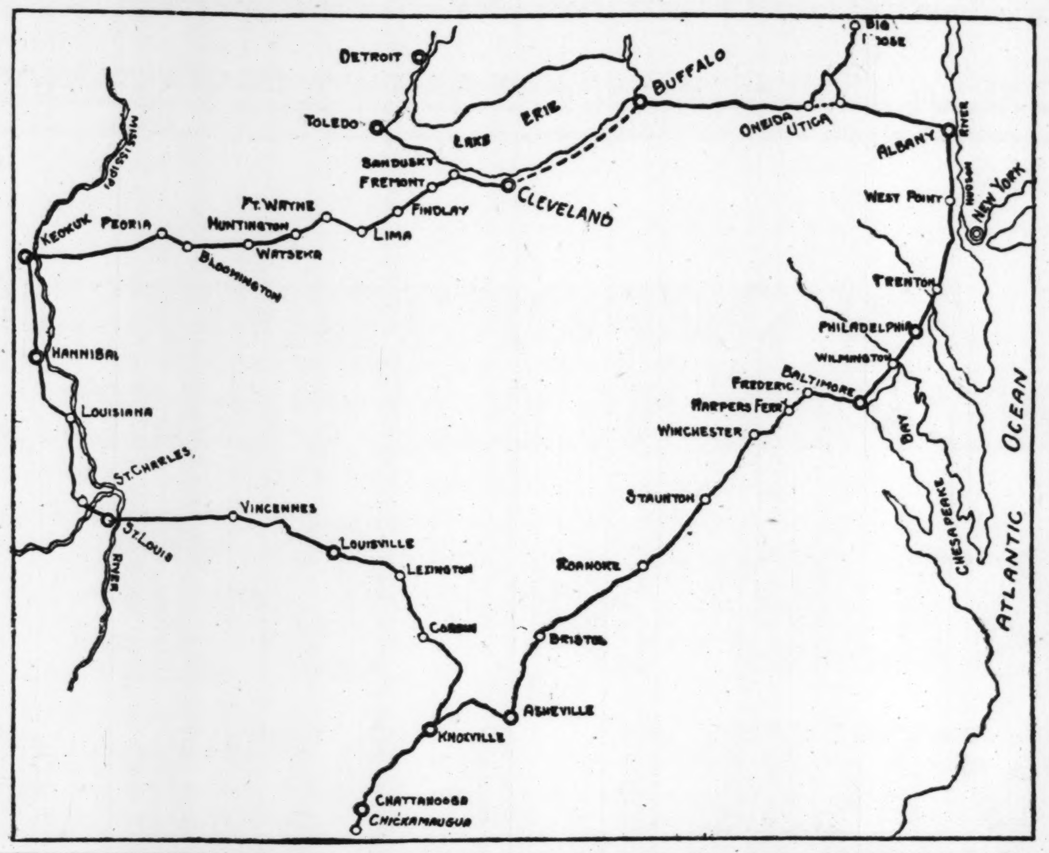
Beyond lies glorious country. The bluegrass section, through Frankfort and into Lexington, is like a park. The panorama of Frankfort, clinging in the gorge of the Kentucky River, is a picture not readily forgotten. Lexington, cosmopolitan because of the people who visit the noted stables thereabouts, has a trick of making its 60,000 size look like 600,000. Man o' War is dean of the horses there. 'Fore-the-war mansions on tobacco plantations and traces of Daniel Boone characterize the vicinity.

Within two hours' drive south of Lexington, as one penetrates deeper into the Southland, the Cumberland Mountains begin, but here again are fine paved roads. Rugged and wild, the Cumberlands are full of legends and replete with beauty.' Clouds veil the peaks and haze or mist fills the distant valleys. The Cumberland River bends sinuously far below.

Middlesboro, Ky., is a pleasant little city, and just beyond it is Cumberland Gap, a break in the high ridge, to which a sharp ascent to an altitude of 1700 feet is made. Towering a quarter of a mile above the picturesque road across the Gap is The Pinnacle. Near by are remnants of Civil War trenches and a marker denoting the corner of Kentucky, Virginia and Tennessee.

On to Chattanooga.

In Tennessee is a variety of roads, none bad, and of scenery ranging from mountains to long stretches of shady dells. Knoxville is a sizeable and attractive city. Not far to the south, if the tourist wishes to continue to Chattanooga, is a ferry across the wide Tennessee River to the town of Loudon. From there on, are well-developed farms, pretty hills and clean little settlements.



Chattanooga bustles with commerce and spreads out with growing ambition, but one cannot get away there from the boding presence of Lookout Mountain. It looms like a giant fortress from all angles of vision. Prudent garage men advise visitors to go to this famous summit by bus or the inclined railway, to save their brakes and nerves, although a good driver can travel the road with safety. It is not an unpleasant change to ride a trolley to the base and then be hoisted slowly up the precipitous incline in a cable car.

From the top there are excellent views of the city and of the Moccasin Bend of the Tennessee River. There are also complete and interesting signs in a Government park describing the Civil War battle of the clouds that took place there. The mountain extends southward into Georgia. A few miles south of Chattanooga is Chickamaugua, Ga., site of another great battle, now marked by many monuments.

If the Cumberlands are compelling in their majesty, the Great Smokies are triply so. An hour out of Knoxville and their mysterious bulk fills the horizon ahead. Through them the storied French Broad River flows and sometimes the smooth, sandy highway is close beside it, sometimes high above, first in Tennessee, then in North Carolina.

Real mountains these, to test the mettle of man and motor, but joy it is to conquer them, slipping around the constantly repeated hairpin turns, up and down the well-engineered grades. Beauty walks on every slope. Mile after mile this lovely drive runs into the heart of Asheville, a metropolitan resort, perched, as the municipal advertisers brag, "in the land of the sky." And a smiling, blue sky it is.

Turning north at Asheville, Skidamaree went to Bristol, which straddles the line between Tennessee and Virginia. The highway skirts the foothills of Mount Mitchell, highest peak in the Eastern United States. As the Great Smokies gradually decrease in height, they give way to the gentle Blue Bidge Mountains. Still the road is fine, except a comparatively short stretch of "rough stuff" in the tip of Tennessee.

ILLINOIS TO LET BIDS FOR 100 MILES OF SLAB

New Drives for Cahokia Mound State Park on Summer Construction Program.

Highway conditions in Illinois the past week are generally improved. All concrete highways are open to through travel.

Gravel roads are generally travelable, and the major dirt roads have been scarified during the past ten days so that they are in good condition, except in west and southwest portions of the state, where heavy rains the last several days have left the roads slippery and difficult of speedy travel except with chains.

Construction Work Resumes.

Construction of hard roads in Illinois, at a low ebb for the past month, will be resumed in June when contracts are expected to be let for nearly a hundred miles of new highways and bridges, the Illinois division of highways at Springfield announced last week.

Bids for this work will be received by the highway division up until June 1, and within two weeks the contracts are expected to be signed.

One of the first pieces of work to be contracted for is construction of highways and drives at the Cahokia Mound State Park, on the Collinsville road, near East St. Louis. This work will be a highway about ¾ mile long, of 18-foot macadam pavement, and nearly a mile of graded earth road 32 feet wide.

Cahokia Mounds State Park was recently created by Illinois to preserve the ancient Indian mounds which have a geological as well as historical value in interest. A large lake in the park will eventually be developed into a fishing and bathing center for tourists, it is understood.

Slab Through Whitehall.

Bids are also being asked for paving of a 1½ mile stretch on State No. 3 through Whitehall and continuing for a short distance beyond the north city limits.

Bids likewise will be asked for a 7.76 miles stretch on State No. 157

STATE ROAD MAPS AND ATLASES OF HIGHWAYS READY AT POST-DISPATCH

INDIVIDUAL road maps of the states, and atlases of the roads of the Eastern and Western sections of this country, are now available at the Joint Touring Bureau maintained by the Post-Dispatch and the Automobile Club of Missouri in the Post-Dispatch Building, Olive and Twelfth streets.

The State maps are 10 cents each, or 12 cents by mail.

The atlases are 50 cents each, of 64 cents by first-class mail. The Eastern atlas includes the Eastern provinces of Canada, as well as Missouri, Wisconsin and Iowa. The Western Atlas includes Illinois and Michigan.

ST. LOUIS-LITTLE ROCK HIGHWAYS REOPENED

Old Route From Memphis to Arkansas Capital Can Now Be Traveled.

Through travel from St. Louis to Little Rock, Ark., via Memphis was resumed last week, according to the Automobile Club of Missouri, eliminating the circuitous route through Kansas, Oklahoma and Arkansas via Joplin, Mo., which was necessitated by the floods in Southeastern Arkansas.

The route from St. Louis to Memphis—Federal No. 61, south, via Sikeston—was reopened to through travel last week. The route from Memphis to Little Rock was reopened Friday and is the same as used prior to the flood, except the first 13 miles, which is a gravel detour.

Detour to Dundee.

"The detour," says the Auto Club, "takes the motorist south from Memphis to Dundee, Tenn., on the Mississippi River across from Helena, Ark. The ferry is taken across the Mississippi River at this point and Arkansas No. 20

NEW STEAM ENGINE HAS EIGHT CYLINDERS

Company to Manufacture It Being Organized in Detroit—Race of Auto Plants.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, May 21.—Detroit is to have a new automotive factory, producing steam power plants adaptable to several purposes, including propulsion of motor vehicles. A company is now being formed by some of the former stockholders in the old Detroit-Doble Co.

Two experimental automobiles powered with the new system, have been in operation for some time and are reported to have given excellent results.

Power in Small Compass.

The power plant is novel in that it is unusually small. Engines in the passenger car are only a little larger than the average typewriter, but it is claimed that they develop 8 times as much horsepower as an internal combustion engine of equivalent size.

A feature is a device shaped like an hour-glass. Water is vaporized at a high temperature by the type of internal combustion common in automobiles, in one end of this boiler, and the vapor passes in a super-heated condition to an adjoining chamber, whence it goes into the cylinders.

Eight-Cylinder Steam Engine.

Cylinders are eight in number and unusually small. By a system of condensation and return that is said to have been worked out to efficiency, loss of water from evaporation is reported to be practically negligible. A supply of 50 gallons of water is said to be sufficient to operate the engine for several weeks.

First use of the new system will be in equipping steam-shovels and other heavy-duty equipment—tractors, excavators and so on. The company also plans to build heating units for residences and for public buildings.

A NEW CHAPTER IN DODGE BROTHERS HISTORY

20% More Miles per Gallon
20% Faster Get-Away
15% More Power

A flood of approval has greeted Dodge Brothers new motor, as every informed motorist knows. Everyone says the same thing . . . "To all intents and purposes a new car."

New in the pleasure it gives to the driver. New in the pleasure it gives to the passengers, the pocketbook and the eye.

Gasoline consumption reduced one fifth. Get-away quickened and vibration forgotten. Standard gear-shift—balloon-geared steering—and 24 other important new features.

An engineering challenge to those who measure merit by cylinders. A vigorous expression of the new spirit that now directs the destiny of Dodge Brothers.

Dependability made more dependable still. Supremacy in alloy steel and drop forgings (the basic source of Dodge long life) rigidly maintained.

But a timely concern, also, for those elements of luxury (comfort, quietness, zest and power) which motorists now demand and have a right to expect.

Test every feature personally. Starting, steering, seating, accelerating — and the smooth, strong flow of power at full speed. Then ask about a credit plan that makes ownership easy.

Reo Closed Car Climbs Seckman Hill in High

Brougham Model Does Feat Carrying Three Men Weighing 568 Pounds—"Flying Cloud" Is Real Performer on Road and the Grades.

By "SPENCE."

The new Reo "Flying Cloud" cars have all the speed, power and acceleration they are said to possess, and they are hill-climbers, too.

Reo brougham, carrying driver and two passengers, the three men weighing a total of 568 pounds, climbed Seckman Hill in high gear last Saturday forenoon, from a touring start at the bottom. That should be guarantee enough for anybody that the new Reos are performers on the grades.

Quiet, Easy Riding, Powerful.

J. C. Kardell, vice-president of Reo St. Louis, Inc., and H. W. Prass, of the firm, accompanied the writer on the trip, which was made over a wide variety of road surfaces, from concrete to cobblestoned streets and rough gravel stretches.

The Reo, first of all, has real roadability. It rides easily and comfortably over the bumps, hugs close to the road on curves and steers and handles prettily for a woman driver.

The gear shift, which is standard, is easy, smooth and sure.

The internal Lockheed hydraulic 4-wheel brakes are powerful, but exceptionally gentle and smooth in their action.

The Reo's center of gravity is low; the car rides with a feeling of reliability, no matter what the road or the speed, that's very pleasant. Engine quiet and lack of vibration throughout the speed range are noticeable; in the brougham on the trip one naturally conversed in an ordinary tone no matter how fast the car was running on gravel roads.

Generally Attractive Car.

The Reo showed two most desirable qualities on the grades—ability to hold its speed, and even increase it, on the long up slopes, and plenty of "hang on" in high on the steep pitches when appearanre of another car or pot holes made it necessary to slow, then pick up again.

Acceleration, whether in traffic or on the road, is swift and sure. When one steps on the throttle, the car "gets up and gets." The response is instant.

In addition, the Flying Cloud models have been given body styles of real distinction and beauty, while the interiors are finished in most attractive custom fashion.

Altogether, an interesting car—this Reo Flying Cloud; very good looking, finely appointed, swift, powerful, a performer on the city street, on the open road and on hills that will force many another car into second gear.

Reports from all over the country, as well as St. Louis, are that motorists are responding to the appeal of these new Reos, and that production is increasing steadily and rapidly.

TOUR OF SIXTEEN EASTERN CITIES BY LAND AND WATER

the motorist. The Old Dominion is a land rich in tradition and the nation's earliest history is reflected there. The atmosphere is one of "noblesse oblige" and the rural landscapes have an old, established appearance. Across this State, parallelling the western border, an undulating strip of smooth dark paving leads through sparkling towns and cities and across fertile fields. Everywhere is a pleasant intermingling of the new day of motor gypsying and national distribution of advertised products with the old day of cavaliers and empire building.

Off to the east the Blue Ridges stand continuous guard. Approaching Roanoke, the road ascends those thickly wooded mountains. Continuing north beyond that city, it leads directly over the top of the famous Natural Bridge, a wonder of nature, which, unfortunately, man has permitted to be fenced off for private gain at $1.10 per peep.

Next comes Lexington, resting place of Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson, breathing the story of the Confederacy from every old stone of its narrow streets.

To Harper's Ferry.

Then comes Staunton, another pleasant old city, the birthplace of Woodrow Wilson. North of Staunton, the tourist enters the Shenandoah Valley, though he sees little of its river, unless he makes side trips to its lurking place along the Blue Ridge. Lee's army marched this way to Gettyburg. In this region are encountered the noted caverns.

Through Winchester and Berryville, Va., the route runs, then across the plateau of eastern West Viriginia a little way to Harper's Ferry, where John Brown's adventure comes to mind. Crossing the gorge there at the conjunction of the Shenandoah and the Potomac, the way is into Maryland, to Frederick, where Barbara Fritchie is said to have bluffed the rebel, and to Baltimore, where there is a multitude of things to attract the observant eye. Lovely country and fine pavements remain the rule.

From Baltimore into the area of metropolitan New York the passage, while rural in places, is largely suburban where not in busy cities. But it is interesting. Havre de Grace and its race track; Wilmington, Del., and its ocean shipping and recurrent evidences of its great industrial family, the Du Ponts; Philadelphia and its modern bustle in scenes of Quaker quaintness; Trenton and its reminders of the Revolution; Jersey and its quiet residence places amid industrial centers—these all have attractions.

Into the growing city of Buffalo the highway follows a straight boulevard direct to the docks, where night boats to Detroit and Cleveland are available. It cost $5 to ship Skidamaree to Cleveland and $9 for a stateroom and passage for the Gypsy Baron. The sharp Lake Erie breeze helped give a fine rest to the driver and the car was ready at the dock in the morning. Skidamaree was piloted out of Cleveland in a cloudburst, then wandered along the lake shore, through Sandusky and to Lima, Ohio. Thence it was driven across the pleasant hills of Indiana, by way of Fort Wayne and Logansport, and over the Illinois flats, via Watseka and Peoria, to Keokuk, Ia. The dam at Keokuk is a worthwhile sight and the trip down the Mississippi shore, through Hannibal, is a revelation of the varying charms of Missouri, but some stretches of this highway remain to be finished.

Tourists in a hurry can follow pavements from Cleveland to Columbus or Dayton, Ohio, and the National Highway to St. Louis, by way of Indianapolis, Ind.

NEW STEAM ENGINE WITH EIGHT CYLINDERS

the new Ford car has been virtually decided upon as to design. It is said that it will have a wheelbase of 105 inches, four-cylinder power plant, transmission similar to that in the Chandler car, springs of the semi-elliptic type, and body designs practically as at present.

Ford is said to be aproving designs of parts as they are made by the engineering department, which results in considerable delay. Many dies for manufacture have been made, but there is said to be debate still as to final design of cylinders, pistons and crankshaft. No complete car of an officially approved type has been built.

Race of the Factories.

How the kaleidoscope of the industry changes in the short space of a year and how the race for supremacy is progressing among the 21 companies making passenger cars in Detroit and its immediate vicinity are shown by an analysis of some registration figures. These are for February, 1927, and February, 1926, as nearly complete as it is possible to obtain them.

Taken alphabetically, the figures show that in February, 1927, Buick cars to the number of 12,174 were registered in the United States.

Following is the summary:

Cadillac, 1232; Chevrolet, 44,628; Chrysler, 8629; Dodge, 7721; Essex, 10,150; Flint, 188; Ford, 47,221; Hudson, 2742; Hupmobile, 2158; Lincoln, 370; Oakland, 1869; Oldsmobile, 2779; Whippet, 5688; Packard, 1409; Paige, 1030; Pontiac, 5549; Reo, 805; Studebaker, 4475; Willys-Knight, 2459.

These 21 companies, in and near Detroit, registered 163,276 passenger cars in February, 1927, and their percentages of these registrations follow:

Buick, 7.3, per cent; Cadillac, .74; Chevrolet, 27.2; Chrysler, 5.2; Dodge, 4.1; Essex, 6.2; Flint, .11; Ford, 28.9; Hudson, 1.6; Hupmobile, .13; Lincoln, .22; Oakland, 1.3; Oldsmobile, 1.7; Whippet, 3.4; Packard, .86; Paige, .63; Pontiac, 3.3; Reo, .49; Studebaker, 2.7; Willys-Knight, 1.5.

Foregoing figures show relative standings in February. Since then important changes doubtless have been made. Ford has almost certainly lost ground and Chevrolet has gained. Pontiac has increased registrations and Dodge has probably about held its own. By summertime the new Falcon-Knight and the new Reo Wolverine may be counted on to have firmly established themselves in the picture.

Detroit Wants Airports.

Detroit's position in the airplane industry appears to be steadily growing in importance. The Airport Commttee of the Council has recommended purchase of three sites for airports, at Belle Isle, River Rouge Park and Zachariah Chandler Park. Except for a possible 150 acres adjacent to River Rouge Park, all of this land is city property, and it is estimated that the sites can be acquired and equipped for less than $1,000,000.

Among the bills passed by the Michigan Legislature, at the session just closed, 27 affected motorists. One imposed a three-cent gasoline tax, which puts the state a trifle above the average gas tax of 2.9 cents.

Auto Fines Heavy.

Motorists now pay between $75,000,000 and $100,000,000 a year in fines for violating the traffic laws, according to the American Automobile Association. That organization plans to war on small towns which derive a considerable revenue by fining transient autoists for the slightest infraction.

from Collinsville to Sunset Hill. Highway department specifications call for a 20 foot wide concrete road there.

Concrete will also be laid early this summer from the end of Park Drive along Pittsburg Lake, near East St. Louis to the intersection of State No. 13 at Centerville Station, a distance of 1.8 miles.

There are also three sections of highway to be graded, and bids have also been asked on that work. They are section 20A of Route 36 in Pike-Scott Counties, where about half a mile of the route near Winchester will be graded; section 631A of Route 63, where a little over seven miles near Dundee, in Kane and Cook Counties are to be graded, and section 106A of Route 125 in Sangamon County where three miles will be graded west of Pleasant Plains.

Bids on some half a dozen bridge sections will also be called for, highway engineers said, locations to be announced later.

Thousands acclaim this "Fundamentally better" Six

The Sedan $1345

THREE weeks ago this "fundamentally better" Six sounded a new note in car values—a note heard and heeded by thousands who know good automobiles.

For this new Six-60 answers—unmistakeably—the insistent demand for a low-priced car that is strictly quality through and through.

All that's best in engineering

Here is the climax of 25 years of engineering success—built in the same great plant—under the same ideals and methods that have made quality a Peerless watchword.

Just think of a car selling as low as $1295, with the quiet power, the freedom from vibration that only a 7-bearing crankshaft can give.

Nelson Bohnalite Pistons

Think of it with the added smoothness of new type Nelson Bohnalite Pistons—the advantage of interchangeable Ring True Bearings—the ease of steering made possible by Ross cam and lever steering—the longer life and dependability of Timken bearings.

Add to these marked advantages, Lockheed Hydraulic 4-wheel brakes—wide, deep-cushioned, pillowy seats—long-lasting lacquer finish and a full score of other advanced features.

Then you'll realize what a marvel of satisfaction and mechanical efficiency this low-priced Six-60 really is.

Graceful, smart, low lines

But you must see it, too. For it's built low to the ground—with the graceful, flowing lines that denote quality and give that air of individuality we all appreciate so much.

So, see this "fundamentally better" Six and drive it. You'll find it everything you've always thought a Peerless must be.

Ask us to show you this unusual new car—the lowest priced Peerless ever built. Or, just phone, and we'll send it to your door for you to drive.

PEERLESS OUTPUT 100 UNITS PER DAY

Plant Working Overtime to Supply Demand, Says General Sales Manager Tucker.

Domestic and export sales during the past several months have greatly increased Peerless automobile production.

The factory is now operating two shifts on a six-day per week basis, and the body division is working two extra shifts every Sunday, according to Charles A. Tucker, general sales manager of the Peerless Motor Car Co., who was in St. Louis last week visiting Philip H. Brockman, president of the De Luxe Motor Car Co., Peerless-Falcon-Knight distributor.

Expect 20 Per Cent Increase.

"Our production has been increased to 100 units per day," Tucker said. "Of this number about 60 are 6-60 series models, and the balance is divided between series 80 and 90 models. Prospects are that we will have to increase our present daily production about 20 per cent within the next several months to handle incoming orders.

"Though sales for the first quarter, 1927, have been retarded by unseasonable weather, there is every indication that a steady incline of both sales and production will be registered for the rest of the year. The agricultural belt of the middle west, especially, is expected to buy a larger number of cars this year than in the past several years. I am told that the Kansas, Nebraska and Iowa wheat crops will be the largest on record. In other lines, likeise, industry is at least holding its own, if not increasing its activities. And the automoble industry generally will benefit from all this."

Contrary to general belief the recent floods in the south have no serious affect upon the automotive industry, Tucker said. This region has never been looked to for a great deal of business.

40 Export Cars Per Month.

Peerless exports on all models are running about 40 units per month. Last year Peerless had no export business whatever. The business is being built up systematically, through the company's export office in New York, Tucker said. The majority of Peerless cars for exports are received by South America, though an increasing demand for the car is coming from continental Europe.

is taken from Helena to Clarendon on the White River.

"At Clarendon, motorists board a ferry and are taken to Stuttgart, 20 miles southwest. The ferry runs across the flood waters of the White River, which extends for miles on each side of Clarendon.

"At Stuttgart, Arkansas No. 30, a gravel road, is taken to Coltec, where the road becomes concrete. No. 30 merges with U. S. No. 70 4 miles east of Little Rock.

"The roads are all gravel and concrete. The distance from Memphis to Little Rock is 168 miles.

5 Ferry Trips Daily.

"The ferry across the Mississippi river at Helena, Ark., makes 5 trips daily. It leaves the Tennessee side at 8 a. m., 10 a. m., 12 noon, 2:40 and 6:40 p. m. Traveling east, it leaves the Arkansas side at 7, 9, 11 a. m., 1:40 and 5:40 p. m.

The rates are $1.25 for light cars, $1.50 for medium weight cars and $1.75 for heavy cars, including the driver. Additional passengers pay 25 cents each.

"The Clarendon ferry across the White River flood waters is operating on an hourly schedule from 5 a. m. until 10 p. m. A charge of $6.00 the car is made for the 20-mile run between Clarendon and Stuttgart."

GRAHAM BROTHERS BUY WAYNE BODY FACTORY

Cost Said to Be $1,250,000—Capacity Production of Paige Cars Planned.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, May 21.—The Graham Brothers, whose plan for the purchase of the control of the Paige-Detroit Motor Car Co., was announced recently, have acquired the plant of the Wayne Body Corp. and will immediately equip it with machinery for the manufacture of Paige automobile bodies. The transaction is said to involve a sum approximately $1,250,000.

The Wilson Motor Car Co. is St. Louis' distributer of Paige cars.

The Wayne plant is located on a 40-acre tract, and its main building affords 200,000 square feet of manufacturing space. Capacity production with 1000 men is aimde at by Sept. 1.

The plant was originally built by Harroun Motors Corp., and later taken over by the Gotfredson Truck Co., which sold it to the Wayne Body Corp. Start has already been made toward remodeling the plant along lines laid out by Grahams in the employing of full crews of carpenters, machinists and painters.

"The Graham Brothers as individuals bought this splendid plant at an advantageous price," said Robert C. Graham, "but when the plan providing for our purchase of the controlling interest in the Paige-Detroit Motor Car Co., is approved by the stockholders, we will, of course, offer this property to the Paige Company at the exact price we have paid for it. Outright purchase of this plant is a token that we are not to be absentee owners. We are investing our money here, and are in the motor car business to stay."

OLDS SETS DRIVE OUT RECORD

The St. Louis factory branch of the Olds Motor Works last week set an all-time record for drive-outs when 23 Oldsmobile cars were driven from the factory branch by Southern Illinois dealers in one day, according to R. L. Samuels, factory branch manager.

The previous high record for the local branch was 21 cars in one day.

J. L. McHugh is president and H. A. Stevens is secretary and treasurer of the company.

The Hudson-Frampton formerly conducted a branch sales and service agency at Clayton under the name of Suburban Hudson Essex Co.

R. H. GRANT A VISITOR HERE

R. H. Grant, vice-president and general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor Car Co., stopped in St. Louis last week on his way to Chevrolet headquarters at Detroit after having passed a month's vacation in the South Seas and California.

David E. Ralston, regional manager of the St. Louis Chevrolet plant, accompanied Grant to Detroit.

America's Proven Fastest Stock Car

New ~~"Challenger"~~ Model
SAFETY STUTZ

80½ Miles Per Hour is its Guaranteed Top-Speed
85¼ Miles Per Hour is its A.A.A. Record Speed

[A "Challenger" Safety Stutz won the Atlantic City Stock Car Race with actual, sustained speed about 5 miles faster than its guaranteed speed.]

NOT every car that talks about speed is giving it.

Not every car that talks about power has it.

It is time for the automobile buyer to buy performance rather than promise.

Some cars that claim most in speed, on the printed page, show only moderate speed on the speedway.

Some cars that indicate high speed on their own speedometers will register very ordinary speed by the impartial stop-watch.

The first speed announcement made by the Safety Stutz was a GUARANTEE; the second was an A. A. A. RECORD; the third is another A. A. A. RECORD, given above.

STUTZ SPEED IS STAMPED STERLING. It is there—in the car that you buy.

Yet the surpassing speeds of the Safety Stutz Challenger Models are not emphasized merely to prove that the Stutz is America's Fastest Stock Car.

These speeds are tangible, visible proof of the real power possessed by the Safety Stutz. And this power means much more to the motorist than simply speed.

The ability to make 80 miles an hour is necessary to the conservative driver if he wants to get the smoothest, sweetest 50 or 60 that an automobile can give. It is necessary to him if he is to take long, steep hills easily and rapidly. It is necessary to him so that he may always have accelerating ability, even at high speeds. It is necessary to him in order that he may avoid the strain on his motor and the shortening of motor-life that comes with lack of adequate reserve power. It is necessary to him as a safety measure — a stressed piece of machinery is a dangerous piece of machinery.

Those are the real reasons why the Challenger Safety Stutz has a motor actually delivering, in the hands of the owner, over 100 horsepower; and the reasons, too, why the Challenger models are capable of top-speeds beyond any reasonable or lawful road speed.

Think of the delightful, wind-blown sensation of floating along at 50 to 60 miles an hour with your throttle only about half-open! Imagine the added ease of handling that comes with such a flow of power. Picture to yourself the veritable disdain of the bogey hills that a car so powered can express. Estimate the inevitable lengthening of life that such a wealth of reserve power confers.

The speed of the Safety Stutz is just another proof of the superior all 'round value that this advanced automobile offers in its price-class.

We invite you to ride in, and drive, an exact duplicate of the winning Challenger Safety Stutz.

GUARANTEED SPEED CAPABILITIES OF CHALLENGER MODELS SAFETY STUTZ

Stop-watch timing, at the rate of:
78½ miles per hour for 5-passenger "Challenger" Sedan.
80½ miles per hour for 2-passenger "Challenger" Speedster.
(Even higher speeds for Black Hawk Speedster and Weymann Bodies)

We, the undersigned, guarantee to reproduce the indicated speed on the Indianapolis Speedway with any Challenger Model Safety Stutz, at any time after the car has been driven 5000 miles or more, provided the owner will deliver the car to our factory at Indianapolis and pay the actual cost of having us put the car in first class condition, if, in our judgment, such reconditioning be necessary.

ARKANSAS TO FLOAT NOTE ISSUE FOR ROADS

Plan Simultaneous Construction in 11 Counties With No Outstanding Bonds.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., May 21.—Highway construction in Arkansas' non-bonded counties will probably start before the middle of the summer.

Construction under the provisions of the Martineau highway law will begin as soon as the first installment of notes can be sold, according to State Highway Commissioner Dwight H. Blackwood. Bids on these notes will be opened June 7 and, provided, of course, there is no hitch in completing the sale, it should not be long thereafter until counties which heretofore have had no improved highways will see their boundaries entered by sections of the State highway system.

No Lien on State Property.

Some question the ability of the State note board to sell the highway notes because they are not bonds and do not attach a lien on the real estate of Arkansas. Members of the State Highway Commission, however, believe that the notes will sell and think that all that is necessary is for the courts to hold the proposed note issue valid.

The case, filed in Pulaski County, to test the authority of the State Note Board to issue the highway notes, was submitted to the Arkansas Supreme Cour last week and a decision will probably be given tomorrow.

The plan of the State Highway Commission calls for construction to begin simultaneously in each of the 11 counties which have no outstanding highway bonds and are, therefore, entitled to construction under the highway law.

Construction and Repairs.

In addition to new construction, the State Highway Department is going to be called upon for repairs which in many instances will equal construction work. These repairs will be needed in the counties severely hit by the recent flood and in many places where the State highway system was damaged to such an extent that long stretches of new road must be built.

CHEVROLET APRIL OUTPUT OF 111,937 UNITS SETS RECORD

The Chevrolet Motor Co. reports a new production record with a total output in April of 111,937 units, which exceeds by 4037 units the best previous monthly performance in the history of the company and establishes an all-time record for the monthly production of gear-shift cars.

The company also reports that on April 29 its factories built 5347 Chevrolet cars and trucks, 272 units in excess of the best previous day's record.

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT, BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

PUBLIC REAL WINNER IN STOCK CAR RACES

Stamina and Performance Best Revealed in Such Exhibitions, Auburn Executive Says.

"The public is the real winner," says E. L. Cord, president of the Auburn Automobile Co., commenting upon the speedway race for stock cars held recently at Atlantic City. "It was comparatively only yesterday that such speed and endurance was an impossibility even for special, costly race cars.

"When you weigh the significance of what is necessary in constructing stock cars that will average over 86 miles an hour speed for 75 miles, and finish the race capable of continued indefinite performance, the public has the most conclusive evidence of what manufacturers have been doing to give them better cars of greater value and durability. That in the net is the real value of this race.

Position Not Important.

"All the contestants were out to win. But in a strictly stock car race, actual position is not of utmost importance. It is not where you finished, but how, that counts. This was not a race of special cars for monetary profit. It was a demonstration before the world, out in open competition, under the most severe conditions, of what progress has been made in engineering and building the cars offered to the public.

Race Open to All.

"This race was open to all manufacturers and dealers. Auburn has the highest respect for those who entered. It required courage and extreme confidence in a car to enter, because any one of minor things could happen to put a car out of the running."

Stutz, the winner of the stock car race, and Auburn finished the race only one-fifth of a second apart, marking what is said to be the most impressive and unusual race on record.

421,212 Cars in New York.

There were registered in Greater New York City last year 421,212 passenger cars, 106,909 commercial vehicles, 32,835 omnibusses and taxicabs, and 7876 motor cycles.

APRIL AUTO OUTPUT IS ESTIMATED AT 400,000

About 355,000 Said to Be Passenger Cars, and 45,000 Trucks and Busses.

DETROIT, May 21.—While official figures have not yet been compiled, it is estimated that automobile production for the month of April will be slightly over the 400,000 mark, according to B. H. Cram, president of Cram's Automotive Reports.

"Of this number," says Cram, "between 355,000 and 366,000 will represent passenger cars, while truck and bus output will be between 45,000 and 50,000. While the totals for March and April would be practically the same, if the preliminary survey proves correct, the industry really would register a gain, for there was one less working day in the last 30-day period, and it is estimated that an average of between 12,000 and 15,000 are made each day.

"Based on the above figures, estimates place production for the first four months of 1927 at approximately 1,380,000 units, as compared with 1,586,487 units for the same period in 1926.

"No effort is being made by manufacturers this year, apparently, to run up production records, simply because it is the time of the year when they are expected. Output is being governed entirely by the demand.

"Demand has not been strong but sales gains are steadily being recorded. It is believed that a little favorable weather will result in a brisk sale of motor vehicles during the next few weeks. Now, the situation is somewhat mixed, with some of the companies doing exceptionally well, and others showing a slight falling off in sales."

G. M. RETAIL SALES WERE 180,106 UNITS IN APRIL

Retail April sales by General Motors Corp., dealers to users were 180,106 cars, compared with 136,643 in April, 1926, and further with 97,242 in April, 1925, according to Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president.

"The April sales by our car divisions to dealers totaled 169,067 cars, compared with 122,742 in April, 1926, and 85,583 in April, 1925.

"The following tabulation shows monthly sales of General Motors cars by dealers to ultimate consumers and sales by the manufacturing divisions of General Motors to their dealers:

WHIPPET RUNS 126 MILES IN 159 MINUTES FOR NEW RECORD

"A Whippet stock car recently traveled 126 miles in 159 minutes under official observation of newspapermen and city officials, says Willys-Overland, Inc. The test was made in Nantahala gorge from Asheville to Murphy, North Carolina.

"The Whippet set a new time record, knocking 51 minutes off a record held by a $3000, 6-cylinder car. It maintained an average speed of 47.75 miles an hour and averaged 33 1-3 miles to the gallon of gasoline.

"The Whippet was officially checked out of Asheville by Postal Telegraph and checked in at Murphy 159 minutes later by Western Union.

REO SALES HERE THIS YEAR SHOW BIG INCREASE OVER 1926

Reo Flying Cloud sales in the St. Louis metropolitan district in February, 1927, increased 200 per cent over February, 1926, and in April, 1927, 350 per cent over April, 1926, according to R. D. Hilty, sales manager of Reo, St. Louis, Inc. Reo Flying Cloud and Wolverine distributer.

"We sold retail 44 Reo Flying Cloud cars the first 11 working days of May, this year," said Hilty, "and prospects are that we will have as good sales this month as April.

"The Wolverine has been enthusiastically accepted by the public and we are registering daily sales with this model."

BENJAMIN MOTOR CO. GETS ELCAR DISTRIBUTORSHIP

The Benjamin Motor Car Co., Stutz distributor, has obtained the franchise for distributing Elcar automobiles in the metropolitan St. Louis district. A complete line of Elcar eight and six cylinder models are on display at the company's display rooms, 3021 Locust street. The company will continue as Stutz distributors, according to Jerome J. Benjamin, president.

"Within two weeks the Board of Executives of Elcar Motor Co. will be in St. Louis. It will include F. B. Sears, president, R. A. Rawson, general sales manager, and A. M. Graffis, designer and chief engineer. A series of meetings will be held with new dealers and wholesale and retail salesmen of the Benjamin Motor Co. A thorough schooling in Elcar sales methods will be given the sales staff," say a statement by Benjamin.

The 4-Door Sedan $1195
Body by Fisher

You can go over the fine car market with a fine-toothed comb—and you will not discover another automobile which offers all the advantages of the Oakland 4-door Sedan at anywhere near $1195. Other manufacturers in Oakland's price class offer broughams, coupes, roadsters and touring cars at this figure—but none offers a 4-door sedan!

Every demand for comfort, smoothness and luxury is satisfied in this value leader of the Oakland line. The body in Cobalt Blue Duco bears the Fisher nameplate. The powerful, economical six-cylinder engine has all the freedom from vibration which caused the Harmonic Balancer to be so widely adopted. The chassis has all those progressive features which created the Oakland reputation for advanced engineering—balanced revolving parts from crankshaft to rear axle; an oiling system which, at 35 m. p. h., forces over 100 gallons of oil an hour through moving engine parts; tilting-beam headlights with foot control, and others equally important.

...for DUCO:
when it begins to dull

The rich DUCO finish will always look its best ... and wear longer, if cleaned a few times each season with Common Sense.

... a fact proved year after year by thousands of car owners. And due to the common sense formula and purpose of this scientific Cleanser. Which is to act, not upon the finish, but solely upon the dull, disfiguring film that coats over the finish.

To keep your car beautiful ... safely, from year to year, use nothing on it but the approved Cleanser for DUCO and all fine finishes

The Tiffany of Low-Priced Cars

The Star is built for people who want to be thoroughly proud of their car

The Star is by no means the lowest priced car on the market—there are several other cars which are cheaper. But the Star is built to offer a combination of genuine goodness and refinement for those who prefer a low-priced car, but insist on smartness. It is intentionally a proud car for proud buyers.

All we ask is that you DRIVE A STAR before you decide that any other low-priced car is "just as good." Then buy the car that suits you best.

FREE RIDES FOR PUBLIC TO DEMONSTRATE HUDSON CARS

Fourteen Hudson cars supplied by metropolitan district Hudson dealers, and three from the Hudson-Frampton Motor Car Co., Hudson-Essex distributor sales floor, are being used by the company this week in a city-wide free demonstration of Hudson car performance. The cars leave various downtown and uptown points every 30 minutes during the day beginning at 10 a. m. The public is invited to ride in the cars gratis and are not obligated to make a purchase.

This unique demonstration of Hudson cars was begun last week and an average of 150 persons daily are being given rides, according to Hudson-Frampton Motor Car Co.

The points from which the cars leave are: Eighth and Olive streets, Seventh and Locust streets, Kingshighway and Delmar boulevard, Grand boulevard and Olive street.

The demonstration is nationwide. Some 5000 dealers in the United States, besides the local dealers and distributor, are operating a demonstration fleet this week and giving free rides to the public to show how the Hudson performs.

WHIPPET STOCK TOURING CAR CLIMBS STONE MT. IN 9:16

Beating any previous time by 7 minutes, 44 seconds, a Whippet stock touring car, with Chick Murray at the wheel, climbed the side of the Stone Mountain, near Atlanta, Ga., a few days ago with several thousand watching from the steep slopes. The Whippet made the climb in 9 minutes, 16 seconds. It is said to have been the only car of small piston displacement to reach the summit of this mountain under its own power.

The efficiency of four-wheel brakes on the Whippet was proved when Murray turned the car around on the summit and began the descent. Several times Murray brought the Whippet to a complete stop selecting the steepest slopes for this exhibition.

Spectators crowded into the path upon two occasions compelling Murray to bring the Whippet to a stop on the slopes.

The Whippet is said to have been the third car that ever climbed Stone Mountain and returned to the bottom under its own power.

The climb was timed by Al S. Jones, representative of the Atlanta Automobile Association, affiliated with the American Automobile Association.

The Whippet used by Murray was the car he used two weeks before in a run from Atlanta to Macon, Ga., in one hour, 53 minutes, beating the time of the Dixie Flyer, one of the best trains in the South. A week later the same car and driver ran 225 miles on the dirt Lakewood track at Atlanta at an average of 47 miles an hour.

China Roads Bad.

China, with an area of 4,300,000 square miles, larger than the United States, Mexico and Central America combined, has but 10,000 miles of roads fit for motor transportation. This is 390,000 fewer miles of highways than in the United States. There are only 20,000 motor vehicles in operation in China, compared with upward of 20,000,000 in the United States.

M'FARLAN DISTRIBUTOR MOVES TO 2818 LOCUST ST.

New sales and service headquarters for McFarlan cars had been opened by Foster Motor Co., McFarlan distributor, at 2818 Locust street. The company formerly was at 2914 Washington avenue. In addition to selling McFarlan cars, the company will operate at its new location a parts and service department for Victor trucks.

Part of the office space has been turned over to J. C. Borah, sales representative for Victor truck and bus bodies.

The Foster Motor Co. now has a display room 50x50 feet. Four McFarlan models, a 5-passenger sedan, a 7-passenger sedan, a brougham and a limousine, are displayed.

Frank J. Foster is president of the firm.

STEARNS-KNIGHT 8 SALES CAUSE PRODUCTION INCREASE

Capacity production for weeks ahead is assured the F. B. Stearns Co. factory at Cleveland with the continuous influx of orders for Stearns-Knight cars from all parts of the country, says a factory statement. Production covers not only the new eight-cylinder model but the standard six-cylinder cars as well.

"The F. B. Stearns Co. plant has been operating on a seven-day per week schedule for some time, a large number of the departments working a full twenty-four-hour day. In addition the factory personnel has been materially increased, the pay roll for the last month being double that of the previous month, says the factory.

"The unusual acceptance given the new Stearns-Knight eight is held chiefly responsible for the increased activity at the Stearns plant."

Today's greatest value in the six-cylinder field

In this new creation of Hupmobile, the Six Brougham, is close-coupled beauty—the verve and dash of a four-passenger coupe—with ample provision for five adult passengers.

Finished in dark green or maroon with black upper body and smart striping, the luxurious Brougham presents the color-harmony found on cars of highest price.

Door openings are 36 inches wide and give generous room for entrance or exit. Individual front seats, thickly upholstered and shaped for greatest comfort, are adjustable for legroom.

Special interior features include remote control door handles; upholstery of genuine mohair; attractively patterned hardware and a new instrument panel, with all dials grouped under glass and indirectly lighted.

Not alone in the beauty and equipment that meets the eye, but in the sounder essentials of construction, Hupmobile Six creates a new conception of value at a list price of $1385.

You will be delighted in the quick functioning of the powerful six engine (aided by the new manifold heat control), the ease of steering and parking, the roadability that makes the longest trip both restful and enjoyable.

Providing all that the six-cylinder principle offers at a price several hundreds of dollars less than you would expect to pay, Hupmobile Six is called the closest-priced six on the American market. You will soon know why when you get behind the wheel of this stylish and comfortable Brougham.

THE CLOSEST-PRICED SIX IN AMERICA

WHAT'S NEW IN MOTOR CARS AND EQUIPMENT

New Packard Phaeton Ideal for Long Tours

A new Packard eight phaeton with de luxe touring equipment is on display by the Berry Motor Car Co., Packard distributer.

The de luxe touring equipment includes two extra tires, with khaki covers to match the top, a steel trunk containing three traveling cases, six wire wheels in black enamel, cowl band with nickel side lights, safety lights for night driving, two spotlights on window stanchions, and regular headlights. Tonneau windshield, sun visor, windshield wings, rear-view mirror and two special mirrors mounted on the top of each spare tire at the side, complete the equipment.

The new phaeton is priced at $4695 delivered.

The color combination is two-tone gray. The upholstery is gray Spanish leather. Running gear is gray and wire wheels are black.

Moon Steering Gear Cam and Lever Type

"When an automobile can be steered with a finger-tip, it marks a line between motoring joy and fatigue, and likewise gives greater safety in traffic", says George H. Kublin, chief engineer of the Moon Motor Car Co.

"This advancement in engineering is found in the Moon 6-60 steering gear, known as the special Moon-Ross Cam and Lever balloon tire type. It was especially designed for short curb parking and ease of operation. The steering wheel can actually be turned with the slightest effort of the finger-tips.

"The cam and lever is mounted on large bronze ball bearings and has a variable ration of 15 to 1 in mid position resulting in a minimum loss of friction and a quick and positive operation.

"With this type of gear little effort is required to wheel through traffic and to make short turns at high speeds on the highway. This, along with a self-centering feature and reduction of road shocks, virtually eliminates driving fatigue and makes lengthy trips a pleasure."

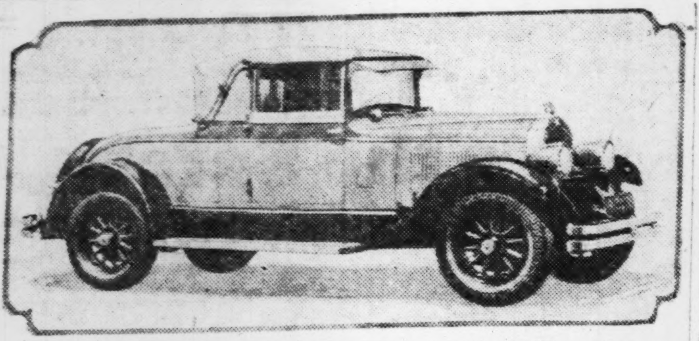
Commander Coupe Is Newest Studebaker

A new Studebaker Commander coupe is on display at Weber Motor Car Co., and Cartwright Motor Car Co., Studebaker-Erskine co-distributors. The delivered price is $1749.

The coupe has a dark green body and black running gear. A beading of light green pleasantly offsets the dark body shade.

The top is dark green, the back part being of heavy grain leather. Disc wheels are standard equipment.

A coupe identical to this one, except that it has a rumble seat, is scheduled to be on display at Weber Motor Car Co., and Cartwright Motor Car Co. within the next ten days. The delivered price of the coupe with rumble seat will be $1852.



Chrysler cabriolet with collapsible top and rumble seat.

New Colors for Reo Cabriolet

A new color combination on the Reo Flying Cloud cabriolet is on display by Reo St. Louis, Inc., Reo distributor.

The body, top and running gear of the car is in pea green, the beading is ivory with black centerline and two outer parallel ivory stripes. The windows, likewise, are edged with a ivory hairline stripe. Hood louvres are trimmed with the same color.

Wheels are natural wood.

The car has nickeled rear deck bars, nickeled radiator and lights, and is equipped with hydraulic shock absorbers.

The delivered price is $1775, which includes bumpers and spare tire.

Brougham Added To Hupmobile "8" Line

The latest addition to the Hup "8" line is a brougham at $2545 delivered.

The body of the new car is in maroon, the running gear black. Disc wheels are standard, and are done in bright red with alternating black and gold circular stripes. The window reveals likewise are in bright red.

The top is black. The black body beading has a gold centerline. The hood louvres also are striped with gold.

Upholstery is velour.

Standard equipment includes spare tire, bumpers and bumperettes and motometer.

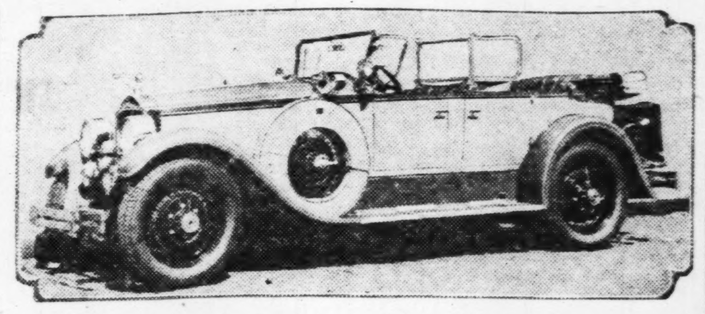
New Colors for Peerless 6-60 Sedan

A new color combination on the Peerless 6-60 model sedan is being displayed by the De Luxe Motor Car Co., Peerless-Falcon-Knight distributor.

The sedan has a Erie blue body and black top, with window reveals trimmed in Erie blue. The running gear is black as is the body beading.

The wheels are wooden, spokes being done in Erie blue.

This car is priced at $1345 factory list or $1495 delivered, which includes spare tihe, tire lock, bumpers and bumperettes, snubbers, and automatic windshield wiper.



The de luxe touring equipment makes this model ideal for long road trips.

Pierce-Arrow "80" Has Aluminum Cowl

A touch of European rakishness is added to the Pierce-Arrow series 80 four-passenger touring by the tonneau wind screen and cowl by Brunn.

The cowl is aluminum and covers the knees and feet of the passenger, while the wind screen guards head and body from the cold. The entire screen and cowl raises completely out of the way for entrance and exit.

The cowl is built of selected wood and covered with thick plates of aluminum. The interior is lined with colored or black leather to match the upholstery. A pocket is provided to hold personal articles.

New County Chevrolet Dealer.

The Baldwin Motor Car Co., of Baldwin, St. Louis County, has been appointed authorized Chevrolet dealer. The company was recently organized as a partnership by J. D. Koch and Francis X. Essen.

PECIAL PIERCE-ARROWS SPORT MODELS DISPLAYED

A special display of Pierce-Arrow sport models will be held in St. Louis during the week of May 22 to 28 as part of the National Open Car week of Pierce-Arrow distributors and dealers all over the United States, according to Western Automobile Co., Pierce-Arrow distributor.

Much interest centers about the series 80 runabout, this car being one of the four models of the series 80 line on which Pierce-Arrow recently announced large price reductions. The runabout is priced need not be without honor—even in his own country

but he's got to be good

IT'S hard to fool the home-folks. They know you too well; they're too familiar with your human weaknesses and foibles.

You may look ever so good behind the footlights—where the calcium and the make-up cover up a lot of blemishes; but to the disillusioned scrutiny across the breakfast-table—that's different.

"A prophet is not without honor save in his own country."

So, also with an automobile. Especially with a new automobile.

Pretty paint, tasty upholstery, and flash performance—properly embellished by the salesman and the advertising expert—sometimes permit a new automobile to leap into popularity overnight.

But not in its own home-town.

It takes more than shiny paint or honeyed words to fool the home-folks; for they know just what goes into the automobile, of materials, or workmanship and of honesty of purpose; and if any "bugs" develop, they know it, instantly.

More than six thousand of Lansing's 80,000 residents, are employed building Reos.

Between 25,000 and 30,000 of Lansing's population are connected, directly or indirectly, with the Reo Motor Car Company.

This means that the people of Lansing know Reo products—and they know the Reo Flying Cloud, "from stem to stern."

They know, as do the residents of no other city in the United States, the kind of automobile it is—the ideals of the men and of the Company that are building it—the record it is making, both in sales and in performance, throughout the length and breadth of the Continent.

Which means that Lansing's verdict on the Flying Cloud means something.

And here is that verdict:

In March, 1927, there were registered in Ingham County, Michigan, 485 new cars—of which 47, or approximately 10%, were Reos!

In all, there were 28% fewer new cars registered in Ingham County in March, 1927, than in March, 1926; despite which, Reo registered a gain of 250%.

Reo was outsold only by two very low-priced automobiles; and at the same time Reo outsold, by approximately 5 to 1, every other make of car in its price-field.

This is Lansing's verdict on the Flying Cloud—the verdict of people who know automobiles, and especially who know the Flying Cloud automobile.

A prophet need not be without honor even in his own country—but he's got to be good.

Beating All the Records of 22 Years

Reo's production and sales in April broke all previous monthly records during the entire 22 years of the company's history—exceeding the former record by 25%.

Pleasure-car shipments for that month were three times as great as for April, 1926.

Production and shipments this month are running even higher than in April—indicating another new record.

New sales records are being made in every part of the country.

Most interesting of all, however, is the record of the Flying Cloud in its own "country"—in Ingham County, Michigan, in which Lansing is located.

To Make Statue of Lincoln.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., May 27.—Pennies and nickels amounting to $30,000 contributed by Cleveland school children will pay for a new statue of Lincoln in Playhouse Square to be executed by Max Kalish, Cleveland sculptor, famous for his bronzes of American laboring men. The Cleveland Society of Artists has protested Kalish's appointment because the commission was not awarded in open competition.

Girl Scout Troop Notes

Troop 57 of the Walnut Park School, entertained the Mothers' Club May 11 with a play, "The Doll Shop." After the meeting the mothers served ice cream and cake, while the girls of the troop sang scout songs.

A "steak-fry" in Forest Park was planned by Troop 40 of the Cote Brilliante School for a week ago Friday, but on acount of rain it was held in the school.

Mrs. George Tuttle brought water colors of wild flowers, painted by herself, to the meeting of Troop 2, Kirkwood, May 4, and gave a short talk on them. At the meeting of this troop, May 11, Mrs. Tough told the scouts about the birds that visit her garden. The troop's Nature Club, accompanied by Mrs. Fitz-Gerald, went on a nature hike Friday, May 13. All the girls are working on their nature note-books. The Mothers' Council held a meeting just before the last troop meeting, those who have been giving second class tests making their reports. Miss Piper told the mothers about the new girl scout camp near Pevely.

Troop 44 held its weekly meeting at O'Fallon Park last Monday, and cooked "Angels on Horseback" for supper. They identified many birds in the park, including blue-jays, brown thrashers, gruackles, and red-headed woodpeckers.

A mothers' and daughters' banquet was given May 10 by Troop 1 of Overland. The troop colors, green and white, were carried out in the decorations. Miss Lauris Baldwin, a guest of the evening, spoke on raising funds for the new camp. Entertainment was provided by the patrols.

Patrol No. 1 of Troop 12 won the interpatrol thrift contest, and as a reward they will be taken on a hike. The losing patrols will furnish the food, cook and serve it, and wait on Patrol 1 hand and foot. In order to raise money for the equipment of the new camp Troop 12 is going to have a bakery sale, for which mothers, relatives and Scouts will bake cakes and "scout cookies." To advertise this event each patrol is making two posters for store windows. The Tenderfoot Scouts took their first observation walk last meeting. Upon their return the Scouts were required to make a list of the things they saw which they thought beneficial to the general public.

Troop 22 has donated $25 to the Community Day Nursery in playground equipment. This troop was also the first in the city to donate $25 to the new Scout camp at Pevely. The money for these two donations was raised at a bazar held in March, when $150 was cleared. A program was given by the same troop May 16 for the Sisterhood of Temple Israel, at Hotel Chase. The Scout laws were illustrated and Scout songs sung before a large assemblage of people. A luncheon is being planned for the mothers and girls to be held on May 28.

Cecilia Wolf joined Coenea Troop 56, Lily of the Valley Patrol, at the meeting May 16, raising the total enrollment of the troop to 21. Knots were taught by Dorothy Wessels to the Lily of the Valley Patrol, and by Dorothy Sexauer to the Lone Star Patrol. The older girls gave a play illustrating the Scout laws that a girl Scout is loyal, useful and obeys orders. A joint hike to Windsor Springs with Troop 7 will be taken today, with Dorothy and Elenor Wessels and Dorothy Sexauer in charge, to pass a first class test. Plans for the troop flag were discussed at the last meeting. Dorothy Sexauer was presented with a gold star for attendance and Eleanor Wessels was given a silver star. The Scouts marched in the parade May 15 when the corner stone of Our Lady of Sorrows Church was laid. The girl Scouts acted as color guards, following three soldiers carrying an American flag. During the ceremony the girls had a position of honor, and were in the direct line of vision of a motion picture camera.

SCOUTS RESERVATION AT LION'S DEN OPENED

Camping Grounds Near Imperial, Mo., Has Enlarged Its Equipment.

After several postponements induced by the rainy weather of the last month, the Lions' Den Reservation, the week-end camp of the local Boy Scout Council, located at near Imperial, Mo., has been officially opened, according to local headquarters. The same camping grounds used last year are available, either with or without equipment being supplied, but 50 new pup tents have been purchased to take care of an increasing demand for the fully-equipped camps. Both equipped and none-equipped camps include an army field range for cooking.

The use of the Lions' Den reservation is open to any troop in the city or county. It is necessary, however, to make application for camping in advance, as each site is reserved. Troops may either hike to camp, or go by machine or truck. Arrangements have been made to have a truck leave the end of th Cherokee car line on Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays, to transport scouts to the camp. The truck will leave the car line at 5 o'clock Friday evenings and 9 o'clock, 2 o'clock and 5 o'clock Saturdays. It will leave the reservation for the return trip at 3:30 o'clock Saturday and 3 and 5 o'clock Sunday. The fare will be twenty-five cents each way.

London Dock Workers' Museum.

LONDON, May 21.—One of the quaintest and least-known museums in London is in the Dock district of Stepney, housed in a building once used as a mortuary.

Dockers who find curios when unloading ships bring them to this building for classification. Giant spiders, cockroaches, scorpions, lizards and snakes from all parts of the world are captured and brought along in jars, but other curios are also collected by the keen dockers and placed in the "museum." The Stepney Borough Council has taken over the upkeep, and the children of this poor district are keenly interested in the exhibits.

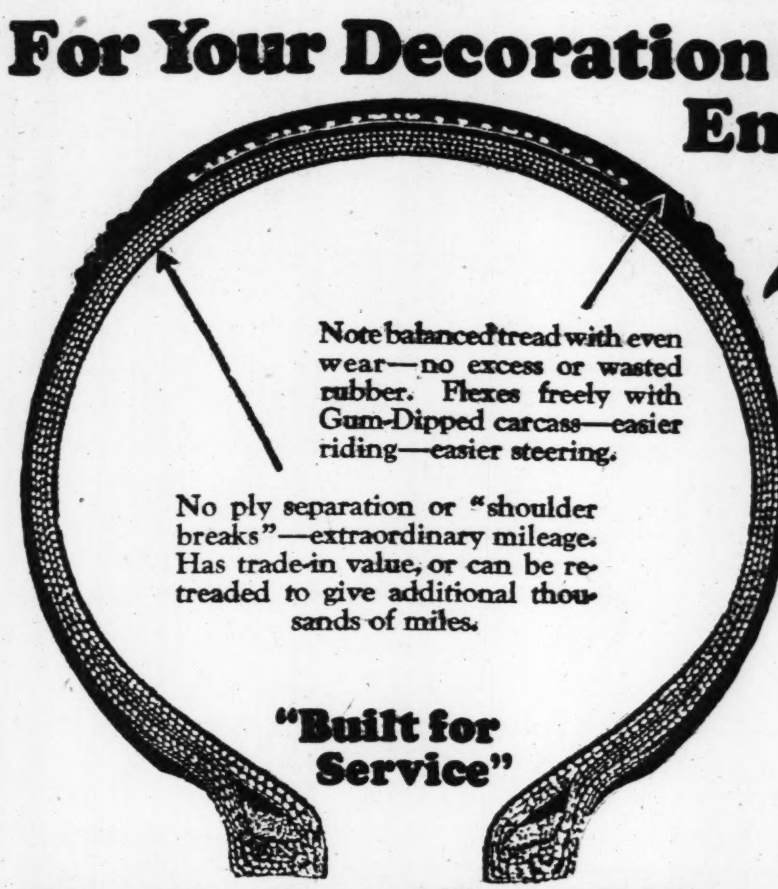
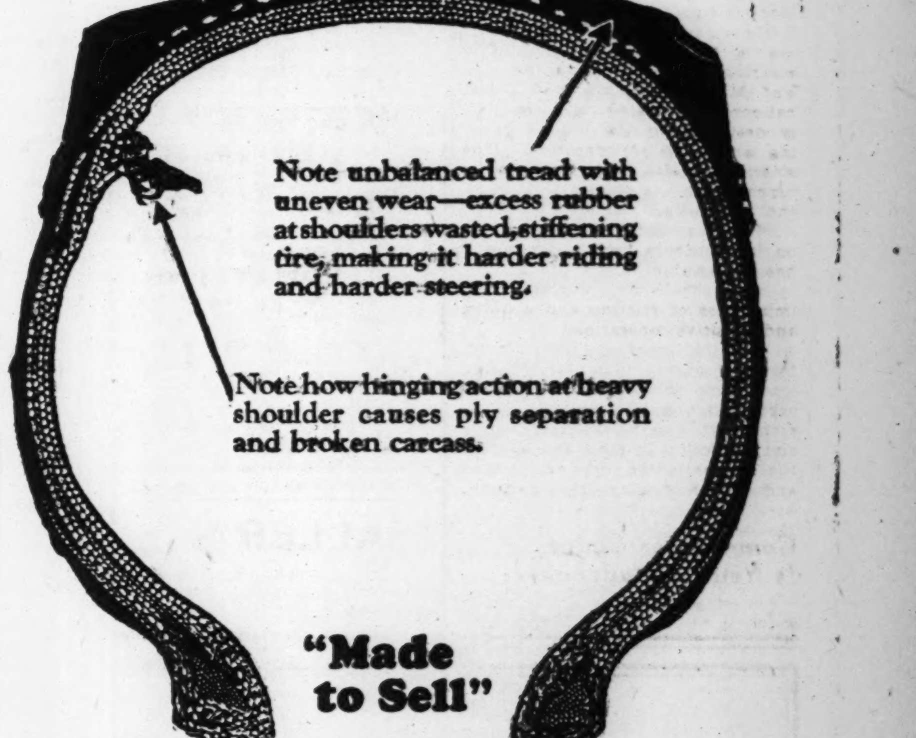
TIRES



Note balanced tread with even wear—no excess or wasted rubber. Flexes freely with Gum-Dipped carcass—easier riding—easier steering.
No ply separation or "shoulder breaks"—extraordinary mileage. Has trade-in value, or can be retreaded to give additional thousands of miles.
"Built for Service"

Firestone Round Tread Balloon



Note unbalanced tread with uneven wear—excess rubber at shoulders wasted, stiffening tire, making it harder riding and harder steering.
Note how hinging action at heavy shoulder causes ply separation and broken carcass.
"Made to Sell"

Flat Tread Balloon

MANY Firestone Dealers are prepared to take in your old tires, offering you a liberal allowance on a new set of Gum-Dipped Balloons, which will give you extra safety, comfort and economy for the motoring season.

Firestone Dealers are the experienced tire men in your community. They are given the advantages of attending Firestone Repair Schools, located at the Factories and in principal Branch Cities, and the Tire Educational Meetings held throughout the country, where tire design and construction are discussed. The sections of used tires reproduced here are a part of this Educational program. Study these two sections and you, too, will understand what Firestone means by tires built for service and tires made to sell.

The Firestone Gum-Dipped Balloon with its scientifically designed tread permits free flexing, easier riding, extra comfort and safety.

The balloon tire with heavy, flat tread design is obviously stiffer and rides harder. The excess rubber, placed for appearance at the edges of the tread, is not only wasted but produces hinging action causing ply separation and "shoulder breaks."

Firestone designed and manufactures Oldfield Tires and Tubes, distributing them direct to Firestone Dealers only, through 148 Factory Warehouses. This efficient and economical distribution assures tire buyers everywhere, clean, fresh stocks of Firestone and Oldfield Tires in all types and sizes, and has helped to make possible today's remarkably low prices—the lowest in tire history. See the Firestone Dealer today.

Boy and Girl Scout Activities

BIG CROWD EXPECTED AT IRONDALE FRIDAY

Seventh Annual Scoutmasters' Week-End Trip to Include Wives and Families.

One of the largest gatherings of the year at Camp Irondale, the official camp of the St. Louis Council of Boy Scouts, will take place next Friday evening when more than 300 St. Louis scoutmasters, troop committeemen and their wives and families assemble at the reservation for the seventh annual scoutmasters' week-end trip, starting Friday evening and concluding Decoration day. The scoutmasters' week-end, one of the few scout camps including the leaders' families in its program, has always been one of the most popular events held at Irondale. Approximately the same number, 300, attended last year.

The program, under the direction of Educational Director William Puffer, will consist of both leadership training and recreation events. Outdoor scoutcraft, including work in camp cooking, outdoor meals, handicraft, novel methods of teaching, the conducting of camps, and nature study, will be especially stressed, under the supervision of experts in each of the subjects. The chief purpose of the camp, however, is to bring scoutmasters from all parts of the city and county together, that they may exchange ideas, and learn of new and successful methods of handling troops employed by progressive leaders.

Periods for recreation will be liberally supplied. Some of these will be for the scoutmaster and his family together, some will be for one or the other alone, and others will be in the form of contests, individual, group or district. As in past camps, the four districts will act as units, each attempting to score the highest number of points in the contests for the trip. Each district will also give a district "stunt" around the council fire Saturday evening.

The cost of the trip, not including transportation, will be $3.50 for each person. A special Missouri Pacific train will leave Union Station Friday evening, and bring the campers back Monday evening. Reduced rate tickets for this train are obtainable at local headquarters.

A rather unusual feature of the camp this year is that in 25 of the North District troops, the troop committees are paying their scoutmaster's way to the camp.

Scout Notes

Headquarters Notes.

The seventh meeting of the training course which is being conducted at the Sheldon Memorial will be held tomorrow evening, May 23, for patrol leaders and scoutmasters of all troops who have not yet qualified in this phase of their second quarter's objective. The scribes will meet on this night to finish up their scribes' books, and scribes who need attendance at the fifth meeting to qualify in the scribes' course are expected to attend.

The West District Court of Honor was held at the Ben Blewett Junior High School last Monday evening. Frank V. Hammar and Robert L. Morton of the City Court of Honor awarding 336 merit badges to 98 scouts. Scoutmaster H. W. Moller of Troop 93 conducted the opening ceremonies. The Rev. Rufus D. S. Putney of St. Luke's Hospital gave an inspirational talk, the invocation and the benediction.

The Drum and Bugle Corps of Troop 5, under Scoutmaster Prof. Stephens, assisted in the opening and closing ceremonies. The high honors of the evening were accorded to Troop 5, who presented the largest number of candidates, a total of 15 scouts, and the largest number of merit badges, a total of 59.

North District.

Troop 3 of the Grace Episcopal Church celebrated its tenth anniversary last Tuesday evening. Scoutmaster J. P. Simons was awarded his 10 year veteran badge, commemorating his 10 years continuous service as scoutmaster of the troop. Troops 161, 243, 206 and 172 were guests of Troop 3. A feature of the evening was the showing of moving pictures of Camp Irondale and a talk on Camp Irondale by Field Executive John D. Wright.

Troop 19, of the Blair School, co-operated with Troop 130 of the Zion Evangelical Church in putting on a special Parent's Night last Friday at the Blair School. A program was arranged for the benefit of the parents and friends. Camp Irondale pictures were shown and a talk on the benefits of Camp Irondale was given by Field Executive John D. Wright.

Troop 88 of the Salem Evangelical Church held a Parent's Night at the church last Friday evening. Field Executive John D. Wright spoke on Camp and the troop resolved to have at least three patrols in camp this summer. Sixteen boys are already registered for Camp and a number more are to go to Headquarters at the first opportunity in order that the troop can all go to the same section.

Troop 33 of the St. Peters Evangelical Church held the first hike of the season at the Lions' Den Reservation last Sunday. The entire cost of the hike was underwritten by the Troop Committee and given to the troop as a special award. The feature of the hike was a competition with Troop 92, of the Cupples School, in various athletic events.

Troop 206 visited Troop 3 at the last meeting. Last Sunday 14 scouts, two mascots, one troop committeeman, the scoutmaster, and assistant scoutmaster were present on a hike. A ball game was held, in which Troop 206 defeated Troop 3.

Troop 72 of the Neighborhood House took a hike to Lions' Den last Sunday. The Flying Eagle Patrol had the largest number of scouts present. Troop 72 has a point system similar to the one early in September. The Flying Eagle Patrol is leading at present.

West District.

Twenty scouts and eight officers of Troop 11 hiked to Meramec Highlands last Sunday. The troop was divided into two patrols, each of which did its own cooking over a fire built by the members. Tests were passed, and games played, but the feature of the hike was a treasure hunt in the woods.

Fourteen scouts and officers of Troop 101 hiked last Sunday to a spot near Meramec Quarry. The hike was planned principally to give an opportunity for scouts to pass as many tests as possible. Elmer Bender and William Jones advanced to the rank of second class. Scoutmaster Miller interviewed several recruits and assisted them with their tenderfoot work. A feature of the hike was an inter-patrol string burning contest, won by the Bear Patrol. At the West District Court of Honor, Elmer qualified for six merit badges. The troop was represented at the Fathers' and Sons' Camp over the week end by Rolland Stevens and his father and Elwyn Van Zandt.

Troop 110 had an all-day hike to Kenwood Springs a week ago yesterday. Tests were passed in cooking, fire building, and knife and hatchet. At about 9 o'clock in the evening with a full moon above, a campfire was made around which the scouts reviewed the happenings of the day.

The Bear Patrol of Troop 59 has elected Elmer Hagemeyer patrol leader. Scouts Robert Berveiler, Charles Kunsemueller and Carl Tubbesing have been promoted to second class. At the Court of Honor Monday night this troop received a total of 39 merits badges, the scouts receiving them being Roy Blank, Jack Casey, Robert Casey, Edward Deuser, Albert Groceman, Henry Heitman, Irving Hiat and Roy Hoefelman. Besides these scouts, Scoutmaster G. A. Wallner received six, Committeeman William Rueweler five, and William Luechau, four.

Troop 94, a newly organized troop, held its first meeting Thursday, May 12, at St. Barbara Church, Hamilton and Minerva avenue. Forty boys were present, of which 34 will become members. Scoutmaster George Ullrich gave an introductory talk on scouting. Assistant Scoutmaster Celestine Whemeyer was in charge of the opening ceremonies and the teaching of the pledge of allegiance and the scout oath. Games and the principles of drilling and knot tying were taught.

Troop 46 will take its annual Decoration day hike to Jefferson Barracks May 30. They have made this hike every year for the last 10 years, and will keep up the tradition this year. Any other troops who wish to accompany Troop 46 are welcome. Assistant Scoutmaster Lawrence Reiter had charge of the meeting last Friday. Several games were played. Scoutmaster Hall is rapidly recovering from his illness.

The exchange department of this troop's paper, the "Hoot," has grown rapidly, the circulation extending to four foreign countries, many states and almost all local troops. Troops interested in exchanging papers have been requested to write to Scout Max Wender, 5141A Cates avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

An O'Grady drill by patrons was the feature of Troop 60's meeting last Friday. The Beaver Patrol won, with last and third to last, Jimmy Jones and Jack Brashear, respectively. A hike was taken Saturday by 12 scouts to a cabin on Manchester road, where they cooked their supper and got caught in a rain coming home. Second class tests were passed on the hike.

Troop 90 of the Temple Sharre Emeth put on the troop's most successful hike of the spring season, when more than 40 boys went to the Berry reservation last Sunday. Among the events of the day were two baseball games, a bird hike conducted by Senior Patrol Leader Joe Goldman, and a treasure hunt won by the "Bean-Eaters," under the leadership of Charlie Miller. Frank Block and Bryson Rash entertained at the evening campfire.

Troops 33, 72 and 92 visited Lions Den last week-end. Troop 33 had 48 scouts and the troop committee present Sunday. A total of 80 scouts and seven scotumasters were in attendance over the week-end. The troops planned several programs, including a number of treasure hunts.

Troop 118 hiked to Forest Park last Sunday, where they practiced a number of stunts, including pyramid building, tumbling acts and scouting. A large crowd of people watched the troop go through their maneuvers. The troop committee and 11 scouts were present on the hike. This troop has just finished a birdhouse contest, in which a number of houses were constructed by the different patrols. The scouts are building a wall which they can use in practicing for a wall scaling event which they hope to enter next year in the circus. They are also planning to help with the annual school picnic.

GIRL SCOUT COURT OF AWARDS JUNE 1

Ceremony Scheduled for Next Wednesday Postponed for One Week.

The St. Louis Girl Scout Court of Awards, scheduled for next Wednesday evening, has been postponed a week, until June 1, according to Miss Lauris Baldwin, field captain in charge of the court. The court, which will convene to present merit badges and special honor awards to Girl Scouts of the city who have won them since the court last fall, will be held, as previously announced, at the United Railway Hall, Vista avenue and Grand boulevard.

More than 600 merit badges for excellency in various scout subjects will be awarded to 300 girls, representing the majority of the older troops of the city. The most popular badge is that of Hostess, of which89 will be presented;Scholarship is second with 67, followed by First Aid, Home Nursing and Child Nursing. This court will also be marked by the awarding of the first Home Service badge to be won in St. Louis. This badge, the most difficult of all, requiring 50 hours of specified service around the home, has been earned by Mercedes Borghoff of Troop 10.

Two sisters will obtain another special badge, when Margaret and Helen Jones of Troop 52 receive their Community Service pins. These pins, enamel and gold circles, on which the Girl Scout badge stands in relief, are also won rarely, as the girl must have been of definite service to her community. The requirement was filled in this case by the girls assisting during the last Community Fund drive, and at other times at the local Girl Scout office.

The awards will be distributed by the girls of Lindenwood Troop 1, during a playlet entitled "Magic Gold Pieces," the "gold pieces" being the badges. The playlet will be the climax of a program participated in by most of the troops in the city. The court is open to the public.

Troop 160's inter-patrol contest closed last Monday evening, the Panther Patrol winning with 179 points. The losing patrols brought pies, and a pie-eating contest was held. Trooj 160 has completed all of its second quarter's objectives, and is the first troop in th South District to go over the top in these. At the last South Distrct Cour of Honor eight scouts received the Cycling merit badge.

Trooop 214 held a Parent's Night last Friday at the school house, at which 50 parents were present besides the troop committee and the scouts. Mr. Laemml from Scout Headquarters was present and presented the troop charter to the troop committee. A program of demonstrations was put on by the members of the troop, and refreshments were also served. The troop has just recently organized a drum and bugle corps which played several numbers as part of the program. They are also planning to organize a Father's Club in connection with the troop.

Troop 34 is on a hike this week-end to Allenton, Mo. They left the city at 6:30 o'clock yesterday morning, accompanied by a number of fathers. The Troop Committee is sponsoring the hike and furnishing the food. The troop expects to reregister this week with 38 scouts out of a membership of 47 last year.

According to the monthly report of Troop 41, four new scouts have been added to the troop during the past month. They also performed a good turn for their sponsoring institution, the Southwest Baptist Church, by turning out in force last Thursday and cleaning up the ground of the church. The troop is also planning another good turn for the church by digging a trench for a sidewalk which is to be constructed in the near future.

During the past month Troop 250 added nine new scouts to their membership, and one scout was dropped. Three scouts reached the rank of second and two the rank of first class.

Troop 157 had as guests Troop 141 from the Sigel School last Tuesday. Stunts were put on by the different patrols for the several parents who were also present. Field Executive Shippey talked to the troop about Camp Irondale. Several interpatrol games were also held between picked teams of the troops. An interpatrol contest was won by the Black Bear Patrol. The Wolf Patrol of 157 is leading an interpatrol contest with 47 points; the Rattlesnake and Black Bear Patrols are tied with 44 points.

The first part of the meeting of Troop 216 last Tuesday evening consisted of a game of handkerchief grab, held on the lawn of the church. The main feature of the program was the debate between picked teams from two of the patrols. Field Executive Shippey was also present and talked to the scouts about attending Camp Irondale.

Troop 77 went on an overnight hike to Kenwood Springs last week-end, 13 scouts attending. After the tents were pitched, the scouts cooked supper, but during the preparation of this meal they were interrupted by a heavy downpour of rain. The whole camp retired early. Saturday morning they played games. The Tiger Patrol, led by Price Reed, did its good turn by cleaning out the spring.

Suburban District.

The last meeting of the Suburban District Court of Honor until November will be held in the auditorium of the Webster Groves High School tomorrow evening. Corgan Coggeshall, chairman of the Suburban District Court, will preside. The orchestra of the Webster Groves High School will give a musical program. Awards will be presented to the largest number of boys who have yet appeared before the Suburban District Court of Honor.

A Camp Fire program will be given by the members of Webster Groves 1, under the direction of Scoutmaster C. H. A. Uetrecht. F. H. Morgan, member of the Court of Honor from Kirkwood, will talk on camping, as a part of the camp-fire ceremony. All suburban scouts have been urged to be present and to invite their parents and friends.

The troop having the largest number of boys to receive badges will be given the honor of carrying both the American flag and District flag. Every troop which is to be represented with a candidate for an award is to have its troop flag present in the opening ceremony, and a troop flag on the platform to join the members of the troop as the awards are presented.

Scouts John Tedaldi and Gordon O'Donnell of Webster Groves 15 have advanced to the rank of second class. Robert Craig joined the troop at the last meeting. Plans are being made for a hike soon.

A new troop is being organized in the Clayton school, sponsored by the Rotary Club of Clayton. The first meeting was held Wednesday night.

A number of boys of Pacific are counting on attending Camp Irondale this summer. The troop committee and scoutmaster are looking forward to the scoutmaster week-end to get some new ideas for the troop.

A troop committee meeting was held at the home of Mr. Bryant to select a man for scoutmaster of Maplewood in the temporary absence of Avery Alexander, who has been ill. Scout Ed Bryant will return from college the first of June and expects to take over the assistant scoutmaster's job.

A week from yesterday Webster Groves 14 hiked to a place near Windsor Springs, about 20 scouts attending. Last Wednesday night was Parents' Night.

Overland held an adva hike May 14, and in spite of ers 26 tests were passed, ele the Eagles, seven by the W and four by the Foxes and The evening wound up with a ure hike put over by Scribe ter Bundiff. Committeemen ter and Covington helped wit tests and were much intere the scoutcraft.

Webster Groves 3 is pub a four-page troop weekly, Watchman," edited by Carl of the Eagle patrol. A Scoutmaster Pettingill is ing a Scouting "Question and swer" column. The paper is run off on the church mimeog

8-88 Roadster $1995 — 130-inch wheelbase — 80 miles an hour

FAST— An abundance of irrefutable evidence proves its speed superiority.

DURABLE— It has to be built of most enduring construction in every part in order to make the many performance records Auburn holds. Like its speed, its stamina is also beyond question.

VALUE— Desirable as speed and stamina are, yet they alone do not explain why Auburn gives the greatest value on the market today. You must drive the new Auburn 8-88 to appreciate how much better it rides and how much easier it handles than any other car you ever drove. If it does not perform smoother, give greater comfort and meet your every need, better, then you will not be asked to buy.

The 8-88 Roadster of type shown in the drawing above is for sale at all Auburn dealers for $1995, plus slight additional cost for wire wheels, bumper, extra tire, freight and tax.

EVEREADY REVELLERS TO SIGN OFF TUESDAY

Noted Quartet, Which Has Been an Eveready Hour Feature, Is Going Abroad.

The Eveready Revellers are to sign off Tuesday night. From KSD and its affiliated stations of the "red" network, the quartet will trace its existence as a singing group in a series of songs arranged as a formal good-by for the radio season of 1926-27. The Eveready Revellers are going to London, where their engagements call them, but are to return.

Originally organized as the Shannon Quartet, the Revellers include Franklyn Bauer, first tenor; Lewis James, second tenor; Elliott Shaw, baritone, and Wilfred Glenn, bass. Frank Black accompanies them at the piano.

This Tuesday's program will begin with "I May Be Gone for a Long, Long Time." "Mandy Lee" will follow, then "Cornfield Medley." Other songs are to include "Collegiate," "Bam-Bam Bamy Shore" and a quartet version of "Soliloquy."

Barbara Maurel, contralto, and Virginia Rea, soprano, will also sing Tuesday evening.

Radiograms.

A first-class broadcasting station takes in $2,500,000 a year for advertising, often $10,000 in one night.

CHILD PRODIGIES IN ROYAL HOUR ON KSD

Six-Year-Old Linguist and Girl Haarpists to Broadcast Friday Afternoon.

Lorraine Jaillet, six-year-old linguist, who writes a typewriter in both French and Esperanto, will recite poems in each language during the "Royal Rhythmic Rhyme and Reason" half-hour under direction of "Mother" Stoner through KSD at 2 next Friday afternoon.

According to "Mother" Stoner, Lorraine Jaillet represents the "intellectual" type of genius. The "temperamental" genius will be represented by David Vivian, 11 years old, who composes and plays music for the harp.

Another feature of this second program will be the participation of Winifred Sackville Stoner Jr., one of the best known of modern prodigies, as author of plays and composer of songs. She is to give her recipe for developing Rhyme and Reason.

As was the case last week in the opening program of this series, "Mother" Stoner will sing an original song, using the typewriter for her accompaniment. She will be heard in one of her chats, following which the entire group which she gathers for the program, will be heard in the "jinglelay," "Better to Toot than to Shoot," concluding with "The Time to Be Happy is Now."

QUARTET AGAIN ON KSD THIS EVENING

"Juanita" and Other Popular Songs of Its Type in Atwater Kent Hour.

Popular song numbers will feature the program given by the American Singers in the Atwater Kent hour through KSD tonight, with one operatic selection, from "Martha."

The quartet, made up of nationally known concert singers, includes Charles Harrison, first tenor; Redferne Hollinshead, second tenor; Vernon Archibald, baritone, and Frank Croxton, basso.

"Juanita," popular favorite of a past generation, will open the concert. It was written by Mrs. Caroline Sheridan Norton, granddaughter of Richard Brinsley Sheridan, the famous Irish dramatist. The song that for years has been sung by every American college glee club was written for a student at Oxford, Brinsley Norton.

Quartet—
a Juanita ..... Norton
b River Shannon ..... Old Irish
The American Singers.
Basso solo—
a Goin' Home (spiritual)—arranged by ..... Gantvoort
b I Want to Be Ready (spiritual)—arranged by ..... Burleigh
Mr. Croxton.
Quartet—What the Chimney Sang...Parks

Quartet—
a When the Little Ones Say Good-Night ..... Parks
b Old Noah ..... Traditional
The American Singers.

YOUNG SINGERS SOUGHT BY ATWATER KENT FOUNDATION

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 21.—Talent as yet unknown to fame will find an opportunity through radio when a "national radio audition" for young men and women will be held soon by the Atwater Kent foundation to find by competition the best undiscovered voices in the United States.

Prizes aggregating $17,500, with one and two years tuition in an American conservatory, will be offered by the foundation, which was established for scientific and educational purposes.

The contests will be held in 48 states. Musical, civic and women's clubs in each community are to be invited to hold local contests to select the best man and woman singer in their towns. Those winning will be certified to a state audition, which will be broadcast. The state winners will then compete in five districts, and a man and woman winner from each district will enter the final trials in New York.

Contestants will be judged by vote of radio listeners and juries made up of the musical authorities of each community state, or district. The vote of the public will count 60 percent and that of the jury 40 percent.

A jury of great figures in music will make the decision at the national audition in New York.

NEW POWER CONTROL FOR RADIO SETS IS INTRODUCED

A new device for use with receiving sets is the Super Automatic radio power control. When the control is properly connected with charger set and batteries, or with a B eliminator replacing the B batteries, a turn of the switch connects the B power supply with the set and completely cuts off the charger. When the set is not in use and the switch is turned off the Super Automatic disconnects the B power supply and connects the charger to the A battery. When the A battery is fully charged the charger is automatically disconnected.

The device is made for sets using either 6-volt or 4-volt tubes.

A junior model of this control is for use with trickle charger and eliminator, while there is also a heavy duty model for use with trickle charger and eliminator.

FAMOUS VIOLINIST ON KSD

Maximillian Rose, famous violinist, will broadcast from KSD tomorrow evening.

Rose was born in Bessarabia, Rumania. He began to study the violin at nine and at 14 appeared as soloist with a symphony orchestra, playing the Mendelssohn concerto before an audience of 5000. At that time, he was acclaimed a prodigy.

Rose has appeared in many concerts with world famous operatic stars such as Jeritza, Anna Case and Marion Talley, and has been heard in every principal city of the United States and Canada. He uses a rare Guarnarius violin which is dated 1634.

"Marche Slave," (Tschaikowsky); overture, "Poet and Peasant," (Von Suppe); cornet solo—"The Carnival of Venice," (Clarke); "To a Wild Rose," (MacDowell); "Love in Idleness," (MacBeth); march, "Sunapee," (Goldman); excerpts from "Aida," (Verdi); "Hunting Scene," (Bucalossi).

R. W. BENNETT AND K. V. WRAPE ORGANIZE NEW RADIO FIRM

Robert W. Bennett, president of the St. Louis Radio Trades Association, has organized a new radio firm with Koehler V. Wrape as Robert W. Bennett Co., Inc.

Bennett is president of the new firm, which is factory representative for a number of radio products, and Wrape is secretary and treasurer.

The firm takes over the established business of the Robert W. Bennett Co. and will have quarters in the Syndicate Trust Building.

It represents Hipwell, Erla, Interstate, Magnavox, Carter radio products and the new A. C. Dayton receivers, which are now licensed under Radio Corp. patents.

Formation of the new company marks Wrape's entry into the radio business.

NEW RAYTHEON DEVICE FOR RADIO BATTERY CHARGING

With a new principle as the basis, there has been developed and placed on the market a nonbreakable rectifier known as the Raytheon "A." This device is in the form of a stout metal cartridge about the size of a man's thumb, free from delicate filaments, chemicals or moving parts. It is merely snapped into a clip holder and forgotten, whereupon it goes to work supplying a current of 2½ amperes or less, at six volts.

Suitable step-down transformers have been designed and complete units using this rectifier are now on the market.

Raytheon "A" is ideal for storage-battery charging. It provides the highly desirable taper charge feature, reducing current drain, gassing and wear and tear on the battery. The overall efficiency, when employed in a properly designed charging unit, is better than 50 per cent.

GRAND OPERA THROUGH WDAF

WDAF, WSAI and WTAM will broadcast a performance of "Samson et Dalila" by the National Grand Opera Company at 8 tomorrow evening. The cast is to include: Devora Nadworney, contralto, as Delilah; Giuseppi di Benedetto, tenor, as Samson; Giovanni Giovannelli, tenor, as The High Priest; Nino Ruisi, basso, as Abimelech.

Rattling in a cone speaker is caused by the apex working loose. Place a finger on the apex and tighten with pliers.

Barnickel-Janes Wedding Tomorrow; Honeymoon Journey to Honolulu

THE blue of balmy May skies has lent a suggestion for the color note in the wedding of Miss Genevieve Barnickel, daughter of the late William S. Barnickel, and John Valle Janes of Webster Groves, which will take place tomorrow morning. The ceremony will be performed at 11 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Lehmann with whom the bride formerly made her home, at 77 Aberdeen place, the Rev. Father John P. Spencer of St. Roch's Church officiating.

Blue has been chosen as the color of the bridesmaids' gowns and blue delphinium will play an important part in their bouquets, and again in the decorations. Tall candelabra filled with lighted tapers and vases of pink roses and delphinium will form a simple background for the bridal party.

The piquant beauty of the petite bride will be enhanced by a fluffy tulle wedding gown, with a simple sleeveless bodice, and its short skirt a series of tulle ruffles, held at the waist by a cluster of lilies. Dispensing with the traditional court train, she will wear a cloud of tulle held to her hair with a coronet of orange blossoms. Her flowers are to be lilies of the valley with gardenias fastened in the ribbons.

Miss Alice Scott, whose marriage to Mr. Janes' partner, Francis Linton Gross, will be an event of the autumn, as maid of honor, and Miss Sophie Janes, sister of the bridegroom, will be gowned alike in Madonna blue crepe Elizabeth with deep tucked white organdie cuffs and collars. They will wear large blue hats trimmed with blue velvet ribbon and carry butterfly roses combined with blue delphinium. Mr. Gross is to be best man, and Berbard Thole, groomsman.

After the ceremony, to be attended only by the families and a very few close friends, Mr. Janes and his bride will depart for San Francisco, where they will sail, May 28, for Honolulu on their wedding trip. They will reside in the bride's home, 70 Arundel place.

The bride-elect is a popular debutante of the past season, and the first to be married. She is a member of the Junior League and the Imperial.

Mr. Janes is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Janes of Webster Groves. He is a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and served overseas with the American and French armies during the war.

Engagement Told At Treasure Hunt

FORTY members of the younger social set drove about in St. Louis last night, following clews in a treasure hunt which ended at the Triple A Clubhouse, near which, buried under a tree, was a treasure chest filled with imitation diamond rings bearing the engagement announcement of Miss Louise Patricia Aloe and Samuel N. Leopold of Chicago.

The prospective bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis P. Aloe of 36 Kingsbury place, and is a graduate of Smith College. Mr. Leopold is the son of N. E. Leopold, president of the Morris Paper Mills Co. of Chicago. He attended the University of Michigan.

The party was given by Mr. and Mrs. Howard F. Baer, the latter a twin sister of Miss Aloe. Obeying the admonition found in the chest, to "go home and congratulate them," the party went to the Aloe home for a buffet supper after the hunt. The table was adorned with white flowers and candles tied with white tulle.

The wedding will take place at noon Tuesday, June 7, at the home of the bride's parents, with only members of the families present. Mr. Leopold and his bride will sail June 11 on the Homeric for Europe, to spend three months in France and Italy. They will make their home at Chicago.

Mr. Leopold was in St. Louis for the party last night and will return for a reception to be given next Sunday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Aloe at the Columbian Club.

Round of Parties Precedes Wedding Of Miss Clarkson

THE list of groomsmen to serve at the wedding of Miss Marie Clarkson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Palmer Clarkson, of 2 Windermere place, and Robert Prince Casey of Los Angeles, Cal., June 1, is announced today. John Maye of Los Angeles will serve as best man, and he, with Kenneth Colborn of Monrovia, Cal., and Herbert Clark of Los Angeles, will arrive Wednesday with the bridegroom. In addition there will be Kenneth Watkins of Rye, N. Y., who will arrive today with Mrs. Watkins and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick F. Fitzpatrick. They will occupy the Queen Marie suite at the Coronado Hotel. The St. Louis groomsmen will be Palmer Clarkson Jr. and John Turner Clarkson, brothers of the bride; Everett Brooks, Marion L. J. Lambert and Carlton Cook. The bridesmaids have been announced.

From now until the ceremony the days are crowded with parties for the bride-elect. Tuesday, Miss Helen and Miss Mildred Petring will give a luncheon for her at their home, 6 Washington terrace. Wednesday night, Miss Augusta Cook, the maid of honor, and Carlton Cook will entertain the bridal party at Sunset Hill Country Club. The following afternoon, Miss Mary Scudder, daughter of Mrs. H. Wheeler Bond, will give a luncheon for the young women of the party at the St. Louis Country Club. That night, Everett Brooks and Henry Schumacher will be hosts at a dinner for the entire bridal party at the University Club. Friday, Miss Elizabeth Grayson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Grayson, will have a dinner for the bridal party at her home.

There will be three parties Saturday. Mrs. Leonard McCarthy will give a luncheon at noon; Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Mithell Wall have invited the bridal party to their home for an informal tea in the late afternoon, and in the evening Mr. and Mrs. William R. Compton Jr. and John Turner Clarkson will give a dinner at the St. Louis Country Club. Sunday afternoon Col. and Mrs. Ola W. Bell and their daughter, Miss Lucille, will give a tea for 400 guests at their home, 4416 Lindell boulevard, followed by a buffet supper by Mr. and Mrs. Marion Lambert. Tuesday of next week will be a busy day for the bridal party. Mrs. Charles Cummings Collins will entertain informally at tea and later a buffet supper will be given by Miss Beatrice Turner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Voluntine C. Turner, and a cousin of the bride-elect, at the Bellerive Country Club. In the afternoon there will be a rehearsal of the ceremony.

The wedding will take place Wednesday, June 1, at the Union Avenue Christian Church at 5:30 o'clock and will be followed by a reception at the Bogey Club.

Three Wedding Dates Set

MISS HELEN PETRING, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Petring of 6 Washington terrace, who will become the bride of Frederick W. Pavey, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Pavey of Robyn and Denny roads, Kirkwood, June 18, has announced her attendants. She will have as her maid of honor her sister, Miss Mildred Petring and as matrons of honor, Mrs. Montague Lyon Jr., Mrs. Sheridan Knight Loy and Mrs. Dwight Donald Thomas. Patricia Dunbar, young cousin of Miss Petring, and Geraldine Baird of Shreveport, La., will be fower girls. The list of groomsmen is not complete but Malcolm Breckenridge of Chicago, formerly of St. Louis, will be best man.

The wedding will take place at 8 o'clock in the evening at the Church of the Messiah. Following the honeymoon Mr. Pavey and his bride will make their home for the summer at the home of the latter's parents, who will depart for a trip to Alaska the early part of July. Among the out of town guests for the wedding will be Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Baird of Shreveport, La. Mrs. Baird was formerly Miss Virginia Hess, daughter of a luncheon Wednesday for Mrs. Lawrence Battle of New York, who was the former Miss Elizabeth Bemis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Bemis of Hotel Chase. Mr. and Mrs. Battle will arrive today to visit Mr. Battle's mother, Mrs. John G. Lonsdale of 4931 Lindell boulevard.

Parties and Other Affairs of Week

Invitations have been issued for a luncheon and obstacle golf party to be given Monday, June 6, by Mrs. Christiam Stocke, of 6400 Cecil avenue, in honor of Miss Ruth Sensenbrenner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sensenbrenner, of 7211 Westmoreland drive. The guest of honor is a senior at Mary Institute. Twenty-five of her classmates have been invited for luncheon and obstacle golf, which will be played on the terrace.

Miss Nancy Powell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Powell, of 4440 Maryland avenue, will give a farewell tea for Miss Mary Gray McNally, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McNally, formerly of 4437 McPherson avenue. Both Miss Powell and Miss McNally are members of the graduating class of Sacred Heart Convent. Miss McNally will accompany her parents to Chicago June 1, to make their home.

The graduating class of the Jewish Hospital School of Nursing will give a dinner dance at the Congress Hotel, Wednesday evening. The graduating exercises will take place May 26. The members of the class are Miss Clara Drinkwater, Miss Bertha Lee Barr, Miss Verrell Whittaker, Miss Helen R. Dickinson and Miss Alice Pebworth Gresham.

The members of the Garden Club were entertained at a buffet supper Tuesday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Rice of Big Bend and Clayton roads. The club is giving its eighth annual amateur flower show today at the Missouri Botanical Gardens.

Mrs. Alys Dameron Weed of the Westgate Hotel, gave a symposium and breakfast in the Oriental room of the Forest Park Hotel Monday in honor of Mrs. Catherine Grace Jaeger who has been made a member of the St. Louis Branch of the League of American Pen Women. Mrs. Jaeger also is president of the Current Events Club.

The room was decorated in American flags. Vases of red roses, daisies and corn flowers adorned the tables. The centerpiece at the guest of honor table was an Owl, the emblem of the League of American Pen Women. Paintings by Mrs. Jaeger were presented Mrs. Victor Miller, Mrs. Ida Miller and the hostess. Mrs. Weed, who is historian of the St. Louis Branch L. A. P. W., wore a gown of ivory satin with pearl trimmings. Mrs. Weed wore this same costume at the Authors' Breakfast at the Pearl Jubilee Anniversary of the League of American Pen Women held in Washington, D. C., last month and at which she was one of the speakers.

Following luncheon Mrs. Catherine Higigns Sommers read several of her poems. A musical program was given by Mrs. Bess Whiting and assisting artists who were as follows: Bertha Oswits, Laura DeMuth Mies, Miss Anna Bell Sachs, Virginia Haussman and Catherine Todd. Ethyl Barbara Smith played the piano accompaniments. A voluntary donation of $50 was given by the hostess and the guests for the flood sufferers.

A benefit bridge party of the St. Louis Chapter of the American War Mothers, will be given Tuesday from 2 to 5 p. m. in the dining room of the Roosevelt Hotel, Euclid and Delmar avenues. This party is the important social event of the local chapter for the spring. The proceeds will be used for hospitals, flood relief and other activities.

Mrs. R. J. Leacock is in charge, with Mrs. R. M. Hand, Mrs. E. Haller, Mrs. Frank C. Smith, Mrs. B. G. Fallis, Mrs. J. F. Higgins, Mrs. Cuno Werner, Mrs. Jos. Bastian; hostesses: Mrs. Harold Haill, president of the chapter, and Mrs. A. F. Boehmer, Mrs. M. Burklin, Mrs. Hilgeman, Mrs. G. A. Knight, Mrs. E. Bougert and Mrs. A. Craig.

Chancellor and Mrs. Herbert S. Hadley held a reception in honor of the senior class of Washington University, Saturday afternoon, from 4 to 6, in the garden of their home.

The program was a review composed of selections from several of the Campus dramatic and musical events of the year. A one act play, "The Shepherdess," was given by Little Theater, with Wilma Schwindler, Henrietta Newman and William Heuer in the cast. Gilbert Moore sang a solo from the cup-winning act of Pralma Vodvil. The Castillian Minstrels played a number from "Rosita," the musical comedy produced by the Quadrangle Club. Ted Williams, student composer of "Rosita," played several selections on the piano. Katherine Hafner, representing the Women's Glee Club, sang two solos. There were three dance numbers from the annual May Day Fete, "the Dance of the Spanish Shawls," with Carol Crowe, Ruth Henckler, Corinne Koch, Henrietta McCutchan, Nadine Peetz and Georgia Shoenthaler, as the dancers, a butterfly dance by Florence Boe and Edna Eaton and a solo by Eleanor Henning. Edith Gordan was the accompanist. Carleton Hadley and Milton Monroe had the program in charge.

A miscellaneous shower was given on Sunday afternoon by Miss Ethel Metz of 2543 Arlington avenue, in honor of Miss Gladys Hassett, whose marriage to Walter Scanlon will take place in June.

Miss Gladyis is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hassett of North Pope avenue.

Centennial Fete At Lindenwood

Lindenwood College clubs of different cities will come to the formal opening of the Centennial of the college Saturday morning, May 28, at 10:30 o'clock, when the president of the college, Dr. John Lincoln Roemer, will extend a "Welcome to Alma Mater," to more than 2000 who are returning for the celebration. Mrs. W. K. Roth, president of the St. Louis Lindenwood College Club, will represent this club. Mrs. William Carter will speak for the New York Lindenwood Club; Mrs. W. W. Seymour, who is president of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, wil speak for the Chicago Lindenwood College Club. The delegation from the Lindenwood College Club of Los Angeles, will be large, much enthusiasm having been created by a visit among the members of this club last Christmas by Dr. and Mrs. Roemer. Mrs. Robert L. Hubbard will speak at the Saturday program for the Los Angeles club. The alumnae in general will be represented by Miss Alma Stumberg, vice-president of the Lindenwood Alumnae Association.

The various clubs will also give "stunts party," Monday afternoon, May 30, at the Academic Day program. Dr. Aurelia Henry Reinhardt, president of Mills College, Oakland, Calif., will give the Centennial address at 10:30 a. m.

Golden Wedding Celebrated.

A double celebration was held by the relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Diehl of 1446 South Third street on the night of May 14, when the latter marked their golden wedding anniversary and saw their youngest son married. The parents of Diehl, who was born at the above address, also had held their golden anniversary there. The Diehls have 10 children, 11 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Golden Wedding Celebration.

Their golden wedding anniversary will be celebrated today by Mr. and Mrs. Christ Siebe, who will hold a reception at 3 p. m. in their home on the St. Cyr road in St. Louis County. They came from Germany in childhood, were married in their present home, and have lived there continually since. They have five children and 12 grandchildren.

Unique!

A girl with sparkling, individual personality, like Miss Mildred McCarren, 153 Bidwell Ave., Jersey City, N. J., wants every detail of her toilette to add to this subtle appeal! She finds Black and White Face Powder as unique in its flower-fragrance and natural tints as in its exceptional fineness and remarkable adhering power. "This wonderful powder has all the rare qualities I'd looked for a long time—it clings for hours without renewing, yet is soft and fine as can be. It never coarsens or irritates my skin. Its fragrance is sweet, yet always delicate, and its color tones blend perfectly with the complexion."

You can get the delightful Black and White Face Powder, in the dainty 25c boxes, from over 80,000 dealers everywhere.

If your dealer doesn't have the Black and White Beauty Creations you want, send his name to Plough, Dept. 121, Memphis, Tenn., and you will receive FREE, a copy of the Birthday and Dream Book, containing many interesting facts on beauty, dreams and fortune telling.

East St. Louis Social News

Miss Catherine Springer, Miss Virginia Voorheis and Miss Lucille Friede will attend the graduation exercises at Stephens College, Columbia, Mo., on May 31. They are alumna of the college. The following East St. Louis girls will be graduated from Stephens at that time: Miss Clairice Isabelle Ames, Miss Marjorie Ann Beckwith, Miss Lillian Beckwith, Miss Helen Esther Eggman, Miss Helen Klie and Miss Alice Fern Wallace. Secretarial certificates will be awarded to the two Beckwith girls, and state teacher certificates are to be given Miss Ames, Miss Eggman, and Miss Wallace.

The formal opening of the St. Clair Country Club last night marked the beginning of the summer social season in East St. Louis. Members of the club enjoyed the dinner dance, and many brilliant affairs are being planned for the season. Wednesday afternoon the first of the regular ladies' bridge parties will be given. The afternoons are fortnightly affairs during the summer season. Hostesses Wednesday are Mrs. Les H. Forman, Mrs. G. O. Otrich, Mrs. Olin Attebery and Mrs. M. J. Kickham.

Miss Margaret Rose Harney will present 40 of her pupils in a dance revue the evening of May 27 at St. Joseph's School Hall. Miss Harney is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Harney of Ridge avenue and has studied under brilliant teachers in the East and in St. Louis. She was a pupil of F. Leslie Clendenin and of Alice Martin of St. Louis; and is a graduate of both Murray's Dance School of New York and of Callan Tjader and Kendall Capps.

Next Saturday afternoon will open the spring meet at the Fairmount Jockey Club. Although Derby Day has been set for June 6, opening day promises to attract a large number of society folk from East St. Louis and from St. Louis. The following East St. Louinans have reserved boxes and plan to entertain guests at the club house next Saturday: Mrs. Fred W. Guggenheim, Mrs. Claude Ozier, Dr. H. M. Voris, Mayor Frank Doyle, Charles Short, A. T. Spivey, T. D. Watkins, R. E. Costello, Harry Sparks and Charles Short.

Miss Florence Schmall and Miss Mary McGuire, members of the faculty of East St. Louis High School, will leave the early part of June for several months tour of Europe.

Mrs. Frank Verder of the Jett apartments will entertain members of a club at a luncheon and bridge Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. James J. Whalen of North Thirty-third street will be hostess to the members of her bridge club Thursday.

Mrs. John Depaoli of Cincinnati, O., who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Frank Verder of the Jett Apartments, has returned home.

Miss Florence Kelley and Miss Exzilla Schanot are spending the week-end at Clifton Terrace at a house party.

The wedding of Miss Lucille Klie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Klie of East St. Louis, and Orville Cryder, was solemnized Tuesday afternoon at the Lutheran Church, the Rev. August Merz officiating. The altar of the church was decorated with two large baskets filled with daisies, gladiola and carnations. To the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march the bridal party entered the church. Miss Helen Klie and Miss Blanche Mersman were bridesmaids. They wore georgette gowns. Miss Klie's was of orchid and Miss Mersman's of deep pink; and both carried bouquets of pink roses. Patsy June Klie, the little flower girl, wore a pink georgette frock and carriet a basket of sweet peas. The ring bearer, Robert Klie, wore a white satin suit. Clyde Spencer and Ralph Spencer were groomsmen.

The bride was gowned in white satin, trimmed with seed pearls and bands of narrow lace. Her veil of tulle had a lace crown and was trimmed in pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of white blossoms. Following the ceremony a diner was served at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Cryder, after a short wedding trip, will be at home in East St. Louis.

Two sisters and two brothers married 25 years ago, celebrated their silver wedding anniversary together this past week. Mr. and Mrs. William McKittrick and Mr. and Mrs. H. B. McKittrick, at the home of the former on Baugh avenue were hosts to their relatives and friends Wednesday evening. Many out-of-town visitors were here for the occasion. Music and games were enjoyed during the evening and a late supper was served to the guests.

Mrs. Harold Sullivan entertained Thursday afternoon at an attractive bridge party in her home on Signal Hill. Her guests were: Mrs. Andrew W. Kurrus, Mrs. Alvin Sach-Rowitz, Mrs. David W. Caughlan, Jr., Mrs. Kenneth McCurdy, Mrs. John C. Roberts, Mrs. Orson Curtis, Mrs. George M. Smith, Mrs. Stephen D. Sexton Jr., Mrs. Al Weaver, Mrs. Marshall Erwin, Miss Harriett Ann Sullivan and Miss Beatrice Fulgham.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Stegman of Granvue drive, announce the birth of a son this last week.

Mrs. A. M. Aszmann of North Fortieth, was hostess Friday afternoon at a 1 o'clock luncheon and bridge at her home. The following were guests: Mrs. Othel Hahn of Chester, Ill., Miss Edith Werre of St. Louis, Mrs. William Hormberg, Mrs. Scott Kirby Alvis, Mrs. Les H. Forman, Mrs. G. Edwin Popkess, Mrs. Smith K. Gerhardt, Mrs. Harry Strait, Mrs. A.

Peel Your Skin Back to Youth

Stop your face from looking aged and worn, blotchy and discolored. Beneath that faded skin there is a complexion as soft and beautiful as a young girl's. Do not allow the covering of ugly scarf skin to continue to hide your youthful beauty forever. Peel it off completely, entirely, without fail, in the privacy of your own home.

Smart women everywhere now use pure mercolized wax, which unmasks the face of all imperfections. Obtain an ounce at any drug store or beauty counter, and use as directed. Freckles, blackheads, lifeless or old skin disappear, like magic.

Soft and smooth with the glowing freshness of youth your skin beams forth in a very short time. Mercolized wax brings out the hidden beauty.

USE CANTHROX Shampoo

RULES FOR HAIR-BEAUTY

Of course you know that frequent brushing with a firm, deep-bristled brush is very important—but do you realize the absolute necessity for careful washing—with the right shampoo?

Canthrox is recommended for its beautifying effect as well as the health it gives the hair by gently stimulating the scalp.

It makes every strand so bright and colorful—entirely free from dandruff, dirt and excess oil. It is easy to use—just dissolve a teaspoonful of canthrox in a cup of warm water. This makes enough liquid to afford a fragrant lather sufficient to use all over the head. Canthrox is inexpensive—costing only about 3 cents a shampoo. Get a package from any good druggist.—Advertisement.

FOR PERFECT PERMANENT WAVING

A tight or a loose Wave -with Absolute Safety

More Circuline Waves are being given in America than all other systems of permanent waving combined . . . because women of fashion realize that not only is a Circuline Wave beautiful, naturally flowing, but it is, above all things, safe!

Circuline is absolutely free from lye, potash and ammonia—chemicals that are injurious to the hair structure. Circuline is gentle, too. It requires but seven minutes of temperate heat—100 degrees less than is required for a marcel wave!

But to be sure you are getting a Circuline Wave, make certain that your hairdresser uses authentic Circulines. You will recognize them—individually wrapped, and stamped "Nestle Circuline"—as she immerses one for each curl in clear, fresh water.

Because Circuline treats each head of hair according to its individual requirements, you may decide, in advance—from test curls made on your own head—just how tight, or loose, you wish your wave to be. With Circuline, you are assured in advance of perfect results! Write for booklet to:

Activities of Women's Clubs

The Literature and Reciprocity Committee of the Eight District Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs will meet Friday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the Vandervoort Auditorium. At this meeting the award for the Mrs. Clay Jordan prize will be made. This prize was offered by Mrs Jordan for the best poem relating to St. Louis.

The judges were John G. Neihardt, Dr. William L. Sullivan and Prof. Frank Webster. The chairman of this committee is Mrs. Otis E. Turner.

Mrs. Joseph Jamison on Friday entertained the members of the Friday Club at her country home, "Red Gables." Mrs. H. O. McCord was the assistant hostess. Luncheon was served on the lawn. At the previous meeting, May 6, a State scholarship called the Frances Heald Ottofy Scholarship, honoring the organizer of the club, Mrs. Frances Heald Ottofy, was established. A donation was given to the Red Cross for the flood sufferers. This was the last meeting of the club year.

Clio Delphine Chapter will meet Monday at 10 a. m. at the Cabanne Branch Library.

The regular meeting of the St. Louis Junior Auxiliary of the J. C. R. S. will be held this afternoon at 2:30 p. m. at the Y. M. H. A., Union boulevard and Enright avenue.

The Tuxedo Club held its last meeting of the season Tuesday afternoon at the City Art Museum. The newly elected president, Mrs. C. W. Hequembourg, presided. The program for next year was discussed and a resolution was passed to send a donation from the club to the Red Cross for the flood sufferers. A bridge party will be given at the home of Mrs. M. C. Awings, June 7, for the benefit of the club.

The Musical Art Club, an organization of the voice and piano students of Miss Irene A. Hargrave, held its first annual banquet at the City Club Saturday, May 14. The dining room was decorated in masses of crabapple blossoms, symbolizing the class flower, and colors. A musical program was given. The club motto, "Music as a Language," furnished the theme of the evening, and talks were given by the Rev. Dr. Edmund Duckworth, Mrs. Norman Windsor, H. C. McMahon and James Jones.

Chapter O of the P. E. O. Sisterhood held its annual outing Monday at the home of Mrs. Charles Lippman, 422 Adams street, Ferguson. Mrs. J. G. Cook and Mrs. C. J. Koontz were assistant hostesses. Mrs. Victor Ettinger and Mrs. John Burch gave reports of the State convention held in St. Louis, May 2, 3 and 4, at the Missouri Hotel. Mrs. John C. Jones had charge of the program and read a paper on "Mary, the Mother of Jesus." Mrs. E. J. Heiligers sang the "Ava Maria" from "Cavalliera Rusticana," and Mrs. Carl Voss talked on the various paintings of the Madonna, showing copies of these paintings. This was the closing program of the year's study of "Women of the Bible."

The members of the B'nai El Sisterhood are completing the social arrangements for the eightieth jubilee celebration of the B'Nai El Congregation which will take place this evening at the Columbian Club. There will be a dinner at 8 o'clock, an entertainment and dancing later.

The bi-monthly meeting of the Sigma Rho Tau Sorority was held at the home of Miss Virginia Martin, 3815 Castleman avenue, Saturday, May 14. The following members were present: Miss Charlotte Carpenter, Miss Frieda Marie Degler, Miss Frances Griffiths, Miss Mary McDermott, Miss Margaret Bokern, Miss Jane Russell and Miss Elfreda Fiek.

The Ensee Study Circle will hold its final meeting at the home of Mrs. C. W. Nystrom in Webster Groves, May 23. Luncheon will be served on the lawn and a short business meeting will follow.

Sylvan Delphine Chapter met at the Sherman Community Center at 10 a. m. May 11. The chapter will meet May 25 at the same place and hour for the study of "King Lear."

The Capt. Robert McCulloch Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, will give an al fresco bridge party Wednesday, June 1, at 2 p. m. at the home of Mrs. John A. Harrison, Midland and Chaucer roads. Mrs. H. P. Hanley will be general chairman.

The New Era Club will meet at 1 p. m. Tuesday, May 24, with Mrs. Oscar Doerman, Kenwood Springs, for the last meeting of the year. The following officers have been elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. W. W. Dings; vice president, Mrs. Walter E. Harral; secretary, Mrs. A. L. Woas, and treasurer, Mrs. Harry A. Collins.

The Delphi Delphian Chapter met Monday, May 16, at the Carpenter Branch Library, Mrs. Harry L. Salisbury presiding. The subject for discussion was "Europe During the Middle Ages." Donations of $10 were made to the Crippled Children's Fund and to the Red Cross Relief. The chapter has responded to the slogan, "Know St. Louis," by visiting a number of the eleemosynary institutions. The last meeting of the year will be held June 6.

The Town Club will give two important programs this week. Beginning Monday the swimming pool will be transformed into the Grand Canal and "Seven Nights in Venice." Flags, flowers, lanterns, an arched bridge, fortune-telling, music and diving Venuses will give a real Lido atmosphere. Wednesday night will be reserved for members and their women guests; other nights both men and women will participate. Saturday there will be a children's matine.

Friday, May 27, Mrs. Demarchus Brown of Indianapolis is to give two lectures at the club. The first, a morning talk at 11 o'clock in the lounge; her subject will be "A Balcony in Jerusalem." In the evening Mrs. Brown will tell of her eventful journey through Egypt, "Up the Nile to the Tombs of the Kings."

Luncheon will be served following the morning talk, and dinner will precede the evening lecture.

Members are entitled to guest privileges.

The Clotho Club held the last meeting of their season at the Avalon Hotel with Mrs. Julia May Lemp as hostess. A thought on economy was given in answer to roll call. The Press Committee luncheon and the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce were reported. Three members, the secretary, the treasurer and the parliamentarian were presented corsage bouquets by the president, Mrs. Kern, they having attended every meeting throughout the year. Delegates to the biennial were elected, Mrs. T. E. Ferguson and Mrs. Louis Schoenfeld being chosen. There was but one paper on the literary program: "The Place of Art in Soul Development," by Mrs. T. E. Ferguson. The officers for the coming year were installed. At the invitation of the vice president, Mrs. L. D. Le Gear, the club will picnic on the lawn of her country home in Kirkwood one day in June.

The election of officers resulted

He'll exterminate us all! He stepped in Peterman's!

RIGHT! He will exterminate them all!

Peterman's Roach Food exterminates every roach in your house.

It entices roaches from their hiding places. They carry it on their legs and bodies back to their nests. They wriggle over all the others there, over their young and their eggs.

Every one dies and disintegrates. No odor. Nothing is left but a little dry dust.

Don't try to fight roaches with a spray. No spray can possibly reach the roaches, the young and the eggs far behind the baseboards and under the floors.

Only the right powder can do that.

Peterman's Roach Food is the right powder.

Here is the right insecticide for each insect:

PETERMAN'S ROACH FOOD—exterminates cockroaches.

PETERMAN'S ANT FOOD—exterminates ants.

FLYOSAN—kills flies and mosquitoes.

PETERMAN'S DISCOVERY — exterminates bedbugs.

PETERMAN'S MOTH FOOD — protects against moths.

You must have a specific insecticide for each insect. No single insecticide will exterminate them all. We have had nearly 50 years' experience. We know that is true.

Peterman's has the right insecticide for each insect. On sale wherever drugs are sold.

Harmony Literary Club met Friday, May 13, at the home of Mrs. M. S. Keator, 456 Oak street, Webster Groves, the president, Mrs. G. Y. Davis, presiding. Roll call was answered by quotations from Edgar Guest. A paper on "Present Day Questions in International Relations" was read by Mrs. W. C. Durham. Mrs. W. C. Markham gave a sketch of the life of Edgar A. Guest and read a personal letter which she had received from the poet. Selections from his poems were read by Mrs. C. M. McMahon. Mrs. George Malone, a member of Harmony Club, was one of the speakers at the convention of the Missouri Writers' Guild and gave a report of the meetings held last week at Columbia, Mo.

The last meeting of the year will be held Friday, May 27, at the home of Mrs. Gordon Y. Davis, 567 Washington place, East St. Louis.

The Shakspeare Drama Club held the last meeting of the year at the residence of Mrs. Edgar Sommers at Vinita Park. Mrs. O. S. Leadman, leader of the Shakspeare Study, and Mrs. Sommers gave readings in costume. Mrs. Holmes Franklin, accompanied by Miss Helen Walsh, gave a group of songs, and greetings were given by Mrs. U. S. Coudy, first vice president of the Eighth District, Mrs. E. J. Rekart, chairman of Americanization, and Miss M. L. Baker, president of the Minerva Literary Club.

Minerva Club met at the residence of Mrs. B. A. Hickman of Ashby Road, St. Louis County, Friday, May 20, for 1 o'clock luncheon followed by a special program for the installation of officers. The club gave $25 to the Red Cross and $5 to Brittain Hall, a home for young boys. Plans for the next year's program were presented and accepted, and the incoming president, Mrs. U. S. Condy, announced the Eighth District Committees.

The Earnest Endeavor Club held the last meeting of the year at the residence of Mrs. Gordon Z. Davis, the president, 245 Washington Place, East St. Louis, Ill., Monday.

Installation of officers followed the 1 o'clock luncheon.

The reading of the year's history by the historian, Mrs. J. S. Willson, disclosed many civic, philanthropic and federation accomplishments. The club gave a reciprocity party to the other Federated Clubs at the Cirode Studio, Monday, May 9.

The club plans to study Parliamentary Law the coming year.

The annual election of officers of the St. Louis Club of Business and Professional Women was held May 17 at the Town Club. Miss Gertrude Ryan, the retiring secretary, was elected president to succeed Mrs. Orra Carroll. Dr. Maud Bartlett was re-elected vice president, Miss Dorris Sidney recording secretary, Miss Marks corresponding secretary and Miss Inez Webb treasurer. Miss Florence Weigle was re-elected historian. At the next meeting June 7 Miss Ryan will appoint the chairmen of the standing committees for the coming year, and will outline the proposed club's activities for the next 12 months.

The East St. Louis club has invited the local club to a preconvention meeting, to be held on the third Monday in June. This is a preliminary to the national convention which will be held in Oakland, Cal., in July, and to which it is planned to send delegates from the St. Louis Club.

Fontbonne College May Day Festival

The annual May-day celebration at Fontbonne College will be held on the last day of the month, when Miss Lucille Remmers of St. Louis will be crowned May queen and will preside over the social and religious exercises of the day. The ceremonies will be concluded by a May-day sermon by the Rev. Daniel A. Lord, S. J., given in Fontbonne Chapel and followed by benediction at which the Rev. H. R. Sheldon, C. M., will officiate. A supper served on the campus to all the members of the student body will conclude the exercise.

Maids in waiting to the queen will be Miss Helen Purcell, Miss Mary Grace Heiner, Miss Alice Igoe, and Miss Mary Cecilie Robinson. The two upper officers of each class are to carry flower bowers under which the queen and her maids will pass before the coronation. The flower carriers will be: Miss Alice Beffa, Miss Florentine Rutkowski, Miss Bernice Simpson, Miss Lucille Perry, Miss Dorothy Joyce, Miss Pauline Schmeckebier, Miss Clare Whalen. Students who have been chosen to carry the daisy chain before the queen and maids are: Miss Jule Marie Kirk, Miss Mary Louise Mee, Miss Adelyn Cavagnaro, Miss Genevieve McElroy, Miss Lenadore Bass, Miss Ann Masek, Miss Frances Coffey, Miss Margaret Treacy, Miss Catharine Gunn, Miss Charlotte Whalen, Miss Ruth Dougherty, Miss Agnes Reilly, Miss Mildred Bischoff, Miss Ann Murphy, Miss Mary Schmeckebier, Miss Dorothy Mudd, and Miss Jane Morris.

The arrangements are in charge of Miss Alice Beffa, Miss Catharine Gunn and Florentine Rutkowski.

BOHEMIAN ROBBERS INFEST WOODS, PREY ON TRAVELERS

Two Gangs Hold Up More Than Hundred; Declare Open War on Police.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, May 21.—The highwaymen immortalized in Schiller's drama "The Robbers" more than a century ago are swooping down again on travelers through the dense Bohemian forest and collecting thousands of dollars in tribute.

Czecho-Slovakian and German police are trailing two separate robber gangs who are known to have held up and stripped more than 100 persons of valuables and clothing. The bands, like their predecessors of the middle ages, live in caves covered by dense underbrush, where the gang "mother" keeps house and cooks the meals.

Authorities fear that the popular automobile tourist traffic through Bohemia will slump if the forest is not made safe for travelers. Two leaders of one band have been arrested. Jan Kasparschik, leader of another band, has threatened to kill every police officer or trooper who enters the forest before his friends are released.

SEVERAL INVENTIONS BY WOMEN ON EXHIBIT AT FAIR

One Prevents Runs in Stockings, Another Guard for Ear-Rings.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 21.—A dozen inventions by women, ranging from new fangled garters to pastry decorators, are on exhibition at the women's worlds fair here.

There is a device to guard against runs in stockings; another is a guard for ear-rings. A negro woman conceived the idea of a water pitcher with a separate ice compartment. Mrs. Edna Sibley Tipton, Long Island writer, is the inventor of a manicure kit, containing nail-white, buffer, file, emery board and manicure stick, and small enough to fit in a little bag.

Several of the inventions are for kitchen and nursery, even the automotive field has felt the inventive genius of women, such things as horns, windshield cleaners and door hinges having been developed from their ideas.

PARIS, May 21.—The number of births in France in 1926 was 766,-[illegible], or 18.8 per 1000, against 790,-[illegible] or 19.1 per 1000 in 1913.

What causes serious disquiet to the health authorities is the abnormally high infant death rate as compared with other European countries. The number of children dying below the age of one year in 1926 was 74,698 against 68,367 in 1925. In some departments, notably in the mountainous regions of the Centre, the increase in the infant death rate from one year to the other exceeded 40 per cent.

Statue, St. Louis Gift, Installed in French Museum

Special Correspondence.

PARIS, May 10.—A magnificent statue of the Virgin, the gift of the Comite de la Sauvegarde de l'Art Francais of St. Louis, was installed last week by the Societe des Toulousains de Toulouse in its Toulouse Museum.

It may be recalled that the city of St. Louis, as the result of the mission of the Duc de Trevise, president of the Sauvegarde de l'Art Francais, to the United States, decided to devote its donations to the city of Toulouse. The founder of the city of St. Louis, M. de Laclede, had formerly received the sword of the Jeux Floraux of Toulouse, Prof. Ferrand, French architect, charged with the course in architecture at St. Louis, is a true bred son of Toulouse.

These bonds between the two cities were mentioned by M. Henri Puget of the Conseil d'Etat, who had arrived at Toulouse to represent the Sauvegarde.

The president of the Toulousains de Toulouse, Me. Rozes de Brousse, the Advocate, gave an address, in the presence of Senator Paul Feuga, MM. Jean Rieux and Henri Auriol, Deputies; M. Felix Durrbach, member of the Institut and dean of the Faculty of Letters; M. Claude Marty, president of the Syndicat d'Initiative de Haute Garonne; Prof. Anglade, M. Saint-Raymond and other notabilities.

A letter from Mrs. Georgette A. Study, secretary of the Comite de Sauvegarde of St. Louis, who promises to visit Toulouse in June next, was read.

The company gathered round the statue, the base of which was decorated with garlands of ivy and sprigs of boxwood, again declared its attachment to its American friends and its gratitude for the magnificent gift, which is a graceful work of the French Renaissance.

The president of the Comite de Sauvegarde of St. Louis is Miss Eugenie Berthold.

Forrest Campbell of St. Joseph, Mo., has been visiting in Lausanne, Switzerland, as a guest of the Lausanne Palace Hotel.

Lady Peek, the former Miss Edwine W. Thornburg of St. Louis, and her son, Francis, were passengers aboard the Atlantic transport liner Minnetonka on its most recent arrival at Southampton from New York.

Mr. Samuel Allen and his mother, Mrs. George L. Allen of St. Louis, are staying at the Hotel de France et Choiseul in Paris.

Mr. and Mrs. Loomis Johnson, originally of St. Louis, have returned from Biarritz, France, to their apartment in the Rue des Vignes, Paris. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, accompanied by the Grand Duke and Grand Duchess Boris of Russia, have been looking for a chateau in the region of Biarritz. They were the guests of Sam Park of Beaumont, Tex., United States Vice Consul, and Mrs. Park while in Biarritz.

Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer, widow of the St. Louis publisher, has arrived in Paris from Antibes and is staying at the Hotel Plaza-Athenee.

Capt. R. Drace White, originally of Montgomery, Mo., naval attache at the United States embassy in Paris, and Mrs. White have left the French capital for Spain. They reached Madrid in time to join in the celebration of King Alphonso's birthday, May 17. Capt. White is attache to the United States embassies in Lisbon and Madrid, as well as to the Paris embassy.

Mrs. Charles L. Palms of Detroit, formerly St. Louis, who has been traveling in Germany, was a recent arrival in Dresden, stopping at the Hotel Bellevue.

A large number of members of the American Women's Club of Paris attended the Monthly Club luncheon last week, among them Mrs. James E. Harding of St. Louis.

FRENCH CHEMIST WORKS ON GOLD TRANSMUTATION

Asserts He Can Make it With Combination of Silver, Sulphur, Orpient and Tin.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, May 21.—France's modern alchemist, Jollivet Castelot of Douai, again is sure he is hot on the trail of the famed but unfound Philosopher's Stone with which the ancients believed base metals could be transmuted into gold.

This alchemist asserts his process of producing gold symthetically now is commercially profitable.

Out of six grams of silver, two of sulphur of antimony, one of orpiment and one of tin, he affirms he has produced ten milligrams of gold.

He melts the metals, he says, heating them to 1,100 degrees Centigrade, and a complicated process ends in precipitating the gold.

The addition of tin, he says, has improved his earlier process. He claims that besides the gold, almost all the original quantity of silver is recoverable.

STUDENT SUICIDES IN BERLIN

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, May 21.—A wave of student suicides during the spring high school and university examinations has precipitated a controversy between parents and educators in regard to abolition of written semester tests. More than 20 students, principally boys, are known to have killed themselves in Berlin alone in the last month.

The Ministry of Education blames parents for a majority of the deaths because it believes children are too severely disciplined at home for failure to make the grade. Parents and some educators contend, however, that examinations are the root of the evil.

MRS. ROBINS TELLS OF $1300 LOANS TO GEO. A. BAKER

Woman Sued by Widow for Alienating Affections of Employer, Tells of Their Acquaintance.

OFTEN WITH HIM AFTER WORK HOURS

Testifies in Deposition That Only Interest of Sums She Lent Him Have Been Repaid.

How she was made beneficiary of $13,000 in life insurance by the late George A. Baker, president of the Stephens Lithographing & Engraving Co., her employer, how she loaned him $1300 and how she met him at hotels was related by Mrs. Bessie Keith Robins of 1118 Hamilton Avenue, in a deposition Friday.

Mrs. Robins is defendant in a $50,000 alienation suit by Baker's widow, Mrs. Grace H. Baker, of 29 North Kingshighway, who originally was beneficiary of the insurance. She is charged, in a Circuit Court petition with "wrongfully, wickedly, wantonly and maliciously enticing and estranging from the plaintiff during the years of 1922 to 1926 inclusive, the affection, service, consortium, assistance, life and life insurance of plaintiff's husband, and appropriating them and him to her own use," by means of "divers and sundry arts, wiles and vices (which cannot be particularized without scandal)."

The defendant's deposition was taken by Mrs. Baker's attorney, Randolph Laughlin, before Special Commissioner Albert Chandler, while Roscoe F. Anderson represented Mrs. Robins. According to Laughlin, Mrs. Robins is a divorcee; she appears to be about 35 years old. Baker, who was 61, died March 17. He bequeathed his widow, in a will dated May 8, 1922, 182 shares in the lithographing company, of which Baker became a sole owner in 1894, and $[illegible] cash. He was a son of the late George A. Baker, president of the old Continental Bank.

Tells of Writing Letter.

Mrs. Robins, in her deposition, said she was employed by Baker as stenographer in June, 1911, but [illegible] had seen him outside of office hours thereafter. She exhibited a copy of a letter from Baker to the local office of the New York Life Insurance Co., dated March 2, 1925, directing that the beneficiary of three of Baker's policies be changed from Mrs. Baker to Mrs. Robins, who was described in the missive as Baker's confidential secretary. Mrs. Robins wrote this letter at her employer's dictation, she related.

While Mrs. Robins mentioned only three policies and did not give their amount, Attorney Laughlin said the face value totaled $13,000. He added that Mrs. Robins had claimed the insurance after Baker's death, but that payment had been withheld.

Asked why this provision had been made for her, Mrs. Robins quoted Baker as saying he wanted to leave something to reward her for her services. Asked why he had given her some of the insurance in force of his wife instead of getting new policies for her, she offered the suggestion that he was too old to get new insurance.

Repaid Small Loan.

A note in longhand purporting to have been written by Baker on Dec. 28, 1922, asking her to send him $[illegible], was produced by Mrs. Robins. She said he had handed her the note at the office and explained that he had been in financial difficulty. Although interest was paid on this loan, Mrs. Robins declared, the principal still was due her. She said she had loaned Baker $[illegible] at another time, which was repaid in small sums.

Mrs. Robins identified bills for Baker from an automobile livery company for numerous trips in St. Louis and vicinity, on some of which she said she had accompanied Baker. She admitted that she met Baker at downtown hotels at various times since 1922. On one occasion, the defendant related, while she and Baker were at a downtown hotel [illegible], Mrs. Baker visited there and Baker sent his wife word to come to his room, but she left.

Butler Testifies.

John Baker, a Negro taxicab driver with a stand at [illegible] Street, testified in a deposition following Mrs. Robins' that he had driven Baker and Mrs. Robins in his machine on various occasions in 1925. He asserted that, as a result of one of these trips he had trouble with his wife, who found a purse in the car.

Frank Mueller, Swiss butler and cook at Baker's home, employed by Mrs. Baker, testified that Baker and Mrs. Robins had breakfast at that apartment frequently in 1925, while Mrs. Baker was in Europe, and on one occasion in this period were there for a dinner party with some friends from Chicago. Mueller said he served drinks for the party all night. Further, he testified, he served Mrs. Robins and another woman guest went to a den where pictures of Baker and his wife hung. He quoted Mrs. Robins as saying, in pointing to the portraits: "Here's Mr. Baker's wife. Isn't she an ugly woman? There's my sweetheart. (Then she spat on Baker's picture, the butler said). I don't like him; I just like his money."

To Extend Mexican Claims Group.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, May 21.—Senor Estrada, under-secretary in charge of the foreign office in the absence of Foreign Minister Saenz, declared today that negotiations were being carried on to prolong the life of the General Claims Commission beyond Aug. 30 this year. He believed an agreement was likely. The foreign office, Senor Estrada stated, has not considered the possibility of effecting a fusion of the special and general commissions appointed to settle claims growing out of revolutionary activities in Mexico.

Performance of "Butterfly" Home-Coming Festival for Missouri Operatic Stars

Puccini's Celebrated Opera Given for First Time in Open Air at Garden Theater Will Bring Together Elda Vettori, Merle Alcock and Phradie Wells.

THE chief musical event of the near future in St. Louis is the impending production of "Madame Butterfly" which will be given under the sponsorship of Guy Golterman at the Garden Theater May 30. Besides being the first time in history that Puccini's opera has been performed in the open air, the occasion will be further distinguished by the joint appearance of three Missouri prima donnas in a sort of home-coming festival. These are Elda Vettori of St. Louis who will sing the role of Cio-Cio-San, Merle Alcock of Andover and Phradie Wells of Kirksville, all of whom are now with the forces of the Metropolitan Opera Company. "Butterfly" will be repeated the following evening with Madame Thalia Sabaniceva, also of the Metropolitan, in the title role.

When permission for the presentation of "Butterfly" was sought from the Puccini estate, the executors are said to have viewed the project with no great enthusiasm. But Mr. Golterman's experience with similar productions and the fact that he obtained the collaboration of Ernst Knoch as conductor and Armando Agnini as production manager, must have had a favorable influence. If the Puccini executors had been familiar with the acoustic and visual facilities of the Garden Theater, they would have undoubtedly been even more reassured.

The story of 'Madame Butterfly" was a familiar one with the American public even before Puccini used it as a vehicle for the expression of his characteristic and highly emotional lyricism. As written originally by John Luther Long, dramatized by David Belasco and set to music by Puccini "Madame Butterfly" is hardly an authentic portrait from an ethnological or psychological standpoint. Madame Tamaki Miura, the Japanese prima donna who sings and loves the role, declares that no Japanese girl would ever make such a fool of herself. But even though poor Butterfly has been translated in terms of American romanticism and Italian theatrical conventions, she is still an affecting and charming figure and the lyric atmosphere in which she moves has an artistic persuasiveness that is hard to escape.

The opera was presented first in Milan in 1904. Since then it has been sung around the world and is part of the seasonal fare of every opera house of any pretensions.

Ernst Knoch, who is to conduct, is already known to St. Louis audiences. He presided over the orchestra when the Municipal Theater in Forest Park was opened with a production of "Aida" in 1917. He also conducted the performance of "Carmen" which broke all attendance records at the Municipal Theater.

Schooled in Germany in the Wagnerian tradition, he has conducted both opera and symphony in chief German musical centers; has toured the world twice with

A Victory for the Hundred Percenters

Will Hays Turns Thumbs Down on the Play "Spread Eagle"

BY ALEXANDER WOOLCOTT.

NEW YORK, May 21.—The play "Spread Eagle" will not be made into a motion picture. That organization of the movie world (wherein the adroit Will Hays is somewhat precariously perched upon a throne similar to the one reared in the baseball world for Judge Landis) has coldly considered the case of "Spread Eagle." The decision was "thumbs down." This adverse word, by the smooth, silent mechanism perfected a few years ago, has now been passed along to the uttermost reaches of the industry and no producing company will venture to translate this caustic and inflammatory play in terms of the screen. The two newspapermen who wrote it, the darkling Jedediah Harris who produced it and we mere idle onlookers who went to see it will never be told why. We can only guess.

"Spread Eagle" is the ironic and bitter cartoon of our dealings with Latin America. Its central figure is Martin Henderson, a mighty captain of finance who sits in his high, hushed office at 120 Broadway and, for the sake of his far-flung investments, prays devoutly for the day when the course of empire will turn southward, the day when all the troubled and troubling land between the Rio Grande and Panama will be self-determined by United States Marines.

Henderson had grown enormously rich during the World War. He was master of fourteen companies which supplied the army with everything from wrap leggins that dissolved in the first French rain to slickers that were found useful at last when the company clerks learned to cut them up for blotting paper. During the long conflict he never spared himself at all—sternly banning the sybaritic white bread from his austere table and religiously observing every gasolineless Sunday. He even went to Washington and offered his services to his country as a dollar-a-year man.

NOW, as the play begins, his thoughts are all with his imperiled lands in Mexico—vast mining properties which would be worth a billion dollars if that dratted country could ever get a stable government, if its destinies would ever pass into the hands of a man honest enough to stay bought. Like many an investor before him, his great hope lies in the prospect of American intervention. Washington seems deaf to his arguments. He comes back from the White House chilled to the bone.

"What did Cal have to say?" his secretary asks.

And Henderson (to the chuckling delight of each audience at "Spread Eagle") replies glumly:

"Not much."

Thus baffled, he decides to gamble with a revolution, and agrees to finance a Mexican general who is just hanging around New York in the hope of getting together enough money to start one. Henderson cherishes no delusion that this precious fellow will himself be able or even disposed to create the law and order his properties need. Rather it is his notion that the General will make such a hopeless mess of things that Washington will just have to intervene. The General's bill seems likely to run as high as $650,000, but the stakes are worth the gamble and money is paid over, not in a little black satchel, but in a brokerage house transfer.

THEN, like a gift from heaven, there drops into Henderson's office a foolish youngster just out of college and willing to begin at the bottom for a mere $5000 a year. He gets past the office boy because he is Charley Parkman, son of a quondam president of these United States. He wants to go into business and says frankly that he himself has no ambition ever to be president. Henderson grins.

"The Roosevelt boys will be relieved to hear that," he says.

It is the work of a moment (as these things are done in melodramas and perhaps, for all I know, in Wall street) to see how helpful it would be to the Henderson cause to send this blundering, sophomoric youngster with a great name down into Mexico—helpful, that is, in case he got killed.

The climax comes when the word is actually spread across the country that young Charley Parkman has been shot by bandits in Mexico and instantly there is turmoil in the theater. A white-faced manager crawls in front of the curtain to read a message from the War Department calling all enlisted men and officers of the reserve to the colors and several times sin the run of "Spread Eagle" began, patriotic but literal-minded playgoers have had to be forcibly dissuaded from rushing to the box office telephone to report for duty. By such devices, by radio proclamations, by flashes of newsreels, you see the country go to war. You see and hear the hubbub in the streets, watch the excited crowds around the bulletin boards, see the clumsy civilians blundering through close order drill in the dust of Governor's Island. Long trains, fairly bursting with troops, go trundling

BEHIND THE SCREENS

In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, May 21.—Douglas Fairbanks' leading ladies have been unusually successful on the screen following appearances in his pictures, so that the screen futures of Eve Southern and Lupe Velez (not Lupita as at first reported) may be said to be settled already. If the two virtually unknown leading ladies selected by Doug for his new picture, "The Gaucho," have the fortune which came to Marguerite de la Motte, Billie Dove and other Fairbanks' leading ladies, they will be screen personalities in their own rights a year hence.

Miss Southern was signed after Fairbanks had entertained producer Edwin Carewe at an informal luncheon. Miss Southern is under personal contract to Mr. Carewe, co-producer and director of "Resurrection." Miss Velez, who has appeared in just one Hal Roach Comedy, got her opportunity after dancing at a charity benefit. The role which Miss Velez fills was originally intended for Dolores del Rio, Mr. Carewe's most notable "discovery," but Miss del Rio's performance in "Resurrection" was deemed by United Artists' executives sufficiently distinguished to merit her being starred in "Ramona," for United Artists, this year.

Irving Asher says a Negro woman, working in a picture of which he was production manager, could not read or write, and every night, when she signed the payroll, she placed a cross opposite her name as her signature, Photoplay reports.

One night, however, when the day's work was over and she went to draw her pay, the Negress drew a circle instead of the usual cross.

"How's this?" inquired the paymaster. "You have been signing

St. Louis Symphony Will Be Directed by Series Of Guest Conductors

Though Negotiations Not Complete, Present Plans of Directors Favor That Policy—Advantages and Disadvantages of System.

By Thomas B. Sherman.

THE St. Louis Symphony Society through a committee headed by Mrs. Max Goldstein has been negotiating for several weeks with a number of conductors in Europe and America regarding possible engagements for next season, with the local orchestra. The results of these negotiations will be published within the next month, but already the Society seems to have determined on a guest conductor policy for one year at any rate.

Under this arrangement the season will be divided between several men and the public will thus be given the benefit of several styles in leadership. This is a policy which has its points. It is undoubtedly true that a change of conductors from time to time is good showmanship to the extent that it tends to bring about a periodical re-stimulation of the public interest. Concert goers who turn out only once or twice during the season under one conductor are inclined to come oftener when new headliners are offered. They want to see how the new man carries himself or perhaps to compare his reading of the "Pathetique" with that of his predecessor. But whether such a system tends to produce a better quality of music than the one-man directorship is certainly a disputable question.

A great majority of the American orchestras now employ the guest-conductor policy to some extent. In most cases there is one principal conductor who drills the orchestra and the guests make only two or three appearances. Under circumstances of that sort, the visiting conductor benefits or suffers from another man's work for one or two rehearsals are usually not enough to bring about any radical change in the cohesion and discipline of a band. This doesn't mean that a good conductor will not be able to impress his individuality upon a group of players in one or two performances. If he's an artist like Toscanini he can make an appreciable difference in four bars. But the short-time guest doesn't have to concern himself with the orchestra's training in the fundamentals. It is there for him to use or it is not and he has to take the situation as he finds it.

But in cases where one conductor definitely leaves the orchestra and another takes his place, the orchestra, to a great extent has to start its training all over again in order to accommodate itself to the mannerisms and temperament of its new master. Except in unusual circumstances this period of transition is bound to be a period of uncertainty for the players.

After playing for a reasonable length of time under Mr. A. they have arrived at the point where the gestures he uses in beating time, molding the phrase and controlling the dynamics bring an in-

Rehearsals for Municipal Opera Stars Commence

Principals for the ninth annual season of Municipal Opera, which begins Monday night, June 6, with the presentation of De Koven's "Robin Hood," in the vast Forest Park amphitheater, will arrive in St. Louis tomorrow.

General Stage Director Charles Sinclair and Musical Director Louis Kroll have called for immediate rehearsals Monday in Jefferson Memorial, so that the work of preparing the initial Municipal Opera production may not be unnecessarily delayed.

Myrtle Schaaf, prima donna; Paul Kleman, baritone, star of many Shubert hits; Anne Yago, contralto, formerly with the Chicago Civic Opera Company and De Wolf Hopper; Joceta Howe, soubrette; John Dunsmure, basso; Robert Pitkin, comedian; Allyn Rogers, tenor; Dorothy Seegar, ingenue; John Cherry, comedian; William McCarthy, also a comedian, are the members of the cast who will begin rehearsals tomorrow, the chorus of 96 St. Louis boys and girls having been in intensive training for the last two weeks.

With the first night of Municipal Opera only two weeks' distant, indications are that a new attendance record will be created with 700,000 persons visiting the Forest Park Theater before the 12 weeks' cycle is concluded. Municipal Theater Association officials in forecasting this attendance base their conclusions on an increase of 100,000 over that of last year's 600,000.

They believe that the increase will come from two sources. One is the addition of 450 desirable box seats to the auditorium, that adds 50,000 to the reserved-seat capacity for the season. And the other is the extensive campaign being conducted by the association and railroads to make St. Louis a summer tourist center, with Municipal Opera as the chief magnet, it being expected that 50,000 visitors will come to the city in this way.

TO CELEBRATE 13TH TUBERCULOSIS DAY

Big League Game and Junior Marathon at Sportsman's Park July 28.

The thirteenth annual celebration of Tuberculosis day will be held this year on Thursday, July 28, at Sportsman's Park, it was announced last night. The proceeds of this yearly event with its annual big league baseball game, junior marathon race, distribution of thousands of educational souvenir programs and gifts, and other special feature attractions, will be used by the Tuberculosis and Health Society of St. Louis to finance its public health work in the community.

The main event of the celebration, the ball game, will be played this year by the Cardinals and Philadelphia. The other attractions, which keep the crowd of spectators interested from 1:30 to 4 o'clock, the hour the game is called, have not yet been decided upon, according to A. W. Jones, manager and secretary of the society.

Announce Plans Soon.

The annual junior marathon race is already interesting hundreds of boys. A number have applied at society headquarters for entry blanks. The committee in charge of this event is being formed now, and it is expected that final plans will be announced next week. This race, which has been an important event of Tuberculosis day for the last 10 years, is preceded by many weeks of physical training under competent athletic directors, and the day of the race a physical examination is given each boy to see that he is in good condition to run.

Educational souvenir programs, which are always a big feature of the day's entertainment, will be distributed again this year by hundreds of girls and women, chaperoned by society matrons. Donations will be received the same as last year.

Needs Moral Support.

Last year more than $25,000 was raised for the society's work by this event. The success of the day, however, is not measured solely by the financial returns, Jones explained, but also by the number of people attending the game, the number of merchants and manufacturers co-operating, and the number of people participating in the day's feature events.

"The society needs moral support as well as financial," declared Jones, "and the splendid co-operation of all these people helps to show that the worth of the organization and its program of work are fully appreciated, and that the community is backing the organization."

The Executive Committee of the society will meet this week to discuss further plans for the day's entertainment. At that time a chairman of general arrangements will be appointed, a field events committee will be selected, and a special committee chosen to decide upon remaining details.

NINE MEN TO MAKE FIRST LEAPS IN PARACHUTES

They Are Students at Navy's Only School for Training in Use of Device.

By the Associated Press.

LAKEHURST, N. J., May 21.—A class of nine men a the Navy's only parachute school, located at the air station here, today is eagerly awaiting favorable weather, when the students will be taken aloft in an airplane to a height of 1500 feet for their first jumps.

The men have completed a course of training covering 16 weeks, in the maintenance, packing, repairing and the practical use of parachutes, the final requisite before receiving their diplomas is a "lift-off" from an airplane.

When the time comes Lieutenant Delong Mills, pilot, will carry two men—one standing on each lower wing of the airplane—into the air. At a signal from the instructor in the cockpit, each will pull his "rip cord," and wait for his parachute to open, fill with wind and drag him from the wing of the machine. After the lift-offs, students so desiring will be permitted to take a "free-fall," jumping first and pulling the ripcord later, from the nonrigid airship J-3.

Alva F. Starr, of Petosky, Mich., chief boatswain's mate, instructor in charge, who has trained more than forty men during his three and a half years at the school, will make the first jump, a free fall. Starr has made more than 90 parachute leaps.

H. W. ROSS CHOSEN ACCOUNTING CHIEF OF UTILITIES BOARD

Promoted to Succeed T. J. Murphy Who Goes to St. Louis Firm.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 21.—The State Public Service Commission today promoted H. W. Ross of Jefferson City, from Assistant Accountant to Chief Accountant of the Commission, effective June 15.

Ross will succeed T. J. Murphy, who has resigned after 13 years' service with the Commission to accept a better position with the Inland Power & Light Co. of St. Louis, an operating company for a chain of public utilities in Missouri and other states, controlled by Fitkin Utilities, Inc., of New York.

Ross has been assistant to Murphy for the past four years. Prior to that time he was in the accounting department of the Interstate Commerce Commission and formerly was General Auditor for the Missouri, Oklahoma & Gulf Railroad Co.

URGE REFORESTRATION TO PREVENT FLOODS

Izaak Walton League Will Discuss Plan at Convention.

Flood prevention through reforestation and reclamation of marsh lands will be urged by the Izaak Walton League of Missouri at its annual convention here tomorrow and Tuesday, Harry Collins, secretary, said today.

Rejuvenation of cut-over timber lands, he pointed out, would serve a twofold purpose; it would aid materially in prevention of disastrous floods and would provide habitat for wild game, while reclaimed swamps would provide living for fish and game birds, which abound in the lowlands.

From one to 30 delegates from each of the 150 chapters in the State are expected to attend the annual meeting and banquet, for fish-story telling and business sessions.

Speaker Robert W. Scholes of the Illinois House of Representatives will speak Monday on flood control. Other speakers will be: United States Senator Hawes, Henry O'Malley, United States Bureau of Fisheries; Frederick Dunlap, State Forester, Columbia; Charles W. Folds, former national Izaak Walton League president; Seth E. Gordon, former executive secretary of the Pennsylvania Game Commission, and State Representatives D. L. Bales of Shannon County, and Charles Young of Washington County. N. T. Veatch, sanitary engineer, Kansas City, will tak on stream pollution.

Election of officers will be held in the closing sessions. None of the officers is a candiate for reelection, Collins said. President Jack Cunningham of Kansas City, will preside at the State convention.

RAILWAY TELEGRAPHERS END TRIENNIAL MEETING

President Manion of St. Louis and Secretary Roos Are Re-Elected and Given Salary Increases.

More than 600 delegates to the triennial convention of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers closed a two weeks' session at the St. Louis University Gymnasium yesterday, after deciding to hold the 1930 convention at Los Angeles.

The delegates re-elected President E. J. Manion and Secretary L. J. Roos of St. Louis by acclamation, Friday, and then voted to increase the salaries of the two executives from $8500 to $10,000 annually. B. C. Lewis of Oakland, Md., was re-elected vice president.

Features of the convention were a trip to Hot Springs, Ark., last Saturday and Sunday on special trains over the Missouri Pacific Railroad, and the announcement that the dispute between the Pere Marquette Railroad and the various rialroad brotherhoods had been settled. The convention also went on record as favoring child-labor legislation and denouncing injunction proceedings against labor organizations. President Columbus Haile, of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad, was among the speakers addressing the meeting, and stressed the genial relations existing between the telegraphers and th railroads.

A Jewish View of Contemporary Yiddish Melodrama

ALTHOUGH "The Broken Home" was reviewed by the Post-Dispatch the day fol- ing its performance last week, following criticism is printed reflecting the viewpoint of Jew- journalism on contemporary iddish drama. The review was nslated from the Yiddish.

the Drama Critic of the "Jewish Daily Record."

Simon Wolf's Yiddish drama e Broken Home" was shown at Shubert Rialto Theater last day night. Leon Blank, vet- n Yiddish actor, headed the tern company.

The majority of the audience, posed of devoted followers of old school staging, cheered dly Leon Blank, the pet "old n" and practically only survi- of the "good ole day' epoch, henever a chance permitted it- On the whole, it seemed that e play was not the thing." It s the players ond their style that ttered most in this performance the play be hanged.

With the hearty welcome ex- ded the old veteran, the audi- e showed a remarked prefer- ce in favor of the days of yore, d it may serve as a warning to e modern producers and modern gers of the Yiddish drama, that general public is not as yet e for the latest and better type art.

"The Broken Home" tells the le of a man who, finding his for- er sweetheart married to anoth- man, succeeds in persuading the he loved to desert her husband d steal his child, leaving the for- r broken hearted and despond- t. As all villains would have it, former lover also gains the nfidence of the husband to the tent of cheating him out of his ings.

The scene later shifts to San ancisco, Cal., where we find a wn-up child, now a successful geon about to become famous ough his invention of an un- own remedy for the healing of disease of paralysis. But in er to give the play more "kick" plot, the broken-up man, once husband of the deserter, by less wandering happens to ch San Francisco, where he s his faithless wife with her (now prosperous), as well as beloved son, the successful phy- an.

The shock of the poor man is so at that he becomes paralytic body and speech and is unable tell his side of the story, in te of his tremendous efforts to the son know of his identity. course, as you may have ex- ted, the son's invention of that mous remedy cures the unhappy n, and as he tells the tale the lain dies of the shock and all ds well.

The melodrama has the typical earmarks of the "Zolotarevsky" type, embodying all possible and impossible scenes, including brothers-in-law, sisters-in-law, fathers-in-law and other in-laws acting as "fillers," and to top the bill, we even find out that somewhere off stage, the old mother, too feeble to stand the bad news, telephoned to by her broken-hearted son collapses and dies of the shock.

Scenes, scenes and scenes; heart-rending scenes, comical scenes and just plain meaningless scenes, a whole conglamoration of them with only one goal in mind, and that is to get the "guts" of the average theater goer, even though it fails to reach his brain. We must congratulate the author of this play for this achievement, even if he failed in any other angle, as far as clean drama goes.

Even Leon Blank, with his great talent, is powerless to fill all the boresome gaps that are so manifest in this melodrama, because the star role written for the star actor brings him in only in psychological moments, leaving such great stretches of the play to "Gezenge and Tenze" and other slapstick comedy, that not only do they succeed in breaking up the trend of the play, but at times, become revolting.

As far as the players are concerned, Leon Blank played his role excellently. Next to him, we find the character comedian, Adolph Erber, showing beautiful talent. The famous Annie Meltzer failed to come up to her reputation. Messrs. J. Cohen, H. Frezont, Irving Grossman, as well as Mrs. Shor Paskevitz and Annie Erber could not be classed as first-rate actors.

Elda Vettroi dreamed over frames. As a child she en- d the employ of a St. Louis lesale millinery firm, to help sisters support the family, for father, an Italian immigrant, d while she was very young.

In the shop the girls knew Elda ttori could sing, for she sang in- nctively. And while she was l employed as a milliner there e an opportunity to sing prima nna roles with a small musical k company in St. Louis. The tty little Italian girl won pop- favor instantly. Her salary ed relieve the stringency at e. And her career was launched ore she had had a single vocal on. But out of the meager ily budget each week was set rt a sum—no matter what else t be denied—for Elda's les-

She entered upon her studies re in St. Louis. Then came the of her series of triumphs. The na donna soprano of a travel- opera company at the Odeon uld not appear. Elda Vettori asked on two hours' notice to Santuzza in "Cavalliera Rus- ana." So sweeping was her ess that she was offered a manent engagement. It was pting but wiser counsels pre- led. She declined the oppor- ity to continue her studies.

he family saved and struggled. obtained a chance to go to York to study and spent two s in an attic room on the East mastering vocal method, mas- roles, mastering languages. Dellera, chief coach of the Metropolitan Opera company, heard her and took the young Italian girl under his tutelage. While coaching with him she made short tours as prima donna with a traveling company, where she obtained valuable experience. For three seasons she appeared in leading roles in Mr. Golterman's summer grand opera festivals here. In the season of 1925-26 she sang in concert with Feodor Chaliapin. Last season she made her debut at the Metropolitan and in a leading role and during the season has sung leading roles in "Cavaliera Rusticana," "Aida," "Gioconda," "La Forza del Destino" and "Gianni Schicchi.' She toured with the Metropolitan company this spring, singing in Atlanta, Cleveland, Washington, Baltimore and Chicago. A few nights ago she was soloist with the Philadelphia Orchestra at the Spartanburg, S. C., Music Festival.

Merle Alcock was born in Andover, Mo., and began her musical education at Drake University in Des Moines, Ia., and continued it in New York. Her engagement with the Metropolitan Opera Company began in 1923.

Phradie Wells had no city's musical advantages in her childhood. It was spent on a farm near Kirksville. There were chickens to feed and cows to milk and a two-mile trudge to school each day. Butter and egg money paid for music lessons, for already she had destined herself to be a singer. She entered the State Teachers' College at Kirksville after her earlier schooling, and graduated with a B. S. degree, continuing music studies, however. After graduation she taught as supervisor of music in the public schools at Chillicothe, Mo. After Chillicothe came New York, with studies with Oscar Saenger, the famous teacher, and her voice developed into a lyric dramatic soprano of great range. Gatti Casazza heard her and engaged her at once for the Metropolitan, where she has sung in over 100 performances in two years. She has also had distinguished success as a concert singer.

These three Missouri girls whose art is reinforced by youth, beauty and charm, will be supported in their home-coming appearances here by a notable cast which includes in the principal male roles:

Jose de Gaveria, well remembered for his singing of "Don Jose" in Mr. Golterman's presentation of "Carmen" at the Municipal Theater last summer, who came to America after appearing in the leading operas of Spain, Italy and South America, and who, a year ago appeared with Marion Telva in the Portland (Me.) Music Festival.

George Cehanowsky, baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Co., who has sung here the last two seasons with Mr. Golterman's opera festivals. He came to America two seasons ago from Europe where he won an international fame after fleeing from Russia and the revolution.

Miguel Santacana, the Spanish basso who, after successes in Spain and Italy and in the South American countries, came to America two seasons ago.

Behind the Screen Out in Hollywood with a cross and now you make a circle."

"Well, you see, boss," the Negress replied, "I got married last night and changed my name."

Rolling stockings for utility and rolling them for photography are two separate and distinct forms of endeavor. Any woman can pull on a long pair of hose, roll them down, take a quick twist and rest assured that there will be no wrinkles at the ankles for two hours at least. But few women can roll them so neatly that they can be photographed in motion pictures without ugly shadows. No twists are allowed. This important discovery was made during the filming of Paramount's "youth" picture, "Rolled Stockings." Each morning during the dance sequences Director Richard Rosson held a "roll call" and the girls submitted their handiwork for inspection.

Gloria Swanson this week made her first production announcement since arriving in Los Angeles a month ago—the names and subjects of her next three independent film productions. The first, she said, would be "The Woman and the Puppet," based on a French novel by Pierre Louis, in which Miss Swanson plays the part of Conchita Perez, an impulsive Spanish senorita. The second, Miss Swanson declared, would be a production entitled "Cleopatra," and based on an original screen story of the loves of Egypt's Queen. It is declared that for several years the character of Cleopatra has appealed to Miss Swanson as "an especially desirable interpretation."

The third film (which was to have been Miss Swanson's next picture and now is deferred), will be "The Battalion of Death," a story of the women who fought for Russia in the World War. Gloria will have a different characterization in each story, the first production being a romance, the second a drama of love, and the third an "heroic drama." The announcement states that the triple program marks the culmination of Miss Swanson's plans since she became an owner-member of United Artists last year. "The Love of Sonya" was Miss Swanson's first independent production for United Artists' release.

In his next picture Adolphe Menjou will depart from the Parisian characterizations that have marked his roles in both "Evening Clothes" and his current production "Service For Ladies" and will appear in a story laid amid English settings. This will be a screen version of I. A. R. Wylie's Saturday Evening Post story, "With Their Eyes Open."

Hollywood wants a ban on gold-plated college boys, for its reputation's sake.

Flaming youths with fond and financially opulent fathers, who go to California's cinema center seeking thrills among screen beauties of the flapper class, are responsible for most of the escapades that link Hollywood with scandal in the newspapers.

That's the plaint of the coast movie colony, voiced in an article in Photoplay magazine for June.

Robert Savage, wealthy college football hero, who attempted suicide when the piquant Clara Bow changed her mind about marrying him; Michael Cudahy, scion of the meat-packing millionaires, who was arrested at his mother's request to prevent a similar marriage, and others are mentioned as shining examples by the writer for the defense of Hollywood.

Six youthful players, the most talented and best known juvenile "starlets" of Hollywood, appear in "The Way of All Flesh", the Emil Jannings American debut picture. Victor Fleming, director of the picture, declared that this group of youngsters forms the greatest child cast ever given a production. The sexette embraces Philippe de Lacey, Mickey, McBann, Betsy, Ann Hisle, Gordon Thorpe, Carmencita Johnson and Jackie Combs. The first three became best known for their fine work in the prologue of "Beau Gueste." The others have played important parts in many pictures.

Pauline Starke spent a day recently learning how to do the old-fashioned "bunny hug" for a scene of "Dance Magic," which she is making with Ben Lyon at the Cosmopolitan Studio. Robert Kane hired Tammany Young, who has watched the changing vogue of dancing on Broadway for 20 years, to give Miss Starke the lowdown on the steps.

Andre Beranger, noted for his versatile screen characterization, has been added to the cast of "Love," which is the motion picture title of Tolstoy's "Anna Karenina." This picture, Greta Garbo's first starring vehicle, will be directed by Dimitri Buchowetzki. Ricardo Cortez, Berenger, Lionel Barrymore, Zasu Pitts and Dorothy Sebastian are in its cast.

John Gilbert, released from Will Rogers' jail in dear old Beverly Hills, has started work on "Twelve Miles Out," the dramatic celebration of the bootlegger and the jacker. Joan Crawford has the feminine lead. Others in the cast are Betty Compson, Ernest Torrence, Bert Roach and Mike Donlin.

FACING THE MUSIC

The Missouri Chapter A. G. O. will hold the May meeting on Tuesday, the 24. Dinner will be served at 6:30 at Garavelli's Cafe, corner of Debalivere and De Giverville. A short business session will follow, after which the Chapter will adjourn to the United Hebrew Temple on Skinker boulevard and South Wydown boulevard for a concert consisting of compositions by St. Louis organists, with the composer at the organ for each number. Among those taking part are Alfred Lee Booth, Lillian Craig Coffman, J. Arthur Davis, William John Hall, E. R. Kroeger, Arthur Lieber, Edgar L. McFadden, Doyne C. Neal and Edward M. Read. The organ at the Temple is a Four Manual Kilgen organ, built by one of our own members.

The orchestra of the St. Louis Philharmonic Society is to give their third and last concert of this season on Friday, May 27, at 8:15 p. m. at Roosevelt High School on Hartford street, two blocks east of Grand. Mildred Doland, soprano soloist of St. Michaels and All Angels Episcopal Church, is to be soloist for the occasion. Paul Friess will be her accompanist.

The exercises for Commencement Week of the Progressive Series Teachers College have been arranged as follows: Monday evening, May 30th, 1927—Piano Recital and Class Day program; Tuesday evening, May 31st, 1927—Commencement Exercises.

The programs will be given in the Progressive Series Recital Hall, 4525 Olive Street and will begin at 8:15 o'clock. The public is invited.

The commencement address will be delivered by Dr. Frederick W. Shipley of Washington University.

PRIZES OFFERED FOR BEST BACKYARD PLAY GROUNDS

Contest Designed to Keep Children off Streets and Prevent Accidents.

On the theory that backyard playgrounds will keep St. Louis children off the streets and thus reduce the number of deaths and injuries among them from accidents, a contest to stimulate interest in developing such playgrounds will be conducted jointly this summer by the Park and Playground Association and the St. Louis Safety Council.

Girard C. Varnum, secretary of the Safety Council, pointed out yesterday that 52 children of school age were killed in St. Louis streets last year. None of these accidents happened near city playgrounds. Prizes will be awarded children who arrange the best playgrounds in their yards.

MONEY PRIZES AWARDED TO "BEST" GIRLS IN FRANCE

Custom 1400 Years Old Was Started by Bishop of Noyon With Own Funds.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, May 21.—The best girls of France, are being crowned with wreaths of rosebuds and awarded money prizes this month in a great many towns.

Usually this presentation is the big event of a Sunday ceremony organized for the distribution of various local prizes. Some are for long service, others for special achievements of many kinds.

The prize for virtue dates back to the year 525. Saint Medard, Bishop of Noyon, is, by tradition, given credit for initiating the custom and creating a public fund out of his own property to supply the prize money.

The custom spread through the centures, and it is observed still, mostly in Northern France. Generally the prize is awarded to a poor girl who is the main support of a family.

Memorial to "Daylight Saving" Originator.

Guest Conductors Will Direct the Symphony

stantaneous response. They take in those signals unconsciously just as one takes in the meaning of a word or phrase spoken in his native language. Then along comes Mr. B. with a new set of tricks.

For the first rehearsal or two, or perhaps the first concert or two the players have to watch him consciously instead of merely apprehending him out of the corners of their eyes. If he is a man of eccentric postures they have to watch him all the harder and even then there are moments of doubt. What does he mean when he shakes his left forearm as if he were stricken with the plague? Is he trying to increase the volume of the whole ensemble or merely urging his string section to give him a richer vibrate? It is in moments of uncertainty such as this that sour notes are born.

On the other hand it is possible for an orchestra to become so used to a conductor—even a good conductor—that it loses some of the freshness that goes with spontaneity. Ernest Newman, the famous English critic, who spent a year as critic of the New York Evening post, made at that time certain interesting comparisons between the orchestras of New York, Boston and Philadelphia and the London Symphony. The American orchestras, he said, had a technical excellence that simply couldn't be approached by anything in Europe. But the London Symphony—which is controlled by the players and has no regular condutcor—frequently gave more brilliant performance because the players carried to each concert a fine edge of excitement that made them strive to outdo themselves.

If they always lacked the homogenity and precision that characterized the American bands they more often exhibited that high flush of color that is produced not so much by rehearsals as by the inspiration of the moment.

But granting that Mr. Newman's comparisons are sound, it should be remembered that the London Symphony is composed of the best players in England and that it practically never falls into the hands of a poor conductor. Its example is not of much value for the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, for instance.

It would undoubtedly be an interesting privilege to hear three or four distinguished guest conductors in St. Louis during the course of a season. But the general artistic well being of the orchestra would, in my opinion, be better served by a one-man directorship. Such a system would not preclude the appearance of guests distinguished or otherwise. It would simply mean that a single man bore the responsibility for the orchestral discipline. In this way a group consciousness would be built up. This is a characteristic that the St. Louis orchestra has never displayed—never, at least, in my presence.

Will Hays Turns Thumbs Down on "Spread Eagle"

south. The ambulances move towards the border. The headlines scream. The first casualties put ginger into the citizenry. The war is on.

THEN, as a play, "Spread Eagle" goes suddenly and ingloriously to pot. After a superb first act and despite the really magnificent performance of Osgood Perkins as the morose secretary who plays chorus to this sardonic work, the piece loses its head and the silly, incompetent last act is just one long floundering disaster. It hauls a mighty bucket of water up from a dark, mysterious well and then spills most of it on the way to the house. It goes whining through space only to die in midair—an impotent dud.

Wherefore, for all the ferocity of its satire, it has caused scarcely a ripple in this heedless town, playing to indifferent patronage and dropping out of sight and sound, except when, as has happened several times, a broadcasting station declines to disseminate such unorthodox sentiments as the play engenders. In the routine course of events, it would play to dwindling audiences as the hot weather approaches, there would be a final fortnight of performances before mere handfuls of melting playgoers and the run would end.

The indefatigable press agent would send out an entirely imaginary item to the effect that the play would go on tour in the fall, the June dark would descend on the theater and "Spread Eagle" would be heard of no more, except, perhaps, in book form with a preface by George Jean Nathan hailing it as another masterpiece which had proved too strong a drink for the chicken-livered yokelry.

IF "Spread Eagle" as a whole had lived up to the promise of its remarkable first act, it would, I think, be playing now to packed houses. It might have traveled up and down the land as "What Price Glory" did and might—who knows?—have inclined an entire generation of Americans to inquire a little more skeptically into the forces that seek and tend to take young men from plow and desk and march them away to make alien lands safe for American bondholders.

I can only guess what elements in this play made Will Hays and the Sanhedrin of the movie business think that it would not be wise for such a tale to be told in pictures. They exercise a censorship that is the more baffling because it is silent, negative, secret and not open to argument. The very fact that such an adverse verdict has been reached is never announced and the reasons for reaching it are, under the rules of the organization, never vouchsafed to inquiring reporters. So you and I can only guess.

Sherlock Holmes Books Again Coming to the Front.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, May 21.—Sherlock Holmes has come to the front again as the most popular fiction character with the boys' clubs, says a report of the Carnegie United Kingdom Trust relative to its libraries. Other popular books among the boys are the works of Wodehouse, Edgar Wallace and Sapper. Girls prefer books by Maud Diver, Sir Philip Gibbs and Ian Hay.

Severe criticism of the inefficiency and inadequacy of many public libraries is contained in the report. Complaint is made that the tax as levied is not sufficient, and consequently these libraries cater almost entirely for the reader of simple tastes, compelling the scholar, the student, the artist, the commercial man and the scientist to go elsewhere.

Catholic Knights' Banquet Tonight.

Dr. Felix Gaudin of New Orleans, national president of the Catholic Knights of America, will be the principal speaker at a banquet of local members of the organization at the Western Rowing Club this evening. The following supreme officers will be guests at the banquet: Norman E. Patrick, Indianapolis; Charles Pich, Chicago; A. H. Bernard, Coldwater, O., and Joseph Berning, Cincinnati. The banquet will close a month's aniversary celebration by members of the body.

NEW KFUO STATION TO BE DEDICATED TODAY

Plant, Which Cost $50,000 Will Use Wave Length of One It Replaces.

The newly completed radio station KFUO, owned by the Board of Control of Concordia Seminary, will be dedicated on the grounds of the Seminary, De Mun and San Bonita avenues, this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

This plant, erected at a cost of $50,000, replaces an older station but will use its wave length and letter designation. The station is the gift of the Lutheran Laymen's League of the Missouri Lutheran Synod to the seminary.

Prof. Walter A. Maier, now a student at Harvard University, who was the first announcer of KFUO, will be the principal speaker at the dedicatory exercises. Prof. J. H. C. Fritz, dean of the seminary, will speak on the first program to be broadcast, which will include the dedicatory exercises. Preparations have been made for a large attendance.

Students to Give Play.

Students of Harris Teachers' College will present a four-act play, "You Never Can Tell," at Soldan High School auditorium next Friday night. Included in the cast will be: Mary Orgeich, Margaret Boland, La Vona Gillman, Verla Garrison, Vera Schubert, Edith Moise, Delora Traill, Victoria Schmidt, Marie Stegemann, Anne Barack, Elaine Debus, and Wilma Kaltenthaler.

GIBSON FARM ON MANCHESTER ROAD TO BE SUBDIVIDED

J. M. Solley of Louisville Buys 240-Acre Tract for Reported Price of $125,000.

SPECULATIVE BUYING IS NOTED IN COUNTY

Real Estate Promoters Purchase 51 Acres on Denny Road and 97 on Clayton.

By Berry Moore.

The past week witnessed a resumption of speculative buying in St. Louis County, especially on Manchester, Denny and Clayton roads.

The transactions embrace notably a tract of 240 acres at the southwest corner of Manchester and Sulphur Spring roads, acquired by James M. Solley, subdivision promoter of Louisville, Ky., through A. R. Schollmeyer & Co.; 51 acres on the east side of Denny road, south of the Clayton road, purchased by Lyle Garrison through LeGrand Jones Inc., and 97 acres on the south side of the Clayton road near Ellis, bought by Leopold Grossberg.

The prices paid, it is understood, established records for land values in these sections. Renewed speculative interest has been aroused in available tracts on these highways as a result.

Reported Price $125,000.

The Manchester tract, known as the Gibson farm, was owned by Fred Essen of St. Louis County and A. R. Schollmeyer, a former president of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange, who purchased it a year and a half ago, just before the advance in prices in this section of St. Louis County.

The price paid by Solley is understood to be about $125,000, which would give the sellers a generous profit on their investment.

The tract is situated within the corporate limits of the Town of Manchester and is 18 miles beyond the city boundary. Manchester road is concrete beyond the Shaw Gardens and extends into Franklin County.

Lake and Golf Course.

A syndicate of which Solley is president has opened a suite of five offices on the twelfth floor of the International Life Building, and is planning the immediate subdivision of 100 acres of the tract. Among other features, a golf course and a lake for swimming are projected for the remainder of the tract.

The contract for surface improvements of the tract has been given to the Keck Surveying Co. Adjacent to Manchester, the location has advantages of churches, schools and stores.

Solley has met notable success in subdivision enterprises. He will operate here under the name of the St. Louis Land Co.

The Denny road tract, purchased by Lyle Garrison through LeGrand Jones Inc., lies on both sides of Litzsinger road, which has been opened from Warson to Denny road. The former owner was Mrs. Emma E. Wall, who was represented by May R. Hussey of the sales staff of the A. R. Schollmeyer Real Estate Co. LeGrand Jones Ins. handled the negotiations on behalf of Garrison.

Surrounding Country Homes.

Widened to 100 feet as now proposed, Denny road will be the chief north and south highway of St. Louis County. It now constitutes one of the most buoyant sections of St. Louis County.

The tract is just north of the Phoenix stock farm which is being developed on a pretentious scale by Edward L. Bakewell, who has erected several residences and has several under construction. One of these houses is occupied by him as his country residence. The property is surrounded by beautiful country homes, including those of Harry S. Knight and Horton Watkins on the north, and the new residence of David R. Francis Jr. now under construction on Clayton road.

To Be Subdivided.

The tract acquired by Garrison is to be subdivided, alternating in three and five-acre tracts and restricted as a high class sub-division, to be disposed of through LeGrand Jones Inc.

The 97 acres purchased by Leopold Grossberg are on the south side of Clayton road, just west of Kerry Mills road, and belonged to the Henry Jacobs estate. The tract, which lies well, is to be subdivided into acre plots which will be placed on the market in the near future.

TWO LINDELL DRIVE HOME-SITES SOLD

As a site for a handsome residence, H. B. Louderman Jr. has purchased 100 by 530 feet on Lindell drive about 400 feet west of DeBaliviere avenue, owned by the D. F. R. Realty Co. The Francis-Perry-Ruth Realty Co., which handled the transaction declined to disclose the purchase price.

The sale of 100 by 530 feet on Lindell drive, 650 feet west of DeBaliviere, is announced by the Mercantile Trust Co.'s real estate department. The purchaser, whose name is withheld, has plans for a pretentious home, according to Phil H. Zepp, real estate officer of the trust company, who handled the transaction. This lot belonged to the Scullin estate, the late John Scullin being a member of the syndicate headed by Festus J. Wade, which purchased and subdivided the Catlin tract, in which these lots are embraced. Both sites are opposite Forest Park.

REAL ESTATE WEEK HELPS WATSON-O'ROURKE SALES

Post-Dispatch Real Estate Week had a desirable effect on the sales of the Watson-O'Rourke Realty Corporation. This company's report for the first three days of the week includes the sale of two double flats, one single flat and seven bungalows. The company expects more sales later in the week due to the Post-Dispatch advertising.

DEMAND FOR LOTS IN WESTCHESTER

Manchester Acres Inc., which is developing Westchester, a subdivision on Manchester and Geyer roads, just west of Denny road, reports an increasing demand for lots and completed bungalows.

A number of bungalows have been completed, and construction of others is to start immediately.

Improvements now being made consist, in some sections, of macadam streets, granitoid sidewalks and electric, water and telephone service; in other sections of only graded streets and electric, water and telephone service.

Due to prices at which the property is being sold, there is a great demand for lots as investments and in a number of instances several lots have been sold to the same purchaser.

The company has begun an extensive advertising and sales campaign. Westchester is within the city limits of Kirkwood.

MARTIN AND BREITT CO. ARRANGES SEVERAL LEASES

The Chic Model Garment Co. has leased the fifth floor of 706-8 Washington avenue for a long term of years. They will use the premises for manufacturing of women's wearing apparel. The firm is composed of Adolph Goldman and Isaac Grossman. It will practically double its present manufacturing space. The lease was made for Kessler & Kolb, Inc., by the Martin and Breitt Real Estate Co., which also closed a long-term lease with Seifert and Bewig for the first floor space at 1241-43 Morgan street.

They will use this space as office, salesroom and display and for manufacturing neckwear. The lease was made for the Metropole Hotel Co.

Martin & Breitt also closed a long-term lease for the Eskimo Refrigerator Co., on the one-story building at 815 North Ninth street, for William H. Priesmeyer.

The Gibson Co. leased a suite of rooms at 602-4-6 Columbia Building, 318 North Eighth street, for a salesroom, and the Alexander Metz Dress Co. has taken a long-term lease on the second floor of the building at 706-8 Washington avenue.

A. WALDHEIM BUYS LEACOCK BUILDING

Sporting Goods House Has Lease on Locust Street Structure.

Aaron Waldheim has acquired the five-story building at 921 Locust street, with lot 47x109 feet, owned by the Monti estate. The Leacock Sporting Goods Co. occupies the building under lease at a substantial rental. The consideration was not disclosed. Ground in this block is valued at $4000 to $5000 a front foot, exclusive of improvements. Opposite the Scruggs, Vandervoort & Barney store, Waldheim's purchase is regarded as a sound investment.

Waldheim has been a consistent buyer of downtown property, his recent purchases being principally on Olive and Locust streets. Several years ago he purchased the Equitable building and site at the northwest corner of Sixth and Locust streets.

Another noteworthy sale last week was that of 2113-19 Olive street to Harry Spector, through Sam Hamburg Jr. This consists of four stores and four flats. The price was not announced.

Contracts have been concluded for several attractive corners in both the downtown and uptown district, which when made public, are expected to impart new life to these sections of the real estate market.

FRANCISCUS REALTY CO. LEASES SECOND STREET SITE

The Franciscus Realty Co. announces a lease of the Taylor Estate to the Weigl Furniture Co. on the southeast corner of Second and Clinton street, a three-story brick building, for a period of 10 years. This lease was negotiated with the Mercantile Trust Co., who represented the Weigl Furniture Co.

The company also reports the purchase of a six-family apartment building at 5515 Pershing avenue for a client and they will manage the building.

MAKE A WADING POOL FOR YOUR KIDDIES

The Handy Man Can Make It in His Own Back Yard at Slight Cost.

In planning a new home, how many parents think of the kiddies? It is true, in the larger houses a room is generally set aside for a nursery if there are young children in the family, but in the smaller types of homes small consideration is given by the architect of a modest type house to the kiddies of the family.

This is naturally the case, because nurseries and playrooms are expensive luxuries. Anyway, in these modern days, when the best health authorities advise bringing up young children in the great outdoors as much as possible, the sunroom and the yard are the special playgrounds of the small folks of the family.

If there be sufficient room in the back yard, a wading pool will be a perpetual delight to the kiddies, especially in a climate like this where there are many long summer days.

A wading pool may be made an artistic, expensive addition to a garden, or it may be constructed with very little expense by the man of the house.

In the first case an octagonal-shaped pool is suggested with steps leading down to the water. There could be a fountain in the center and borders of growing plants outlining the pool. A pool of this type though not a costly affair, should be made by workers skilled in the use of cement.

But a much less expensive pool will serve the little folks just as well, and mother will rest just as easy, knowing that they cannot possibly come to harm playing in a pool of six or eight inches water depth.

The father of the family, if he be the handy sort of man, can with very little difficulty make a wading pool of the latter type.

A few turns of the spade, some boards, cement, a valve or water-gate and several hours of labor will result in a pool that will be the delight of the small folks.

The water is not allowed to get stagnant nor is it allowed to be wasted, for whenever father or mother feels it should be renewed, the valve or water-gate toward the lower side may be opened and the water will flow out through the small ditch which has been constructed for the purpose.

The sample selected, the planning of the home started.

Uniqueness and Comfort Keynotes of This House

Architectural Design, Effective Decorations, Up-to-Date Equipment and Moderate Cost Noted As Advantages

Interesting circumstances, aside from the usual thought of home building, sometime govern problems of design. In this house presented for today, the owner's trip on business to Chicago, which took him through a brick yard where discarded bricks were used for filling in ground, provided the circumstance that go[illegible]d the planning of this home. The bricks were badly warped and mishapened, besides being covered with a substance which appeared like thin whitewash. The use of this brick suggested itself as offering unusual possibilities. So to take advantage of these several sample walls of fair size were laid up.

This brick was laid up in the wall without striking the mortar from the face; that [illegible] the mortar squeezed from underneath the brick it was left to hang on the wall, giving the bricks an appearance of setting back from the face, at the same time creating a variation in texture that makes an extremely homogeneous mass of the entire wall, an extremely English setting.

Outswinging casements and a colorful slate roof, swinging low over the kitchen wing, presents a picture of English domesticity in its simplest form when coupled with the natural wood of the doors and windows.

The terrain of the ground permitted an unusual garage entrance and at the same time gives a nice seting for the house. Several beautiful oaks were also natural possessions [illegible] English than the oak, unless it be the ivy that now mantles the walls.

In planning the home there were two factors of great importance—a boy and a girl, and to provide the facilities for these children was an interesting problem. Not that the task was hard, but what would be most convenient for both the children and the mother, without slighting either, was the solution striven for. The wash and coat room at one end of the kitchen and the breakfast room and complete cupboards at the other, coupled with an easy access from the kitchen to the upstairs, allows the mother, who must be more or less in the kitchen, to save a tremendous number of steps in caring for the children, inasmuch as all the changes of clothes from school to play wear, rain coats, overshoes and play things are instantly at hand. At the same time, meals are easily served in the breakfast room, saving the wear and tear on the house considerably. For rainy days, a playroom is provided in the basement.

The arrangement of the rest of the first floor is particularly interesting from the view point of easy separation of the rooms and, at the same time, the gerat flexibility permitted in opening up the house, since the sunroom opens by doors both on the living room and the dining room. The sunroom at the same time being conveniently placed for the serving of an afternoon tea, and closing the doors permits the privacy sometimes necessary in an individual room, giving it an air of seclusion which is an extremely desirable quality.

The second floor has three bedrooooms and a sleeping porch, with the necessary closets of ample capacity, a bathroom, and a fine feature is a large cedar closet, which is made to take the additional draperies, off-season clothes and household linens. There is a clothes chute included on this floor which goes, of course, to the basement.

The interior finish of the house was handled in the same spirit as the exterior, the plaster being finished with just enough roughness to permit an interesting variation of surface and at the same time permit easy cleaning. The woodwork is extremely simple in design and of a minimum quantity, finished to appear almost in its raw state. The jambs are plastered, but enough width was provided on the woodframe to permit the easyhanging of the simple line drapes. These travel on a simple iron rod with traversers and serve both as window shades and hangings.

The floors are of oak, finished in dark gray stain to serve as a neutral base for the furnishings of the room.

The bathroom, of course, is completely tiled, as the modern bathroom should be.

The kitchen, washroom and breakfast room are enameled on canvas, permitting easy washing and at the same time a change of color scheme which is often advisable in a room where one must be almost constantly, for even the most perfectly decorated room can become monotonous.

The furniture throughout is of the Elizabethan period, but of extremely simple lines.

The home, therefore, having provided for the practical consideration of the children, has also provided the proper atmosphere, for an English home is the exemplar of homes throughout the world. So the pile of mishapen bricks, which gave the key for the spirit of the design througout, also provides that necessary subconscious education of the real meaning of home to the children.

For further information concerning this house plan (6-B-151) write to the Building Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

A New Garbage Can.

The sanitary care and disposal of garbage is one of the problems that is always with us. The garbage can is always unsightly though it is a necessary evil and must be tolerated for sanitary and health reasons.

A new kind of garbage receiver is now on the market which is buried in the ground out of sight. The receiver has the endorsement of many health officials and others connected with the sanitary disposal of garbage.

The receiver can be buried right at your kitchen doorstep, if so desired, thus saving steps for the cook.

In Erecting the New Home Include Heat Insulation

The Treatment Prevents Loss of Heat Through the Roof in Winter and Protects Against the Summer Sun.

Heat insulation in private homes has passed beyond being considered a rich man's luxury, according to T. A. Wray, a St. Louis heat insulation expert, who in a recent interview said that rich and poor alike are now demanding that their houses be equipped with a proper heat insulation medium as insurance against summer heat and winter cold, large fuel bills and inside and outside noises.

He predicted that the time is near at hand when tenants as well as prospective buyers will be more concerned in guaranteed comfort and economy than in the "frills" which ornament many present day houses and which perish with their particular style period.

Wray holds that when home builders and home buyers come to the appreciation of the all-year creature comforts which follow heat insulation at a normal installation cost of about 33 1-3 per cent of the cost of the fuel for an uninsulated house, few homes will be erected minus effective heat insulation.

According to Wray, heat insulation stands for comfort and economy, two of the vital factors that multiply into many angles of usefulness for the promotion of health and contentment in the home.

"The theory of heat insulation," he said, "is as old as time. It dates back to the dark ages and may be traced through succeeding generations, not by scientific treatment or application, but by the crude, yet practical methods instinctively employed by heathens as well as by the more advanced inhabitants of the uncivilized and semi-civilized parts of the earth. Straw, grass and kindred varieties of vegetation have performed their part and may still be found doing service among some tribes of our American Indians in protecting the tent homes of the red man against the extremes of heat and cold. The Eskimo, following the example of their ancient forebears, are content with snow-covered roofs which have served their purpose with an unfailing efficiency that automatically appears with the demands of the season. Present day methods of heat insulation bear relation to the primitive to the extent that the principles involved are the same now as they have always been and ever will be, fixed as they are by nature's laws which are as unchangeable as the rock of Gibraltar."

Dead air cells represent the greatest known deterrent or retarder to the passage or transmission of air currents, the insulating value of materials fluctuate in proportion to the number and smallness of air pockets they contain, and are capable and efficient to the extent that their dead air receptacles or pockets entrap and confuse the passage of air, Wray explained.

According to Wray 60 per cent of heat that escapes from a building makes its exit through the roof. To stop this flow, means a saving in fuel in winter with increased comfort during all seasons of the year. Without protection to outside walls and roofs, maximum efficiency can only be obtained by insulation treatment which makes the control of heat a matter of practical application. Contrary to the general impression solid materials of a dense texture, such as stone, brick, concrete, iron and related products possess very low rating as heat insulating mediums. Woods are but slightly better and vary somewhat according to their density or porous nature.

"The erection of a building may conform to the highest standards with respect to materials used and workmanship employed and represent all that the character of materials installed are capable of producing and still be deficient due to a lack of the presence of effective heat insulation," Wray explained.

In speaking of the cold weather comfort of the modern home, Wray said the comfort of a building is not wholly dependent upon the volume of heat with which it may be supplied, but that it is governed by the manner in which available heat is distributed and protected from escape, interference or intrusion from without.

"A heating plant may produce and properly distribute heat units throughout all parts of a house in volume sufficient for moderate weather comfort, and when pushed to capacity make the same premises livable in extreme cold weather without heat insulation, yet, under the most favorable construction few houses are entirely free from those disagreeable cold air currents we so often encounter without being able to detect from whence they come, but which we are able to testify whither they go by their lodgment on some sensitive part of our body, much to our discomfort."

"In this locality," continued Wray, "where we are subject to sudden and extreme changes in temperature, colds represent the origin of a very great percentage of sickness in the average family, being especially more pronounced in their severity among children and the aged. This common affliction may be traced, to a very large extent, to the improperly heated homes, many of which are inviting to draughts or air currents that often assume proportions that become a menace to the household. With such indisputable facts before them home builders, home buyers and renters will not blindfold themselves to such conditions and continue to purchase, build or rent houses not properly equipped to insure a maximum degree of comfort and protection against the hazardous conditions common to nature's laws, dispensed at the mercy of the elements."

The essential features of an efficient heat insulation medium, according to Wray must include elastic adaptability which renders its application practical and convenient to the greatest possible variety of conditions at a reasonable cost which will not in any way threaten the enduring efficiency of the medium. The effective medium should be inert by nature, free from contaminating influences with materials with which it may come in contact in service, thus insuring an undisturbed condition so long as its surroundings remain intact.

It should also be rodent and vermin proof, otherwise its usefulness would at once become threatened in addition to furnishing a harbor for many varieties of undesirable inhabitants of the rodent, vermin and insect families.

Heat insulation mediums with the above qualities should render effectient service in a home by rendering the house comfortable in winter, cooler in summer and by reducing the noises from both within and without.

GLOBE STORES FIRM PLANS EXPANSION

Maurice Landau, Founder of Company, Renews Lease for Present Home, Additional Property.

Globe Stores Corporation has leased, for a long term of years, the property now occupied by the Globe Store at 721-23-25-27 Franklin avenue, and the additional and adjoining property at 906-08-10-12 North Eighth street. The lease was negotiated between Maurice Landau and Frank Paul, for the store, and Howard O. Edmonds and Elias S. Gatch for the Burnes Estate.

Franklin avenue is to be widened 30 feet, and in view of this improvement, rebuilding of the store will begin June 1. The Eighth street side will be rebuilt first, then the Franklin avenue side. The work will be so arranged as not to interfere with business. The management contemplates adding new lines to the stock, including shoes and women's wear. The Globe was founded in 1874 at 712 Franklin avenue, by Maurice Landau, its present head, and it has remained on the same block for 54 years.

HOLBROOK-BLACKWELDER REPORT ACTIVE MARKET

The Holbrook-Blackwelder Real Estate Trust Co. reports an exceedingly active market for residence property, as shown by the numerous sales for residence lots in Moorlands Park and Moorlands addition.

There are over 103 homes either occupied or under construction and many more are contemplated for immediate construction. The improvements in Moorlands Park were completed sometime ago and the trustees at present are completing plans for beautifying the parks and parkways with trees and shrubbery. The Moorland Land Co. laid out trees in the parkways in the residence section of Moorlands Addition and have recently completed an electric street lighting system, beautiful street entrances, gateways, and are now completing the sidewalks remaining unfinished.

The few remaining residence lots are offered for immediate sale.

You Name Them!

$200.00

FOR A NAME

Twelve $200.00 Prizes

MANCHESTER HILLS is now ready for a big street naming contest, having ten beautiful, wide, streets, and two winding boulevards ready for a name. Contest closes at noon Thursday, May 26, 1927. (Only five days).

We especially want the streets and boulevards of Manchester Hills named by our friends in St. Louis and St. Louis County. For this reason we are asking them to participate in this contest.

Send your suggestions in early—get one of the twelve certificates to be issued. A $200 certificate will be issued for each name selected. Each certificate will have a value of $200 in the purchase of a lot in Manchester Hills. If an accepted name is submitted by more than one person, of course we will issue to each of them a certificate. It is, therefore, possible that more than twelve certificates will be issued. You may send in as many names as you like.

Manchester Hills is located on Manchester Road between Manchester and Baldwin, in one of the most desirable sections of St. Louis County. Write your name and address plainly and address answers to

WEBSTER GROVES A Suburb for Better Homes

Webster Groves is a "home city" enjoying an atmosphere of culture and refinement, rare indeed, in suburban developments.

In comfort, environment, recreation, Webster Groves gives you the living comfort of the ideal city home with the freedom of the great outdoors. Here are beautiful lawns, trees and quiet park-like streets of inviting charm.

Webster Groves is a town you would be proud to live in. Thoroughly American, strictly residential. There are splendid roads in all directions, adjacent to three golf clubs; fine shopping and business center, churches of all denominations, excellent schools.

We offer for your inspection some of the best homes and values in this beautiful community. You'll not be disappointed in them. Let us show you Webster Groves.

WEBSTER GROVES TRUST CO., Realtors

A SPANISH HOME GAY AND COLORFUL

In a beautiful and exclusive residential section of Webster Groves. Setting well back from the street on a wide, smooth lawn, the charming new home of buff stucco offers many things that will appeal to the discriminating home-seeker.

On the right of entrance hall is a sunken living room of generous proportions, with fireplace, book shelves and a balcony. Up two steps at the end of this delightful room is an attractive and well-arranged dining room. There is a most convenient kitchen with built-in cabinet, and breakfast room.

On second floor is a hall, 2 bright airy bedrooms and 2 beautiful tiled baths. Baths are fitted with the newest fixtures and finest plumbing.

This home is of best construction and materials. The floors are oak. Hot-water heating system with oil burner. Tile roof. Metal weather-stripped. Many new and interesting details—all which go to make this truly a wonderful home.

If you are interested in a home, this is an exceptional opportunity, for it may be purchased on small basis of $250 per month. Call WEbster 2400.

We are agents for new homes, etc., that have been built for homes where owners have moved away or for other reasons must sell. They undoubtedly will accept any reasonable offer. We can direct you quickly to where you can make the best purchase answering your requirements.

FOR INSTANCE:

616 Locksley Place, Sherwood Forest; a new 8-room house, with tiled entrance, center hall with circular stairway, with iron banister. Quite unusual in design and arrangement. Brand new, and yet conditions have developed with this Eastern man that he does not need the house. He is just in for a few days. Let him show you through or come to us for key.

229 Baker, a new 6-room house; $8500.

353 S. Gore, a hollow-tile stucco dwelling, with large living room, 2 baths, sleeping porch, hot-water heat, tile roof and the other things a house like that would naturally have. Tiled-roof garage to match the dwelling; lot 273 feet deep. Family married off, so want smaller house.

579 Ridge, a 6-room modern house on made street, for $5500, or will rent for $40. You can't beat it.

219 Sylvester, 8 rooms, 2 sleeping porches, first-floor toilet; 3-car garage; only $17,500.

426 Atlanta, 6 rooms and sleeping porch; $6500.

164 Plant, corner of Swon, must be sold to settle Kerruish estate.

WEBSTER GROVES
A Suburb for Better Homes

Webster Groves is a "home city" enjoying an atmosphere of culture and refinement, rare indeed, in suburban developments.

In comfort, environment, recreation, Webster Groves gives you the living comfort of the ideal city home with the freedom of the great outdoors. Here are beautiful lawns, trees and quiet park-like streets of inviting charm.

Webster Groves is a town you would be proud to live in. Thoroughly American, strictly residential. There are splendid roads in all directions, adjacent to three golf clubs; fine shopping and business center, churches of all denominations, excellent schools.

We offer for your inspection, some of the best homes and values in this beautiful community. You'll not be disappointed in them. Let us show you Webster Groves.

WEBSTER GROVES TRUST CO., Realtors

A SPANISH HOME
GAY AND COLORFUL

In a beautiful and exclusive residential section of Webster Groves. Setting well back from the street on a wide, smooth lawn, this charming new home of buff stucco offers many things that will appeal to the discriminating home-seeker.

On the right of entrance hall is a sunken living room of generous proportions, with fireplace, book shelves and a balcony. Up two steps at the end of this delightful room is an attractive and well-arranged dining room. There is a most convenient kitchen with built-in cabinet, and breakfast room.

On second floor is a hall, 3 bright airy bedrooms and 2 beautiful tiled baths. Baths are fitted with the newest fixtures and finest plumbing.

This home is of best construction and materials. The floors are oak. Hot-water heating system with oil burner. Tile roof. Metal weather-stripped. Many new and interesting details—all which go to make this truly a wonderful home.

If you are interested in a home, this is an exceptional opportunity, for it may be purchased on rental basis of $250 per month. Call WEbster 2400.

We are agents for new homes, etc., that have been built for homes where owners have moved away or for other reasons must sell. They undoubtedly will accept any reasonable offer. We can direct you quickly to where you can make the best purchase answering your requirements.

FOR INSTANCE:

616 Lockesley Place, Sherwood Forest; a new 8-room house, with tiled entrance, center hall with circular stairway, with iron banister. Quite unusual in design and arrangement. Brand new, and yet conditions have developed with this Eastern man that he does not need the house. He is just in for a few days. Let him show you through or come to us for key.

229 Baker, a new 6-room house; $8500.

353 S. Gore, a hollow-tile stucco dwelling, with large living room, 2 baths, sleeping porch, hot-water heat, tile roof and the other things a house like that would naturally have. Tiled-roof garage to match the dwelling; lot 273 feet deep. Family married off, so want smaller house.

579 Ridge, a 6-room modern house on made street, for $5500, or will rent for $40. You can't beat it.

219 Sylvester, 8 rooms, 2 sleeping porches, first-floor toilet; 2-car garage; only $17,500.

426 Atlanta, 6 rooms and sleeping porch; $6500.

164 Plant, corner of Swon; must be sold to settle Kerruish estate.

PASADENA PARK
What a charming name. Try it yourself, saying, "I live in Pasadena Park." Makes you kind of swell up with pride, doesn't it? Suggests exclusiveness, beauty, trees, lawns and gardens, out of the zone of the great city's noise and smoke, yet right on the edge and on the highest spot in St. Louis. This assures healthful and pleasant living. Prove this to yourself. Come prepared to spend several hours walking through the location examining the beautiful gardens and see the attractive homes. Note how invigorating the air and the odor of flowers and woodland. You will want to live in Pasadena Park, and when you come to the furnished display bungalow at 810 North Hills Drive, we will tell you how you can purchase the home you have selected on terms like rent.

GANNONDALE

This remarkable residence community cannot be described comparison with other locations. It offers beauty, conve and surroundings that are not available to owners of pensive homes, because they cannot control all the buildin their community. Few modern homes have the architec style, the master workmanship, the material value and the clusiveness of Gannondale. Each building is distinct wit own individuality, and every room in every home is homey hospitable, with an attractive outlook surrounded by lawns gardens. The several homes now offered are very attrac and we invite you to the English Manor house at 7562 C
Avenue, which is furnished complete for your inspection.

For Sale This Home at Its First Price

This beautiful home is located in one of the finest sections of the city.

All improvements are in, including shrubbery and trees. The class of owners surrounding this home is made up of bankers, lawyers, executives and retired business men.

A new and beautiful section, where you can buy at the first price instead of paying someone else the increased price in an older location.

It will be well worth your while to drive out Wydown to Hanley, then south 500 feet to Davis Place and go through this home that is now open for inspection.

FREE MAPS

for AUTOMOBILE OWNERS

HERE is an opportunity for Automobile Owners to get acquainted with the Resort and Tour Bureau of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. One map of any state in the Union will be given FREE to all who fill out and present or mail the coupon shown below. These Maps sell regularly for 10c each. If ordered by mail send 2c to cover mailing and postage costs. Only one Map will be given to any person. If more than one Map is desired the additional ones may be bought for 10c each. Atlases of the Eastern Half and of the Western Half of the United States may be bought for 50c. (By Mail 16c Extra)

Maps of Every State FREE

Free Information About Resorts and Tours

The Post-Dispatch Resort and Tour Bureau is equipped to supply information regarding resorts and tours in every section of the United States and Canada. Hotel, camp or cottage, railroad or steamship reservations will be made without charge. Last season this Bureau gave a personal service to more than 25,000 people.

The POST-DISPATCH and the Automobile Club of Missouri

The Post-Dispatch, co-operating with the Automobile Club of Missouri will supply complete route and road information kept up to date by scout cars, the telephone and the telegraph. This joint Touring Bureau, combining the wide facilities of the Post-Dispatch and the Automobile Club enables both institutions to broaden the scope of service rendered. Call at the Post-Dispatch, 12th Boulevard and Olive Street—phone MAin 1111—or at the Automobile Club, 4228 Lindell—phone LIndell 8220—for any information regarding automobile tours or road conditions.

THESE Maps were made this season especially for the Post-Dispatch by Rand, McNally & Co. Folded in a durable cover stock the Map measures 3x5 inches. The Map opened measures 12x18 inches.

The various types of roads are shown by legends. Trail and highway markings are explained. Scale of miles is indicated and all towns of any importance are shown. The maps are clearly printed — easy to read and understand.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls or answers by mail cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

R. B. H.—The Fourth of July, 1919, was a Friday.

E. O. B.—Babe Ruth plays both right and left field.

M. C. M.—If the bride-to-be has a stepmother, the invitations should be issued in her name.

A. S. D.—There is nothing better for cleaning light-colored felt hats which are only slightly soiled than dry corn meal rubbed on with a piece of clean flannel.

BOBBY.—Charles (Silver) King's name does not appear in the records of St. Louis Browns baseball team in 1885, 1886 or 1892. We have no record for 1887.

L. C. R.—The Municipal Opera Theater Association will open their ninth annual season at the Municipal Theater in Forest Park, Monday night, June 6.

DUMB.—White kid gloves may be cleaned on the hands with oatmeal and benzine, mixed to a paste. Continue rubbing until the paste drops off in dry flakes.

S. R. Y.—The Punch and Judy show is said to have been invented by Silvo Florillo, an Italian dramatist, before 1600. A Chinese version of Punch and Judy dates back to about 1000 B. C.

DAISY.—Scorch from ironing or fire may be taken from goods by first washing and boiling, then wring from suds, hang in the sun to dry; or wet in suds (hot or cold) and dry. Repeat this process until all spots have been removed.

ANXIOUS.—"Our Country, in her intercourse with foreign nations, may she always be in the right; but our country, right or wrong." The foregoing was a toast given by Stephen Decatur in April, 1816, at Norfolk.

RECENT WIDOW. — Mourning observances are all a matter of form. There is no fixed time to wear a mourning veil, usually it is worn for a year or six months. White is appropriate for mourning in summer.

STUDENT.—It is estimated by experts that the energy released in one two-thousandths of a second by the average flash of lightning is 250,000,000 horsepower, more than three times as much as could be developed by harnessing every stream in the United States.

SARAH. — Birthday cards may be exchanged between casual friends, but gifts between boys and girls should not be exchanged unless the friendship is of long standing. The propriety of giving the young man a birthday present depends upon the length of time your friendship has lasted.

LEGAL INFORMATION

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association)

EXPRESS.—You can retain possession of the child. Report the facts to the Prosecuting Attorney's office, Municipal Courts Building, Fourteenth and Market streets.

TEACHER.—You should inquire at the Board of Education, 911 Locust street, about required qualifications for teaching in St. Louis grade schools.

A FRIEND.—You can sue the people whose gas bill you stood good for, in any Justice of the Peace Court, and after getting judgment, garnish their wages.

UNLUCKY.—You can file a suit to establish that he is the father of your child. You can name the baby after his father. Consult a lawyer.

M. M.—If your notice, served about April 1, said that you would move May 15th, which is your rent day, then no further notive is necessary.

CORINE.—Consult a lawyer with regard to a suit on a contingent fee basis. Your claim, if you have one, is not outlawed, but we doubt if you can recover damages.

DUMB BELL.—If you do not know how to trace your husband, there is not much you can do. Report the facts to the police and to the Prosecuting Attorney's office, in the Municipal Courts Building, Fourteenth and Market streets.

WORRIED AND ANXIOUS.—Your present husband cannot be held liable for the lawyer's bill and his wages cannot be garnished for it. Tell the lawyer how he can collect from your former husband, by garnishment or otherwise, and he will be glad to do so.

DAN.—You can ask the Circuit Court for an order changing your name. This would probably cost from $50 to $75. If you wish to do that, consult a lawyer. It is not necessary to obtain such an order, however, as you have a right to do this if you want to.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

YOURS.—Blackheads is a disorder of the sebacious glands of the skin, characterized by yellowish or whitish pin-head sized elevations containing in their center blackish points. Very often the black points appear upon the unchanged skin. The disease is observed on the face, neck, chest and back chiefly. The affection, though comparatively trifling, is often extremely annoying to those affected. It is due in part to idiosyncrasy, in part to general sluggish performance, not only of the functions of the skin but also those of the whole body. Those affected are apt to suffer with dyspepsia and with constipation, and in young women anemia and menstrual irregularities often exist. It is pre-eminently a disease of puberty, patients being almost invariably young men and women. Local treatment in some cases suffices to relieve the condition. Frequent bathing with hot water will aid in the process of removal. Stimulating ointments, especially those containing sulphur, are useful, as the following: Precipitated sulphur, 1 drachm; rose water ointment, 1 ounce. Make into an ointment and rub into the affected surface at night. Another excellent preparation is as follows: Vinegar, 2 drachms; glycerine, 3 drachms; kalolini, 4 drachms. This forms a soft paste, to be spread on the surface at night, and, if possible in the morning. If applied to the face the eyes should be kept shut on account of the pungency of the vinegar. It dislodges the plugs satisfactorily and they should be gently expessed, care being taken not to use too much force for fear of inflaming the skin. In very obstinate cases the X-ray, carefully applied, will cure. A tonic internal treatment is sometimes called for.

Leo McAtee, the Cullen & Kelly Undertaking Co. and all the members of the St. Louis Fire Department, Engine Company No. 25. THE CHILDREN. (c)

To all our relatives and friends we wish to extend our sincerest thanks and heartfelt gratitude for their kind expressions of sympathy as well as the beautiful floral offerings tendered us in the time of sorrow caused by the death of our beloved mother, mother-in-law and grandmother, Mrs. Olivia Winkler.

Especially do we wish to thank Father O. T. Siesener for his prayers and benediction, the pallbearers, St. Anne's Mothers Society of St. Agatha's Church, Third Order of St. Francis, St. Vincent's Orphans Society, St. Agatha's School Society and Ziegenhein Brothers for their friendly assistance and services.
THE BEREAVED WINKLER FAMILY. (c)

IN MEMORIAM

In sacred memory of our darling son and dear brother, James Albert Gazzolo, who departed this life one year ago today.

In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Ida Anthony, who departed this life three years ago, May 19, 1924. May her soul rest in peace. Sadly missed by SON AND DAUGHTERS.

In memory of our darling mother, Katherine Watson, died May 23, 1924.
Just a line of sweet remembrance,
Just a memory fond and true,
Just a token of love's devotion
That our hearts still long for you.
HUSBAND AND CHILDREN.

In memory of my dear wife and mother, Amanda Troutman, who departed this life May 17, 1924. No one knows how much we miss you, as we gather by the grave of our darling wife and mother, whom we tried so hard to save. Sadly missed by HUSBAND, CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Anna Boding, who died May 21, 1926:
One long year has passed away,
Since that most sad and mournful day,
When God alone who knows the best,
Called her to that home of rest.
Sadly missed by
JOHN BODING AND CHILDREN. (c)

In memory of Mrs. Olive Stanton, who died May 24, 1926:
What is home without a mother?
All the things the world may send
For when we lost our mother,
We lost our dearest friend:
She wore the crown of patience
Through the years she struggled on,
And the hands that rest forever
Are the hands that made our home.
Sadly missed by
CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN. (c)

In memory of our beloved brother, Fred W. Wolf, who died May 21, 1925.
His smiling way and pleasant face are a pleasure to recall:
He had a kindly word for each and died beloved by all.
Some day we hope to meet him,
Some day, we know not when;
Clasp his hand in the better land, never to part again.
Sadly missed by brother and sisters.

In memory of Kate Stuve.
What is home without a mother
All the things the world may send
For when we lost our mother,
We lost our dearest friend.
She wore the crown of patience
Through the years she struggled on,
And the hands that rest forever,
Are the hands that made our home.
Sadly missed by
CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN. (c)

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Frank J. Schmitt, who died May 24, 1923:
In the graveyard, softly sleeping,
Where the flowers gently wave,
Lies the one whom we loved so dearly
And tried so hard to save.
The God who gave has taken,
And heaven our son has won;
Although your hearts are aching,
The will of God is done.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER, SISTERS, BROTHERS, SWEETHEART and all who loved him.
Mass at 8 o'clock, May 23, at Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church.

WANTED—GENERAL MANAGER FOR 15 CHAIN DRY GOODS STORES.
We have an excellent opportunity for a good man as general manager who knows from experience how to act as a general manager of 15 successful chain dry goods stores. The man we desire will live in one of the large cities of the Southwest and manage these stores amidst pleasant surroundings. We require some little investment so as to insure whole-hearted interest in the business. Investment need not be large and the size of it is not essential, as we do not require a manager because of capital requirements. This proposition is amply financed. Reply to box J-259, Post-Dispatch, giving full details as to your qualifications.

BIGGER INCOME

Through famous Goodwill tailor-made clothes sold direct to wearer. Set your own prices; make extraordinary profits; free outfit. GOODWILL TAILORS, Cincinnati.

DRESS SALESMEN

Competent, with ready-to-wear selling experience; in established territory, to handle the celebrated line of Olian dresses on commission and salary basis. Very attractive proposition. Application and interview confidential. OLIAN DRESS CO., 1105 Washington. (c)

SALESMEN WANTED

SALESMAN and MANAGER for Large CHICAGO CORPORATION Just Opening in ST. LOUIS

One of our executives will spend week from May 22d to 28th in St. Louis. We want to meet a few high-class salesmen accustomed to earning $500 or more weekly. People called on from our leads are usually wealthy. In Chicago our men are earning from $300 to $1000 weekly now, and their earnings will increase during next four months. You will be required to make trip to Chicago May 28 (transportation our expense) and then a trip twice monthly. We are interested only in interviewing men who can meet big men and discuss with them intelligently a problem that confronts every man of average wealth. Men well connected socially given preference. Please write in confidence, give your age, religion, club and fraternal affiliations. If interview not granted your letter will be returned to you. We want a few good men, and one will shortly qualify for managership. We will open Kansas City, Tulsa, Memphis, Dallas, New Orleans, Houston, Louisville and Indianapolis. Men from these cities please reply. This advertisement has not appeared before. Box C-306, Post-Dispatch.

Sincere Dominant Salesmen

The man we want is one who can demand attention and respect from chief executives and can show recent selling activity. He must be between the ages of 28 and 40.

To such a man we can offer a permanent connection, exclusive territory, quick earning capacity and backing of a national organization.

I will interview privately and employ three men for nearby territories, so do not consider this unless you are prepared to start at once.

I have no stocks, bonds, books or insurance, but an opportunity which you will immediately recognize after talking it over with me.

Telephone or write
Harry Glascock, Mayfair Hotel.

SALESMEN WANTED
We want salesmen of proved ability and good personal character, reliable and resourceful—with a clean successful record of outside selling experience, and a following of their own IN THE DRUG AND HOTEL FIELD.

Our well-known Sanitary Postage Machines are installed on a profit-sharing basis, AT NO EXPENSE TO THE MERCHANTS. Our salesmen receive a generous flat commission for placing the machines—then a continuous percentage of profits, accruing from each machine, for servicing, supervising and collecting the profits.

Every machine installed adds to the agent's month-to-month profits and to the permanency of his income. Our representatives are making from $50 to $125 a week from the start, and are building up permanent incomes of $3000 to $6000 annually.

Our SANITARY POSTAGE MACHINES ARE BECOMING AS POPULAR AS TELEPHONE PAY STATIONS. There are many possible locations for our machines. Thousands of neighborhood drug stores and such chain-store companies as the Louis K. Liggett Co. and the Owl Drug Co. are using our service.

The merchants want our clean, quick and profitable service as it relieves them of the trouble, loss and expense in selling stamps "over the counter." The public appreciate not only the convenience of self-service extended to them but also the sanitary feature of the service, inasmuch as our machines deliver postage stamps automatically, DIRECT FROM GOVERNMENTAL PRESSES TO USER, unhandled by anyone.

TO QUALIFY AS REPRESENTATIVE, applicants must own and operate a car, and be able to devote their entire time exclusively to our work. Send us immediately full information about yourself, giveng age, single or married; complete business and sales record for the past 5 years; at least three business and three personal references; your photograph, if possible.

Unless you give us the above information in detail, and are ready to start work as soon as you are appointed, do not waste your time by replying.

Address SANITARY POSTAGE SERVICE CORPORATION, 285 Madison av., New York City; attention A. J. Sack, vice president. (c1)

NOTICE
Property Owners Investors
SALESMEN

The Davis Realty and Mortgage Company has arranged to conduct a real estate school to give property owners and investors, as well as salesmen, an opportunity to learn the true conditions of real estate as they exist in St. Louis today.

Come in. You may want to sell part time, if you cannot devote your entire time, or you may be a property owner or investor who would like to know something more about your investment or home in St. Louis.

There will be some startling facts presented. It is free to the people of St. Louis.

It will pay you to attend the meeting Tuesday evening, May 24, 1927, 8 o'clock, at the office of the Davis Realty and Mortgage Company, ground floor, 11th and Locust streets.

You are under no obligation in attending these meetings. Professional men are especially invited. Tuesday, May 24, 1927, at 8 p. m.

THEY MAKE MONEY

One of our salesmen is averaging more than $2000 a month in commissions. Three men averaged over $1000 each during the past thirty days, others making better than $500 a month. Why? Because they are selling land adjacent to General Electric Plant—the most attractive real estate investment we have ever known in our 20 years in St. Louis. We furnish our men good live leads, good prospects created by our newspaper and mail advertising campaign. We believe the time of a good salesman is too valuable to waste in tramping the streets hunting prospects. Can use three more good men. See me between 10 and 2.

ST. LOUIS FIRST SAW PLANE FLY 171-2 YEARS AG

Small Group in Forest P Watched Glenn H. C tiss Rise 30 Feet Fr Ground.

Seventeen and a half years a little group of spectators western Forest Park, after days failure and disappointment, saw strange motor contrivance some 30 feet from the ground, over a clump of trees and space, and rescend a few dred feet from the starting

They rushed to the place of cent, crowded about the aviat Glenn H. Curtiss, and congratulated him on what was, to them final proof that man had quered the air. It was St. Lo first view of aviation, and the afternoon of Oct. 9, 1909, last day of the St. Louis Munic Centennial celebration.

If someone had then "How long before a flyer will from the Pacific coast, fly to Louis, then to New York, and to Paris?" Curtiss would have said, "just a few years." the others, even in their ment over the demonstration had seen, would have shaken heads.

While a few persons saw Curtiss succeed in his Forest flight, many had seen him fail viously, and the tradition sists that Curtiss, in his centen celebration appearance "never got off the ground." was then a widespread disbelief that anyone had flown or would so. News movies, though known, did not have the vogue carry the conviction, that now do. Newspaper readers been following the experiments Wilbur and Orville Wright Kitty Hawk, N. C., and had read Curtiss' flight, three months before his St. Louis visit, at Mineola, I. In the case of any other this would have convinced but many simply had to see in order to believe it.

St. Louis got its first big destroying demonstration the lowing year. On the late afternoon of Sept. 10, 1910, Capt. Thomas Scott Baldwin, 49 old, a veteran hot-air balloon and parachute jumper, flew heavy red plane along the front from Baden to Carondelet and return, and passed first and then under Eads and McKinley bridges, a feat very repeated since. The Post-Dispatch had arranged for the flight, engaged, not Baldwin, but Harmon, who had sent Baldwin his substitute.

That thrilling scene on the front aroused an enthusiasm flying, and the first St. Louis meet, held at Kinloch Park, Louis County, in October, was a notable success. There iting flyers took the air in traptions in which no one, or otherwise, would now risk life or limb. Another and meet was held in 1911, and Hoxsey, an "ace" of that day, the distinction of taking Col. dore Roosevelt on his first air There was almost equal public terest in Hoxsey's flight with Dozier, wealthy patron of and aviation, as his passenger.

Real flying, in planes of the present type, came the next two years. Soon county fair had its aviation ture, and the lingering skeptic of the countryside was over With the coming of the World in 1914, military aviation came the front, and the designing construction work was begun led to the building, three later, of American war plane British war aviators, in a visit in 1917, showed Forest crowds feats which had not seen here before.

What the BULLETS TELL in the Sacco-Vanzetti Case

An Analysis of the Testimony Given by the Small Arms Experts Which Proved So Important in the Conviction of the Two Massachusetts Radicals.

Judge Webster Thayer.

By FRANK P. SIBLEY

A Well-Known Boston Journalist

BOSTON, Massachusetts.

WHEN Judge Webster Thayer on April 9 pronounced sentence of death by electrocution upon Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti for the murder of Frederic Parmenter and Alessandro Berardelli, paymaster and special policeman, on April 15, 1920—within a few weeks of seven years ago—his words woke echoes round the world.

Scores of thousands of people sent messages of protest to Governor Fuller of Massachusetts. Such people had apparently accepted the ex parte statements of friends of the defendants as the facts—as dangerous a conclusion as that of the other side, who believed that the courts can do no wrong, and that juries are infallible.

Comparatively few people have taken the trouble to seek information from unprejudiced persons who know the facts of the trial of these men. This is partly because there are so few unprejudiced people; even those who attended the trial, starting without prejudice, speedily became partisans. The writer of the present article reported the Sacco-Vanzetti case for the Boston Globe, and attended every session; attended most of the hearings that have followed through the six years these men have waited in prison for their sentence, and reported the arguments before the Supreme Court.

One question frequently asked by honest seekers for the truth in the Sacco-Vanzetti case has been: "Did not the Government prove beyond a doubt that a bullet taken from the body of one of the murdered men had been fired from the pistol which was found in Sacco's possession?"

If this had been the case, there could have been no doubt as to the justice of the verdict. If it could be shown beyond a reasonable doubt that Sacco's pistol had fired the so-called mortal bullet, no identifications, no "consciousness of guilt," would have been needed. That one fact alone would have settled the fact of Sacco's guilt.

THERE was a production of doubt, and this was done by expert evidence—and was aided when one of the State's witnesses later confessed that he had deceived the Court and the jury as to his opinion.

Parmenter and Berardelli were shot just after 3 p. m. on April 15, 1920, as they were carrying the payroll of more than $15,000 from the office to the factory of Slater & Morrill Shoe Company in South Braintree, Mass.

At the autopsies, two bullets were found to have pierced the body of Parmenter, and six wounds were found on Berardelli. As the medical examiner described the wounds and the bullets that killed Berardelli, he fixed upon "Bullet No. 3" as the fatal bullet.

This was a .32-caliber bullet intended for use in an automatic pistol, and the Government centered upon the identification of this bullet.

A witness of the murder, James Bostock, found on the ground where it occurred four empty cartridge shells, which he gave to Thomas F. Fraher, a superintendent in the shoe factory. These shells Mr. Fraher turned over to Captain William H. Proctor of the State police, who first handled the investigation of the crime.

Captain Proctor was the first witness of the State concerning the identification of bullets and shells. He testified that he had been in the Department of Public Safety for 23 years, and a Captain for 16 years; that he had testified in more than 100 capital cases; that he had examined all the cartridges and pistols that appertained to any particular case, had pushed bullets through the barrels of pistols, and had measured grooves and lands in pistol barrels.

Of the four shells given him by Fraher, Captain Proctor said, two were Peters shells, one was a Remington U. M. C., and the fourth a Winchester W. R. A. shell.

When he received Sacco's pistol, five cartridges were in it; three were Remington U. M. C. cartridges and two were United States Cartridge Company cartridges.

THEN came the bullets taken from Berardelli's body. No. 1 bullet, Captain Proctor testified, was, in his opinion, of Winchester make, and he believed it had been fired through a .32-caliber Savage pistol, because the grooves on the bullet made by the lands in the barrel were .035 of an inch wide, and the rifling had a right-hand twist.

Four other bullets were from a Savage, he thought, but the "fatal bullet," No. 3, he believed was fired through a Colt automatic of .32-caliber. It had a left-hand twist marked on it, and the lands had cut grooves .060 of an inch wide.

He said that he and Captain Van Amburgh, the other expert witness for the State, at Lowell had fired 14 experimental shots through Sacco's .32-caliber Colt automatic into sawdust, whence the bullets were recovered. These bullets and the empty shells later became important exhibits in the case.

He said that three of the shells he had received from Mr. Fraher were, in his opinion, fired from the same weapon, and one shell was fired from a different weapon. This was the Winchester W. R. A. shell, and he based his opinion on "the looks of the hole" made by the firing pin of the pistol in the primer of the cartridge.

Then came a question from the Assistant District Attorney who was examining this witness, which later seemed to be framed as part of a careful sequence of questions. "Taking that one Winchester shell," he said, "and comparing it with six shells fired by you and Captain Van Amburgh; in your opinion, are the marks on all seven consistent with being fired from the same weapon?"

"I think so," said Captain Proctor, "the same make of weapon."

Nobody in the courtroom noticed either the lawyer's use of the word "consistent," nor Captain Proctor's evasion of the statement that the cartridges had been fired from the same weapon by saying "the same make of weapon."

Then came the question, "Have you an opinion as to whether Bullet No. 3 was fired from the Colt pistol which is in evidence?" (This was the pistol taken from Sacco.)

"I have," said the witness.

"And what is your opinion?"

"My opinion is that it is consistent with being fired from that pistol."

THE next questions, having got "consistent" in, seemed directed, when understood, towards getting it out again.

"Is there anything different in the appearance of the other five bullets (those other than No. 3) which would indicate to you that they were fired from more than one weapon?"

"There is not."

"Are the appearance of those bullets consistent with being fired from the same weapon?"

"As far as I can see."

"Captain, did you understand my question when I asked you if you had an opinion whether the five bullets were fired from the same gun?"

"I would not say positively."

"Well, have you an opinion?"

"I have."

"Well, that is what I asked you before. I thought you didn't understand. What is your opinion as to the gun from which those were fired?"

"My opinion is, all five were fired from the same gun."

It sounded like the ordinary straightening out of a clouded point, done with frankness and sincerity by the District Attorney. One reporter, the present writer, noticed that the Captain had said he believed the five bullets came from one gun, but that he had not said that he believed the No. 3 bullet came from Sacco's gun. It was not possible in a news report to comment on this, in Massachusetts, and even to point it out in this particular case would have placed the reporter under suspicion of being an associate attorney for the defense. No Boston paper remarked on the difference, though the point was vital.

THIS trial took place in June of 1921, more than a year after the murder. In the spring of 1923, Captain Proctor, who died not very long afterwards, made an astonishing affidavit for the defendants.

He declared that when he examined the No. 3 bullet, the Fraher shell and the Sacco pistol, he found absolutely no evidence that made him think the No. 3 bullet had come from Sacco's pistol. He swore that he had told the District Attorney this, and had said that if he were asked the question on the stand, he would be obliged to say he saw no reason whatever to believe that Sacco's pistol fired the No. 3 bullet.

This, of course, placed the District Attorney in a predicament. The defense knew that Captain Proctor had made the examination, and if he were not put on by the Government, the defendants would promptly call for him. In his affidavit, Captain Proctor told how, to relieve this situation, he and the District Attorney agreed upon a form of words that he could use. He agreed to say that the bullet was "consistent" with having been fired through that pistol; his mental reservation was that it was a bullet of .32 caliber, and that it had been fired through some Colt automatic. He would never have said that it came through Sacco's, because he didn't believe it did.

This explained the use of the word "consistent" before the direct question was asked, the repetition of it as to the other five bullets, and then the change to a direct opinion that the other five bullets actually did come from one weapon.

THE second expert for the Government was Captain Charles Van Amburgh, an assistant in the Remington U. M. C. company, who testified that the No. 3 bullet was fired from a Colt automatic, basing his opinion on the left-hand twist and the width of the land-marks. The other five bullets, he said, were all fired from one weapon, and he thought — because of peculiar markings on all of them —that that weapon was a Savage automatic.

Coming to the shells, he said there was a "very strong similarity" between the Fraher W. R. A. shell and the three that were fired through Sacco's pistol in the test, in that on all of them the firing pin indentation on the primer of the shells was a little off center. There was also a slight "set-back," a flowing back of the metal round the point of the firing pin. Then he was asked the direct question:

"Have you formed an opinion, Captain, as to whether the No. 3 bullet was fired from that particular Colt automatic?"

"I am inclined to believe that it was fired, this No. 3 bullet, from this Colt automatic pistol."

He said, supporting this opinion, that bullets fired from this pistol showed a long streak, close to the land-mark, made by a "rough track" which he pointed out inside the barrel of Sacco's gun, and caused by a rust pit in the barrel. The edge of this pit would score a mark on a passing bullet, and some of the metal patch of the bullet would be left on the inside of the barrel. There was "quite a collection" of pits in the barrel, but he thought one was markedly prominent. On cross-examination he admitted that the location of the pit, in the angle where the land rose from the groove of the barrel, was the ordinary place where pits occur in any gun not carefully cleaned.

This was the total expert evidence offered by the Government at the trial itself. The defendants put on James E. Burns, ballistic engineer for the U. S. Cartridge Co. for 30 years.

He identified the No. 3 bullet as a Winchester bullet, which could have been fired from either a Colt or a Bayard pistol; it bore the characteristics of having been fired from a Colt, but he couldn't swear that it was, because the bullet had been deformed.

He said the bullet showed an "imperfect land," that the groove on the bullet was wider at the top, or front end, than at the bottom.

He explained that a bullet starts from the "chamber," passes through the "throat" and into the "lead" of the gun, before it reaches the actual rifling. If the "lead" is fouled by metal, or corroded, on one side, the passing bullet is upset when it passes the corroded spot, and only later conforms to the true lands.

He showed six bullets which he himself had fired through Sacco's pistol, and pointed out that not one of them exhibited the deformity of the No. 3 bullet. And, finally, he gave the opinion that the No. 3 bullet was not fired through Sacco's gun.

The five other bullets, which the State witnesses ascribed to Savage pistols, Mr. Burns thought might have been fired from a Steyer gun, a foreign pistol, as the Bayard is.

He dealt with Captain Van Amburgh's citation of the flow-back of metal round the point of the firing pin by saying that this is usual, and one may get or not get it, all the time using the same ammunition. As to the indentation being off center, he said it is practically impossible to get a plumb center blow, owing partly to the flow-back, partly to the contour of the "anvil" in the primer, and partly to the necessary five or six-thousandths of an inch toleration in the cartridges themselves.

As to the scoring of the bullet by a pit in the barrel, he said he had with him 100 bullets that had been fired through ten pitted barrels, and that they could not be identified one from another.

THE next defense expert was J. Henry Fitzgerald, in charge of the factory's testing room. He also said he believed bullet No. 3 was not fired from Sacco's pistol, and that the land-marks on it did not correspond to those on test bullets which he had seen fired. He called attention to the "slippage" at the forward end of the land-mark, and said that no slippage was pronounced on the test bullets. Nor did he see any pitting marks on the No. 3 bullet that would correspond with a bullet coming from Sacco's pistol.

Later in the trial, a volunteer witness, an expert, appeared for the defense, adding his opinion that bullet No. 3 could not be connected with Sacco's pistol.

This was all the expert evidence offered at the trial. Nearly two years later the present writer, coming back from a murder trial in Maine, fell into conversation in the train with Albert H. Hamilton, the gun expert who had testified in that trial. The reporter described what had been testified in the Sacco-Vanzetti case, whereupon Mr. Hamilton declared that on the face of it the No. 3 bullet could not have come from Sacco's pistol. Later, he got into touch with the defense counsel in the Sacco-Vanzetti case, and was engaged to make an examination.

He did this, checking his own observations by having Augustus H. Gill of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology make a set of measurements independently. At a hearing on the motions for a new trial, Mr. Hamilton went exhaustively into the matter of measurements on a micrometric scale. He was answered by Captain Van Amburgh, and Judge Thayer denied the motions in toto.

Saved Eighteen Children But Lost Her Own Life

Annie Keller, the Illinois Country School Teacher, Thought Only of Her Pupils When the Great Storm Struck.

By GUY FORSHEY
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff

CARROLLTON, Illinois.

ANNIE LOUISE KELLER was an average girl who grew up in an average small town and became an average district school teacher. During her 25 years, few opportunities for her to be anything else ever came her way. There was nothing to distinguish her from thousands of other small-town girls and country teachers. She never thought of herself as a heroine or a potential heroine. Neither did her acquaintances. If they ever thought about the matter at all, they mused vaguely that Annie Keller would give a pretty good account of herself in any situation confronting her, but they did not offer conjecture concerning her potentialities. Those who knew her at all, knew her well, and people, as a rule, don't attribute exceptional possibilities to persons they know well.

The opportunity for Annie Keller to show herself a heroine came only once. That was enough. Out of the Southwest it came with a rush and a roar on the wings of a tornado. There was only an instant to think. But in that instant she made the best decision she knew how to make and acted upon it. When her schoolhouse came down upon her, a swirling mass of storm wreckage, she died without even realizing her act had saved the lives of 18 children. Indeed, it is probable that in the last fleeting moment of her consciousness she felt she had failed, for the odds were against her and the screams of her pupils were in her ears. She was dead when it became known her desperate effort had succeeded. She knew only that she had made the effort.

FROM the site where the ill-fated Centerville School stood, three miles southwest of here, they are clearing away the debris now, to make room for a new building. To the memory of Annie Keller it will be a monument. A bronze tablet will be placed in the wall to commemorate her deed of self-sacrifice on that April day when she huddled her children on the floor and met her own fate standing over them. Before teachers and pupils of the future it will loom as an object lesson of devotion. Acquaintances remember her as a heroine now. For 25 years they scarcely suspected the quality of her courage, but they are recalling that they might have expected it of her after all. "We can see now," they say, "that it was just like Annie."

Melancholy is the scene at the bend of the road where stood the old Centerville School. Of all the structures in the path of the tornado which swept across Central Illinois on the afternoon of April 19, leaving 23 human victims and hundreds of devastated homes in its wake, none suffered demolition more complete than that which befell the aged one-room brick building. Since 1848 it had stood there, housing generation after generation of the district's youth. Its walls were becoming cracked and moldy in spots. It was dingy and weatherbeaten. It was growing feeble. But it was still stanch enough to withstand any ordinary windstorm, and pridefully it was pointed out by the residents as the best-equipped country school in this part of the State.

Virginia Powell, one of the pupils.

Today the spot where it braved the storms for 79 years is marked by a twisted and mangled heap of rubbish. Only at the southeast and southwest corners remains a semblance of a wall. Loose brick, shattered framework, splintered joists and strips of tin roofing cover the floor and the ground. Five little desks emerge pathetically from the litter. It sprawls as an exhibit of storm ravage at its worst.

HOW any human being caught under that deluge of wreckage lived to tell the tale, or, at most, escaped without several broken bones, is a problem which gives pause to the observer viewing the remains of Centerville School. But 18 children actually accomplished that extraordinary feat. Thanks to the presence of mind of Annie Keller, every child in the building got out alive and none even suffered injury more serious than bruises and minor lacerations.

The noon hour had just arrived and 18 of Miss Keller's pupils were busy with their lunch baskets when the storm of April 19 was unleashed upon this section of the country. Three of the larger children residing nearby had gone home for lunch. The others, ranging in age from 6 to 13, had been held indoors by the heavy rain, with hail intermingled, which had started falling shortly before the lunch period. Miss Keller, who boarded at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eldred Thomas, a quarter of a mile west, had brought her lunch also and remained with them. It was too wet even for the boys to venture out to play, so when they finished their lunches they stood at the windows amusing themselves by watching the rain and hail driving across the fields.

Suddenly there came a lull in the rainstorm and the sky grew blacker. A burst of wind lashed the big maple trees in front of the schoolhouse. Then several of the children at the west windows saw something that told them a tornado was upon them. A few yards west of the schoolhouse stood a small frame building used as a coal shed. It went down in a heap. Boards were torn off and hurled against the schoolhouse. Over the fields toward Eldred Thomas' place to the west the air was filled with flying debris. They couldn't see the Thomas home and knew nothing of what was going on beyond. But they saw enough. They cried out that a cyclone was coming.

Farm house near the school.

Miss Keller, watching the storm with the children, was on the other side of the building when the coal shed collapsed. She hurried to the west windows at their cries. The schoolhouse already was quivering. There was time for but one command. Dashing to the south end of the building, she screamed for the children to follow and throw themselves down on the floor. When the smaller ones, terrified and bewildered, were slow she seized them and dragged them back.

All of this consumed but a few seconds. It couldn't have consumed more, for not more than 10 seconds elapsed between the fall of the coal shed and the collapse of the schoolhouse itself. From the southwest the tornado was coming with the speed of a fast train. The United States Weather Bureau at Springfield later estimated its rate of travel forward as 59 miles an hour and its swirling, twisting movement anywhere from 300 to 500 miles an hour. The coal shed was caught by the outer reaches of that roaring vortex and the center of the twister was perhaps only a quarter of a mile behind.

It was that devastating center which passed directly over the schoolhouse. Had the building stood 200 yards to the north, south, east or west, it might have escaped, for the path of greatest destruction was only about 400 yards across. But it stood on the spot where it had weathered storms for 79 years and on that fateful day that spot was doomed.

IF ANY part of a building is safer than any other part in such a tornado, it is that part in the direction from which the storm approaches. If the storm is coming from the southwest, for instance, and the occupants of a building crouch low in the southwest corner, the possibility is greater that the bulk of the debris will be hurled over their heads.

Annie Keller had little time to reason this out. In one split second she sensed it as she rushed across the room. But had she taken all day to think it over she couldn't have made a better decision. She had carried it out when the building came down. Or, she had almost carried it out. The last child was on the floor. She, herself, was still standing, like an officer who had got his men in cover. Almost in the center of the south end of the room she stood directly in front of the door. It seemed as if she were intent upon protecting the children further with her body or blocking their flight through the door. The frame of the doorway, hurled down with the crumbling building, caught her as she stood there.

Virginia Powell, 12 years old, was nearest to her when the building fell. Virginia had been at a west window and had cried out a warning when the coal shed collapsed. She had then followed the teacher to the south end of the schoolhouse and had thrown herself on the floor with her 6-year-old brother, Howard.

"All I heard her say," Virginia told me, "was for us to lie on the floor. Then when the frame of the doorway struck her I heard her cry 'Oh!' I was caught under a pile of bricks and couldn't get to her. I called to her and she didn't answer."

Robert and Thomas Black and Howard Hobson, who reside on farms a few hundred yards away, were the first to reach the scene of the disaster. The Blacks had seen the schoolhouse fall. Hobson was at his noonday meal and had not seen the storm strike, but when he had struggled free from the wreckage of his father's home he looked first to see what had been the fate of the schoolhouse. A good reason he had for that. Annie Keller was his fiancee. He had taken the civil service examination and they were to have been married as soon as he got a position that would avert the necessity of taking his bride to live on a farm.

Across the fields the three men came running from opposite directions. It was a distressing scene that awaited them. A few of the children who had managed to squirm out of the debris were screaming and running wildly this way and that, too frightened to talk. Some had run like frightened deer into the fields. Two or three game little fellows of 10 or 12 were staying with the wreck trying to dig some of their mates out of the rubbish. Half a dozen or more were pinned down under heaps of brick, plaster, framework and blackboards. They were wet with the rain and their faces were bleeding from cuts. All were screaming from pain and fright. The teacher alone was quiet. When the three men had dug their way to the spot where she lay, her face in a pile of bricks, she was dead. Her neck was broken. They found the frame of the doorway lying across her body.

BY THE time the rescuers had recovered the teacher's body, several other farmers had arrived, on foot, on horseback and in buggies and wagons. As the children were dug out they were loaded up in the vehicles and hauled away to their homes or nearby farmhouses for examination of their injuries. Miss Keller's body was put in a buggy and taken to the Thomas home. It was more than two hours before a physician arrived and pronounced her dead, but it was already apparent that she was dead, and, in the stress of disaster, efforts were centered more on caring for the children and searching for those who were missing. Nobody seemed to know exactly how many children were in the building or how many had got free and run away. There lingered the fear that still other bodies were buried under the ruins and the rescuers kept digging until all the 21 pupils were finally rounded up or accounted for.

Telephone lines were all paralyzed by the tornado, so Carrollton didn't learn of the wrecking of the Centerville School until William Hobson rode into the town on horseback bringing the news and searching for doctors. Four physicians hurried to the scene, but they were forced to travel on horseback and in wagons. Muddy roads had made the use of automobiles impossible. They dressed the injuries of the children and examined the body of the teacher. Besides a broken neck, which had caused almost instantaneous death, she had suffered a fractured collarbone and a broken right arm. The doctors then hurried on to relieve other sufferers and the farmers went to their ruined homes.

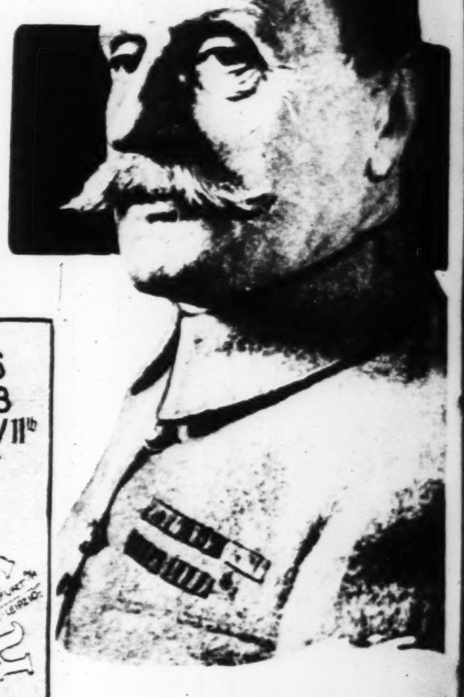
ANNIE KELLER'S funeral was held two days later at White Hall, 11 miles north of here. White Hall was her home. With her mother, Mrs. Nora Keller, and a younger sister, Mary, also a district school teacher, she had lived there since 1914, when they moved to town from a farm following the death of Annie's father. Everybody knew her in White Hall and hers was the largest funeral the town had ever seen. More than 1000 persons were in the procession which led from the Methodist Church to the cemetery and the floral tributes were so profuse that a large truck was needed to carry the wreaths to the cemetery.

Besides the bronze tablet which will appear in the new Centerville School, a monument will be erected in her home town to perpetuate the story of Annie Keller. An Annie Keller Memorial organization has been formed by the White Hall Historical Society and subscriptions are being taken for both projects. Both in White Hall and in the Centerville District, where she had taught for three terms, there is considerable agitation in favor of changing the name of the school from Centerville to the "Annie Keller School." Parents and pupils remember her with deep affection. She was talkative and jolly and light-hearted. She was a good teacher and she was always doing something for somebody else. As to her heroic qualities, they hadn't given much thought. Neither had she. She hadn't had much chance to be a heroine. But when the emergency arose it took her less than 10 seconds to prove herself.

Foch Describes Final Days of the War

The Moral Effect of the American Victory at Saint Mihiel Was Incalculable, Says the Allied Commander-in-Chief in His Personal Narrative of the Great Conflict.

Marshal Foch and General Pershing.



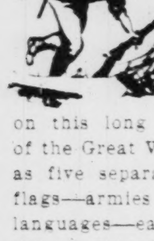
Ferdinand Foch.

THIS is the second of a series of three personal narratives by commanders of the World War. In this issue Marshal Foch, Commander-in-Chief of all the Allied forces, tells how American troops saved the day during the crucial months of 1918.

In a forthcoming issue the German Crown Prince will tell the story of the military fiasco behind the defeat of the Central Powers.

By MARSHAL FERDINAND FOCH

(As told to Bernard Desouches, official liaison officer between the French Army and the American Air Service in France)



IT TOOK the allies nearly four years to achieve unity of command on the western front, which ran through Belgium and France, from the North Sea to the Alps. At one time, on this long line, the main theater of the Great War, there were as many as five separate armies, under five flags—armies speaking five different languages—each absolutely independent of the other, but all battling against one enemy.

The Belgians in Flanders, the British along the Somme, the French in Champagne, the Americans in the Vosges, and the Italians in the Alps—all were masters of their own destinies. But there was no master of the military destiny of the allies as a whole. And for the long lack of such a master the war was unduly prolonged and the allied cause repeatedly threatened with defeat.

Toward the end of 1916, as the number of allies increased and their battle equipment improved, a still greater need of a single command became manifest.

Because of the growing defeat, the heads of the French and British Governments went to Italy and met the Italian Government at Rapallo. On November 7, 1917, the three governments agreed to create a "Higher Council of War" composed of the French, British and Italian Prime Ministers, each assisted by a military representative.

The purpose of this higher council of war was the co-ordination of military action on the western European front and the supervision of the general conduct of the war. It was to hold meetings in Versailles.

Fortunately, the American, British, French and Italian generals composing the technical division of the higher council of war were all convinced of the absolute necessity for a single command, but their governments would not consent. As for General Bliss, the American representative, ever since his arrival in France during November, 1917, he had openly agitated for a single military command.

ON MARCH 21, 1918, at 4 o'clock in the morning a deafening clash of thunder suddenly broke along the French front from Arras to Noyon. The German artillery was coming into action along a line 65 miles long.

The Central Powers were beginning the offensive that was to win the war. Due to the crumbling of the eastern front following the Russian bolshevik revolution, Germany was able to concentrate all her forces in the west. With a great superiority of men, the German commanders were determined to destroy the allied armies before the United States could throw enough men into France to give the allies a numerical advantage.

For five hours the German artillery hammered our positions. It annihilated our defenses. It killed thousands of courageous defenders. It extended its deadly work for six miles behind the battle line, poisoning the whole countryside with shells containing asphyxiating gases.

At 9 o'clock, under cover of a dense fog, fifty divisions of the enemy, a half million men, united in a concentrated, ferocious attack upon the disordered allied trenches. The British and French armies were facing the most formidable onslaught of the whole war.

On the evening of March 25 the opinion prevailed in the British General Staff, as I afterward learned, that the aid afforded the British by the French was insufficient, and that in order to increase it, as well as augment the speed with which it was given, a chief was required to take charge of the combined forces.

Such was the situation when we met on the following day at Doullens, a small, quiet town about 30 kilometers north of Amiens.

By virtue of an agreement, known to history as the agreement of Doullens, I was commissioned by the British and French governments "to co-ordinate the action of the allied armies on the western front."

On the afternoon of March 28 I was at a small town in the department of Oise, then the headquarters of the Third French army. Here General Pershing met me, and, with a generosity I shall never forget, said:

"AT THIS critical moment there is no question of any importance except that of fighting. Infantry, artillery, aviation—all we have is yours to do with as you please. I have come to tell you that the American people will be proud to participate in the greatest battle of history."

And General Bliss, who later represented America at Versailles, expressed a like sentiment. He said:

"We are here to get killed. What is keeping you from making use of us?"

Thus the United States, prevented by the urgency of circumstances from participating in the agreement of Doullens, indicated their full and entire approval. What a noble gesture! What an admirable impulse!

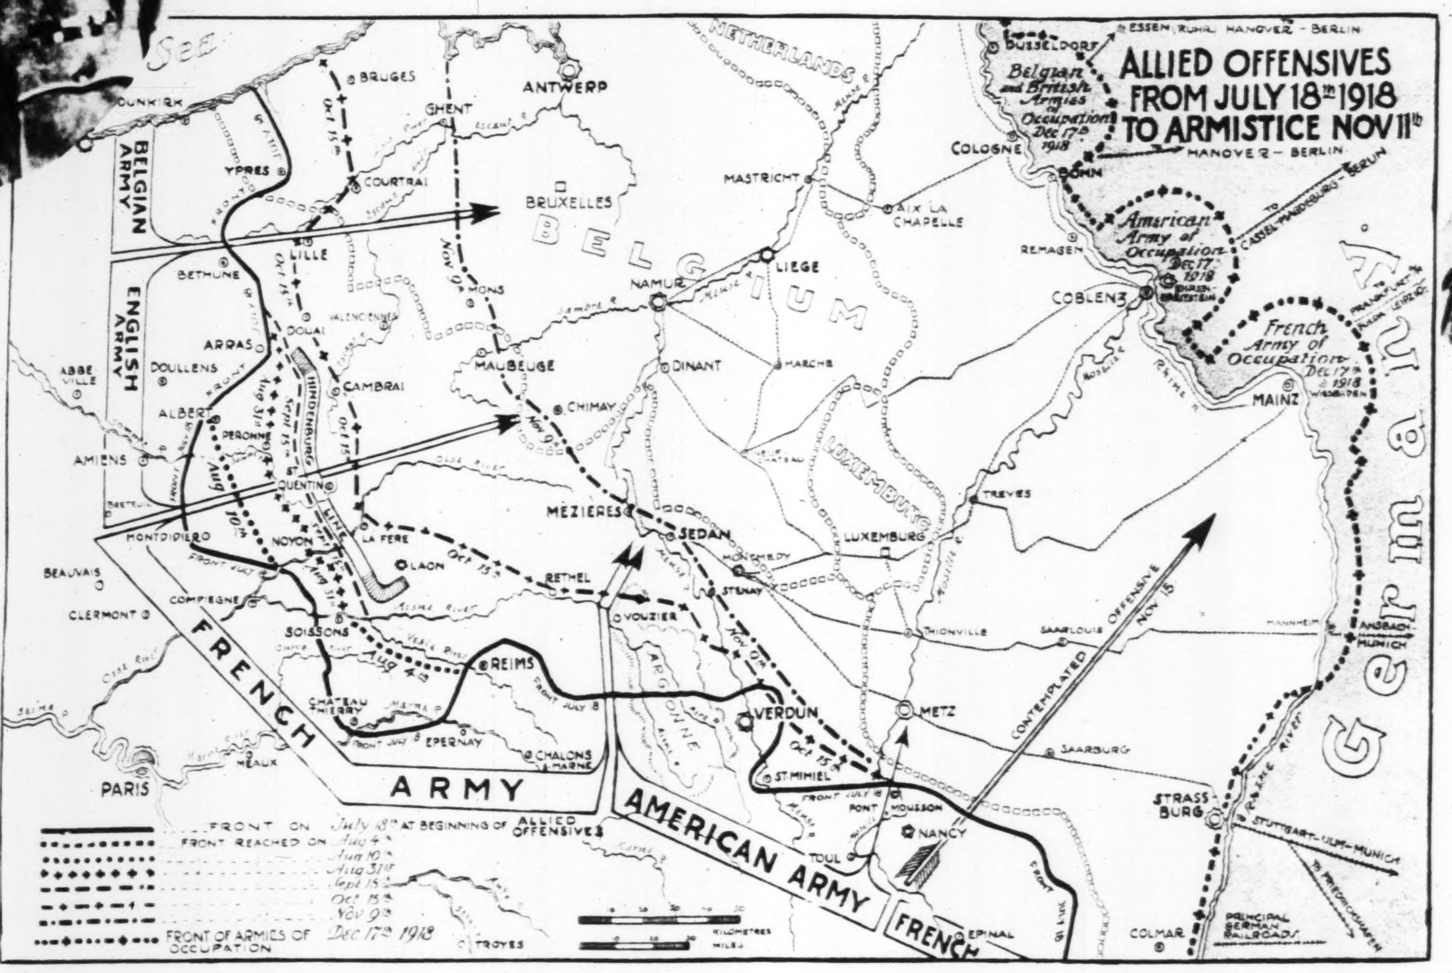
I could no better respond to the wonderful good fellowship of the Americans than by having the First American Division immediately take up its position before Montdidier—the very center of the German offensive.

Toward the end of March the German onslaughts against Amiens became less and less frequent and progressively decreased in intensity. The allied front, now reconstituted, formed a firm barrier against the invading hosts. On April 4 the enemy was definitely stopped. The higher command had proven itself in action.

Ludendorff now planned a fifth offensive, which he termed "the offensive for peace." He chose the region between Chateau-Thierry and Verdun as the battlefield.

BUT the valor and spirit of our armies were now at their zenith, the Americans wherever they had appeared imparted fresh, youthful vigor and eagerness to the attack, and the whole battle line of hundreds of miles, from the frontier of Germany in Lorraine to the channel ports, was now under the eye and will of a single commander-in-chief and the commander-in-chief and his staff were able to provide, not only for the defense, but for counter-attack.

Thus on July 15, when the German divisions moved forward for the fifth time they were stopped short in Champagne. The slight advance of their right in the direction of Epernay and to the south of the Marne only served to thrust the German forces further into the vast pocket of Chateau-Thierry, thereby greatly heightening the danger to which they were exposed.



Map prepared by the French military staff showing the course of the final months of battle.

It was here that on July 18 the American, British, Italian and French forces were going to take the enemy by the threat and thereafter never relinquish their grasp.

At first the action of the chief command manifested itself in the conduct of operations. But its field of activity was not limited to this. It extended to the needs and even to the organization of the various armies.

Here is an example: The British armies, after the fierce German attacks of March and April, 1918, showed a loss of 300,000 men and 14,000 officers. Nine of their divisions had to be dissolved. This diminished the total of our reserves at the very time that the enemy's forces were increasing.

I intervened and insisted both to Marshal Haig and the Government at London that the original number of British divisions be maintained. As a result it was decided that all except two of the dissolved units were to be reconstituted. But this could not be done until the middle of July. In the meantime we were obliged to make up the deficit. How?

There was only one way—an appeal to America!

AT THIS time, April, 1918, the American army in France had five fighting divisions, counting the units in course of transport or debarkation—70,000 American infantry to come to the aid of the cruelly battered British and French armies, whose losses had been most severe.

Faced with this critical situation, I arranged with Generals Bliss and Pershing that the troops sent to France during May and June would consist primarily of infantrymen.

During the month of May 240,000 men arrived from the United States. Two hundred and eighty thousand more arrived in June. By the first of July there were at least 450,000 American infantrymen and machine gunners in the ranks of the allies.

With the rapid arrival of these large forces, other problems presented themselves. There had not been sufficient time in the United States fully to train and organize the fresh American units now being hurried to the front. In order to execute efficiently this important and urgent task, we created a general staff section in Paris, whose duty it was to centralize, co-ordinate and solve all questions relating to the equipment of the American army.

It was in 1918, by arrangement with General Pershing, that I requested the American Government to send over 80 divisions by April, and 100 divisions by June, 1919. We would then be certain of having an incontestable numerical superiority over the enemy during 1919 if the war should last that long.

The reply from Washington was: "You shall have the 100 divisions requested and still more if necessary."

I directed General Petain to prepare an offensive with the Tenth and Sixth French armies. This action was to put us in possession of the heights dominating Soissons, from where we would be able to bombard the converging point of the railroads.

As preparations for this offensive were under way we learned that the enemy was getting ready to attack in Champagne.

CONDITIONS had changed. We now had a considerable number of reserves available. These had been entirely reorganized and reequipped. We also had a considerable and daily increasing reserve of war material—cannon, tanks, munitions and aeroplanes. And our strength was augmenting rapidly as the effectives of the American army constantly grew.

On July 13 and 14 I decided in accord with General Petain that the threatening German offensive in Champagne must be met at once by a counter-offensive. We were already prepared to advance at Soissons, and in a few days we extended our preparations of attack as far as Chateau-Thierry.

The German drive in Champagne started according to program on July 15. We immediately checked it. And on the eighteenth we began our counter-attack. All the world knows what followed. In 15 days the enemy was forced back on the River Vesle. The allies captured 30,000 prisoners, 600 cannon, 200 minenwerfer and 3000 machine guns. Our front was shortened 30 miles. The Paris-Chalons railroad was again ours and put in operation. The threat against Paris was ended. And, most important of all, after four months of defensive action, imposed by the numerical superiority of the enemy, the initiative of operation now belonged to us.

In this magnificent action seven American divisions participated—the First, Second, Third, Twenty-sixth, Twenty-eighth, Forty-second and Seventy-seventh. The place of honor in the thrust toward Soissons on July 18 was shared by the First and Second American divisions and some chosen French divisions. The Americans acquitted themselves admirably and indicated what was to come later at Saint Mihiel and in the Meuse-Argonne.

AT MY headquarters on July 24 I met the three commanders of the allied armies—Haig, Pershing and Petain. I told Marshal Haig I would put a French army under his command. And I urged upon General Pershing the well-known fact that the American army, made up of spirited youths, was chafing to get fully into the struggle. Finally we were all agreed.

Our first offensive, executed on August 8 by British and French armies under the command of Marshal Haig, had for its objective the liberation of Amiens and the Paris-Amiens railroad that we had planned as long ago as April 12. On August 10 our objective was not only attained but so far exceeded that I decided to take immediate advantage of what seemed to me the disorder of the enemy. I extended our field of action from Arras to Soissons.

We continued the offensive on August 20, along a front of 81 miles. By the middle of September the Germans were forced back upon Hindenburg's famous position. It was from this very line they had set out six months before on their great offensive against Amiens.

The success of the first part of our plan, which consisted of liberating Amiens, had surpassed our expectations. The second part, which called for an offensive to free the mining region of Bethune, was never undertaken, as the enemy evacuated all the positions he occupied on the River Lys. The object of the third part of our plan was the wiping out of the salient of Saint Mihiel.

I WAS early aware of American sentiments regarding Saint Mihiel. I have already told of America's help in achieving the single command. It was only just, I therefore felt, that the reducing of the famous "rupture" of Saint Mihiel should be left in their hands.

The attack began on September 12 at 5 a. m. It was preceded by four hours of artillery fire. The advance of the Americans was irresistible. In less than two days all objectives set had been achieved. The famous "rupture" no longer existed. Over 15,000 prisoners and 450 cannon had been taken. For a first attempt of a "new" army it was a masterly achievement.

The moral effect of the victory of Saint Mihiel was incalculable. The American army under its own commander-in-chief had met the enemy in a great battle and had vanquished him. In the crucible of an independent action the American army had proven itself. This fact could not fail to impress the German general staff and bring discouragement to its army.

It was now necessary to broaden our offensive. The enemy must be given no rest, nor slip from our grasp. The greater the front upon which we attacked, the more difficult it would be for him to reinforce his hard-pressed troops at any point. Thus, after August 20, we considerably widened our attack. Bit by bit we were spreading the conflagration. We could now even contemplate a general offensive from the North Sea to the River Meuse.

The allied armies attacked in converging directions, along a front of 200 miles.

The shock of the attack was extremely violent. The enemy gave way all along the line. But the obstacles to be overcome were many and difficult.

On the east, where the Americans were operating, there was the hilly and wooded region of the Argonne. Here the scarcity of means of communication and the rugged nature of the land made the effective handling of large forces particularly difficult. The Argonne was the pivot of the entire front. The Americans' attack was directed towards Mezieres and Sedan, the German armies' most important centers of railroad communication.

In the center, where the Franco-British armies and several American divisions were engaged, there were the deep and formidable defenses of the Hindenburg line, which the Germans had established during the winter of 1916-17. They ran from Cambrai through Saint Quentin to La Fere.

While on the north, where King Albert's group of armies was fighting, there were the low-lying marshes of Flanders. But, thanks to the will of the commanders, and the ardor and energy of the rank and file, every difficulty was surmounted, all nature's obstacles were overcome and the resistance of the enemy conquered.

On October 15 the Franco-British armies, having pushed beyond the Hindenburg line, were stretched out along the line Douai, Cambrai, Saint Quentin, Laon, Rethel, Vouziers.

TO THEIR right, the First American army, now under immediate command of Lieutenant-General Liggett, after tremendous effort and fierce fighting was master of the Argonne. The Sedan-Mezieres line, the very heart of Germany's railroad connections with the front, lay directly before the onrushing soldiers from the United States. This great offensive of the Meuse-Argonne is, I believe, by far the greatest battle in American military history. Certainly none is more glorious.

We pursued the retreating Germans as closely as possible. We were never sure but that in spite of our close pursuit they would not stop and again face us along some strong position—the line of the Meuse, for instance.

It was necessary for us to anticipate such an event and to prevent it. This new attack was to be in the direction of Metz and the valley of the Saare, and was to be executed by two French armies and the newly organized Second American army, under the immediate command of Lieutenant-General Bullard. These were to be ready to go forward about November 15.

On November 5 the German army began a general retreat along a front of 132 miles. Ludendorff resigned! The Kaiser prepared to flee!

On November 6, General Pershing reported:

"A division of our first corps has reached a point on the Meuse opposite Sedan, 25 miles from our line of departure. The strategical goal which was our highest hope has been gained. We have cut the enemy's main line of communications and nothing but surrender or an armistice can save his army from complete disaster."

November 8, the German plenipotentiaries came to solicit an armistice.

By November 9, the Americans had reached Sedan, the French were at Mezieres and pushing forward into Belgium toward Chimay, the British had occupied Mauberge and Mons, and the Belgians, having retaken Ghent, solemnly entered their beloved city.

The allied armies were now certain that the battle was won, and it was won. Before the morning of November 11 dawned, Germany, incapable of stemming the victorious tide of our armies, submitted to all the conditions specified by the entente for the stoppage of hostilities.

And now let me state in conclusion that I entertain the deepest feelings of gratitude toward all those whom I had the honor to command, whatever their rank or their flag.

During peace, as during the war, my thoughts are constantly with them. They were the true artisans of our common victory.

IT WAS the morning of July 7, 1925. Three women stood in the kitchen of the old home of Maple Hill Farm, the old house which for more than a half-century had been the keystone of this 1020-acre estate lying about five miles south of Osborn, Clinton County. The air in the old home was brittle on this morning, for the master, Henry Clay Duncan, who had reached his four score years and four, was perilously close to death.

The three women moved about their work nervously and jerkily. For days, now, the master had been on the edge of the precipice; the strain was beginning to tell. Mrs. Duncan, who herself had reached the mark of eighty, wishing to provide something different for her luncheon table, in the manner of the tried housewife who, though dismayed, still persists in her duties, asked Sarah Duncan, her Negro helper, to kill a couple of chickens.

Sarah—Sarah is about 70, too, just where about 70 she doesn't know—said she would if she got time. Mrs. Duncan told her if she was too busy she would have someone else kill the fowls. Sarah insisted she herself was going to do it.

Mrs. Susan Thompson, daughter of the Duncans, volunteered to cook them.

"Susan can't cook," Sarah said.

"Why, Sarah," said Mrs. Duncan, "you know she can cook. All my girls can cook. You know that, you taught them."

There were a few sharp words between Sarah and Mrs. Thompson. Sarah bustled out of the house. In a few minutes she returned and laid two chickens, already killed, on the kitchen table. Then she hurried away again. This time she did not return.

THE tenseness of the situation had worked its effect on these women. Days and nights of watching at a sick bed, the four daughters of the family returned to be at their father's bedside, the constant visits and inquiries about Mr. Duncan, one of the oldest residents of the neighborhood, one of its richest and most influential members, the fear that any moment death would lay its hand upon him—all these were taking their toll. And Sarah, who had lived with the Duncans since early girlhood, who had an affection for her master born of constant association and good treatment, had mourned his illness and fretted over it much as had the members of his family.

Three women stood in the kitchen of the old home of Maple Hill Farm, the old house which for more than a half-century had been the keystone of this 1020-acre estate lying about five miles south of Osborn, Clinton County. The air in the old home was brittle on this morning, for the master, Henry Clay Duncan, who had reached his four score years and four, was perilously close to death.

The three women moved about their work nervously and jerkily. For days, now, the master had been on the edge of the precipice; the strain was beginning to tell. Mrs. Duncan, who herself had reached the mark of eighty, wishing to provide something different for her luncheon table, in the manner of the tried housewife who, though dismayed, still persists in her duties, asked Sarah Duncan, her Negro helper, to kill a couple of chickens.

Sarah—Sarah is about 70, too, just where about 70 she doesn't know—said she would if she got time. Mrs. Duncan told her if she was too busy she would have someone else kill the fowls. Sarah insisted she herself was going to do it.

Mrs. Susan Thompson, daughter of the Duncans, volunteered to cook them.

"Susan can't cook," Sarah said.

"Why, Sarah," said Mrs. Duncan, "you know she can cook. All my girls can cook. You know that, you taught them."

There were a few sharp words between Sarah and Mrs. Thompson. Sarah bustled out of the house. In a few minutes she returned and laid two chickens, already killed, on the kitchen table. Then she hurried away again. This time she did not return.

THE tenseness of the situation had worked its effect on these women. Days and nights of watching at a sick bed, the four daughters of the family returned to be at their father's bedside, the constant visits and inquiries about Mr. Duncan, one of the oldest residents of the neighborhood, one of its richest and most influential members, the fear that any moment death would lay its hand upon him—all these were taking their toll. And Sarah, who had lived with the Duncans since early girlhood, who had an affection for her master born of constant association and good treatment, had mourned his illness and fretted over it much as had the members of his family.

So Sarah, what with feeling as she did, took herself away to the home of one of the Duncans' relatives, to the "old place," a farm not far away that had belonged to Mr. Duncan's father, the "old place" on which Sarah had lived before she was taken into the household of H. Clay Duncan.

She stayed at the "old place" for three weeks. Then Mr. Duncan died. She attended the funeral, she went to the cemetery. On July 29, according to old custom, H. Clay Duncan's will was read in the parlor of the old home. To Sarah was left $1000 in cash and $2500 in trust.

A few days later Sarah's brother, janitor of a school at St. Joseph, Mo., arrived in the neighborhood and Sarah went back to St. Joseph with him. Not long after suit was filed in Sarah's behalf asking for $80,000 from the more than $250,000 Duncan estate. In her petition Sarah alleged that she had been a faithful servant of the family for more than 50 years; that H. Clay Duncan had come to her home — his father's farm — in 1868 and struck a bargain with her mother, Liza, just released from slavery; that he was to have the services of Sarah, then a little girl, for the pay of $2 a week; and that, when she became 18, her pay was to be increased to $3.50 a week. Sarah further contended that this money had never been paid to her and that, therefore, she prayed the court to grant her $80,000, the amount she said was due her over all those years, figured at compound interest.

BUT the Duncan estate would not admit the suit had any merit. No contract had ever been made with Sarah, they contended; furthermore, Sarah had been treated very much like a member of the family and Sarah could always be assured of a home with Mrs. Duncan or one of her four daughters. The Duncan family announced its intention to contest any action brought by its former servant.

I saw Sarah at St. Joseph. She doesn't look her 70 years. She is a refined woman. There is no touch of racial dialect in her speech.

This is Sarah's story:

"I guess I was about 9 or 10, the Duncans, they say I was about 11 or 12, but I know I wasn't more than 9 or 10, when Mr. Duncan came over to my mother's place and said he wanted to take me back to his house with him to work. Mr. Duncan had just been married a year or so and he wanted somebody to help Mrs. Duncan with the work. Then he went and told my mother, Liza, that he was going to give me $2 a week until I got to be 18, then he was going to give me $3.50 a week. So I went over to Mr. Duncan's house.

"That's where I stayed. I began to do work right away. I knew how to do lots of things already. I'd helped my mother, and Mrs. Duncan, that's Miss Lizzie, her name's Mrs. Elizabeth Duncan, she taught me how to do other things. I did a lot of work there right from the start. Once, for awhile, they had somebody else there for a few months, but she didn't stay long. She was a white woman and she went and got married. So you might just as well say that from the beginning, back in around '65, until about two years ago when I left, I did about all the work. Especially after I got to be grown up and knew how to do things.

"Mrs. Duncan, that's Miss Lizzie, was a delicate lady and she was often getting sick and couldn't do much anyhow. And then the four girls, well, soon as they got old enough to do any real work they went on off to school and when they got through school they didn't come back only long enough to get married and go off again.

"I ran that place. Over all those years I just ran it. I bought the things that were necessary. I took the produce to town and got groceries for it. Why, I used to cook for as many as 20 or 30 at a time when cattle men came down to see Mr. Duncan, for Mr. Duncan had one of the finest breeds of shorthorn cattle in the country. Sarah handled everything and never got a cent for it.

"Sure, I got treated well. I got treated just about like I was part of the family. I got my clothes and everything to eat and I had just as nice a room as any of the girls had. Everybody was good to me and didn't treat me like I was working there. But I didn't get money.

"Why, for years I paid for all the table with the money I made on chickens. Mr. Duncan had given me some chickens, Plymouth Rocks, and I raised them into a fine flock. Well, years ago, I guess 20 years ago, maybe more, when automobiles started coming out, I wanted an automobile. I kept begging Mr. Duncan to get one. Once he said, 'Sarah, when they get down to $30 I'm going to get an automobile.' 'If you get an automobile,' I told him, 'I'll make up for it by buying all the food with my chicken money.'

"NOT long after that a son-in-law of Mr. Duncan's sent him down an automobile from Chicago and I paid for all the table with the money I made on my chickens. Everybody talked about the way I ran things. People who used to visit at the house would say, 'Sarah, you can do more than any other three women I ever saw.'

"And I just kept on. Now, it was in 1925 that Mr. Duncan got sick. He got better for a time and then he got worse. He was sick for a long time. One morning we were in the kitchen, Mrs. Duncan and Susan—that's Mrs. Thompson—and me. Miss Lizzie always treated me nice, but when the girls all came back this time they didn't treat me nice. I think they were jealous of me; Mr. Duncan always wanted Sarah to do things for him, and the girls they didn't like that.

"So we were all in the kitchen that morning and there was some argument, and Susan talked mean to me. She was mean. I left and I went to one of the relatives' houses and I stayed there. About three weeks later Mr. Duncan died. Then they read the will and all I got was $1000.

"I certainly didn't think that was enough. Mr. Duncan always talked like I'd be taken care of when he died. Then I went to St. Joseph and lived at my brother's for a while. I hadn't got any money for working all those years and I thought I'd ought to had some. So I went and got a lawyer.

"The lawyers put the suit in the courts, and there was lots of different law business that I didn't know what was all about. My lawyers and the other lawyers talked to each other and things like that. I wasn't living at my brother's any more. My lawyers got me a place working for some family here in St. Joe. I'm still with a family here."

Mrs. Waller Edwards, one of the Duncan daughters, who lives at 7114 Maryland avenue, St. Louis, told me this story of Sarah:

"Sarah has lived with us since she was 11 or 12. Her mother was a slave and had belonged to my Grandfather Duncan. During that transition period from slavery to freedom, when the Negroes were often at a loss as to what to do, Sarah's mother, Liza, came to my mother and asked her to take Sarah. She couldn't do it then, she had just married, and they were boarding at Osborn. But she told Liza she would take Sarah as soon as she was able. About a year later she brought her to their new home. No contract regarding wages was made at all. What Liza wanted was a home for Sarah with someone she knew and not a job for her. So Sarah came to our place and there she remained.

"SHE never cooked for and served 30 or 40 persons by herself in her life. On such occasions as when several guests were at table we all did our share of the work—my mother, my aunt, my sisters and myself. Sarah was a delicate woman herself and she couldn't have done all the work she said she did had we wanted her to, which we certainly didn't.

"When Sarah was about 18, my mother tells me, a neighbor asked Sarah if she would like to work for her. She came back and told my mother about it and Sarah was highly insulted. 'I told that woman,' Sarah told mother, 'that I had a home and didn't have to work for wages. I told her I was one of the family here and I wouldn't leave.' Sarah acted very much as though she was one of the family and that is the way she was treated. She went to the Chicago World's Fair with us, to the St. Louis exposition, to an exposition in Omaha and she went with us to Colorado. She always got the clothes she wanted and she had as good a place to sleep as any of us. She never said a word about wages and we never thought of them for her. She was considered living with us, not working for us. As for the money she made from raising chickens and from dairy products, taking care of the chickens was Sarah's job. Mother gave her that to do after she had been ill and our doctor advised her to spend more time in the open. Sarah bought table provisions with some of the money, and what money was left over she was allowed to keep for herself.

"When Sarah ran away to one of our relatives, three weeks before father died, we considered her actions merely the nervousness that resulted from father's illness. My sister said very little to Sarah and Sarah said very little to her. Our doctor was at our house at the time and we asked him to see Sarah, feeling she might need attention. He telephoned the place to which she had gone and, after talking to my cousin, said it would be best to let her stay there and rest because she was probably on edge from the strain of things.

"Father left her $1000 in cash so she might get anything she wanted and $2500 in trust so she would always have some money. He knew she would always be provided for by mother or my sisters or myself."

LAST September Sarah came to St. Louis with Mrs. Lina Gosnell, another of the Duncan daughters, and stayed at the home of Mrs. Waller Edwards. While she was here Sarah signed papers asking that her suit against the estate be dropped. Sarah says that she was given, at this time, $250 in cash, and $10,000 was to be put in the bank for her. But Mrs. Edwards says that she was given $250 to pay some bills she had contracted at St. Joseph, but that no mention was made of any other money.

Sarah stayed at the Edwards' home a week. Then one morning she was called out of the Edwards' home by her lawyers and went with them to St. Joseph.

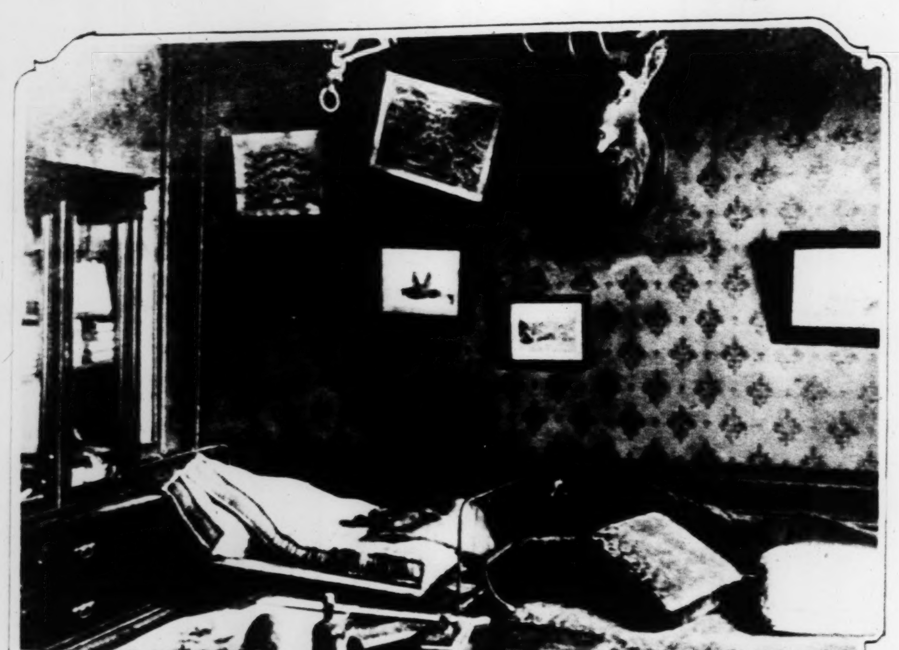
When Sarah got back there her attorneys submitted papers to the court at Maysville, Missouri, where the requested dismissal of the suit had been filed, asking that the case be reinstated in court as originally entered.

Last autumn the motion for setting aside the case was heard in Maysville, and the Court ordered the dismissal set aside and set the case for trial. The reason for the Judge's decision was that when Sarah signed the dismissal papers she was only with those persons who wished the suit to be dropped and this fact may have in some way influenced her.

So not many days ago Sarah's suit for $80,000, wages since the 'sixties at compounded interest, was heard in Maysville. Then the defense discovered an old statute of 1865 which prohibited suit for compound interest on verbal contracts. Sarah's petition was then amended and she asked for $24,000, being her wages since the 'sixties at simple interest. The case was heard. The jury brought in a verdict of 10 to 2 for Sarah, giving her the $24,000 she asked for. The defense has asked for a new trial, and that request has not yet been decided.

Today Sarah, who for more than a half century lived with the Duncans at Maple Hill Farm, is working for a family at St. Joseph. Mrs. Duncan lives in St. Louis; the old home is in the hands of a renter and a friend. But in it, Mrs. Edwards tells me, by agreement with the present occupant, and at their disposal whenever they want them, are Mrs. Duncan's and Sarah's rooms, quite as they were when they left them.

The Last Days of the Murdered CZAR



The room where the Czar and Czarina spent their last night.

Events of Just Ten Years Ago Retold in an Exciting Narrative by a Young Monarchist Whose Father Was Massacred With the Royal Party.

The imperial Russian family.

By GLEB E. BOTKIN

(Son of the Russian Court Physician, who was murdered with the Czar)

IT IS just ten years ago that for the first time in my life I heard real rifle fire. A few isolated shots followed by others in rapid succession, then the enervating rattle of machine guns and finally a wild hurrah. The regime which had ruled Russia for 300 years was overthrown in a few hours.

My father, the late Dr. Eugene Botkin, personal physician of the Czar, spent most of the day in the palace, as all the imperial children were gravely ill with measles. I waited late into the night for his return. At last he came. He looked very grave.

"Petrograd has been captured by the revolutionists," he said. "The Government is overthrown. A mob is marching on the imperial palace."

His voice remained as calm as if he were telling me the most ordinary thing.

"Is that the end?" I asked.

"I believe so," he answered.

When I awoke the following morning it seemed that the events of the previous day had been nothing more than a nightmare. My room was flooded with sunlight. A breath of spring came through the open window. The street looked cheerful and quiet. Every little object in my room stood in its customary place. It seemed impossible that we were in the midst of a revolution.

I spent the day in town gathering the latest news. Everything was as calm as usual. Court policemen were peacefully directing traffic, people were going back and forth without showing the slightest emotion. Revolution seemed more fantastic and improbable than ever.

I had just arrived home in the evening when the firing began. The frightened butler rushed into the room and informed us that the whole garrison had revolted. That was all we could learn that night. The rifle fire continued without interruption.

I decided to go to bed, and to calm myself took a French book I saw on the table. I looked at the title: "The Execution of the French Royal Family." I threw the book away.

Every once in a while I could hear bullets strike the stones under my windows. The battle was approaching.

ON THE following morning I looked out of the window and saw a scene which made me once more think that I was dreaming. A crowd of drunken soldiers was looting a store across the street. The building was in flames. Many of the soldiers were so drunk that they were falling into the gutters and quietly remaining there while their comrades were stumbling over them, shooting aimlessly in all directions.

I decided to go to town. The events of the last 24 hours had dazed me so completely that I pushed myself through the crowd of drunken soldiery, totally forgetful of the danger to which I was exposed. Bullets went whizzing by me. Several times I had to retrace my steps upon coming to streets that were completely blocked with soldiers who, without any conceivable reason, were fiercely fighting among themselves. Nobody seemed to understand what was going on. The rebels looked as frightened as were the peaceful inhabitants. I heard several soldiers repeat: "We are lost! Loyal troops will be over soon and they will shoot us down. Let's have a good time before they get us!" And they enjoyed themselves as best they could, drinking and looting.

With the approach of evening the soldiers began to retire to their barracks. Few of them were still able to control their feet. I returned home along streets with several houses half burned, the ground covered with debris.

"Look at that!" a soldier exclaimed. "One might think the Germans had passed through the town. My Lord, what they've done here!"

On the following day father came to see us. He arrived in his usual court carriage. The coachman in his court livery looked like a strange anachronism amid the devastation and red flags of the revolution. But the general confusion was such that the soldiers only stared in bewilderment—and did nothing.

Father told us of the terrible moments the imperial family had gone through the night before. Only the personal interference of the Empress prevented a bloody clash between the insurgents and the palace guards.

Then came orders from Petrograd not to interfere with the imperial family until further instructions. Great anxiety was felt on behalf of the Emperor. Nobody knew exactly where he was. And the critical condition of the Grand Duchesses made the situation more tragic.

FOR the next two days the wildest rumors circulated in the city. We heard in turn that the army on the front had rebelled and that the army was marching on Petrograd to suppress the revolution. In the meantime, complete chaos reigned everywhere. Policemen were grewsomely slaughtered. Government officials arrested, houses raided and the soldiers continued to amuse themselves by shooting at lamp posts.

On the morning of March 17 a friend of my father called me on the telephone.

"Everything is over," he said. "The Emperor has abdicated!"

This was indeed the end.

On my way home I passed a fierce-looking soldier with a huge red ribbon on his breast. He was weeping bitterly, idiotically, rubbing his eyes with his fists. I saw that he was holding a bulletin with the text of the Emperor's abdication. He turned toward me:

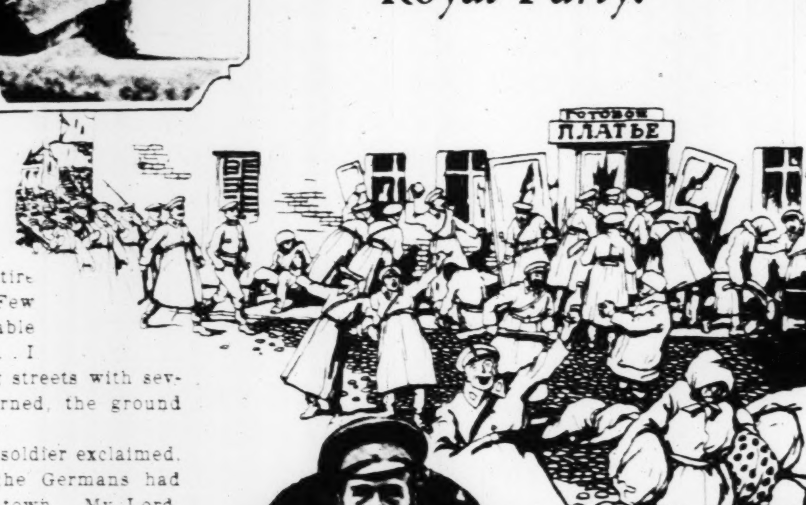
"The poor Czar!" he said. "He was a good man, our Little Father, he was. He wasn't guilty of anything, the poor Czar!"

The situation grew worse every day. While the new Minister of Justice, Kerensky, was making speeches boasting of the bloodlessness of the Russian revolution, terror reigned in several cities. Indescribable atrocities were committed by sailors in Cronstadt and Helsingfors. Naval officers were tortured in a manner comparable only to the Spanish Inquisition. Several of our friends and acquaintances perished in this atrocious way.

But even more demoralizing than these outbreaks of terrorism was the orgy of cowardice they produced. Not a voice was raised in protest, let alone any attempt at armed resistance. Members of the Emperor's suite were hurriedly destroying the Emperor's monograms which embellished their uniforms. Courtiers rushed to assure revolutionaries of their support and loyalty. Generals and ladies-in-waiting, smiling idiotically, congratulated one another with having at last been liberated.

"Liberated from what?" I asked, with the tactless frankness of youth. "Your honor, titles, ranks and fortunes? Wait until we are all liberated from our lives!"

My remarks produced general consternation. I was called impertinent, crazy. "Nicholas," or "Colonel Romanoff," as they now spoke of the Emperor, was, they declared, a drunkard and an imbecile. It was high time he should be thrown out. He had ruined the country and his wife was a German spy.



The looting of Tsarskoe-Selo.

The Czar under guard at Ekaterinburg.

On March 21 we learned that the imperial family had been officially placed under arrest. The members of the suite who lived in the palace were permitted to choose between leaving the palace or being arrested, too. Most of them, including my father, decided not to abandon the Empress, and in consequence were arrested. Revolutionary soldiers replaced the loyal guards and a commander was appointed to guard the prisoners.

On March 23 the Emperor arrived. He was taken to the palace and there arrested. A little later Kerensky ordered the Emperor separated from the Empress. Their Majesties were permitted to see each other only during meals, in the presence of an officer. The Empress was highly indignant. For this measure seemed to have no other purpose except to add to their misery.

I OBTAINED permission to visit my father and went several times to see him. But these meetings caused me more pain than pleasure. Each time I had to undergo a cross-examination by the soldiers, after which I was admitted to a small room in the guardhouse near the gate. There I had to wait until father was led across the court by an officer. To see my father brought by a guard as if he were a criminal was pathetic, grotesque, unbelievable. We could talk only in the presence of the officer, and while I was trembling to know about the imperial family, all discussions of the subject were forbidden. Father tried to look cheerful and content, but he aged 10 years in a month.

To add to my personal troubles, I suddenly found myself accused of conspiring against the new regime. The accusation was based on my refusal to tear the Emperor's monogram from my school uniform! Several of the boys who continued to wear the old uniform were attacked by soldiers on the street. I received threatening letters and was warned that the soldiers had decided to shoot me.

I began to feel that I could not remain in the imperial city much longer. Aside from personal danger, I could not bear to witness the humiliation of the imperial family. I began to lose all sense of reality. It seemed to me that I was living in a long nightmare.

At that time some friends invited me to go with them to their estate in the Province of Kazan, the ancient Tartar city on the Volga. I gladly accepted the invitation and in May left, thinking I would return soon. I never saw Tsarskoe-Selo again.

That summer was anything but peaceful. Peasants repeatedly threatened to kill us, and several times forced us to flee to the city. But we were all young and enterprising and insisted on returning to the country.

ASIDE from the peasants, we had to be on guard against bandits, who infested the countryside. They were men who had escaped from Siberian prisons and were now making their way to Western Russia. They became so bold that they tried several times to attack our house. We had to go about armed, and one of us always remained on guard throughout the night. I painted many a picture during those nightly watches, holding a brush in one hand and a shotgun in the other.

In August I received a letter from father. He wrote: "We have left Tsarskoe and are traveling eastward to an unknown destination."

A week later a second letter came. They had arrived in Tobolsk, a town in Western Siberia, and would stay permanently.

I passed the immediately following days in a real agony. I was anxious to show in some way my loyalty to the imperial family, but at the same time the thought of burying myself in Siberia, perhaps for many years, possibly never to come back, filled me with horror. Besides, I realized that there was nothing I could do to help the prisoners except, perhaps, to amuse the royal children.

Finally I decided to go. With an unforgettable foreboding that I was digging my own grave, I left the friendly shores of the Volga and started off for Siberia.

Tobolsk, Siberia, is a dreary town of 20,000 inhabitants, 250 miles from the railroad. After the river freezes in October, Tobolsk is reached only by sled. Mail comes through once a week. In the winter one feels almost completely cut off from the world. One sees nothing but the blinding snow. The cold is indescribable.

Upon reaching Tobolsk, after a journey of many days, I found that the imperial family was living in the former Governor's house. A small, dirty yard was the only place where they could walk. Members of the suite were living in another house across the street and were permitted to go out for short walks in town. From our windows we could see the windows of the Grand Duchesses and the yard. But great was my disappointment when my sister and I were refused permission to visit the imperial family. The Empress personally pleaded with the Commissar, but to no avail.

This Commissar, a man by the name of Pankratoff, gave the impression of being mentally unbalanced. When a boy of 18, he had murdered a policeman on duty and served a prison term of 12 years. For this reason he considered himself a victim of what he called "the tyranny of the old regime," and often repeated: "What have I done? I just killed a policeman and they kept me in jail for 12 years!" He was not a cruel man, but he never missed an opportunity to cause his prisoners petty annoyances. The soldiers were much worse. They constantly threatened to kill us, laughed at our misery and continually scrawled obscene inscriptions on the fence of the yard where the Grand Duchesses walked.

Days crept along in a dreary monotony. I spent most of my time drawing funny cartoons, which my father would smuggle to the imperial children. This was the only way in which I could amuse them.

Before long everybody began to show signs of complete nervous exhaustion. The Emperor and his children alone preserved their courage and serenity of mind. The Grand Duchesses staged amateur theatricals and amused themselves as best they could. But members of the suite soon all quarreled among themselves, which, of course, made the situation worse. My father often repeated in despair: "We are like Napoleon's suite on St. Helena."

In November we learned that Kerensky was overthrown. The bolsheviks organized the Soviet Government. At first we were almost pleased. At that time many monarchists joined the bolsheviks for the purpose of deposing Kerensky. We thought, therefore, that bolshevism was only a step toward the restoration of monarchy. Our illusions were soon shattered.

The news of the peace with Germany, signed by the bolsheviks at Brest-Litovsk, caused veritable consternation in our little colony. To the Emperor it was a terrible shock.

"Had I foreseen this, I never would have abdicated," he told my father.

WE HAD begun to think we were forgotten by the whole world when, in April, there arrived from Moscow Commissar Yakovleff. He informed the Emperor that he had orders to take the imperial family to Moscow immediately.

In the afternoon Yakovleff informed us unofficially that the Soviet Government had decided to deport the imperial family to England. To satisfy public opinion a fictitious trial would be arranged in Moscow, we would be found guilty and condemned to deportation. The rest of us could follow their majesties when the river opened up.

We were delighted. The rest of the day my sister and I spent packing my father's trunk. He left us in the afternoon. For the first time since our exile we felt happy and hopeful. He blessed and kissed us, certain that we should soon be reunited in England.

Early in the morning on April 25 their majesties and my father left Tobolsk. We never saw them again.

We eagerly awaited news of their safe arrival in Moscow, but days passed without a word. Finally, we learned with consternation that their majesties had been stopped at Ekaterinburg and placed, with my father, in a small house in town.

Late in July the Whites captured Ekaterinburg. I immediately started thither to find out what had happened to the imperial family.

Arriving at Ekaterinburg we were met with ovations. The city was full of former guardsmen and courtiers, once more in their brilliant uniforms.

But none of them knew anything about the imperial family, except that their house was empty and "its cellar full of blood!"

By March, 1919, I knew definitely that the whole imperial family and my father had been killed on July 17, 1918, a few days before Ekaterinburg was captured by the Whites.

As later investigations proved, Commissar Yakovleff had been fooled by his superiors. The then German Ambassador, Count Mirbach, demanded the release of the imperial family. The President of the Central Executive Committee, Jankel Sverdloff, undertook ostensibly to deliver the imperial family while in reality he organized the murder. He dispatched Yakovleff to bring the imperial family to Moscow, and at the same time gave secret orders that they should be stopped at Ekaterinburg. There they were imprisoned in a small house surrounded by a double fence.

The humiliations they were subjected to are indescribable. Their jailer, Avdieff, a workman who was always intoxicated, entered their rooms at any time of the day or night, annoyed and ridiculed his prisoners. But gradually even this brute began to show more respect to prisoners who could astound him by their patience and quiet dignity. The result was that Avdieff was dismissed and Yourovsky appointed in his place and with orders to carry out the plan of murder immediately.

SHORTLY after midnight on July 17, Yourovsky told the prisoners that they would be transferred to a safer place. He ordered them to go down to the cellar and there await the arrival of the cars. The prisoners did as they were told. They waited.

Suddenly Yourovsky, followed by nine other men, rushed into the room. He approached the Emperor and shouted:

"Your people wanted to save you, but they did not succeed. We are going to shoot you!"

With these words he fired upon the Emperor, killing him instantly. Then the massacre began. Grand Duchess Anastasia alone was not killed by the shots, but only wounded. Several soldiers, hearing her screams, thrust at her with bayonets.

Those killed were: the Emperor, the Empress, the four Grand Duchesses, the Czarevitch, my father, a maid named Denudova and two servants, Haritonoff and Trup. Their bodies were taken to a nearby forest, stripped and burned. But their bones, as well as many small objects which escaped the fire, were found later and transferred abroad.

By slow and bitter stages I made my way across Siberia to Vladivostok. After joining in the antibolshevist work there I—with the final defeat of the White armies—made a desperate escape to Japan.

Now that I live in New York, where everything is so secure and matter-of-fact, my past seems strange and unbelievable. A nightmare. I am glad I will never have to live through it again!

TALL, lank and gray, the Admiral of the fleet stood in his cabin door, gazing approvingly at the preparations for his last official dinner party. Wong had surpassed himself on this occasion. The monotone of the regulation china, silver and linen, all bearing the four stars of his rank, was relieved by the colorful decorations. The centerpiece, a replica of the flagship done in flowers, was a work of art; the place cards were in the form of tiny battleships, cruisers and destroyers. The Admiral's eyes, the color of the sea he loved, crinkled with pleasure as he noted the favors. Rather difficult to get anything unique these days.

Returning to his desk, he continued working over the mass of correspondence. Much of it was routine; occasionally something of more importance would engage his attention.

There was a man for you, that Britisher! Even now he recalled his conversation:

"And so it isn't serious and you're going to get well, eh? I can't say I congratulate you on that, old chap. Oh, really, I mean it. You see, I'm older than you, and in two or three years I'll be at the top and then—well, I'll be sitting in some English rose garden, living on my pay, and quite useless. Instead of giving orders to 10,000 men, I'll be lucky if I don't have some grumpy old housekeeper giving me orders. And, once in a while, I'll run up to London, go to the club and talk to others who are quite as old and forgotten as I. Oh, it's all right, I assure you, and I used to look forward to it. But, really, old chap, if I had my way, I'd prefer going out in style. You know, like Nelson at Trafalgar. In a few years you'll find I'm quite right."

And then, the big war. Within six months, Sir Christopher, with his fleet, had joined battle with a vastly superior enemy force. The British fleet had been practically annihilated, the flagship had gone down with all hands. But Sir Christopher had "gone out in style."

The American officer had not thought much of the idea at the time; but as he had been promoted to Rear Admiral, Vice Admiral and then Admiral of the fleet, the proposition of "going out in style" had commended itself more and more.

"To go out in style." Aye, that was the thing. But how? He had practically stopped going to the club on his infrequent trips to Washington. It always saddened him to see men who, at one time, had wielded almost unlimited power, now reduced to living on memories of past glories, mumbling of Farragut and Dewey, as he would soon be mumbling of Evans and Sims.

HE gazed curiously at the little Chinaman, who was also retiring in a few days.

"What are you going to do when you retire, Wong?" he queried as he slipped into the dinner jacket.

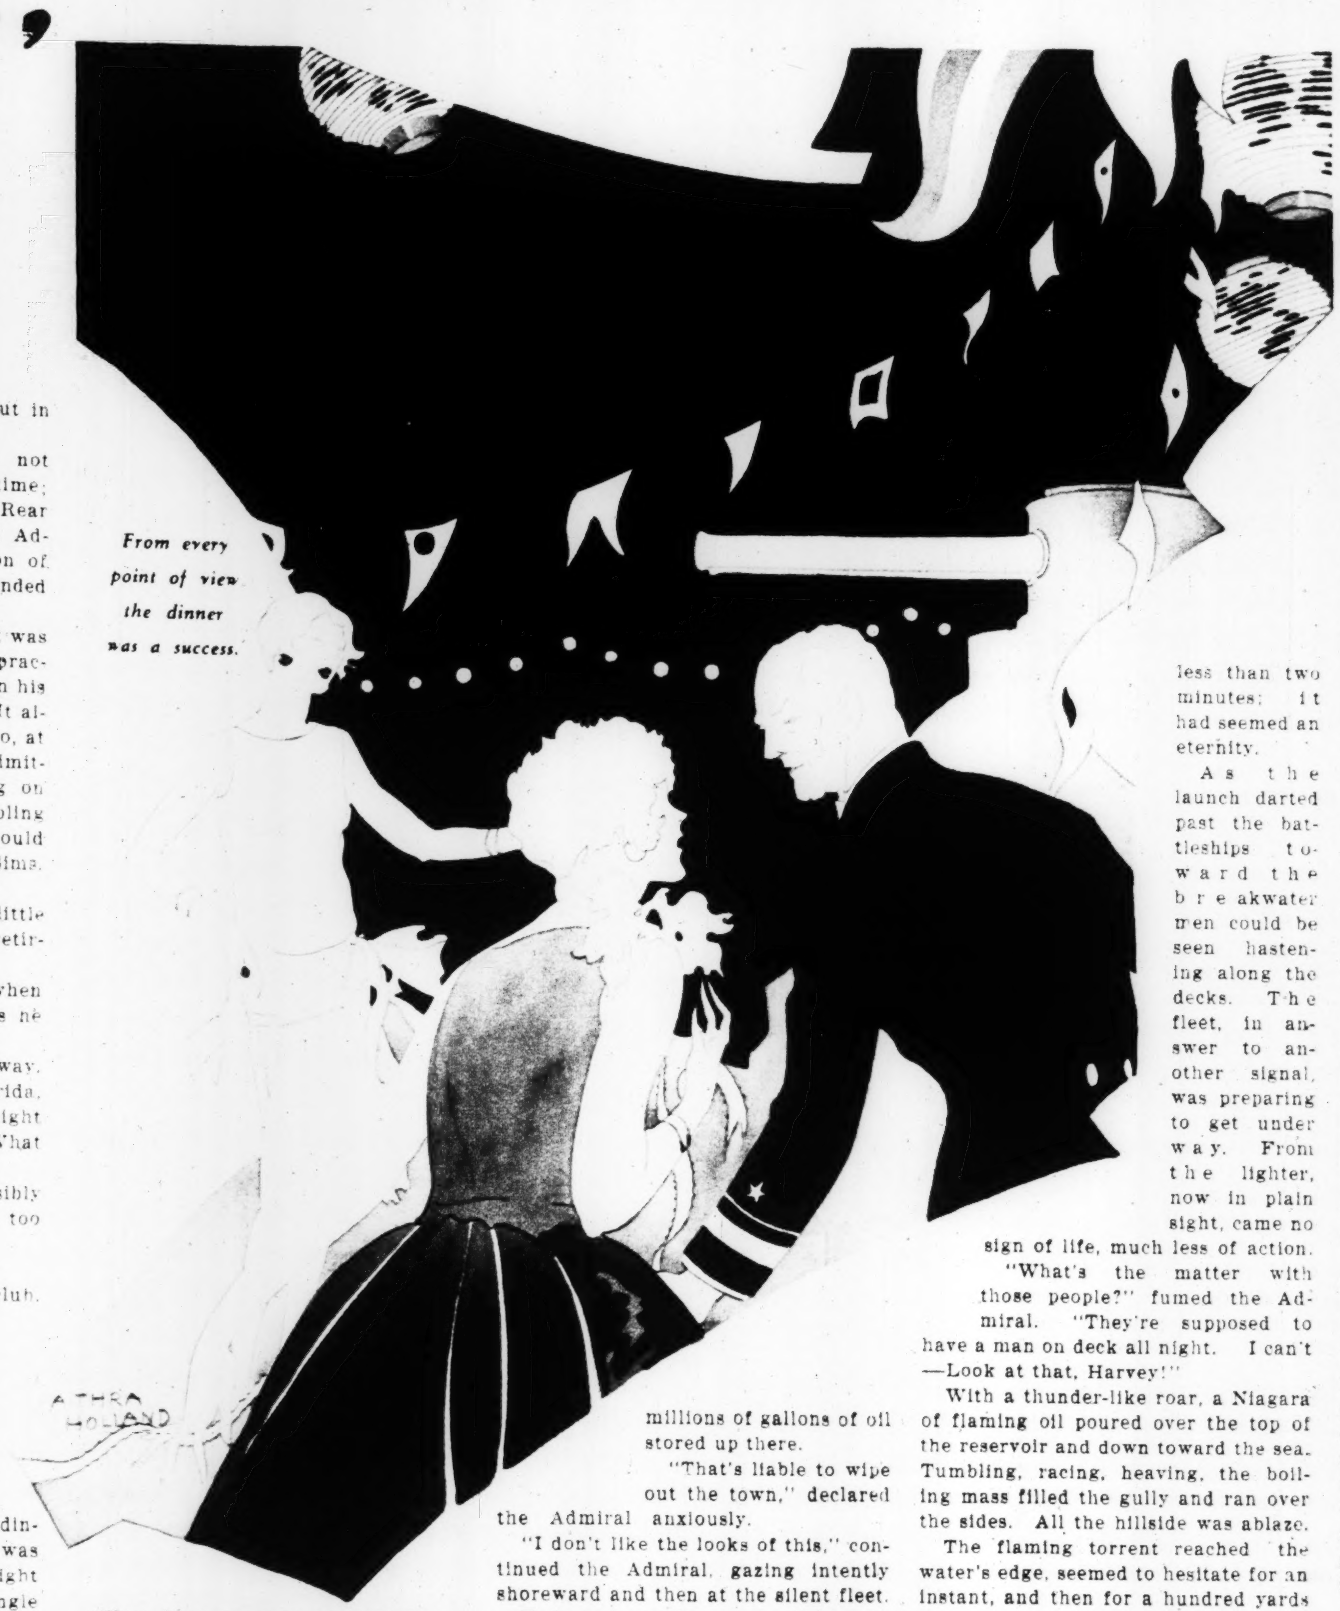
"No can say. Maybe go China way. Have got one cousin down in Florida, maybe go there. Could happen might go to Wash'ton, live by you. What matter? All samee."

"Guess that's right. Well, possibly we won't hang on long, eh—not too long, anyway?"

Wong shrugged his shoulders.

"Maskee. Maybe you live club, eh?"

"Not by a darn sight! I'll get fossilized soon enough without living there. But I haven't any plans. Not a relative in the world; not a soul to care whether I come or go. Well, as you say, 'Maskee!'"



From every point of view the dinner was a success.

From every point of view the dinner was a success. The Admiral was a perfect host, and, although the night was warm, he missed not a single dance. For all his years he had kept in good trim, and his smooth-shaven, bronzed face shone with pleasure and good humor as he mingled with the various groups. "What is it, Fairlee?" he said aloud, as the chief of staff came up.

"Just received the final reports from the fleet. All ready for target practice, and we'll start in tomorrow as scheduled. I was worried about the ammunition; but the tender came in this afternoon and loaded a supply on the motor lighter. I just gave orders for the lighter to start going alongside the battleships at daybreak. They can fill up and be ready to steam out by noon."

"Very well. Where is the lighter anchored?"

"Close to the beach; just behind the breakwater."

As the Admiral joined the crowd, one of his guests stepped to his side.

"By the way, Admiral, isn't that vase on your buffet a piece of some very ancient Chinese porcelain?" he queried.

"Yes; it's of the K'ang Hsi. It was given to me by a mandarin for whom I happened to do a favor during the Boxer trouble."

"So Mrs. Ederley just told me. An antique dealer has sent me a vase quite similar to yours, and he claims it is very ancient and valuable. I must either buy it or return it within a few days. I was wondering if it would be possible for you to run up to my apartment and have lunch with me the next time you come ashore. That would give me an opportunity to get your opinion on the vase's authenticity."

"Uh," murmured the Admiral, his face lighting up with the enthusiasm of a connoisseur, "this sounds interesting. There aren't many of those pieces in this country, and I know where most of them are. By Jove! Why can't I run ashore with you tonight after the dance? I can tell in five minutes if the vase is genuine. Will that be satisfactory?"

"Very much so—if it isn't too much trouble."

"Not at all, not at all. I'm just as much interested as you are."

TWO hours later the Admiral motored to the fleet landing. He was in high good humor. A careful examination had disclosed that the vase was an unusually clever imitation; so clever that it would have deceived any but an expert.

"By George!" he murmured, as he strolled toward the landing, "I might get a position as curator in some museum. Not a bad idea at that; I'll have to—Oh, good evening, Buchalter," as the patrol officer, with whom he had been shipmate at one time, hastened up.

"Good evening sir. Looking for a boat?"

"Yes; have you any available?"

"Sorry, sir, but I just sent the patrol boat out to the hospital ship with an injured man. She'll be back in about half an hour."

"How about shore boats?"

"Two or three of them are tied up at their regular landing. One of them is in charge of Harvey, the man who used to be our chief bosn's mate when we were at Queenstown."

"That so? He was at Vera Cruz with me, too. I suppose he's retired now?"

"I think so. I haven't had a chance to talk with him yet."

AS THE shore boat swung alongside the landing, the Admiral stepped into the stern sheets.

As the boat gathered headway and sped down the channel, the Admiral rose and made his way forward along the gunwale.

"Good evening—or, rather, morning, Harvey," he called, dropping lightly alongside the helmsman, at the same time extending his hand.

Harvey looked around briefly, and then, hunching his shoulders, averted his gaze, deliberately ignoring the proffered greeting. His face was unshaven and haggard, his clothing torn and disreputable.

"Don't you know me?" persisted the officer. "I suppose you never saw me in civilian clothing, though."

"I know you, all right," muttered the man, eyes dead ahead.

"Well, if you know me, why don't you act as an old shipmate ought to? What are you doing out here—retired?"

"Retired! No, kicked out of the outfit—put on the beach after 26 years' service."

"Kicked out! Good Lord, man! What's the trouble? Why didn't you come to see me about it? Possibly I could have helped you."

"What's the use? To thunder with it all! I'll get by without the navy."

"Sure—but they don't often fire a man with that much service. There must have been a mighty good reason. What was it?"

"Oh, the usual thing. Got on a big jamboree. Broke my liberty three times—42 days the last one. Picked up by the police and returned to the ship. Had an argument with the officer of the deck and walloped the acting master at arms. I'm glad I'm out!" But his tone and appearance belied the words.

"I'm awfully sorry, Harvey. If there's anything I—heavens above, look at that!"

From far up on the hillside, overlooking the harbor, there burst a thunderlike roar; a huge volcano flared a hundred feet into the air. The whole town was illumined; the bay, ships, docks and shore line sprang into a jagged relief. One of the giant storage tanks had taken fire. There were millions of gallons of oil stored up there.

"That's liable to wipe out the town," declared the Admiral anxiously.

"I don't like the looks of this," continued the Admiral, gazing intently shoreward and then at the silent fleet.

Even as he spoke a mass of blazing oil boiled over and, flowing down a gully, poured into the bay, where it flared for a minute and then died out.

SUDDENLY from the flagship there burst a string of lights—a general signal, answered immediately by every ship in the fleet. Slowly the Admiral spelled out the dots and dashes.

"All — ships — get — up — steam —stand—by—to—slip—anchor."

"Good work!" shouted the Admiral.

Again a mass of fire-laden oil bubbled over and raced down to the water. This time it advanced a considerable distance into the bay before dying out.

"I certainly don't like that," muttered the Admiral to himself, and then he gave a shout of dismay.

"Good Lord! How about that ammunition lighter? If that goes up it will wipe out the town, harbor and fleet. Here, Harvey! Run toward the breakwater. There's a lighter full of powder out there. The crew may be asleep and not know anything about this. We'll have to call them."

But Harvey, spinning the wheel hand over hand, had changed the course of the launch and was heading back toward the landing.

"Did you hear what I said?" demanded the passenger. "Go out toward the breakwater. I know just about where the lighter is."

"Like thunder! I'm going back to the dock!"

The Admiral, removing his coat, placed it on the gunwale. Hastily he tore off his collar and tie.

"Harvey"—his voice was almost conversational—"either this boat's going out to the lighter or I'm going to take one grand licking from you. How about it?"

"She's going alongside the dock. You can try anything you want to."

"Put up your hands!" As he spoke, the Admiral started a long, swinging uppercut, which Harvey, releasing the wheel and crouching low, dodged.

In the confines of the narrow cockpit the two men clenched and struggled back and forth.

Suddenly stepping back, the Admiral dropped to his knees. As he went down, he grasped Harvey by both legs, the men crashing to the deck in a tangled mass. For an instant the helmsman was dazed. The Admiral, squirming from under, wriggled astride his antagonist's prostrate body.

The Admiral glanced hastily around. Just by his side hung a monkey wrench.

"Harvey," he grated, "it's you or the fleet! I've got a monkey wrench here. Your word of honor, or I'll send you to kingdom come!"

"Yes—yes! But let go my arm!"

The two men rose and glared at each other for an instant. Then Harvey, snatching the wheel, swung the launch in a wide circle, heading her toward the breakwater. The affair had taken less than two minutes; it had seemed an eternity.

As the launch darted past the battleships toward the breakwater men could be seen hastening along the decks. The fleet, in answer to another signal, was preparing to get under way. From the lighter, now in plain sight, came no sign of life, much less of action.

"What's the matter with those people?" fumed the Admiral. "They're supposed to have a man on deck all night. I can't—Look at that, Harvey!"

With a thunder-like roar, a Niagara of flaming oil poured over the top of the reservoir and down toward the sea. Tumbling, racing, heaving, the boiling mass filled the gully and ran over the sides. All the hillside was ablaze.

The flaming torrent reached the water's edge, seemed to hesitate for an instant, and then for a hundred yards the bay became a crackling, searing inferno.

"Go alongside the lighter, Harvey," —the Admiral poised himself for a leap—"stop the engine. That's it. Steady a minute; I'm going aboard to wake the crew. Stay alongside until I return."

Leaping for the lighter, he clutched a stanchion, hauling himself aboard. In a few minutes he hurried back.

"Return to the docks," ordered the Admiral. "I'm going to take this craft to sea. Can't afford to take a chance of her going up here!"

Harvey gave no sign of obeying. Instead, he began to climb up the side of the lighter.

"Did you hear what I said?" demanded the Admiral. "Return to the docks immediately!"

The ex-chief bosn's mate, hanging from a stanchion, his feet still on the gunwale of the barge, suddenly straightened out, giving a backward thrust. The smaller boat drifted away.

"You're crazy!" declared the officer. But his eyes shone with admiration. "Now you've lost your only chance to go back. I'd courtmartial you if I could and we get out—and we may not get out!"

A few loud blows, the clank of chain rushing through the hawser pipe, and the lighter began to drift. With ready instinct, Harvey had slipped the anchor while the Admiral started the engines and took the wheel.

And now wave after wave of blazing oil poured over the bay. The inner harbor was a chaos of maddened noises.

HARVEY, snatching a bucket, hastily made a line fast to the handle; drawing up load after load of water he showered it over the tarpaulin and sluiced it along the deck.

Slowly the lighter took on steerage way. At best she could make but four or five knots an hour. Standing a scant two feet above the water, the flaming oil reached for her decks.

And then came the catastrophe. A destroyer, rushing by at full speed, raised a huge wake of flaming, tossing waves. One of these smashed over the side of the lighter, running down the decks and across the hatches. The tarpaulins, already smoldering, began to burn furiously.

"Harvey, take the wheel. I'm going to open the valves and try to sink the lighter. These sparks are getting dangerous; we may go up any minute. And, Harvey"—the Admiral again extended his hand—"this is probably our last cruise. I expect it's either drown or be blown up. I'm sorry it had to end this way; but it was either us or the fleet!"

Awkwardly, Harvey held the hand an instant. "I guess this is better," he muttered. "A man that's 44 finds it pretty tough going, starting all over again."

Rushing along deck, the Admiral looked for a brass plate that would indicate a flooding valve. Ah, here it was, with a wrench cleated alongside. A few turns, and then, stepping to the hatch, he looked down. A slow, lazy gurgle from below announced that the water was pouring in and over the explosives. Lower and lower sank the lighter; higher and higher rose the water within. In a few minutes the danger would be over—at least the danger for the town and the fleet.

He gazed apathetically as the lighter continued to submerge; he was interested solely in the safety of the fleet. As far as his own fate was concerned, he might have been a casual spectator.

And then there flashed into memory the final words of a former navy hero: "Don't give up the ship!"—and here he was dodging it, practically quitting under fire.

"Here, Harvey; up you come! Give me a hand to cast this motor dory adrift. When the lighter sinks, the dory'll float clear and we'll be O K. We'll beat this game yet. Come on, shake a leg!"

Hastily the securing lines were cast off; the boat cover removed, the engine primed. Everything was ready. The two men stripped to their underclothing and climbed into the small craft. The lighter lurched drunkenly to port, back to starboard; steadied herself on an even keel for a minute—and then down she dropped, the dory floating free.

Panting, perspiring, the Admiral spun the starting crank. True, the lighter was gone, but some smoldering spark might linger a few seconds; long enough to set off the whole infernal load. With a final cough, the engine started and the boat headed seaward. Searchlights from the battleships had been playing on the scene and now followed the motor dory.

SUDDENLY there came a mighty crash; the bottom of the ocean seemed to rise to the stars and fall back; a huge mass of yellow flame licked out. The Admiral and Harvey, in the boat 300 yards distant, were seared by the terrific heat; their ear drums were almost split; they were blinded by the concussion and the wave of acid-laden smoke. The boat spun around as if twirled by giant fingers, hesitated an instant—and, bow first, plunged down.

The two men had seen the end coming; overboard they went, battling for their lives. The Admiral rose to the surface; automatically he struck out, at the same time looking for floating rubbish on which to rest. A boat cushion swirled past. Eagerly he headed toward it—stopped and swung around. A faint, gasping cry had drifted toward him. Off to one side, Harvey was beating the water with one arm; evidently the other was useless. As the Admiral headed back the man sank.

Lord, he was tired! But he couldn't let Harvey drown without at least making an effort to save him. There he was, his face contorted with pain, his sound arm barely moving. The Admiral felt himself going; one stroke—another—Lord help him—one more mighty effort—now he had an arm under the helpless Harvey.

Dragged down by his burden, mouth and nostrils clogged by the oil, he swung around to get back to the cushion, where he could rest. Rest—that was it . . . rest. He had been struggling 10,000 years . . . he couldn't make it; he felt himself drifting to sleep. . . . And, then, eager hands dragged the two men aboard a launch from the flagship, which was standing by, lights focused on the rescue.

The Lieutenant in charge of the launch gave a close look and then shouted in amazed admiration:

"My heavens! It's the Admiral!"

From the flagship came a hail:

"Did you get both of them?"

"Yes, sir—and our Admiral one of them!"

"What?"

"Yes, sir! . . . The Admiral and another man, who's unconscious—but our Admiral's O K."

As the launch ran alongside the hastily dropped gangway the word as to the identity of the nondescript man who had commanded the lighter was hastily passed along deck, where the crew, officers and men, stood anxiously watching the scene.

For an instant, clad only in underclothing, the Admiral balanced himself on the gunwale. He was muck-covered and dirty; his white hair was clotted with thick black oil. Standing there, he swayed from side to side. From the huge dreadnought came a thunder of cheers from a thousand throats; rising even above the roar of the flames on the hillside as Harvey also struggled to his feet.

A smile of contentment came over the Admiral's face; his shoulders snapped erect, his hand flashed to "salute." He knew that the cheers were not for him as an Admiral, but for him as a man who had twice risked his life—once to save the town and the fleet; once to save a fellow man.

"Going out 'in style' may be all right," he growled. "But going on 'in style' is a darn sight better!"

The Right Approach
Michigan Sour Milk
Selling Pres. Coolidge
Impressing David Belasco

To the Editor:

MANY books and articles has been written on what is known as the "proper approach" in business and how the nag of always saying the right thing when you first meet people is of supreme importance whether you want to sell them something or merely make a favorable impression on them in a social way. It is a whole lot easier to worm your way into a man's good gracious if you show him right off the reel that you know who he is and talk on some subject which they are interested in.

Like for inst. suppose you was going to try and sell a farm to a man named Mr. Estes who is a bond salesman. If you went up to him and said "Good-morning, Mr. Estes, how is bonds this morning?" you would have a good deal better chance of doing business with him than as if you was to say "Hello there Mr. What's his Name, I forget what business you are in but how about buying a little farm this morning?"

As I say many books and articles has been written on this subject and there is even some books on the market that tells you just what to say to parties in different walks of life like insurance men or carpenters or haberdashers or in fact most any walk of life. However it has been called to my tension by a friend of mine that is on the road for a wholesale sour milk concern that they's a big difference amongst individuals even in the same line of business and a conversation which might interest one undertaker and make him feel friendly towards you might maybe bore another undertaker stiff and spoil whatever chance you have of selling him sour milk or whatever it is you are selling.

This friend recites a personal experience of his own which illustrates the point in question. It seems like he was traveling in the northern peninsula of Michigan where sour milk is one of the stables of life as they use it to clean the dust off their tricycles. Well my friend had a tip that a certain butcher in Houghton was in the market for a large quantity of choice sour milk. This man's name was Black but it was pronounced like the a was left out. He was sick in tired of the butcher business and his ambition was to sell out his butcher shop and devote all his time to marking tennis courts. My friend did not know this, nor did he know about the peculiar pronunciation of the name Black. So he approached the butcher in the following words, "Good-morning Mr. Black. How is meat this morning?" To his astonishment Mr. Black gave him a dirty look and had him chased out of the shop. If my friend had said, "Good-morning Mr. Bick. How is tennis courts this morning?" they's no question in anybody's mind but what he could of sold him a plethora of sour milk.

So my friend says that the only real serviceable book or article of instructions along these lines would be one that told the name, habits and eccentricities of everybody that a person was libel to meet, but inasmuch as the author of such a book would half to be personly acquainted with practally everybody in the world it ain't likely that such a article or book will be written during our time.

I would probably be the man best fitted to write such a thing as I know most of the people that is worth knowing, but am sorry to say that my other interests such as getting the rats out of our home and seeing that the madam don't light the fireplace fire in the middle of August keeps me too busy. However I will take time to give a few hints in regards to some of the more prominent of my friends in the hopes that some of my readers may be going to have dealing with same and is at a loss in regards to the right entree.

FOR the sake of clearness and simplicity we will pretend like we have in mind a man named Haffle who is selling finger nail clippers and amongst his prospective clients is President Coolidge. (Any other article may be substituted for finger nail clippers at the discretion of the reader.)

Well, if a person went up to President Coolidge and throwed finesse to the winds and said "Listen Mr. Coolidge your finger nails is too long but here is a little article that will remedy that defect," why you would probably be escorted to the nearest exit by the entire secret service. The proper method which would undoubtedly entrance the President and insure a sale would be as follows: "Good-morning Mr. Coolidge. How is your horse? And speaking about horses reminds me of a man that was very wealthy and had a great many horses but the woman he loved would not have nothing to do with him on acct. of him never cutting his finger nails. Now I am selling a little article, etc."

Or suppose it was J. W. Davis.

"Well Mr. Davis I guess after what happened to you three years ago you probably ain't got no presidential bee buzzing in your head no more and speaking about bees that reminds me that I once shook hands with a man that was running for office and his finger nails was so long that I thought a bee had stang me and I would not be surprised but what that was what caused him being defeated. Now I am selling a little article, etc."

Or suppose it was Mr. Belasco.

"Well Mr. Belasco I see they been accusing you of putting on plays that ain't clean. That reminds me of a story about a fella that his finger nails was never clean. Now if he had of kept them short they would not of been so noticeable. I have got a little article, etc."

Or Magnus Johnson.

"Well Mr. Johnson they tell me you are a dirt farmer and speaking about dirt etc."

CASTORIA

Why Castoria?

Years ago Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups were the remedies in common use for Infants and Children; Castor Oil so nauseating as to be almost impossible and the others all containing Opium in one form or another, but so disguised as to make them pleasant to the taste, yet really to stupefy the child and give the appearance of relief from pain.

It required years of research to find a purely vegetable combination that would take the place of these disagreeable, unpleasant and vicious remedies that from habit had become almost universal. This was the inception of, and the reason for, the introduction of Fletcher's Castoria, and for over 30 years it has proven its worth, received the praise of Physicians everywhere and become a household word among mothers.

A remedy ESPECIALLY prepared for Infants and Children and no mother would think of giving to her baby a remedy that she would use for herself, without consulting a physician

To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Chas H Fletcher
Proven directions on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

Machine-Made Tortillas Threaten Senoritas' Chief Vocation

The Mexicans of San Antonio View This Newest Phase of American Quantity Production Methods With Mixed Emotions.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas.

THE machine has penetrated the last stronghold of handicraft. Without the touch of human hands, iron men are turning out 30,000 tortillas every day in San Antonio. The Mexican population views this innovation with mixed emotions. Descendants of the old Mayan race have passed under the yoke of Spaniard and Frenchman and in bondage to foreign capital. But they still eat the leathery cakes of ground corn for which the dough is kneaded on a slab of volcanic rock, as in the days of the Aztecs.

The Mexican must have his tortilla as often as the Italian his long tubes of pasty flour. A household that does not consume three dozen every day lacks the money to buy corn.

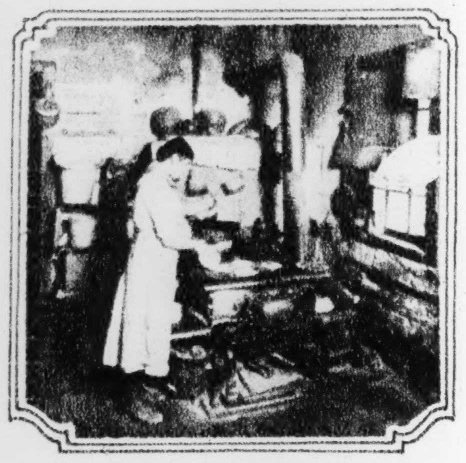
Through the centuries the preparation of the tortilla has taken up most of the Mexican woman's time. Corn is soaked for 12 hours in lye water; after which it is ground between two stones. The meal having been kneaded to the consistency of putty, small balls are pinched from the mass, patted to a thin surface and baked on a hot stone or on top of a wood stove.

Go anywhere among Mexicans and you will hear the clap, clap, clap of hands as the cake is pressed to the appropriate size. Down the alleys of San Antonio's Mexican quarter it is the rhythmic accompaniment of soft-spoken gossip.

ANGLO-AMERICANS are credited with a victory at arms in Texas more than a century ago, but if we are what we eat the victory may not have been as complete as patriotic historians would have us think.

The tortilla is supreme in most of the eating places of the one-time capital of a Spanish province.

Pass up the ornate restaurants which initiate the tourist into the mysteries of Mexican cooking. Follow narrow Doloroso street west from the cathedral. You will soon find yourself in Haymarket Square.



Mexican woman cooking tortillas.

Sit down at one of the three-sided tables in the cement inclosure, innermost heart of the Mexican quarter, and give your order to one of the plump senoritas, with earrings which resemble $50 gold pieces from which most of the gold has been scooped out.

"Nice tamales, very nice chili," they say in their small-change English.

Do not make the mistake of asking for tortillas as you look into the senorita's black eyes, or she may smile at you in a disconcerting manner, as at one who is a stranger to things well known. For, tortillas go with every order.

THERE are spoons and forks, but a Mexican can get along well enough without. A rolled-up tortilla does the work of two chopsticks.

More and yet more tortillas are needed. For the lunch counters in the dime stores sell them by the thousands, and not merely to Mexicans. Everybody gets the tortilla habit. The Bostonian may ask for beans after he has been on our border for a while, but he wants tortillas with them.

Almost a million of these flapjacks are eaten in San Antonio between dawn and midnight of every day. At least 200,000 are made to be sold. Four hundred women give all of their time to this work. Some of them work until the sun is well up, and, with their supply of tortillas wrapped in sacks to keep them warm, they squat on the curb beside the city market. Their stock in trade consists only of the stack of tortillas and a roll of wrapping papers.

There are as many as a dozen of them there at one time, their heads covered with black shawls. They sit motionless until somebody passes, when, without expression either of voice or feature, they murmur the word "tortilla."

There are other women who give all their time to making the tortillas for others to sell. In an adobe hut on Laredo street they may be seen standing in front of enormous wood stoves all day long. A ball of golden dough as large as their head is turned into the beloved flapjacks in a day. One woman can make 300 in a day. But only a block away a machine turns out in 15 minutes as many as a woman can prepare in a day.

"Pure and wholesome tortillas, made without the touch of human hands," the Sanitary Tortillas Manufacturing Company announces. "Using the tortillas that are perfectly cooked you avoid infection from sweating hands, and stomach trouble."

We are told that appendicitis is unknown where well-cooked tortillas are used instead of light bread.

The corn is measured and soaked scientifically. Each tortilla comes off the machine as like the rest as two newspapers from the same press.

Wonderful is the age of the machine! The iron men may have absorbed nine-tenths of our time, but have they not saved us nine-tenths so that we can play with steel mechanisms during the time saved. It has made a race of mechanics out of us, but consider the benefits. Tortillas made without the sweaty hands of the senoritas!

Why, but a year or so and somebody will invent a machine to take the hot biscuits from the hands of black mammies.

Hard on the black mammies, perhaps, but they can get jobs operating elevators. The big time vaudeville singers may not warble about "old black mammies" any more. And the clap, clap, clap of the tortilla women, beautiful as it is, may give place to the whir of many machines.

San Antonio Mexicans.

I asked my barber about it. His shop is a shack, but he can cut hair better than anyone I have ever found.

"Lika hand-made the best," he says. "But sweaty hands do not touch the machine-made," I remonstrate, and I think of all the hot biscuits I have eaten which were made with the sweaty hands of old Negroes.

The only answer of my Mexican barber is a shrug of the shoulders.

Great are the uses of the machine. But after every one of its apparent triumphs the words "hand-made" take on new potency. Machines turn out beautiful furniture, yet never in history have old barns been searched as now for tables and chairs. Machine-made garments have doubled the price of those made by hand. No sooner is a machine constructed to do a piece of work than the same things fashioned by the contaminating hand acquires greater values in human eyes.

It may be that mechanism falls short and that machines which have horsepower never will have handpower; or the worship of handicrafts may be a superstition which time will explode.

Tortilla machines have been in operation in San Antonio for about four months, and the output has doubled in that time, new machines having been added.

With the passage of time the machine may triumph, although it supplies less than a tenth of the total number consumed in San Antonio at the present time. But with victory signs that read "Hand-made tortillas served here" may be placed in front of restaurants, and they may command a better price.

So, one may hear the clap, clap, clap of tortilla-making hands for a while longer in the huts of crumbling stone that age and sunlight turn to gold.

Warning!

Kay is sold only in containers bearing the name Kay and the Kraft trade mark. Look for both — do not accept it as Kay if sold otherwise!

They Never Tasted the Equal of Kay

YOU may be sure of that. Kay will be a treat — a delight — and your sandwiches will be remembered long after other incidents of your party are forgotten.

Kay has become universally popular almost over night. It suits everyone's taste.

But that's not surprising. What has ever been more appetizing or healthful as a spread for sandwiches than cheese? Kay is mostly cheese — snow-white, rich and creamy — Kraft Cream Cheese. But to this we have added relish and choice spices which blend so perfectly that we have produced a new product, wonderfully good, exceedingly tasteful.

Try Kay at our risk. If you think you have ever purchased a more delicious spread for sandwiches, your dealer will refund the purchase price. That's how sure we are that Kay will more than please you.

Kraft Cheese Company, General Offices, Chicago

To the Dealer:

We authorize you to guarantee to your customers a refund of the full purchase price of Kay if in their opinion it is not the best spread for sandwiches they have ever purchased. We in turn will reimburse you in full.

Soda Fountains, Hotels, Restaurants

. . . and all other institutions buying in quantities can secure Kay in large containers, packed especially for the convenience of such trade. Your regular distributor can supply you.

. . . This is the Kraft trade mark

And it is your guarantee of highest quality and perfect flavor for every product that carries it. When you see this label on the outside of a package you will know that we have staked our reputation upon the excellence of the product that is inside. When you buy cheese look for this label that means so much to cheese quality. You will find the following varieties carrying the Kraft label:

Camembert — Cream — Nippy — Old English — Grated American — Pimento — Swiss — Brick — Limburger and sold in one-half and one-quarter pound cartons, in packages, jars and the five-pound box.

Mellow and "dry" like a rare old wine

THE minute you break the golden seal of the aristocratic bottle and pour a bit of "Canada Dry" slowly down the side of a thin-edge glass, as a connoisseur would pour a glass of fine old wine, you will know that here, at last, is real ginger ale.

Hold it to the light! See how clear it is! How it gleams and sparkles! The abounding life and vitality of it. The champagne-like "dryness" and color.

And then—taste it! Here is a revelation in ginger ale quality—a delicate, alluring flavor that intrigues your taste—a flavor unlike that of any other ginger ale you have ever tasted!

Try it soon. In purity—in quality—in flavor it is indeed "The Champagne of Ginger Ales."

Fat Lost
Joy Gained

There are countless people who can tell you an easy, pleasant way to reduce. Perhaps your own friends are among them. There are now so many that excess fat is not nearly so common as it was.

That way is Marmola Prescription Tablets. It is based on many years of scientific research. People have used it for 19 years, and every circle shows the fine results.

Users have shown others, told others the effects. And the use has grown in this way to very large proportions.

Marmola requires no abnormal exercise or diet. One simply takes four tablets daily, to correct the cause of excess fat, until weight comes down to normal. And users find other benefits galore.

You should try Marmola. Any help which has done, for 19 years, what Marmola has done, must be efficient and helpful. That is the way to easy, scientific reduction. Try it, for your own sake—now.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

These Priceless Smiles

come from daily freeing teeth of dingy film—the new way dentists urge for tooth and gum protection

THAT many of the commoner tooth and gum troubles, and most cases of so-called "off-color" teeth, are due to a film that forms on teeth which ordinary brushing does not successfully combat, is today's dental opinion.

Send for 10-Day Free Tube

Run your tongue across your teeth and you will feel this film—a slippery sort of coating. Film absorbs discolorations and thus makes teeth look dull and dingy. It breeds germs and bacteria and invites tartar, decay and pyorrhea. It is a menace.

Thus dental authorities now seriously urge that film be removed at least twice every day—in the morning and at bedtime. To do so, obtain Pepsodent—a special film-removing dentifrice most dentists favor. It curdles the film, then removes it and polishes the teeth to high lustre in gentle safety to enamel. It combats the acids of decay. It acts, too, to firm and harden the gums; thus meeting, in many ways, the requirements of modern findings.

Old-time dentifrices did not adequately fight film. That is why this modern protective way, as a twice a day habit, and at least twice a year calls on your dentist, are being so widely advised.

Accept this test

Send the coupon for a 10-day tube. Brush teeth this way for ten days. Note how thoroughly film is removed. The teeth gradually lighten as film coats go. Smiles become glorious.

SMILES ARE DAZZLING WHITE when film is gone. Teeth sparkle like polished jewels. Gums firm to healthy coral tint. Thus this new scientific way of dental care becomes one of the greatest beauty treatments of the day, and with its unique therapeutic and prophylactic qualities, a great aid in oral hygiene.

To you—experienced smokers . . .

EXPERIENCED smokers, your patronage has put Camel first among cigarettes.

You know good tobaccos. From their taste and fragrance, you know that Camels are rolled of the choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos grown.

Your preference proves it. You've paid every price and tried every brand, and you will smoke only Camels. Camel popularity—your vote—shows that Camel is totally unlike any other cigarette that ever was made.

You are also steady smokers, and you have paid Camel the highest compliment: "No matter how liberally we smoke them, Camels never tire the taste. They never leave a cigaretty after-taste."

Experienced smokers, it is your patronage that enables us to produce the best. We spare no expense, we buy the best of everything for Camels because we dare look forward to your appreciation. And you give it beyond all bounds!

There's only one thing more we could ask. Pass the good news to inexperienced smokers. Help them shorten the search for tobacco enjoyment. Extend them the most friendly—because the most helpful—smoke invitation ever spoken—

A EUGÈNE WAVE

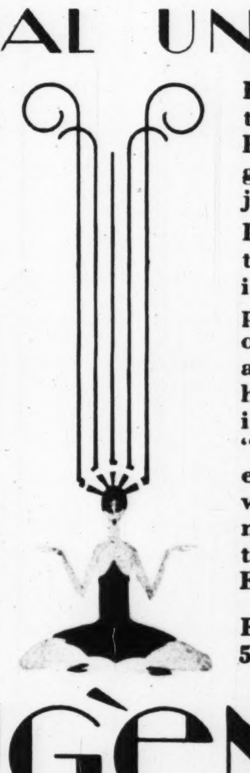
FOR NATURAL UNDULATIONS

The era of tight, frizzy waves is over . . . . . . The wide, natural Eugène permanent wave has come in!

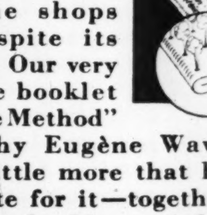
Now you may order a permanent wave in the serene assurance that it will turn out beautifully natural—and enhance the natural sheen and lustre of your hair.

For the Eugène Method possesses a basic patent that assures lovely, undulating waves—the patent that perfects the Permanent Wave—the Eugèneol Perforated Sachet. Through its use, it is no longer necessary to apply chemical solutions directly on the hair—a matter involving great precautions lest the wrong strength be used.

Indeed, the Eugène Waver does not even wet the hair before winding.



He winds it dry, wraps each curl in the scientifically designed Eugèneol Perforated Sachet (illustrated), then gently waves it with tiny pressure jets of clean, white steam.



It is significant that the Eugène Method is exclusively employed by nine-tenths of the fine shops abroad, despite its higher cost. Our very informative booklet "The Eugène Method" explains why Eugène Waves are worth the little more that buys so much. Write for it—together with the names and addresses of nearby Eugène Wavers in your vicinity.

Give Your Family
A Summer They'll Always Remember

All that you seek and more than you expect in summer resorts is here. So come to rest, to play, to see and do new things. To get a great, rejuvenating change. To really recreate them and yourself.

HERE is a land of lands for them and for you—a land where every sport is at its best and where a thousand vistas invite—and Southern California has one of the most delightful summer climates in the United States.

You'll sleep under blankets nine nights out of ten in this glorious summertime. Humidity is always low. Rain won't interrupt one single day of your stay.

Here are 5,000 miles of paved motor roads to take you to a thousand-and-one interesting places. You will see the varied industry and semi-tropic agriculture of Los Angeles County, one of the richest and fastest growing communities in the world.

Old missions, a desert like Sahara, groves of olives, oranges and figs, sea beaches, mountains, mountain lakes 5,000 feet above the sea, great moving picture studios, costumed actors going on location. Camping parties with their loaded cars, hikers, golfers, tennis players, sailors, bathers everywhere.

The whole family will respond, spiritually, mentally, and physically. Men, women and little folk—all are enchanted, for this land has something for each one.

COME by rail, auto or ocean liner, to Los Angeles and San Diego, return by way of Santa Barbara, San Francisco, Oakland, Portland, Seattle, Tacoma and Spokane. See the Great Pacific Coast in one memorable trip.

Special low-cost, round-trip fares on all railroads from May 15 until October 31.

Bloodthirsty—and Thirsty!

How they crave rootbeer from Hires Household Extract!

FIFTEEN lads at the old ice-chest — Yo-Ho-Ho and a bottle of rootbeer!"

"Hark forward — and away, Braves!" shouted fourteen-year-old buccaneer Bill Rogers, leading the raid on mother's ice-box.

Permission had been granted from the top of the basement stairs, and now the charge was on. There were paper pirate hats, skulls, cross-bones, and wooden swords stuck in little leather belts. A dangerous, "desprit" band.

" 'Tis handsome swag, me lads," sang out swash-buckling pirate Ed Jones, licking off part of his vicious black cork mustache between swallows of the cool, creamy rootbeer. "Mrs. Rogers' ice-box is our treasure-chest, and her rootbeer is our buried treasure."

And each hugging a bottle, the swarthy crew wriggled stealthily out through the cellar window. All was quiet on the deserted coast—till next time.

Good old-fashioned rootbeer—the home drink

You can brew it yourself, easily and inexpensively, from Hires Household Extract

"IT'S home-made!" That's pretty generally considered the highest possible praise. And when you hear how enthusiastically all the members of your family praise the rootbeer you prepare from Hires Household Extract, you certainly will be proud to tell them that you made it yourself.

They will demand that you keep a bottle on ice at all times, ready to serve whenever they want it. And you'll be glad to oblige, for rootbeer from Hires Household Extract is easy to make—plain, simple directions which you can follow without any fuss or trouble.

A drink as wholesome as outdoors

The reason for its goodness, for its purity, is that it is entirely a natural drink. From deep woods, from sunny fields, from mountain, valley and glen come Nature's own ingredients—herbs, barks, roots, berries — that enter into the making of Hires Household Extract. And remember this—there is not one artificial element—no coloring or flavoring that is not the work of Nature alone.

You can let the youngsters drink all they want. They love home-made rootbeer—and it's good for them. It's ideal refreshment for children's parties.

Costs less than 1c a glass

From one 30c package of Hires Household Extract you can make 80 glasses—5 gallons—of perfect rootbeer. The most economical drink you can serve, as well as the most delicious. There were 30 million gallons of rootbeer made from Hires Household Extract last year.

Get a package of this famous preparation at your grocer's. Get acquainted with this tangy, satisfying thirst-quencher. Full directions with every package. The Charles E. Hires Company, 208 S. 24th St., Philadelphia, Pa.
